RELEASED BY REDS

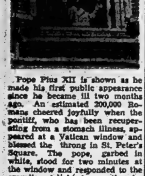
ISRAEL BLAMES ARABS FOR AMBUSH



Two of eleven Israelis machine-gunned to death in an ambush of a bus near Beersheba, are shown on the ground outside the vehicle. The government immediately branded the attack a "war-like act" placing the responsibility upon "the country from which the men, dressed as Arabs, came to carry out the foul act"—the borders of Jordan and Egypt run close to the Beersheba area. ONLY CALENDAR SAYS IT'S SPRING

According to the calendar, spring is here. But, according to the weather in many parts of Canada, it's winter and no doubt about it. This is Slayter, Ont., where snowdrifts buried garages, stalled traffic and made Christmas scenes out of woods and spires. (Central Press Canadian).

WELL ENOUGH FOR PUBLIC APPEARANCE

Pope Pius XII is shown as he made his first public appearance since he became ill two months ago. An estimated 200,000 Romans cheered joyfully when the pontiff, who has been recuperating from a stomach illness, appeared at a Vatican window and blessed the throng in St. Peter's Square. The pope, garbed in white, stood for two minutes at the window and responded to the crowd's delighted greeting by waving and making the sign of the cross.

Believe Nehru May Influence Canada's Stand

LONDON (CP) — The Manchester Guardian today says a "sympathetic meeting" in New Delhi between Prime Ministers St. Laurent of Canada and Nehru of India may play a part ultimately in bringing Communist China into the United Nations.

A front-page dispatch from New York, under the byline of the Guardian's chief American correspondent, Alistair Cooke, refers to Nehru's "persuasions" in talks with the Canadian leader, and says Nehru implied "that India can be as much of a reconciling force between the east and west as Canada is between western Europe and the United States."

The dispatch was printed above a news agency report from Ottawa quoting the prime minister as saying he knew of no consideration being given by Canada to recognition of Communist China or support of the Peiping regime for membership in the UN. The prime minister made the statement in the House of Commons Monday in reply to a question from Opposition leader Drew.

FOX-HUNTING BEST ON RECORD

On a map, Orillia, Ont., seems to be surrounded by towns villages, farms and cottages, but hunters Percy Shannon and Clifford Woodrow find that advancing civilization has not harmed foxhunting. They had the best season on record, having bagged 97 of the animals. The pelt is now worth only 75 cents, but there's a $2 bounty in most of the townships in which they hunt. ## Lavigne Arraigned

MONTREAL (CP) — Eddie Lavigne, 42, was arraigned Monday in criminal court on a charge of murder resulting from the shooting early Saturday of a 16-year-old girl.

Giselle Brunette was killed and her mother, sister and two other persons were injured by a man who entered the Brunette home and fired a fusillade from a .22-calibre revolver.

Lavigne also faces four charges of attempted murder in connection with the wounding of the other persons. Preliminary inquiry was set for March 26.

Hastings County Farm Forum

Four forums met last week to discuss the topic, "From Under the Earth". They were Brookdale, Hazzard's, Melrose and River Valley.

Hazzard's said, "No, our mineral resources are not being used in the best interests of all Canadians. Too much raw material is exported and too many of our resources are controlled financially by non-Canadians."

The other three forums agreed that the resources from under the earth, including oil, are being used in the best interests of all Canadians. Rose added, "A great many of our Canadian resources are just being discovered and are yet to be developed, although care should be taken to preserve them. River Valley suggested that some of Canada's minerals could be refined in Canada. Brookdale in agreeing said, "We believe we should conserve our raw material, make the best of all of it that none be wasted."

The "Closing Round-up" at Marsh Hill school this week brings to a close this season's farm forum. Even though the broadcasts and discussions are ended for a season many members feel some influence has been brought to bear on those taking part. Personally the reporter would like to thank the secretaries who co-operated so well in sending in reports on time.

Dutch Airlines Will Use Jets In 1958-59

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, disclosed today that it is holding off purchases of jet airliners until American manufacturers develop successful competitors to the British-made Comet.

Traffic manager Fetik Von Balhasck said KLM intended to re-equip its fleet with jets in 1958-59.

"By that time we expect America will come out with new types which can successfully compete with the Comet," he told a press conference.

Balhasck said that neither the present model Comet, which pioneered commercial jet flight, nor the model II could yield KLM a profit margin. The expanded Comet III is not due until late 1958 or 1957.

Hydrogen Bomb Might Kill 14,500 Persons

WASHINGTON (AP)—If an enemy plane sneaked through United States defences and exploded a hydrogen bomb next to the White House, 14,500 persons might be killed and 27,500 more injured out of a population of 44,000 in a suburban school district five to 12 miles away.

The estimate was made by the operations research office of the Johns Hopkins University. It collaborated with the Bethesda-Chevy Chase high school and its parent-teacher association to make a study and disaster plan intended as a "prototype and model" for communities anywhere.

The result, published Monday, is a 136-page book that goes into such minute details as the monthly maintenance costs of various cleaning systems that might be installed in the school buildings and advice to mothers on improvising diapers during a period when clothes washing might be impossible.

The Bethesda-Chevy Chase area of Maryland is immediately northwest of Washington. The report did not go into the probable casualties in the densely-populated capital itself.

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—An American military mission arrived Monday night from London to survey Pakistan's military requirements for the purpose of United States military aid to this country. The 11-man mission will spend two weeks in Pakistan touring military establishments.

Jap Socialists Rap States On Bikini Blast

TOKYO (AP)—Japanese Socialists Monday rapped the United States for Japan's brush with the Bikini hydrogen blast. One press report said some ashes from the March 1 explosion fell on the ancient capital of Kyoto.

While the account from Kyoto conceded that the fall of ashes was harmless—the ashes apparently were borne in from far-off Bikini by stratospheric winds—resentment still ran deep.

The right-wing Socialists prepared a Diet resolution demanding that the United States use greater care in atom and hydrogen bomb tests at Bikini area.

They also pressed the government to reject U.S. offers of help in treating 23 fishermen caught off Bikini in a shower of ashes from the massive hydrogen explosion.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BEST OF LUCK!

The talk was hockey and the curly-haired stranger had a lot to say about it. Some of us were "shooting the breeze" about the game in general and Belleville hockey in particular.

Then this character in a blitz-the-hand-that's-feeding-you attitude handed out some comments that were far from complimentary to this city and what it has done in hockey during the past.

"Why nearly every hamlet in this country, especially the west has had one or more of its native sons go to the big time or at least to the upper brackets. What has this village done?" he sneered.

He got an answer all right, but we would like to enlighten him to the extent that Belleville has been represented in the National Hockey League, although not recently.

"TOOTS" HOLWAY

Had the aforementioned character been in and around the Montreal arena back in 1925-26 when the fabulous Maroons were member of the N. H. L. he would have seen a tall, husk. blonde - haired defenceman terrifying all sundry who came within striking distance of the Maroon's nets.

He is Albert "Toots" Holway, a name as synonymous with Belleville hockey and sports in general as pepper is with salt or the ouvracoon Marilyn Monroe is to Mr. Magzie, with calendars.

"Toots", incidentally recently underwent an operation in the hospital here, and following convalescence will motor to Calgary with Mrs. Holway, where they will spend a month with daughter, Betty (Mrs. Jack Donovan).

The big fella has several big associations with the O'Keefe Brewing Company after a number of years of efficient service. He is considering two or three propositions here, but will not decide on anything definite until his return from Calgary.

The Toronto-born "Toots" teethed on a hockey puck and after his "graduation" from the bay loop here, moved up to junior ranks in 1911. He played five years with a Belleville junior squad then coached by the late Dick Arnott. Brockville attracted him and in 1923 he played for an intermediate club in that city.

His rugged, hard-checking style of play drew the attention of professional scouts and the 1924-25 and 25-26 seasons saw Toots wearing the uniform of the Toronto St. Patricks, the grandfathers of the present Maple Leafs. The next season saw him with the Montreal Maroons when they won the Stanley Cup.

A year later he joined the Stratford Nationals of the Canadian Professional Hockey League and helped them win the championship. He went back to the National Hockey League and played the season of 1926-30 with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He was given the position of playing manager and coach of the London Tecumsehs, a position he held for six years, winning the championship of the league in 1934-35. Then he took a four-get-th the Cleveland Barons, remaining with the squad for a year and a half. He finished his professional career with the Seattle Seahawks in the Pacific Coast League.

He hung up his gear while he still was in one piece and settled in Belleville. But in 1940 when the Reliance Hockey Club came into being "Toots" dusted off the mothballs and once more entered into hockey action. Prior to that, however, he coached a team from Station Trenton RCAF.

Later he coached a Belleville junior squad called the "Hi-Speeds", tutoring them for two years.

"Toots" has never lost touch with the game. He has given generously of his time and money to further sport, especially hockey, in this city. He has been referee on numerous occasions and has been a great source of assistance to not only the Belleville Hockey Association but the minor organizations as well.

Sportdom of the city and district and hockey fandom in particular wish for "Toots" a speedy and complete recovery.

And we hope that "certain" character reads this.

Champions For 6 Years in Row Wings Favored Over Toronto; Bruins Ready For Canadiens

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs, hockey's most heated playoff rivals, renew their feud tonight in the opening game of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Champions of the National Hockey League for six straight seasons, the Red Wings are favored in the best-of-seven semi-final series to reverse last year's sorry showing in the preliminary round. The winner will advance to the finals against the winner of the Boston-Montreal series.

Detroit and Toronto have met 13 times in the playoffs, with the Maple Leafs winning eight times and the Red Wings five. The odds, however, favor Detroit this time.

Toronto is bucking a terrific line against the Wings. The Maple Leafs haven't won in Olympia Stadium, scene of the first two playoff games, since Nov. 3, 1951. During that spell, they lost nine times and tied three.

BEST RECORD

In the last campaign Toronto was all but stifled in its seven visits to Olympia. They lost five times and tied twice, being shut out on five occasions and held to a mere goal.

Toronto has been the best playoff club in the business. The Maple Leafs have won the league championships only once but lead in playoff victories with seven. Detroit, despite nine regular season titles, has captured the playoffs only five times—and only twice in the last five championship seasons.

The Red Wings folded badly in last year's post-season play, losing in 3 straight games to the Boston Bruins, a team which they had whipped all year.

The second game of the series will be played in Olympia Thursday night. Then the teams journey to Toronto for games Saturday and Tuesday. If a fifth game is necessary, it will be played in Detroit Thursday.

Manager Clarence (Hap) Day and coach King Clancy aren't making any predictions. Day said he feels the Leafs won't get "very far if they don't avoid foolish penalties" like they've been getting lately.

Irish Horse Favored In Grand National

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top bookmakers have confirmed Irish jumper Coneyburrow as a clear 5-to-1 favorite for Saturday's 106th running of the Grand National, the world's toughest steeplechase.

Coneyburrow was purchased this Irish Lizard as 8-to-1 favorite at last Wednesday's betting call-over in London. A flood of money on Coneyburrow in mid-week shortened the big gelding's odds and several London bookies installed him as favorite.

Irish Lizard's price lengthened fractionally—from 9 to 1 to 10 to 1.

Both Coneyburrow and Irish Lizard are favorably weighted for Aintree's gruelling course of 4½ miles, 856 yards. Irish Lizard is slated to carry 143 pounds and Coneyburrow 151.

Royal Tan held to third favorite spot at 10 to 1 followed by Churchtown and Tudor Line at 100 to 8.

Other odds: Prince Hyacinth 20 to 1, Roimond Moyo 25 to 1, Sanperion 25 to 1, Dominick's Bar, Whisperful Seal 50 to 1 each, Loyal Joy 40 to 2.

Remaining entries were unquoted.

NBA SUSPENDS WALLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Basketball Association reported Monday that indefinite suspensions have been ordered against three high ranking players, forward Earl Walls of Windsor, Ont., and guards Harry (Hal) Lee, a 5-foot-6 weight Paddy Young and Pat Lowry.

All the suspensions were ordered, the NBA said, because the boxers failed to live up to contracts.

NBA suspensions are ordered after a member of the association files a complaint. Canada complained that Walls had failed to come to terms after he scheduled fight against Freddie Beshore in Edmonton.

Abitibi Wins Over Wolves In Opener

SUDBURY (CP) — A goal by Herve Lamarche at 8:32 of the third period, backed by strong defence and some fine netminding by Sully Porter, gave Abitibi Eskimos a 1-0 victory over Sudbury Wolves in the first game of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A finals Monday night.

For the Eskimos, winners of the NOHA northern group, the first game was particularly significant since the best-of-five set is a short series and the underdog Abitibi Eskimos will play the next game on its home ice. The winner of the series will play either Owen Sound Mercurys or Stratford Indians, finalists of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, for the all-Ontario championship. Owen Sound is leading its best-of-seven final 3-0.

The Eskimos playing a tight-checking game, limited the Wolves nothing. Their closely-knit defence unit, comprised of Jerry Dome-wood, Ken Smart, Gail St. James and John Mosgrove, allowed few Sudbury rushes to get by them. When the Wolves did get through Porter was there to stop them.

LATE PUSH

The stocky netminder was on the bit throughout the game and especially during the last few moments when the Wolves put on the pressure in search of the tying score. With the clock running out, Sudbury coach Max Silverman sent his goalie to the bench when Lalonde's work, he pulled netminder Al Millen with 40 seconds left in the game in favor of a sixth attacker. But Porter stood firm.

Lamarche's shot, stick, which he lost in the last few moments, the netminder was no goal for the Wolves.

The goal that beat the Wolves, who eliminated Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds after finishing second in the Southern group, was a beauty. It came at the height of a Sudbury rushing attack in the Abitibi blue line. Lamarche intercepted a Sudbury pass at his own line, rushed up the length of the ice alone, fake Millar out of position and lifted the puck into the net.

Forced out of their arena by a fire here Sunday, the Wolves will play the Eskimos in the second game at North Bay tonight. Third game will be at Schumacher Thursday and the fourth and fifth, if necessary, will also be played in Schumacher Friday and Saturday.

MAY CANCEL HOLIDAY

TORONTO (CP)—Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, will become a normal school-day instead of a school holiday in Ontario provided the Canadian Legion approves of the change, Ontario Education Minister W. J. Dunlop announced today. The trustees council Saturday that the Legion has been sent a recommendation urging that school classes be held that day.

COCKELL-WALLS MAY CLASH

TORONTO (CP)—Frank Tunney, Toronto boxing promoter, called London Monday suggesting Don Cockell, British Empire heavyweight champion, defend his title in Toronto against Roy Walls, Canadian champion now ranked seventh among the world heavyweights.

Cockell is scheduled to fight Rocky La Starza, ranking American heavyweight, in London March 30. The Tunney offer would hinge on a Cockell victory.

In London it was reported Walls' British representative had received "a good offer from a syndicate" for the Canadian fighter to meet the winner of the La Starza-Cockell contest in London's 18,000-seat Earl's Court Arena.

Owen Sound Mercs Edge Indians 3-2 To Grab 3-0 Lead in Senior Series

OWEN SOUND—(CP) — Owen Sound Mercurys, in the Ontario Hockey Association finals for the last four years, are on the verge of taking their second senior championship since the 1950-51 season.

And if they win it, it will give them revenge over the team that beat them for the title in 1952 after they won it the previous year, Stratford Indians, who edged the Mercurys 4-3 in games in 1952, now are down 3-0 in their best-of-seven final in this year's series with the Mercurys.

Owen Sound took a stranglehold on the series Monday night by edging the Indians 3-2 on Gerry Reid's goal midway through the third period. Fourth game is in Stratford Wednesday and if the Mercurys win they will collapse into the all-Ontario final against the winner of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior playoffs. Abitibi Eskimos lead the best-of-five NOHA final with Sudbury Wolves 1-0.

Reid slapped in a goal-mouth pass in the second to give the Mercurys the victory. The score was tied 1-1 at the end of the first period and 2-2 after the second. Roy Leckie and Vern Gardiner scored the other Owen Sound goals. Billy Cupulo and Dinny Flanagan shot the Stratford goals.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

Cupulo's goal gave the Indians a 1-0 lead early in the game. It came at 2:30 on a pass from George Aitken. Gardiner scored the equalizer on a similar play with Jayden McArthur late in the period.

In the second period the Mercurys took the lead when Leckie scored at 4:47 on a lucky goal allowed the Indians to tie the count. Flanagan let loose with a long floater from left wing at 13:05. Owen Sound netminder Bobby Gilson moved to cover the shot but his defencemen Ralph Hosking, trying to knock the puck away with his stick, deflected it into the opposite corner.

Stratford took seven of the 11 minor penalties but unlike the first two games of the series the penalties didn't hurt them like they did. All goals came with both teams at full strength.

Gillson had an easy time in the Owen Sound nets, having only 14 shots to worry about. Bruce Hay, the Stratford—goal, turned aside 25.

Bill Mosienko of Chicago Black Hawks established the fastest three goals record in the National Hockey League two years ago tonight. He scored three times in 21 seconds in the third period when Chicago edged Rangers 7-6 at New York. Both teams failed to make the Stanley Cup playoffs that year.

Ten years ago this week, Joseph Henri Maurice Richard, known more familiarly as "The Rocket" banged home five goals and assisted as Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Leafs 5-1 in a Stanley Cup play-down match. The scoffers of the day dubbed Richard, then in his first year in the league, was merely a "one-time flash"; that he would fade out of the picture, as had still many others of that era, when the Canadiens' racing home and peace settled uneasily upon the world.

But time has marched on, as it has a habit of doing, and with World War I long over, no other player has equalled the 5-goal record of the grim-faced Richard in a single Cup game; no one has approached his mark of 13 goals in a 2 Cup series; no one is close to his 79 points and 54 goals in play-off competition; and it is doubtful if any player has the confidently glorified before any player hits the high League mark Richard has achieved, since he shattered Nels Stewart's 324 goals record, and headed for the 500-mark.

Possibly excepting Eddie Shore, Richard has been the highest-paid, the most vivid, discussed and publicized figure in hockey. Personally, out of hockey rinks, Richard is an almost isolated individual, polite but aloof and secluded. He is a ruthless competitor, plays hockey like a man-eating tiger on ice, and this carries over when the game is finished. In the dressing-room, he will answer questions, some politely, perhaps curtly, his degree of moodiness depending upon whether the team has won or lost.

He seldom smiles, for his face is set in grim, hard lines. On the long train-trips that hockey teams must take, Richard does not share the usual sociability and camaraderie that develops. He seldom takes part in any of the card-games, played to ease the tedium of travel. He retires to his berth as soon as break the tedium of travel. He retires to his berth as soon as he finds it in motion, reads, reads and sleeps, and continues the same routine into the day.

But Richard definitely does not consider himself a superior being. No one will rush faster than Richard to aid a fellow-player in trouble, on or off the ice. In the latter, witness his outspoken editorial defence of his team-mate Boom Boom Geoffrion. A former Golden Glove boxer, he is a heavy hitter in a fistic combat, has laid more than one opponent low with a single knockout punch. But he seldom, if ever, hits first.

Long ago, Maurice Richard has lived down the designation of "one-time flash". His record beyond the war years has been little short of sensational.

Point Anne Cementmen Win Opener in TVL South Finals

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Staving off a goal-hungry Trenton team, the Point Anne Cementmen were extended to the limit last night before edging the Flyers 8-6 in a real thriller to take a one-game lead in the best-of-five TVL southern section finals.

The Orr Pointers were slated 5-3 at the nine-minute mark of the third period and it looked like an easy win until things started happening. The Flyers cut the lead on a beautiful goal by Bowman at 9:47, when he took Mitchell's pass and let loose a hard drive from just inside the blue line that caught the corner.

At 11:38 John Green got his third penalty of the night and the airmen applied the pressure with Boucher scoring just 19 seconds later on a golf shot that scooted between Bates' pads. The puck was kept in the Point Anne end and after a long shot whizzing by the corner, hitting the post and bouncing over the line while several times Bates kicked out what looked like sure goals.

LADY LUCK STEPS IN

Lady Luck stepped in at 8:27 when the Flyers were penalized again, this time for having too many men on the ice during the final minute and a half. Doc Bates was the busiest man in Belleville Stadium coming up him from all directions. The Flyers pulled the goaltender with 30 seconds to play and sent six forwards inside the Pointers blue line but the puck refused to come free and the clock ran out as the 633 fans cheered themselves hoarse.

Play was fast from the first whistle with both teams playing wide open hockey and at all times Earle Anderson's crew took the lead with Gerry Goyer banging home brother Leo's pass. Bowman got that one back before the period was half over, when he grabbed a loose puck and went in all alone. He cut across in front of the net and fired the disc past Bates into the upper rigging.

Pat Gilmour made it 2-1 several minutes later on a backhander from about fifteen feet from the net and for the rest of the period play went from one end of the rink to the other with Pete Green standing out on the winner's defence.

BEATCH KNOTS COUNT

Beatch knotted the count to open the middle stanza with a rather strange goal. He broke in on Bates and shot one that got by the goalie but did not cross the line; the puck lay there unnoticed by everyone but Beatch who flipped her shot to him past the net but he threw on the brakes and reached back to push the puck into the back door, while Bates searched for it.

Daigle restored the only penalty for the R.C.A.F. at 12.22 and Point Anne took quick advantage to rap home a pair. Ian Mulholland made the first one possible, when he shot on the net and his rebound came out to Leo Goyer who let go a drive, that beat DuPaul all the way. Just ten seconds later Gerry Goyer teamed up with Leo and playing coach Tim Williams on a neat passing play to make it 4-2. There was no further scoring in the period.

Williams notched his teams final goal at 8.45 of the payoff beat when he took Leo Goyer's pass from the blue line all alone in front of DuPaul. The goalie moved out to meet the shot but it went by his right side into the net as the defencemen rushed to his aid.

LEO BIG MAN

Leo Goyer was the big man for Point Anne with one goal and three assists, while Gerry scored twice. Tim Williams picked up a goal and one assist with Gilmour notching the odd marker. The Green brothers were hard to beat on the blue line while Bates played a steady game and was terrific when the occasion arose.

Bowman had two markers for the Flyers while Rocky was credited with a pair of assists. Beatch and Boucher got the other two goals while DuPaul put on a good show between the pipes.

Referees Stewart and Fitzpatrick handed out five penalties in all with the Pointers drawing all but one.

The two clubs clash again on Wednesday night and if last evening's game was an indication of things to come it should be a real battle.

Long Shot Cost Sawchuk Thousand Bucks

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League's final statistics, released today, made it all official for the 1953-54 season but there were a few things to which the cold figures couldn't do justice.

There was the hair-raising finish for the goal-tending honors between Harry Lumley of Toronto Maple Leafs and Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings.

One long shot that beat Sawchuk cost him his third Vezina Trophy—and the $1,000 that goes with it.

The final weekend also brought Montreal Canadiens second place in a bitter fight with the Leafs. Canadiens knocked off the Red Wings and New York Rangers. The Leafs lost to both.

It wasn't until the final week that Boston Bruins climbed fourth place over the Rangers.

In the closing days of the campaign Cordie Howe of Detroit was already a shoo-in for his fourth consecutive point-scoring championship. Howe finished with 33 goals and 48 assists for a point total of 81.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit, with 30 goals and 36 assists for 62 points, was third.

Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion, who played in 54 games compared with 70 for the three top men, finished fourth with 54 points, made up of 29 goals and 25 assists.

Bert Olmstead of Montreal finished the season in fifth place with 52, and defenceman Red Kelly of Detroit, with 48, was sixth.

Rookie Earl Reibel of Detroit finished seventh with 46 points. Edf Sandford and Fleming MacKell of Boston Bruins tied for ninth place with 47 points, and two centre men shared 10th place with 46 points each—Ken Mosdell of Montreal and Paul Ronty of New York.

The teams:

R.C.A.F.: DuPaul, Boucher, Vezina, Beatch, Bowman, Rochon, Stewart, Adams, Parnell, Racicot, Gingras, Daigle, Dickson, Tardiff.

Point Anne: Bates, J. Green, F. Green, Stewart, Williams, L. Goyer, G. Goyer, Straehn, Jarkin, Gilmour, Mulholland, P. Maracle, L. Maracle, Brenshaw, Hunter, Tye.

West Will Concentrate On Yank Imports

EDMONTON (CP) — Western delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union in Toronto Friday and Saturday consider the most important business will be import regulations, roster limitations and use of ineligible players.

These issues were singled out by Ken Montgomery, president of Edmonton Eskimos and CRU executive, member representing the Western Interprovincial Football Union. He will head the WIFU delegation.

The WIFU will suggest that prior to the third scheduled game of the 1954 season, the teams should name 10 imports not including those who have played four or more seasons of Canadian football.

The western clubs will also propose that only eight of the 10 imports be used in any league game and that at the end of the scheduled 14 game declare eight of the 10 for the playoffs.

The WIFU also will advocate that no player that four Canadian-listed-American" be allowed each team during the season.

The West feels that this new import setup would result in a considerable saving to all clubs and provide insurance against injuries.

Chadwick Gal May Tackle Lake Ontario

TORONTO (CP) — Florence Chadwick, who gave up competitive long-distance swimming when she became tired of "double-crossing channels," may try to conquer Lake Ontario this summer. It depends on the answer to one "ten thousand questions" about the course.

She has a date to look over the choppy, icy cold waters today from the comfort of a Royal Canadian Navy vessel, "I want to know about currents, tides, temperatures, cross-winds and so on and if the answers are satisfactory, and my managers say okay, I'll probably attempt the swim," she said in an interview Monday.

The attractive 36-year-old Miss Chadwick, from San Diego, Calif., only woman to swim the English channel both ways, arrived here to check arrangements for the 30-mile swim scheduled for late August or early September. The route hasn't been determined but it is probable that Fort Niagara, N.Y. will be the starting point and the Toronto lakefront in the southwest section of the city, the finish line.

Sponsor of the swim, the Canadian National Exhibition, has offered a purse of $25,000 with first prize of $10,000.

George Duthie, CNE sports director, said later that "if Miss Chadwick tells us she thinks the course is an impossible one, we certainly be inclined to go against her opinion and hold the marathon."

SUICIDE SQUAD

Riopelle, Hughes, Quebec League Trophy Winners

MONTREAL (CP)—The Quebec Hockey League made it official today by crowning Howie (Rip) Riopelle of Ottawa the leading scorer for the 1953-54 season and naming Phil Hughes of Chicoutimi the winner of the Vezina Memorial Trophy as the loop's top goalie.

A third-period goal by Riopelle against Montreal Royals Sunday gave him the crown. He had gone into the game leading Skippy Burchell of Montreal by one point. Burchell overtook him by scoring a goal and an assist while Riopelle was held to a goal in the first two periods.

The former Montreal Canadiens' winger wound up the season with 31 goals and 60 assists for 91 points. Burchell had the same number of goals but one less assist.

Andre Corriveau of Valleyfield, who led most of the season, wound up third with 88 points on 37 goals and 51 assists.

Leo Gravelle, Riopelle's linemate was the league's top marksman with 45 goals. He also had 41 assists for 86 points and fourth place in the standings.

Hughes had a six-goal edge over Bob Perreault of Montreal in the Vezina trophy race. He played 60 of his team's 72 games, allowing 185 goals.

CROWDED ISLAND

The island of Java in the Republic of Indonesia has a population of 1,000 persons to the square mile.

Al Boyd Defeats Ed Schamerhorn

TORONTO (CP) — Al Boyd of London, Ont., gained a five-round decision over Eddie Schamerhorn of Waterville in the feature bout of an amateur boxing card here Monday night.

Schamerhorn had a wide-open stance and was an easy target for Boyd. Outside of the first couple of rounds, Schamerhorn gave Boyd little trouble. Both weighed 120 pounds.

In a preliminary fight, Dick Bulzone of Toronto evened his score with Grant-O'Reilly of Oshawa by scoring a three-round verdict. O'Reilly won over the same route last week.

Wayne Brown Finishes Second In Point Race

SEATTLE (AP)—Gayle Fielder, Seattle centre, won the Western Hockey League individual scoring honors for the year with 88 points, league's final compilations showed today. His linemate, Wayne Brown, was second with 81 points.

Fielder also led the league in assists, with 64, and Brown was high in goals, with 49, six more than his closest rival, Gordie Fashoway of New Westminster.

'Blue Bonnets' Track Turns To Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Blue Bonnets racetrack, where running races have been held for a half-century except in 1917, when cancelled by a government war ban, will forego the thoroughbreds this season and turn to harness racing.

An announcement by general manager Lucien Chartrand ended a dispute over purse money between the track and the Quebec branch of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association.

Chartrand said that at an emergency meeting in Toronto Saturday directors of Blue Bonnets voted unanimously to operate the track this year without running races.

It was indicated that Ontario owners of harness-racing horses were favorable to Blue Bonnets, and Blue Bonnets will operate in competition with Richelieu Park, at nearby Pointe aux Trembles.

Chartrand said that with the closing of races at Dufferin Park in Toronto, the standardbreds will be moving to Blue Bonnets in a few days. Tentative plans, dependent upon the weather, call for harness racing to start at Blue Bonnets April 22.

OTTAWA (CP) — Toronto Tri-Bells piled up their highest score of the season Monday night as they defeated Ottawa Brookes 101-67 in the first game of the best-of-five eastern Canada senior basketball final.

Canada Will Adopt Any Basketball Rule

WINNIPEG (CP)—Bert Jones of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, said Monday night that Canada will adopt any basketball rule changes made by the National Basketball Committee now meeting in Kansas City, Mo.

Mr. Jones said Canada is associated with the committee and they are represented at Kansas City by Don Paul of Toronto.

Earlier the committee announced it has adopted two halves playing time instead of the four-quarter system and revamped its free throw rule.

The new method will allow one free throw on all personal fouls and a bonus shot if the throw is made. This will apply for the first 27 minutes. In the last three minutes, two free throws will be given as in the NHL rules.

The rule for the last two reasons has allowed one free throw for a common foul and a second shot if the first was unsuccessful.

Red Sullivan Sets All-Time Scoring Record

NEW YORK (CP)—George Sullivan of Hershey Bears set an all-time scoring record for the American Hockey League with 119 points as the regularly-scheduled season closed Sunday.

The former record of 118 points was made by Cari Liscombe playing for Providence Reds in 1947-48.

Sullivan's record was composed of 39 goals and 80 assists, the latter also a league record.

Jackie Gordon of Cleveland Barons finished in second place with 102 points. Don Marshall of Buffalo Blazes was third with 96. Gerry Stewart of Buffalo had 95 and Ed Olmes of Cleveland had 94.

NOT ELIGIBLE

Jacques Plante, who played for Buffalo before he was transferred to Montreal, finished the season with the best goaltending record, an average of 2.09 on 148 goals allowed in 52 games.

Howe, Plante is not eligible for the Harry Holmes Award as he did not play after Feb. 13. Cliff Mayer of Pittsburgh will receive the award for his second-best record, an average of 3.12 on 212 goals allowed in 68 games.

KELLY WINS

ONTARIO "INDIANS" WIN WAR CANOE RACE

Mock Attacks Planned in June To Test Defences

WASHINGTON (AP) — A continental civil defence exercise, featuring mock atomic attacks on 42 selected critical target areas, was announced today for June 14-15 by the United States civil defence administration.

"Operation Alert," designed to disclose weaknesses and improve efficiency of civil defence organizations at all levels, will involve all 48 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Alaska and the 10 provinces of Canada.

For purposes of the test it will be assumed that aircraft carrying atomic weapons will attack the continental U. S. and Alaska, and that guided missiles with atomic warheads will be launched from submarines off Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

At Ottawa, civil defence officials reported that aircraft will test the civil defence organizations in Vancouver, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Toronto, Windsor, Fort Erie, Ont., Montreal and Halifax.

To cope with the "heavy damage and casualties" expected in the mock attack, a Canadian federal emergency operations control centre will be set up near Ottawa. Incidents of sabotage, biological and chemical warfare may also be encountered during the trial.

Civil defence authorities stressed that the exercise is a routine test and is not occasioned by any increase of alarm over the international situation. The test will permit border cities such as Vancouver, Windsor and Fort Erie to work out co-operative measures with nearby United States communities.

Poison Rapidly Out of Style As Murder Medium

REGINA (CP)—Poison is rapidly going out of style as a murder method, said Dr. W. Smith of the Ontario crime detection laboratory said at a week-end conference here of poison experts.

Dr. Smith said the last proven case of murder by poisoning in Ontario occurred some 20 years ago.

Newer drugs that cause poisoning are largely unknown to the general public, he said. Today, as in the past, toxic agents used to perpetrate murder were chiefly strychnine and rat poison.

Dr. Smith also said it is practically impossible for anyone to die from an accidental overdose of sleeping pills.

This aspect of poisoning was discussed by the experts, from various parts of Canada and the United States. It was their opinion that an overdose of sleeping pills in sufficient quantity to cause death must be taken deliberately.

"The story of an accidental overdose of sleeping pills is a pollis fiction to cover up for somebody," the Ontario expert said. "I will not say positively that it is impossible to take a lethal dose of barbiturates accidentally, but I will say it has not been proven."

RAF Plane Lost In Mau Mau Raid

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Wreckage of an RAF Lincoln bomber, lost after a night raid on Mau Mau terrorist hide-outs, was sighted today on the thickly forested Ruathia ridge in the Fort Hall reserve.

There was no report of any sign of life near the wrecked plane, which had a crew of five.

FLOWERS DEFY SNOW

FORT ERIE (CP) — Several gardeners in Fort Erie report that tulips and daffodils are coming up through the ground, despite the fact that the earth is still covered with snow. Robins have become numerous and several red cardinals have been spotted.

Two Shots Are Fired In Chase at Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—An 85-mile, an-hour chase along Barton street early today in which two shots were fired, ended in the arrest of one man and the recovery of a stolen car.

Police also claim they seized a loaded Luger and an automatic rifle. A second man who was said to have been riding in the car fled.

Gerald Parr, 27, of no fixed address, appeared in magistrate's court this morning charged with car theft and illegal possession of firearms.

Three Soldiers Are Arrested At North Bay

NORTH BAY (CP) — Three young soldiers, of five who broke out of London military detention barracks Monday, were arrested here today and held for being absent without leave.

Police said they first got on the trail of the missing soldiers when Walter Neely, a farmer living near South River, 20 miles south of here, reported to provincial constable Sam Chalmers that his car had been stolen early today.

Neely said the fugitives took his car after ditching another vehicle. North Bay police were notified and arrested the men in the car. Police said in the back of the car were two army bayonets.

Friends Honor Mill Foreman For Service

BANCROFT. —Sixty-six-year-old John Sutherland, of Baptiste, preparing to retire on Friday evening, was much surprised when his boss, Whitney L. Martin, called to congratulate him on completing 28 years' service as mill foreman with Martin Bros. Lumber Co. His surprise grew, when thirty fellow employees and a truck load of party fare arrived shortly afterwards. During the festive evening which followed, Mr. Martin presented his long service employee with a handsome wrist watch and Mrs. Sutherland received a useful dinette suite.

The whole affair was a well planned secret and Mr. Sutherland had no inkling of it until the arrival of his guests.

Accident Toll Low in Paper Industry

TRYING PERSUASION, RATHER THAN GUNSHOT, ON STARLINGS

While Hamilton, Ont., has organized 100-shotgun hunts to rid the city of starlings, Toronto, 45 miles away, has decided on a different method —one which could add to Hamilton's starling population. The idea is to get a tape recording of a starling's danger squawk, which usually sets every starling within hearing range heading for the far fields, and to play the recording whenever a few starlings hold a convention. City Controller Roy E. Heyes, left, and Dr. W. H. Gunn, of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, are shown recording the holler of a couple of frightened starlings so that when the survivors from Hamilton's shooting operations arrive, they will keep on flying back to Hamilton, maybe. (Central Press Canadian.)

Pearson Says Canada to Play Important Role

CHATHAM (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Monday night the United States has accepted its responsibility of world power as no other country of such "mastering strength" has done before.

He said Canada has an important role to play in interpreting the United States and its policies to the Far ast.

The United Nations and North Atlantic Treaty Organization make it impossible today for an aggressor "to attack us one by one," he said.

Speaking at a service club banquet in aid of crippled children he said defence in Europe is costing so much it "will be but much more difficult to hang on to" but "if we continue to be determined, it can stand between us and any aggressor."

Many Veterans Entitled to Claims Have Not Filed

OTTAWA (CP)—Hundreds of former Canadian prisoners-of-war entitled to cash benefits for maltreatment by their captors have failed to put in claims for them.

And the deadline for claims, already extended once, is only eight days away—March 31. Officials of the war claims commission said the deadline is unlikely to be extended a second time. The original extension was from Dec. 31 to March 31.

Some $4,500,000 has been paid so far to former Second World War prisoners or their dependents. The money comes from a $13,000,000 fund built up from the seizure of Japanese, Italian and Japanese assets in Canada.

Servicemen held prisoner by the Japanese were paid benefits on the basis of $1 a day for each day of internment. All prisoners of the Japanese were considered by the war claims commission to have been maltreated. About 2,300 of these prisoners or their dependents have been paid about $2,000,000.

Prisoners of the Germans and Italians are not paid on the same basis. They are given a lump sum —the average is $325—and several factors are taken into account. These include shackling, forced labor, hunger marches, transportation by boxcar and other forms of maltreatment. There is no award for internment as such.

To date the commission has received 6,600 claims from former prisoners in Europe or their dependents. There is no accurate estimate of the number who have not filed claims. The figure is somewhere between 300 and 3,000.

Wren Proposes Formation of Ont. Highways Com.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor member of the legislature for Kenora, Monday night proposed formation of an Ontario highways commission to make sure that "irregularities" in the provincial highways department do not occur again.

"We must share the full responsibility of seeking out and removing the policies, or lack of them, which allow these irregularities to result," he told a Liberal rally in suburban Tecumseh.

The highways commission proposed by Mr. Wren would comprise three members: A "leading professional engineer" with at least 20 years' experience as chairman; the provincial highways minister as vice-chairman and a member of the official opposition.

The Liberal member would set up an "advisory committee" comprising representatives of municipal organizations, highway associations, highway users, labor and industry.

Those responsible for the situation leading to the present provincial highways probe, he declared, are the government policy-makers.

He said: "I'm going to see that these policies are corrected not just for the present but for many years to come."

Earlier he said in an interview that lack of pre-engineering on highway projects since 1949 may have cost Ontario taxpayers $17,000,000.

"Over five years of handling highway contracts the difference between amounts bid by contracting firms and the amounts actually finalized and paid by the province would amount to several millions and might reach $17,000,000," he said.

VIRUS WINS TERRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie actress Terry Moore collapsed in her home Monday and her physician ordered her to stay in bed for two weeks. Dr. Leland Hawkins said Miss Moore is suffering from a virus infection.

Drew Says State Secretary Believes in One-Partly State

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, says the belief is growing that the government acts by its own authority subject only to consistent approval later by its parliamentary majority.

He said Monday State Secretary Pickersgill demonstrated a belief in a one-party state during a radio address last month. Mr. Pickersgill had said the government should share responsibility only with those entrusted by the electors with the responsibility.

Mr. Drew said that statement bore out that Mr. Pickersgill believes the Commons is not a chamber where responsibility is accepted by its members. Yet this sharing of responsibility was at the root of the parliamentary system.

Quoting liberally from Mr. Pickersgill's February speech, Mr. Drew said the state secretary labelled as "subversive" and contrary to the constitution the "notion that Parliament and the public are entitled to see every document in the possession of a government department."

"PRIVILEGED DOCUMENTS"

Mr. Pickersgill said the information he referred to in his speech consisted of the letters exchanged among ministers and civil servants. These were "privileged documents." However, Parliament was entitled to know the facts used by the government to introduce legislation.

Government officials sometimes disagreed with ministers and even cabinet members disagreed among themselves. These diverging views should be kept secret if the government was to remain in power, that was an established parliamentary custom.

Lucky Luciano Identified As Drug Supplier

VANCOUVER (CP) — An RCMP officer in an interview has identified Charles (Lucky) Luciano as the supplier of most of the illegal drugs entering Canada via the west coast.

"We believe that most of the opium produced for the illicit market now comes from the Mediterranean area and the kingpin is Lucky Luciano," said Sgt. Harry Price, who heads Canada's largest narcotics force.

Luciano is a Sicilian-born racketeer deported from the United States after serving nine years of a 30-to-50 year sentence on 62 charges of compulsory prostitution.

Sgt. Price has been working on the narcotics problem since 1938 and now heads a narcotics force here of 20 men—double the number stationed in Montreal and Toronto.

Govt. Will Not Yield to Quebec's Tax Demands

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will not yield to Premier Duplessis' demands that Quebec's new income tax be deducted fully from federal income tax payments, well-informed officials report.

They will the federal government agree to undertake collection of the new provincial tax, they added. They said Quebec residents, subject to federal and provincial income taxes, will have to make payments on both. They then may claim a five-per-cent rebate allowed under Ottawa's tax laws at the end of the tax year.

Ottawa's rejection of the Quebec Premier's demands is expected to be crystallized in a statement by Finance Minister Abbott to be made public when he t...ngs down his annual budget April 6.

Western Movie Star Crusading For Evangelist

LONDON (Reuters)—Movie star Roy Rogers Monday night threw himself fervently into evangelist Billy Graham's London crusade as it swung into its fourth week.

Monday night he told a capacity crowd of 12,000 at the Harringay sports stadium that boys were wrong to think it "sissy" to go to church. It took a real "he-man" he said, to live a Christian life.

Rogers plans to stay with the preacher's revivalist show for a week.

The Billy Graham organization reported 337 conversions Monday night, bringing the total for the crusade to 6,500.

DISPOSAL TALKS URGED

CARACAS, Venezuela (Reuters) The economic committee of the Inter-American conference here Monday urged international consultation before agricultural surpluses are sold in world markets, to avoid harming normal production by other countries. The committee also recommended that the surpluses should not be destroyed.

WHO'S COMPLAINING

Song-and-dance man Fred Williams of East St. Louis, Ill., posed for years as Prince Anago, a potentate of the Belgian Congo who had 50 wives, a royal palace and a title to burn. With that self-promoted reputation, he did pretty well by himself in the U.S. until immigration authorities exposed the fraud. But Mr. Williams doesn't mind. He was pretty good while it lasted, even though he had only one wife all the time.

Hydrogen Blast Surprised Experts Eisenhower Says

Tests Should Be Cancelled Declares British Paper

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower told the press conference today that something must have happened at the recent hydrogen explosion in the Pacific which surprised and astonished scientists.

His comment was made after a reporter told Eisenhower at his press conference that anti-American newspaper in Japan had said the Liberal paper's editorial says the effects of the weapon exploded March 1 were greater than the scientists had expected."

IS EFFECT KNOWN?

He asked:

"Do the scientists really know what will happen after the explosions which they are planning to make in the Marshall islands in April? As Washington it has been announced that the device or devices to be detonated then will be four times as powerful as the one exploded on March 1.

"How great a section of the ocean will be contaminated and how far may the winds spread this move?

"The scientists are moving now into realms which are unknown, and the consequences of their experiments may be most serious.

"Is it only wise to proceed with these explosions?"

RETOND CONTROL

"What the whole world has feared has now happened," says the paper. "Fears and reactions are beyond control."

It urges scientists to "realize how far they can go" and not let themselves be forced by politics to use their work in a way "which leads to the end of mankind."

Only in that way, it says, can the world be saved.

In Canberra, Prof. Marcus Oliphant, Australian nuclear physics authority, said today that the hydrogen bomb exploded March 1 "is four times as powerful as baby compared with what the Americans have been exploding before."

But he advised the world not to panic about it. "There are several precautions opposing the Spanish government or merely anti-British hotheads" accidentally might seize that occasion to endanger the Queen's safety by sending explosible acts that would lead to a grave crisis in British-Spanish relations," the dispatch adds.

"These relations already are tense."

The possibility of trouble has been indicated by a number of threatening letters received last week in London saying the Queen would be shot if she visited Spain at Gibraltar. Some Spanish elements have long agitated for the return to Spain of the rock fortress, a British stronghold since 1705.

Fear Incidents At Gibraltar When Queen Calls

NEW YORK (CP) — The New York Times says today in a Madrid dispatch that British authorities in Gibraltar have expressed "deep concern" over the possibility of serious incidents during the Queen's visit to the fort May 3.

The Madrid story says exceptional steps are being taken at Gibraltar, at the southern tip of Spain, to tighten security measures.

"The British preoccupation lies mainly in that underground organizations opposing the Spanish government or merely anti-British hotheads" accidentally might seize that occasion to endanger the Queen's safety by sending explosible acts that would lead to a grave crisis in British-Spanish relations," the dispatch adds.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny skies and light winds will combine to bring spring-like weather to Ontario today and Friday. However, increasing cloudiness tonight will be followed by intense disturbance moving northeastward from the south central states. A strengthening easterly winds will gradually spread rain or snow over southern sections of the province on Thursday.

Porter Denies Charges Made By CCF Leader

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Porter denied Tuesday night in the legislature that the Ontario government "virtually" handed over the Five Cross Plan for Hospital Care to insurance companies.

The charge was made by CCF leader Donald C. MacDonald in a broadcast speech Monday night.

Mr. Porter referred to the CCF leader's statement that his bill to raise rates were ordered by the superintendent of insurance to be increased and that this had followed a switch in Blue Cross regulations from the health department to the Ontario superintendent of insurance.

Premier Frost entered the discussion and said Blue Cross had suggested the advance in rates, which are effective April 1. He added:

"The changes in regulations are openly and clearly apparent to anyone who was here."

LONDON (Reuters)—The Manchester Guardian says today that United States hydrogen bomb tests scheduled to be held in the South Pacific next month should be postponed. The paper expresses doubts over the wisdom of holding the tests in view of the effects of the March 1 H-bomb tests at Bikini atoll. It says flotsy fact that this time American scientists will be moving into the realm of the unknown.

The Liberal paper's editorial says the effects of the weapon exploded March 1 which rained radioactive ash on 23 Japanese fishermen, injuring some of them seriously "were far greater than the scientists had expected."

IS EFFECT KNOWN?

It asks:

"Do the scientists really know what will happen after the explosions which they are planning to make in the Marshall islands in April? As Washington it has been announced that the device or devices to be detonated then will be four times as powerful as the one exploded on March 1.

"How great a section of the ocean will be contaminated and how far may the winds spread this move?

"The scientists are moving now into realms which are unknown, and the consequences of their experiments may be most serious.

"Is it only wise to proceed with these explosions?"

RETOND CONTROL

"What the whole world has feared has now happened," says the paper. "Fears and reactions are beyond control."

It urges scientists to "realize how far they can go" and not let themselves be forced by politics to use their work in a way "which leads to the end of mankind."

Only in that way, it says, can the world be saved.

In Canberra, Prof. Marcus Oliphant, Australian nuclear physics authority, said today that the hydrogen bomb exploded March 1 "is four times as powerful as baby compared with what the Americans have been exploding before."

But he advised the world not to panic about it. "There are several precautions opposing the Spanish government or merely anti-British hotheads" accidentally might seize that occasion to endanger the Queen's safety by sending explosible acts that would lead to a grave crisis in British-Spanish relations," the dispatch adds.

The possibility of trouble has been indicated by a number of threatening letters received last week in London saying the Queen would be shot if she visited Spain at Gibraltar. Some Spanish elements have long agitated for the return to Spain of the rock fortress, a British stronghold since 1705.

MOTORCYCLIST, W. MONDEVILLE, FATALLY HURT

Ran Head-On Into Auto While Passing Transport

Walter Mondeville, 25, of 40 St. Paul street, suffered fatal injuries shortly before midnight last night, when the motorcycle he was riding crashed head-on into an approaching car as he turned out to pass a transport.

Mondeville was treated at the scene by Dr. Russell Bateman but died two hours after admission to Bellleville General Hospital.

According to reports Mondeville was attempting to pass a highway following an auto transport. About four miles west of the city he turned out to pass the transport and crashed into a westbound car driven by Ronald Byrne, R.C.A.F., Trenton. The auto transport was driven by Roy Walls of Brooklin.

A preliminary inquest will be held this afternoon before Coroner Dr. C. S. Cook, the hearing to be adjourned until a later date. The accident was investigated by Provincial Constable A. MacLeod.

Man Should Not Judge Himself Says Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower replied to a question about Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.) today by saying: In cases when a man is a party to a charge in America—directly or indirectly—he should not be permitted to sit in judgment.

The president declined at a press conference to express any opinion on McCarthy's demands for the right to cross-examine witnesses in the Israeli-Jordan dispute and suggest that the Big Three leave the issue before the Security Council.

"THERE REPORT FALSE"

Sharett said a false report had been circulated "by one of our neighbors that Israel was massing troops, which in this country is massing its own troops along the Israel border."

An Israel military spokesman announced that reinforcements had moved up as infantry brigade to strengthen her forces on the border.

An Arab spokesman complained to the United Nations last week that Israel was concentrating troops on her borders with Syria, Lebanon and Jordan. Israel denied the charge.

Israeli members walked out of the UN-sponsored Israel-Jordan armistice commission meeting in Jerusalem after the American chairman, representing the UN, refused to support an Israeli motion to condemn Jordan for the bus attack.

The chairman, Cmdr. Elom Hutchison, said he did not think the commission had conclusive evidence that the attack was planned from Jordan. He suggested that investigation of the incident continue and refused to break a tie on the issue between the Israeli and Jordanian members of the commission.

West Australia Protests Changes in Tour of Queen

PERTH, Australia (Reuters) — A political controversy warmed up today over a federal government decision to curtail Queen Elizabeth's tour of Western Australia because of a poliomyelitis epidemic raging in this state.

A new protest was raised by P. E. Chamberlain, secretary of the Western Australian Labor party, who said the state government had announced Monday by Federal Premier Robert G. Menzies to protect the Queen when she comes here Friday are an insult to the state.

State Premier Albert Hawke said Tuesday Menzies' plans amount to "unnecessary and highhanded interference."

The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh will live aboard the royal liner Gothic during their stay and most only food prepared aboard ship. Hand-shaking will be barred and at least five functions have been cancelled.

Chamberlain said these measures wrongly imply that Western Australia is a disease-ridden state.

He said the royal party has already visited some countries where epidemics of tropical disease are frequent.

Chamberlain added that during the war the royal family shared the hardships with the common people. He was convinced that the Queen and the duke would prefer to carry out the originally scheduled tour despite the negligible risk of polio.

Premier Menzies Argus Tuesday quoted a source close to the Queen as saying she does oppose cancellation of certain phases of her visit, and is not worried about her own health. She has had two injections of anti-polio serum.

The royal children, two little sisters—Anne Schwartz, 6, and Lorraine, 5, evaded the Queen's bodyguard and handed her two small coins. The youngsters said the Queen was for Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

Their mother, Mrs. Lorna Schwartz, said that when she and her sister were the same ages as Anne and Lorraine they made a similar presentation to Queen Elizabeth's mother in Adelaide in 1927.

Israeli Premier Declares 'Utmost Preparedness' Needed

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Moshe Sharett told parliament today the tense situation along Israel's borders now calls for the utmost preparedness and the strengthening of Israel's defence."

He announced Israel was asking the United States, Britain and France to bring before the United Nations Security Council the Negev bus incident in which 11 Jews were killed by machine-gunners last week ago.

Israel blamed the killings on Jordan and walked out of the Israeli-Jordan mixed armistice commission meeting when the UN-sponsored body failed to adopt an Israeli resolution condemning it.

Sharett said Israel's ambassadors in the capitals of the western Big Three powers had been instructed to inform those governments of the bus incident massacre in the Israeli-Jordan dispute and suggest that the Big Three bring the issue before the Security Council.

Kingston Member Advocates More Freedom of Press

TORONTO (CP)—W. M. Nickle, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Kingston, Tuesday called for a code guard for freedom at the press by the provision of legal protection for the sources of newspapers' information.

Speaking during the budget debate in the House, Mr. Nickle said newspapers should be free to consider an amendment to the Evidence Act to provide that no newspaper or person could be ordered by the courts to disclose the source of information.

At the first night sitting of the budget debate, then the legislature approved the estimates of the attorney-general department ($12,252,000), the education department ($98,022,000) and the department of insurance ($190,000) and miscellaneous expenditures ($100,000).

RECOUNT CASE

Mr. Nickie referred to a recent case in which a court ordered Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto to produce his income tax returns. Magazine, to disclose his sources of information for a controversial article on British Columbia politics. The article was the basis for a libel action by the law writer and the magazine by former attorney-general Gordon Wismer.

"The time has come when those in the public eye and those writing the press should amend the law."

He said adequate provision was made in the law to protect from anyone who thought he had been libelled, but there was no protection to reveal his sources. However, no exceptions were made for witnesses being accused from answering questions.

AFRAID OF COST

In calling for a contributory health insurance plan, Mr. Edwards said this and a free cancer clinic service was "a must and would also help to relieve the worry of many who postpone early treatment, because they are afraid of the cost."

Before the house rose, Premier Frost said the province plans to study other provincial schemes and would "proceed slowly and soundly" on the question.

W. E. Brandon (PC—York West) called for a reduction in the liens and chattel mortgages and conditional sales acts. The municipal board be spread out, thus relieving the pressure of work on the group.

A. J. Child (PC — Wentworth) called for a reduction in the school-room grants, from $20,000 to $17,500, as an economy measure.

He said some school boards are erecting schools to last 75 to 100 years that become outdated in 20.

Britain Regards Talks on Suez As Broken Off

CAIRO (AP) — Britain today notified Egypt that she now considers British-Egyptian talks on the Nations Suez canal base "formally broken off."

A high Egyptian official source disclosed this, adding that London's notification was made in a note which has been handed over to Egypt.

The talks, revolving about Egypt's demand for withdrawal of Britain's 80,000-man garrison and Britain's demand for an airtight understanding on future defence of the canal zone, have been in a stalemate since Oct. 18, but recently there were indications that they were about to resume.

HOUSE REJECTS CRITICISM GOVT'S WIDE POWERS

PC Motion Defeated By 134 to 68 Vote

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has rejected a strongly-worded criticism of the government's wide powers under the three-year-old Emergency Powers Act.

Liberals and one CCF member Tuesday defeated, 134 to 68, a Progressive Conservative motion describing executive powers under the act as "repugnant" to responsible government.

Charles Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South) sided with the government in opposing the motion, backed by Liberals, Social Credit members and three Quebec independents as well as the Conservative and Social Credit groups.

The Emergency Powers Act, passed in 1950 to meet conditions arising out of the war in Korea, was renewed last year by May 31.

Opposition Leader Drew, who opened the debate Monday, said the government's governor-in-council powers under the act have been abused. He said Parliament should not be asked to extend the act beyond May 31.

NO DECISION YET

Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that the government hoped it will not have to ask for an extension. No decision had been made yet, but if the government decides on an extension because of the international situation, Parliament would have an opportunity to debate the issue.

As debate on Mr. Drew's motion continued, Justice Minister Garson said it was a reflection on the decision taken by the last Parliament which passed the Act.

"That this Parliament in 1954 moves a vote of want-of-confidence in it for what it did in 1950."

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said the act had also granted powers which would make any dictator envious. The "sweeping and arbitrary" powers could not be justified by any world situation. The act and all the elements needed to transform Canada into a dictatorship and the confederation into centralized government.

Mr. Gillis described the motion as a "propaganda" move by the Conservatives. The Commons was being asked to vote on the Emergency Powers Act.

"That act is not before the House at the present time, he said. "It is not before the House but a lot of noise."

The legislation was enacted because the world was insecure in 1951. It still was uneasy with a cease fire in Korea and war in Indo-China.

Says Reds Try to Sow Distrust Over Seaway

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian charges voiced by Representative Frances P. Bolton (Rep. Ohio) of current efforts to "sow distrust" between the United States and Canada over the St. Lawrence seaway.

The Reds are doing this, she said, by trying to make the project appear as "part of an over-all plot by Wall street to control the Canadian economy."

In a statement for the congressional record Mrs. Bolton quoted from an article on the seaway in yesterday's official Communist organ in Moscow.

70-Cent British Book Tells Facts It Is Treason to Disclose in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — A British pamphlet which anyone can buy for 70 cents is declared to contain atomic information of a type long kept highly secret in the United States.

It contains enough information of a type called "classified" in the U. S. to send a person to jail and possibly even death as a traitor if made public by an American scientist, it is believed.

The New York Times describes the pamphlet in a dispatch today from Kansas City, where the American Chemical Society is holding its national meeting.

The Times says the British government pamphlet, written about a month ago by K. E. B. Jay of the division of atomic energy of the ministry of supply, is being studied by leading American scientists with great interest.

"It tells the story of atomic energy development in Britain. It tells in detail how the British enrich uranium. The fascinating thing is how they produce plutonium, material for the atomic bomb.

"These techniques, developed first in the United States, are known in detail to few American scientists because here security regulations, established by Congress, require that such information be 'classified.' That is, it has to be assigned 'top secret' and filed in a safe."

Witness' Counsel Argues Point With Prosecutor

Pharmacist Testifies Mrs. Bell Bought Poison

Roscoe "Rusty" Jenners, boarder in the home where Percy Bell died on January 2nd, was called to the stand by the crown in the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Mary Bell, charged with the murder of her husband, shortly before the noon hour today and will likely be on the stand all of the afternoon. He was represented by R. D. Arnott, Q.C.

Before Mr. Jenners started to give evidence in the case, Mr. Arnott asked for the protection of the court under the Canada Evidence Act and after some argument between the counsel, Magistrate Wills and Mr. Arnott, the magistrate stated that Jenners would have the protection of the Canada Evidence Act if any of his answers tended to incriminate him.

In subsequent questioning Magistrate Wills stated that Jenners would have the protection of the Canada Evidence Act it any answers leaned to incriminate him.

"If the crown insists on asking questions I shall have to ask my client to object to answering every question asked," said Mr. Arnott.

MUST SWEAR OATH.

"In that case the witness will have to swear a solemn oath that his answers tend to incriminate him," replied Magistrate Wills.

"He would have to refuse to answer single question which would be foolish and I would have to overrule them."

At this point crown prosecutor Alex Hall said, "I do not wish to place my judgment over that of Parliament which passed this Act, but I think that the Act can be abused.

Mr. Arnott then stated, "I am asking Your Worship for a ruling on the grounds that my client is within his rights in asking for the protection of this Act."

Mr. Hall then began to question Jenners, asking him if he had been asked to give a statement to Inspector Zud by Inspectors Kelly and Hayes.

"Are you going to object to every question?" asked Mr. Hall.

"That act is not before the House at the present time," he said. "It is not before the House but a lot of noise."

The legislation was enacted because the world was insecure in 1951. It still was uneasy with a cease fire in Korea and war in Indo-China.

Maori Song Perhaps Born In Kansis City

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (Reuters) A Maori song used in the musical score of an official movie of Queen Elizabeth's tour of New Zealand actually be an imposter of American vintage.

Musical circles are in a flurry about the origin of the song, Pull Puti Pai, whose title in translation means You're Just a Flower from an Old Bouquet. It is used as the main musical theme for the Royal New Zealand Journey movie.

Some maintain the song was composed by a revered Maori leader, Sir Apirana Ngata, in 1925. But opponents argue that the song was published in the U.S.A. only a year before that, translated into Maori words and adopted by the Maori people.

Scientists Devise Methods to Detect 3 Common Killers in Early Stages

By FRANK CAREY

BOSTON (AP)—Boston scientists have devised methods of detecting and diagnosing in a relatively early stage three of the commonest killers among women.

Dr. William H. Sweet and Gordon L. Brownell of the Harvard University school of medicine and Massachusetts General Hospital announced the new life-point brain tumors without opening the skull.

They do this by injecting the patient with radioactive potassium, which concentrates in cancer and, as a rule, goes only in small quantity to benign tumors.

The science writers in another interview were told that 18 patients with localized cancer of the larynx who were treated during the last four years by multi-million-volt x-rays show no evidence now of the disease.

Drs. Edward S. Murphy and Robert Schmidt, Seattle, Wash., physicians, told the writers they have found they can predict with high accuracy whether a lump in the breast will be benign or cancerous.

They do this by injecting the patient with radioactive potassium, which concentrates in cancer and, as a rule, goes only in small quantity to benign tumors.

The science writers in another interview were told that 18 patients with localized cancer of the larynx who were treated during the last four years by multi-million-volt x-rays show no evidence now of the disease.

Tax Rate May Be Set At 50 To 55 Mills

TRENTON, (Special.) — Mayor Ross Burtt indicated today that council would strike a tax rate between 50 and 55 mills at the meeting to bring down the budget Friday night. He announced that school board and police budgets were now in the hands of the town clerk, O. W. Larry. Figures of anticipated expenditures from the public works department and the chairman of finance are expected to be tendered prior to the meeting, Friday.

Under an $8,000,000 assessment council approved a 65 mill rate.

Last year the town was reassessed under the Provincial Municipal Assessment. The basis of the town was increased to $10,500,000.

Mayor Burtt commenting on the new budget said he was looking for the mill rate to be lowered 10 to 15 mills.

Malcolm Robb Talks on High Cost of Survival

Malcolm Robb, Q.C. senior partner of the law firm Robb, Rose, Cass and Robb, addressed the Belleville Lions Club last week on the subject "The High Cost of Survival."

Introduced by Harry Gibson, Mr. Robb explained that although the subject was controversial he was expounding his philosophy on the subject as a free world. Although his subject covered four separate topics—Our Enemy, Communism—Trade, and Canada's failure in the field of trade,—inflation, too much money chasing too few goods,—Labor Relations, failure of labor and management to produce efficiently—Mr. Robb did exemplify the inter-dependency of each topic upon the other and the resulting high cost of survival.

In closing, he pointed out the value of international collaboration of world affairs and the necessity of individual effort and we can to maintain a free world.

Appreciation was expressed by Lion Gordon Jos. O'Neill; secretary, Bill Bray; treasurer, Cec Bonnetis; Tail Twister, Lion McKnight; Tamer, Harvey Frid; and year directors, Geo. Adams and Hugh Beach; one year directors, Jay Collins and Jos. O'Leary.

Rotary Club Hears Address On Dairying

CAMPBELLFORD — Mr. Lindsay Anderson, dairy herd supervisor of the Massey-Harris farm at Millbrook, Ont., was the guest speaker at Monday's Rotary Club meeting.

Mr. Anderson spoke of the duties entailed in his position, particularly the issues of making the farm pay.

Mr. Anderson said that the farm is not a rich company's hobby but an attempt to make it pay, expand, develop and improve farming practices. Everything must be pointed on an economical basis. The speaker gave particular emphasis to his job as herd superintendent. He said that his job is to make the herd pay its way, including all costs of feeding and depreciation. This, he said, is found to be easier in the case of their dairy herd of Holstein cattle than in the case of the shorthorn beef breed, where the original investment was much higher per head.

He said there is at the Massey Harris farm 90 acres of testing ground for their various machinery items. This provides the company with a basis for comparison with other makes of implements and enables them to correct any defects in machines of their own manufacture.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Mac McDonald and thanked by Rotarian Grant Anderson.

French Annoyed By U.S. Offer To Train Army

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP)—Defence Secretary Charles E. Wilson's announcement in Washington that he and the French army chief of staff, Gen. Paul Ely, are discussing sending an American mission to train the new Viet Nam army caught French military circles by surprise today.

High military sources affirmed today that there has been no change in the emphatic view voiced a month ago by Ely's new commander in Indo-China, Gen. Henri Navarre, who then said it was "unthinkable" that Americans should train the fledgling Viet Namese army.

Navarre added that though Americans had much experience in Korea, it was not experience which could be applied to the peculiar topography and climatic conditions of Indo-China.

The French, who have been fighting this war since 1946, resent any suggestion that their system of training is not adequate.

Digby Re-Elected President Of Soccer League

Les Digby was re-elected president of the Bay of Quinte Soccer League for 1954 by acclamation at the league's annual meeting held last week in the Belleville Y.M.C.A.

Other members of the executive re-elected by acclamation were vice president, Craig Peterborough, and secretary treasurer, F. Jones, Belleville.

Teams represented as entries at the meeting were Kingston Kosmodia, Kingston United, Belleville Northern Electric, Belaws, Peterborough Merchants, Peterborough Scottish, and Peterborough U.E.W.

The secretary was advised to contact Brockville and Cobourg as prospective entries.

The deadline for entries was set at April 15th and the first game opening date as May 1st. All-star exhibition games are to be scheduled around Toronto T.D. and Ottawa.

In a brief address president Digby commended the excellent growth of the league from three to seven teams in four years. He congratulated all those responsible for the healthy condition of the league and thanked the executive for their support.

The league hopes to inaugurate a district rookie competition this season between All-star teams from Belleville, Trenton and Peterborough. A suitable trophy will be presented the All-star winners.

Toronto Paper's Headline Draws Protest

At the opening of Wednesday morning's session of the preliminary hearing in the case of Mrs. Marg Bell, charged with the murder of her husband, Percy Bell, Crown Attorney Jas. Corbett asked Magistrate T. Y. Wills to take some action on the matter of the witnesses being excluded from the hearing who will read the story in the press, which, he maintained. This headline, he said, is most prejudicial to the defence.

Alex. Hall, Q.C., crown prosecutor, pointed out that editors, not reporters are responsible for headlines. This could have been a wrong interpretation of the story.

"I would suggest the court express in strong terms how important it is, that matters of speculation and not facts, be treated as such," said Mr. Cass.

Magistrate Wills said an inference had been drawn which was utterly ridiculous. He warned the press that such matters should be treated in the proper manner.

Kinsmen Hold Supper Meeting

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular supper meeting of the local Kinsmen Club was held on Monday at Edgewater Park, with a good attendance and members of the Picton Club as guests. A sing-song was held with Bill Dante-Pace as song leader and Kin Pete Edwards at the piano.

Kin. Jack Tinney reported that the Century Club is having a good membership and there are two openings at the present time.

Kin. Bill Hassard reported on the annual Ladies' Night and plans and proceedings to hold this celebration in the Legion Hall on April 28.

Kin. Forest Dennis reported on the progress of the forthcoming Ottawa trip for the Grade 8 pupils.

The use of the Aron Theatre has been donated for the afternoons of April 20 and 21st for special matinees. Kinsmen and Kinettes will act as ushers for these matinees and the only cost will be for the films.

Several Kinsmen from Picton and Kin. and Kin. Ray Smith told of receiving a pair of muskiks from the Fish and Game Territories on which draw tickets are being sold.

A musical interlude was held while the table and wishes were cleared away. At this time the Picton Club took over and an initiation ceremony was performed with seven new members of the Campbellford Club as "victims". The Picton Club received many favorable comments on their abilities in conducting this impressive ceremony.

Murder Charge Hearing Attracting Large Audiences

The preliminary hearing of evidence in the murder charge laid against Mrs. Marg Bell, 222 Albert Street, now under way in the county courthouse, is attracting large crowds of the curious.

Many people attending the morning sessions remained in the courtroom during the luncheon hour to assure themselves of a seat for the afternoon hearing. Yesterday, however, Magistrate T. Y. Wills who is presiding over the hearing ordered the courtroom cleared at noon, but it was filled to capacity again long before the later session started.

Detailed cross-examination by Mr. Ron Cass, who is appearing for John Lennox for Mrs. Bell is lengthening the hearing, which is expected to last well into next week. It will adjourn however at noon Thursday until a future date because of other commitments of the bench.

Mrs. Bell sits quietly at her lawyers' table. She is attended by assistant matron, Mrs. Archie Wilkins. She leaves the court room each morning and once during the afternoon. The afternoon's session when a witness made a quip, a ghost of a smile flitted over her face.

ONE SIGN OF EMOTION

The only sign of emotion she has shown thus far came on Monday when she listened to evidence given by George Rutledge embalmer of the Belleville Burial Company. Her burst into tears on two occasions, dabbing her eyes with a small pink handkerchief. She was through the remainder of the, evidence with her head bowed over the table.

There is extensive newspaper coverage of the hearing. All the Toronto newspapers are represented as are some of the provincial dailies. A staff artist of a Toronto daily is there sketching various individuals and courtroom scenes.

Dr. Locke was recalled by Mr. Cass at this morning's session and underwent a rigid cross-examination which centred mainly on the symptoms of strychnine poisoning.

Mr. Archie Boyd, employed at Dolan's drug store will probably be called. He will be followed probably by Rodroe "Rusty" Jenner, boarder at the Bell home at the time of Percy Bell's death.

Kiwanians Told About Life In Canadian Navy

Describing life in the Canadian Navy as offering a young man all the advantages of a civilian career and then some, Lieutenant Commander F. L. Peter Ross C.D., R.C.N. presented a clear and concise word picture of what officer candidates in the navy may expect on enlistment. The naval officer was speaking before members of the Kiwanis club in the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday.

Commander Ross gave a detailed description of the navy's newest recruit expansion plan. He said it is called the "Venture Plan."

"It offers, everything a young man could ask for," the Commander Ross, "a career in the service of his country, adventure, travel, security, a real opportunity to use initiative and to exercise command, plus personal security and an excellent salary."

The speaker described it as "a tailor-made plan to make sailors." He said that it is designed for boys between the ages of 16-19 who possess junior matriculation or equivalent standing and who are desirous of building themselves a career in the Canadian Navy.

"From this point on," he declared, "it is up to the individual how far he may advance as a Canadian naval officer."

Perfect attendance pins were presented to the following: Bob Irvine, Jack Bell, Abe Mountain, one year; Harold Carruthers, — two years; Lorne McDougall, — three years; Emmanuel Ross, seven years.

Commander Ross was introduced by James Musgrove and thanks were expressed by Bud Punchard. George E. Currie gave a brief introductory address on the activities relating to vocational guidance in the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

Scelba Regime Delays Scandal Debate to July 1

ROME (AP)—At least two high-level secret investigations are under way into the Wilma Montesi affair which has shaken Italian democracy.

One probe is being conducted by an important source, a friend of Premier Mario Scelba's government; the other by the police and courts.

Both aim to find out how the 21-year-old Miss Montesi died on the night of April 10, 1953, and whether, as alleged, her death was fantastications resulting from police-government attempts at cover-up and influence-peddling.

Tuesday night in a turbulent chamber of deputies, Scelba's hard-pressed centre government won postponement of all debate on the scandal until July 1, when the probes should be completed.

TRIAL HALTED

Last Monday the trial of journalist Silvano Muto, charged with spreading false news, was halted abruptly pending a new investigation of the death.

The interruption followed introduction of a letter alleging the police chief, the scandal's central figure, Marquis Ugo Montagna, was the leader of a dope ring and that Piero Piccioni, jazz-musician son of Italy's foreign minister, was a "scapegoat."

Anna Maria Moneta Caglio, raven-haired former mistress of the marquis-come-lately wrote that she was leaving Italy rather because "I am afraid of disappearing without leaving any trace."

Strychnine Cause Of Bell's Death Says Pathologist

Dr. Lucke Makes Statement Before Close of Session

The cause of death of Percy W. Bell, stationary engineer, who died in agony on January 2nd at his home at 222 Albert Street, was strychnine poisoning.

Dr. Hans Lucke, Belleville General Hospital pathologist, testified to this in a more or less dramatic finale to yesterday's session of the hearing of evidence in the murder charge laid against Mrs. Mary Bell, widow of the dead man.

Dr. Ward Smith, director of laboratories of the Ontario Government general's department, Toronto, told the court earlier that 2.3 milligrams of strychnine had been found in Bell's stomach following an analysis.

INJECTED IN MOUSE

Dr. Smith said he had injected a small quantity of the stomach fluid taken from Bell's body into that of a mouse. The mouse died in convulsions within an hour after administration.

Asked by the special crown prosecutor, Alex. Hall, Q.C., to weigh the evidence of expert witnesses, Dr. Lucke was called to the stand.

He was asked bluntly: "You have heard the evidence of these expert witnesses. What is your opinion was the cause of death?"

"Strychnine poisoning," Dr. Lucke replied.

"Is there any doubt in your mind?" asked the crown.

"No," said Dr Lucke.

Dr. Lucke said he based his opinion on the evidence given by Dr. Smith, the attending physician, Bell at the time of death, the type of illness, its shortness and convulsions, and the fact that no other known cause of death and the toxicologist's showed Bell had been in good health for a man of his age.

Further to his evidence under crown questioning, Dr. Smith said that the symptoms of Bell's illness revealed that part of that organ contained 1.4 parts per million of strychnine.

"I found" he told the court, "9.3 milligrams of strychnine in washings of the stomach of Bell."

These washings, he pointed out were the first treatment of the linings of the stomach.

"I estimated," Dr. Smith told the court, "that these washings corresponded to one-third of the contents. I would say that the entire stomach contents would, as it were, contain three times 9.3 milligrams, or one-third of a grain of strychnine."

He found 1.4 parts per million of strychnine in the liver. Would that be enough to cause death?" asked the Crown.

"It is", Dr. Smith replied.

"Concentration in the stomach tissues indicated absorption of strychnine," Dr. Smith also found 65 parts per million strychnine in the spleen.

Vomiting and extraction of fluid from Bell's stomach would remove some of the strychnine, which is easily soluble, said Dr. Smith.

TENTATIVE ESTIMATE

"Can you express an opinion as to how long strychnine had been in the body?" asked the Crown.

"I can make a tentative estimate comparing the findings in the cases I had. Concentrations in the urine were higher than the blood. In one case was 1½ hours, the other case could not have been more than 3 hours before administration prior to death."

"I feel time between administration and death would be within in those limits," said Dr. Smith, "but I would like to also found crystals!"

Those crystals, were recovered from the stomach extract. I do not think you can tell how much strychnine is left immediately either as strychnine or as a salt."

Dr. Ward Smith said he had made an analysis of the stomach. He removed a few particles of food consisting of portions of grapes, slices of green tomato or cucumber, whole cranberries, of rhubarb or beets and bits of white meat, possibly chicken, and part slices of citrus fruit.

"These salads and stomach lining were washed thoroughly. A portion of the washing was subjected to analysis for strychnine."

FOUND STRYCHNINE

Dr. Smith checked on contents of a bottle marked Carter's Little Liver Pills" and found strychnine in small quantities. A package from Dolan's Drug Store was found to contain strychnine sulphate."

"As a toxiologist you found sufficient strychnine to consider, a lethal dose?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I did," answered Dr. Smith.

"Did you analyze a strychnine sulphate marked 'Dolan's'?"

"I gave a cursory examination. Sulphate is usually 90 per cent strychnine," Dr. Smith said.

"Strychnine is bitter, the witness said, "something like quinine water." Asked if the bitterness could be disguised in coffee or cocoa, he said: I have never tasted the combination. I must try it sometime."

HESITATED TO DESCRIBE SYMPTOMS

Referring to symptoms of strychnine, Dr. Smith said he hesitated to describe them as he had not seen them in actual practice. Not many medical men have seen them.

Re-examined by the crown, Dr Smith said strychnine could be detected in urine in several days after a person has recovered from a dose.

"Would ratio of 1.4 found in liver be same rate diffused through body?"

The 9.3 milligrams found in the stomach was not absorbed, and would have no effect until it was.

Witness said when asked if he could estimate quantity of strychnine in the body, he had no idea The amount found in the stomach could be a fatal dose. The amount in the liver was definitely one.

"Would part of the strychnine have been excreted by the liver prior to death?"

"Possibly."

If strychnine detected an odor of chocolate at one time during analysis of liver, he could have been cocoa, he told the crown.

Mr. Eagleson was in the laboratory at which Dr. Smith smelled the odor. Dr. Smith answered Mr. Hall.

"How long before cocoa would reach the liver?"

Witness was not prepared to say, but thought a half hour. It could be eliminated from the body in six hours.

AWAKENED BY MRS BELL

Jenners, with Bell and Mrs. Bell, returned to the Bell home on January 1st, about 10 o'clock. They had enjoyed television until 11 o'clock, then he went to bed at ten minutes to twelve.

He was awakened at 4 a.m. by Mrs. Bell by shaking. She said: "Percy was sick. I will you come in."

Jenners said Bell was lying on his bed with his arms bent. He was breathing hard and there were scratches on his face.

"I did not know what was wrong with him," Jenners said. He put his arms, and wanted a cold towel. Mrs. Bell got it for him. Jenners said Bell got sick and he used he asked Mrs. Bell to get a doctor.

"DON'T LEAVE ME"

"Don't leave me, 'Rusty'." Bell said, when witness went for another towel.

"Mrs. Bell came back and said she had called Dr. Anderson. I asked her if she had any aromatic spirits of ammonia. She said she had, and I said we had better get somebody quick. Bell was shaking."

Witness had told Dr. Anderson Bell had had a bad cold and had not had been drinking.

"Bell took another spell while the doctor was downstairs and I called to the doctor. Bell was twitching, his face turning dark."

"I asked the doctor if it would be better to hospitalize. He said it was too late."

LETTERS AS EXHIBITS

The crown produced letters and the witness said: "Yes, I did. Counsel asked if the letters were then entered as exhibits.

"Mrs. Bell said Bell did Bell drink?" the crown asked.

Mr. Arnott asked for the protection of the court. "It was given to me," said Dr. Lucke.

"No," said Dr. Lucke.

Mr. Arnott produced a book labelled: "Poisons, Records of Sales."

Mr. Boyd explained the method and rules of poison. The amount of purchase and the signature of the purchaser, must be recorded. He knew Jenners quite well as a customer. She was not a steady customer, Jenners said.

TWO DRAMS

Two drams of strychnine were purchased. Mrs. Mary Bell, charged with the murder of her husband Percy Bell, at Dolan's Drug Store, Belleville, Mr. Archie Boyd, registered pharmacist, associated with the drug store, told the court the poison had been purchased for the "killing of rats." He had told Mrs. Bell she asked for enough strychnine "to kill all the rats in Belleville."

The poison was included in a purchase of other store items which contained sulphur and vaseline. Mrs. Bell called at the store and signed a register of sales book showing the purchase in the presence of the witness. She did not discuss the method of administering the poison to rats with Boyd.

MADE SALE TO MRS. BELL

"Did you make a sale of poison to Mrs. Bell within the past six months?" asked Mr. Arnott.

"I did."

He said the date in the registry book showed November 24, when she purchased two drams of 1/60 grains of strychnine. There are 480 grains or 8 grams to an ounce, apothegary measure.

In avoirdupois measure there are 437½ grains to an ounce.

He had conversed with Mrs. Bell on November 24 when she phoned an order to the store, including strychnine, which she wanted delivered. Witness called her back and said he could not deliver strychnine. She would have to call for it. Boyd said he told her she had ordered enough strychnine to kill all the rats in Belleville.

"Did Mrs. Bell come to the drug store?" asked Mr. Boyd.

"She came the next day."

WANTED POISON

"She asked for strychnine and I suggested she purchase a dram, but she wanted two drams" said Boyd. A dram would be an average sale.

Boyd identified the signature in the book as that of Mrs. Bell. He saw her sign it. She then repeated the order had been phoned in on November 24 and the purchase made the following day.

The page bearing the signature and strychnine order was torn from the book and entered as an exhibit.

Boyd told the court he measured the strychnine purchased for Mrs. Bell. The sulphate comes in ounce containers.

"Did you ever sell strychnine to Percy Bell at any time?"

"No."

Cross-examined Boyd said Percy Bell had been in the store but he had not served him.

MUST BE PUT IN BOOK

Witness said he had written "Bell" in the order book and later scratched it out.

The strychnine vial was supposedly empty, he said when Mrs. Bell asked for strychnine, the witness said.

EXTREMELY BITTER TASTE

Strychnine was bitter, Boyd said. It was a white powder with extremely bitter taste.

"The taste would be hard to disguise?"

"Yes."

In his opinion, and according to textbooks, one-half to two grains would be a lethal dose.

Before poison is sold the purchaser must be known or introduced. It is impossible for a person stranger to obtain a purchase.

"Are you satisfied you could recognize the person named in this book as a seller?" asked counsel.

"I could recognize, but not name them, perhaps."

"Only one that I know."

PROPER METHODS

It is customary to call the proprietor when strychnine is required, Boyd pointed out.

Boyd did not think the bitter taste would be disguised in tea or coffee.

"How about cocoa?" counsel asked.

"Did Mrs. Bell mention her husband when she came to get the poison?"

"No."

"Were you satisfied with her explanation the strychnine would be used for killing rats?"

"Yes."

"Did she discuss the method of administering the poison to the rats?"

"No."

Quiet Prevails On Waterfront

NEW YORK (AP) Quiet prevailed today on New York's stricken waterfront as pickets of the striking longshoremen's union marched peacefully in front of Manhattan piers. There were no reported disturbances in the closely bound harbor.

Combined fist fights, rock barrages and clubbings Tuesday marked the efforts of non-striking longshoremen to get to work. Five men were hospitalized, at least two injured, and there were two false bomb scares.

The outlaw strike by members of the International Longshoremen's Association (IND.) of 30 days has kept thousands of members of the rival AFL union at the same romn work.

The New York Port Jersey waterfront commission reported that 2,580 men were working Tuesday.

FREDDY CLARKE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

Freddy Clarke, Jr., who fell four stories from a hotel window in Syracuse, N.Y., experienced a full night of natural sleep in the Onondaga hospital last night. It was the first natural sleep the boy has had since doctors admitted to the hospital following the accident. Hospital officials say his condition appears to be improving.

MANNERS OF YESTERDAY

Laugh and grow fat, goes the saying.

Make others laugh and you grow rich. But the pause between original cause and final effect cannot be too long. Some of the authors of the long waits half anywhere before being rewarded with a chuckle. That does not buy any caviar and champagne. Perhaps, however, it stores up riches in heaven.

If it does, life March issue of "The Blue Bell" lists a dozen or more statements publication of which ought to produce as many new millionaires as an uranium strike.

"The Blue Bell" is the house organ of the Bell Telephone Co. of Canada. In the latest issue the enterprising editors have made a little excursion into the past and have presented a treatise on etiquette in Great-Grandmama's day.

A mild sample first: "The fashion of wearing black silk mittens at breakfast is now obsolete."

This, it seems, was quite a concession to changing times. For we gather that covering the hands was only slightly less important than concealing the ankle. "We are told that several ladies have actually appeared in public without gloves," reports one shocked Emily Post of the era. "No gloves! Do not those two words imply a verdict of vulgarity?"

What's this? It seems we were wrong about ankles. They had finally won recognition. Remember these instructions for alighting from carriages: "When you leave a carriage, first a dainty little foot should appear, followed by a trim ankle. You may lay your fingers on the footman's arm. Never grasp it. He is a servant."

"Bathless Bride" is the somewhat unkind caption which the editors of "The Blue Bell" have selected for another item. Says the text: "That young lady at the seashore greatly shocked public opinion by going down to the surf beach and bathing on the morning of her wedding day." It is evident that "The Blue Bell" editors think that a bride was supposed to go to the altar unwashed. We suspect, however, that the shock suffered by public opinion was connected with surprise that any young miss could have the strength to do anything more than creep up the aisle on a day during which she was under such a great emotional strain.

For from that, in those days, people were extremely sensitive. Consider this rule: "Never offer anyone the chair from which you have just risen, unless there be no other disengaged. It may be still warm from your person."

Sex does not appear to have raised its ugly head in this etiquette discussion. Which is strange for it is managed to poke its nose into some of the strangest places, including the library. "The perfect hostess will see to it that the works of male and female authors are properly separated on her bookshelves. Their proximity unless they happen to be married should not be tolerated."

COMPULSORY INSURANCE BILL KILLED

Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York State lost an important battle last Saturday, when the State Senate defeated a bill which would have made it compulsory for motorists in that state to carry certain forms of financial responsibility before having their vehicles registered.

The only way in which most motorists would have been able to establish this proof would have been by obtaining public liability and property damage insurance. The bill was thus, in effect, a measure to make it compulsory to carry such insurance.

New York has had come under heavy fire from insurance companies. Why? We suspect because these insurance companies believed that, once people were compelled by law to do business with them, there would be a public demand for increased state regulation of the insurance business.

In this belief the insurance companies were probably correct. It is only a short step from compulsory insurance to state insurance. And yet, may we suggest, this step though short is not inevitable. It ought to be possible to avoid it.

Why take the risks? Why compel people to carry insurance? Because, as things stand now, the New York State and in Ontario, the prudent and the conscientious motorist is protecting others but often finds that he himself is unprotected. What is more, in Ontario, he is not only paying for his own insurance, but is also helping to pay the insurance costs of those who cannot, or will not, purchase such policies. Every motorist makes his contribution toward the province's Unsatisfied Judgment Fund. This fund has paid out thousands of dollars to people who needed, and deserved, some assistance in meeting the costs of accidents for which they were in no way responsible. But one may approve of the motive behind establishment of the fund and still wonder whether the method adopted to achieve this result was the best available.

Compulsion is an ugly word—but few motorists who carry insurance are able to understand why the other motorist should not also pay the cost of providing similar protection to the possible victims of his driving errors.

INDULGENCE

My judgment wisely counseled me
"No" and be pleased with me so
I bought the candy that he asked
And let him eat his fill.
Indulging thus his childish whims, endeavored to be good to him,
That night I learned my foolish love had made him very ill

Who would be kind must first be wise. In childlike, pleas mus't danger lie.
They cannot know and understand what elder minds have learned.
Who, just to please a boy's desire permits the lad to play with fire
Shall find that what he thought was love has caused him to be burned.

It brings to sorrow, grief and pain
the youth it seeks to please.
Who holds his child in high disdain, must answer "no," however hard,
And now and then deny to him what he could give with ease.

Love prompts us all to gratify the whims that wisdom would deny.
And it is easier far to give than to refuse the joy.
But sorrow, hurt and shame and pain all follow the indulgent train.
Though "no" is harder for the man, 'tis better for the boy.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 24, 1914.

Dr. Geo. H. Sloble and Mrs. Sloble have left for New York City and will sail from there on a cruise of two weeks' duration to Bermuda and the West Indies.

Mr. H. B. Fetterly, superintendent of the Ontario school for the Deaf, was elected grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East, at the meeting of the Grand Lodge in Pembroke, at the same meeting the Rev. A. L. Geen of this city was again elected one of the Grand Chaplains, an office which he has held for about 25 years. The Grand Auditors elected are Geo. W. Reid of Corbyville and G. M. Symons of Belleville.

Mrs. Arthur Miles, North Ameliasburg, was operated on Thursday evening when twenty-five of her friends made a party on the occasion of her birthday. The evening was much enjoyed and Mrs. Miles received a number of lovely gifts.

30 YEARS AGO

MARCH 25, 1924.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris, Sidney Street, have returned home from Norwood where they visited the latter's sister, Mrs. Dickens.

Mrs. Margaret Young has returned home from Kingston where she visited her sister, Mrs. Lelacy, Col. W. S. Ponton and Mr. John Elliott will represent the Belleville Chamber of Commerce at the coming congress of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire which will be held in London, England, in June.

The large new frame dwelling on Donald Street, College Hill, owned by Mrs. Charles Rose, was totally destroyed by fire shortly after four o'clock this morning. The house was occupied by Mr. Fred Cory. Most of the furniture on the ground floor was saved, but considerable clothing and other articles on the upper floor were destroyed.

Mr. J. O. Herlly will address the Oddfellows in Markham this evening and tomorrow evening he will speak to the Oddfellows in Oshawa.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 24, 1914.

Mr. Fred Foster of Chicago, Ill., an old Belleville boy, is home on a visit.

Prof. Ernest Wheatley has been appointed to the Canadian Board of Examiners by the Council and Chaplain of the Incorporated Guild of Church Musicians.

Mr. W. E. Burke, an old Belleville boy, has been appointed assistant to Mr. Geo. Florence, the managing director of the Canadian Steamship Lines, Montreal.

At last it has been decided that Front street east from the Bridge Street will be paved with asphaltic concrete this coming summer.

50 YEARS AGO

MARCH 24, 1904.

There was a fair attendance at the market today; eggs sold at twenty cents per dozen.

The Dafoe roughcast terrace, a very old and unoccupied building situated on Great Dalhousie Street, collapsed last night and the greater part of the seven dwellings fell to the ground and filled the street with debris. Mr. E. Button lives in a house adjoining the property and some damage was done to his place by the falling building. It is thought that a large accumulation of wet snow on the roof caused the building to give way.

Mr. W. C. Anderson, Charles Street, left today for Hartford, Conn.

Profiteering, Marxist Style

(New York Times)

Among the various reasons for the Soviet Union's keen interest in trade with the West one must be that it is an extremely profitable enterprise for the Soviet government. We read that Moscow has just received from Israel the first of a 20,000-case shipment of oranges, a rare luxury for Russians, and these are being sold on the market at an average price of twenty rubles at the official rate. The oranges cost only 2½ cents each, but since all trade is controlled and goods are sold at any price the state wishes to ask, the Government is able to make a profit of about $45,000,000 on this transaction alone. It further produce is imported and sold in sufficient quantity it is easy to see that commerce could augment the state revenues to an extent the capitalist system would not dare contemplate.

It is evident, moreover, that oranges are not for the proletariat in the proletarian dictatorship. An ordinary worker in Russia could not possibly afford them at the Government-fixed prices. Oranges are not to be better-paid bureaucrats, the privileged class the state needs money to support. If these imports were for the people, the Government could make a fair profit by distributing them at prices the proletariat could afford to pay. But not this is system that thinks so little of the people that it has no scruples about exploiting them for its own gain.

Few Men Buy Fur Coats

(Ottawa Journal)

A curious bit of social history is reflected in the report from the Canadian Bureau of Statistics that only 322 men's fur coats were made in this country in 1952, a drop of 400 from 1951.

This is a sad decline from the brave days early in this century when the ambition of every right thinking Canadian man was to own a massive and shaggy fur coat, preferably mounted out with a fur hat and fur gauntlets. On a cold day such outfits were everywhere to be seen, and they were one of Canada's most impressive spectacles. The story is told of one newly-arrived English immigrant who watched a procession of the leading citizens of Montreal go by enveloped in furs from ankles to ears, and inquired in awe:

"Blimmey, do all Canadians grow fur like that?"

The gradual disappearance of the fur-bearing Canadian male is probably not so much the result of change in fashion as of altered living condition. In the old days winter meant a long walk or a slow, cold drive in a sleigh or buggy, a heavy fur coat was almost a necessity. Today, the automobile and the bus have largely removed the need for such massive protection against the weather. Before long, we suppose, only women's patronage will be left to sustain Canada's oldest industry.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

It appears that there is a rumour current that the county of Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School will eventually, if not become entirely separately a Vocational School.

While it is impossible to predict with certainty what will happen in the distant future it can be stated that the present Board has no intention of either directing policy toward this end or of advancing such a situation to develop. There will always be a large enough group of students from the East Hill wishing to take academic courses to justify the maintenance of such courses in the present school.

Under the present system of an appointed Board there is a large measure of continuity of membership assured. Continuity of policy is a normal result and I see no reason why there should be concern over the status of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

Chairman,

Why Policeman Acts 'Tough'

(Milwaukee Sunday Journal)

"The place where your accident is going to happen is the place the other spot you have passed in safety a thousand times."

That is the warning sentence for every driver to read — he won't like it, but he should. It is an article, "Why I'm a Tough Cop," by a Connecticut state patrolman in "This Week" magazine. "My job," he says, "is a sickening circle of investigating the wreckage and know that the easier I let you off, the easier you die."

Happiness Unexpected

(Montreal Gazette).

When Philip Gilbert Hamerton wrote his book on "The Quest of Happiness," he gave an interesting testimony from "an old gentleman."

What this old gentleman had to say about happiness is very true "My experience," he said, "has been that I never was disappointed in getting the special kind of happiness I had set my hopeful for, but that other kinds of happiness which I had not wanted or hoped for would suddenly be, in the course of life, most lavishly and abundantly."

He had ended by discovering, though it took him a long time to make the discovery, that the right of way to enjoy the happiness within his reach was to try to form an ideal of his own and be disappointed when it was not realized for it never was. The right way was to accept the opportunities for enjoying the happiness offered by life itself from year to year and from day to day. Since he had begun to adopt this attitude, he had really enjoyed a great deal of happiness and had often been over the status of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School.

THE PACKSACK

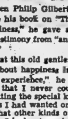
By GREGORY CLARK

One of my friends is constantly getting himself into hot water because he doesn't understand the rudiments of stalling people off. When an enthusiastic acquaintance calls him on the telephone with an exciting proposition requiring an answer yes or no, there he sits, the telephone at his ear, desperately trying to make the decision. He usually ends with a bright suggestion of his own.

"I'll have to do my own proposition with a bright suggestion of his own.

"I'll have to do my own proposition with a bright suggestion of his own.

"I'll have an engagement for that time, Bill, but I'll see if I can cancel it. I'll call you back in fifteen minutes."



This little device, the stall, should be far more widely used than it is. It gives you a few minutes to sit back and figure whether you want to go ahead with the suggestion or not. Even if you have no engagement, the stall allows time for reflection which you do not have when you are sitting with the telephone receiver to your ear. It also has a nice, flattering effect on the other person. It suggests to him that you are trying to show your best face in his favor. And when, after due reflection, you say to yourself: "What the hell do I want to waste time with that silly dope?" you can pick up the telephone and tell him earnestly that you have tried to arrange your schedule to suit your engagement but it is impossible, and this is a far more gracious turn-down than the one you arrive at, fumbling and floundering, with no stall, trying to your own first instance.

The smoothest executive I know, a man who never gets himself into jams of any kind, employs this technique on his wife when she calls him at the office. He listens to the message or the proposition, and then says: "I'll call you back in a couple of minutes." The telephone has its merits. But it has a sudden death aspect to it that should be avoided. A great many people know this, and they resent it. The stall is a gracious move is to say: "I'll call you back."

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

HARDENED EAR WAX

Dr. Brady

Baffled.
Frustrated.
Confounded and discomboulated.

That's what I was by my second patient when I began practice in the Four Corners in Iowa. I was over what was then "corner's hut" is now, I believe, Boyd's clothing store, in the bleak winter my second patient was my first paying patient and he saved my life — not because he paid me actual cash but because he brought me, when I was almost ready to give up and run away, a treasure chest in terms of encouragement and good cheer.

His name was Bill and he was a grocery clerk. His sole complaint was hard, dry cough, dry cough, elephant cough, as he described it Bill was a slender lad a few years younger than myself and I thought first of tuberculosis and I went after Billy's chest with great care half a dozen times without finding a thing abnormal.

Bill had not only an appealing personality but a high I.Q. It made no difference whether I gave him medicine or dismissed him without any—and he knew that at the appointed time for further study. But I needed the money and so I soaked him 50c repeatedly—I must have taken $3 or $4 from him. Then one day Bill fixed me with that the dickens made him cough.

Then one Monday morning Bill came in without an appointment. I had not yet ceased things around the office to look as though I had just acquired a leg on delivery twins. So I couldn't grumble about his interrupting me. And I noticed Bill was brief. He must have gotten some water in his ear in his Saturday night bath. Now had a big rumble.

I had a look in the ear. Canal plugged with hardened wax. By irrigating with comfortably warm solution of teaspoonful of baking soda in quart of water from a fountain syringe with douche at the level of the ear, through a straight nozzle directed at but not inserted in the ear canal while I drew the ear forward and backward to straighten the canal, I softened and washed out most of the wax; and repetition of this next day cleared it up. The elephant cough, the head noise and Bill promptly disappeared.

The Samuel Steinberg of Philadelphia makes me feel even worse when he tells the editor of the Jour. A.M.A. that numerous patients, before they see go again; I served sixteen years at hard, honest general practice and never, no, never was my waiting room crowded. Crowded? I could count on my digits the occasions when more than one awaited his or her turn. Sometimes a patient complained of reduced or absent hearing, vertigo, tinnitus (head noises), headache or otalgia (ear ache). Examination of these patients shows nothing abnormal with the exception of impacted cerumen (hardened wax), i.e. wax in outer ear canal.

Here I plead in extenuation that my patient had none of the symptoms Dr. Steinberg mentions, to which I add, "or pain in mastoid bone."

Dr. Steinberg says that the attempt to remove the hardened ear wax by irrigation and allied manipulation may prove difficult, painful and fruitless. He suggests a simple method to soften and loosen the ear wax with a minimum of discomfort to the patient.

The doctor introduces into the ear canal, incidentally saving three syllables, a weak solution of a commercial detergent (Joy, Dreft, or the like) and allows it to remain overnight. Next morning the wax is very soft and readily removed by gentle irrigation with comfortably warm water.

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

CURE OF NOSTRUM

Most trouble in the world arises from the fact that world leaders are trying to correct effects instead of causes.

Most politicians are doing this. They find some unsatisfactory situation or some problem arises to evil, and they daub it with salve which will take out the pain for the time being and quite the wound heal until after election day. Doctors often treat effects and not causes, and the world continues to suffer. Journalists write columns and articles, authors write books and plays and dwell lotily on the theme of what is troubling the world. But their cure suggestions are frequently nauseous. They have a new "ism" to propose.

Ministers are often guilty of this mistake. They denounce sins, when what they should do is find a way is to cure sin; for sin is the inner corruption from which flow the sins which are called sins. Cure the soul, and cure the sin. Correct a wrong and the wrong may have untouched the cause of the wrong act.

The word "radical" means a person who gets down to the root and says Jesus was a radical. He proposed not just to correct evils but to cure the conditions which were causing evils. He believed in treating causes instead of results, and stopping evil at its source. And above all, he wanted to cure the soul, not just doctor it up for a while.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CONTINUITY

Rivers have always fascinated me. Their origin is perhaps no more than a bubbling spring, and then a small brook with hardly a great river, flowing into the arms of the waiting ocean. A perfect example of continuity, for the process is repeated over and over again, with rains, snows, springs and little aid by thoughtful and industrious men.

The river examples this brief worship that ours, as well. I have not room to quote that beautiful poem, "The River," written by the late William Wordsworth, but I am sure it has been treasured by many, as it has been by me. He contributed it in one of his newspaper columns "In the News," February 25, 1941. I will quote but a few lines:

And so at last

When our life has passed
And the river has run its course,
It again goes back
To the fountain whence it rose.
To the mountain which was its beginning.

Continuity spreads its seeds of immortality all through nature and all life. There is a divine purpose running through all creation, be it bird, animal, insect or flower. It cannot be that God would snuff it all out after one brief existence. Everything is refined and purified that flows through the veins of life. In God's story it's all written down and the record never obliterated.

If there was not continuity to the universe, we would know the exact age of the stars, but no one has ever been wise enough even to risk a guess!

Moscow-Tutored Chief Gambling On One Big Costly Battle To Discredit Premier J. Laniel

By JOHN RODERICK

More and more this is the view here of Viet Namese and foreign observers familiar with the fuzzy old revolutionary's tactics.

Ho, these observers say, hopes to precipitate a crisis in the French cabinet by assailing French Union forces at Dien Bien Phu in northwest Indo-China.

This giant politico-military stroke has a two-fold purpose:

To overthrow the Laniel government, which is lukewarm toward peace negotiations with the Vietminh;

To open the field to a peace cabinet, one which could be headed by Pierre Mendes-France, for example, whose views on a swift negotiated end to the war are known.

PLACES GENEVA SECOND

This theory, supported by many sources here, places the Geneva peace conference opening April 26 in second position as a cause of the Dien Bien Phu offensive.

Laniel made it plain last week he has no real desire to meet Ho around the conference table.

The conditions he posed for such a meeting, withdrawal of Ho's troops from the delta areas around Saigon and Hanoi and disbanding of the Vietminh politically and militarily, obviously were not tailored to be accepted by a foe as tenacious and determined as Ho.

Ho, in an effort to soften up French public opinion, reiterates that his eight-year-long quarrel is not with the French people and that a basis for settling France-Vietminh differences exists. The war is continuing, his propagandists say, because the United States will not let France pull out her troops.

It can be taken for granted also that Ho, in going the limit at Dien Bien Phu, has his eyes on the present talks in Paris between the Viet Nam government of Prince Buu Loc and France. Buu Loc is insisting that Viet Nam obtain full independence, then be allowed to decide whether to join the French Union, a federation of France's overseas possessions.

FRENCH STAND STIFFEN'S

There seems almost no question that Viet Nam would join the union in a watered-down form. The effect, however, of the Dien Bien Phu crisis has been to stiffen France's attitude on this question.

"What!" Frenchmen are asking, "give up Viet Nam while we are losing French blood at Dien Bien Phu!"

France's stand on this point suits Ho and his followers fine. If there is one thing they fear more than anything else it is that former emperor Bao Dai, now Viet Nam's chief of state, can claim the credit for winning independence from France.

That would steal the thunder from Ho who has been acknowledged, rightly or wrongly, for years as leader of the independence movement in the eyes of so many Indo-Chinese.

Emergency Plan Provides 1,100 More Teachers

TORONTO (CP)—An extra 1,100 elementary school teachers have been produced by the education department's new "emergency plan" devised to combat the teacher shortage, Education Minister Dunlop said Tuesday night.

Speaking during consideration of his department's estimates in the legislature, Mr. Dunlop said that under the plan a grade 12 graduate takes six weeks' intensive summer training, teaches a year, takes another six-weeks course, teaches a second year, then attends a teachers' college for 12 months.

"A great majority of these young teachers are doing really well. There are very few failures among them."

Dr. Dunlop said education planning is being governed by the huge increase in school population. There were $15,000 elementary and secondary school students in the province—$8,000 more than last year. Sixty thousand more were expected next year which meant 1,500 extra rooms would be needed.

Canada Protests Water Diversion Into L. Michigan

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Tuesday he hopes to head Canada's delegation to the Geneva peace conference on the Korean war.

He told the Commons no instructions have been drafted for the guidance of the delegation, but he said the position of the delegation may be clarified for the House in an external affairs debate Thursday.

The conference opens April 26.

Pearson to Head Geneva Delegation

OTTAW A(CP)—Canada has sent a second note to the United States protesting legislation before congress for diversion of additional water from Lake Michigan into the Chicago waterway.

The congressional legislation, passed by the House of Representatives but not yet by the Senate, would send an additional 1,000 cubic feet of water a second into the waterway, a navigable channel that also carries Chicago's waste into the Mississippi river system.

An earlier note was sent from here March 1, urging that the matter be dealt with by the International Joint Commission.

The Canadian government contends the diversion could have an adverse effect on the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway and on the hydro power potential at Niagara Falls and in the St. Lawrence river.

"The effect will be particularly marked in periods of low stage," it said, "and recent lowering of lake levels indicates that a cycle of low levels may be experienced in the near future . . . If the supply of water is reduced during a cycle of low levels, very serious injury to navigation in boundary waters will undoubtedly result."

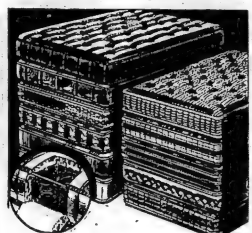
Protest Ontario Ban On Insecticide's Use

TORONTO (CP) — The Association of Vaporizer Manufacturers has protested to Health Minister Phillips about a provincial ban on the use of lindane insecticide for fly-killing in restaurants.

An association official said the protest had been put in a letter to Dr. Phillips. The official said the association had been assured by deputy health minister Dr. J. T. Pahl of an interview with the minister before the ban was announced.

Government officials said, in announcing the ban last week, thousands of the vaporizers in restaurants would have to be scrapped because lindane, a poison, condensed on restaurant walls and dropped in food.

Not Considering Five-Day Week For Police



TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Porter said Tuesday night the government is not considering the five-day week for provincial police.

He was replying to a question put by opposition leader Farquhar Oliver during consideration of his department's estimates in the legislature.

"I can't see any dissatisfaction in the force. They get an extra week's holiday with pay. . . There are a great many advantages in belonging to the provincial police. The work is not as intensive as in the city. . ."

The attorney-general said there were 121 resignations in the force during the last year.

University Women's Club Panel Discusses Classes of Comics

The University Women's Club met on Thursday evening, at the Quinte Skating Club for the March meeting. Special guests welcomed were members of the Kingston U.W.C., Mrs. W. W. Scott, president; Mrs. E. Axford; Mrs. C. M. A. Beaumont; Mrs. J. Edmison; Mrs. H. A. Elliott; Mrs. R. H. Hay; Mrs. R. B. Hartman; Mrs. H. Hunter; Mrs. L. Skelton; Mrs. R. C. Spooner, and Miss C. Millabell.

Mrs. P. T. Selbert, vice-president, conducted the business meeting. The sum of $25 was voted as a donation to the Society for the Rehabilitation of Prisoners, formerly called the John Howard Society.

Mrs. P. T. Selbert was appointed to act as representatives to the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

Mrs. W. F. Baldwin was appointed convener of the tableplanning for the coming Red Cross Blood Donors' Clinic. The members who volunteered to assist with this work were: Mrs. R. Collins, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, Mrs. J. E. Kuntze, Mrs. L. Mansfield, and Mrs. J. F. Pugh.

A notice from Miss J. Tickell, member of the School Board, asked that any former teachers, willing to do supply work, contact Mr. G. E. Currie, principal of B.C.I.V.S.

A telegram from Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, president, conveyed her greetings to the guests and members, and her regret at her absence from this special meeting.

PANEL INTRODUCED

Mrs. H. E. Jones, vice-president of the Kingston Club, and the organizer of the trip to Belleville, introduced the panel of three ladies, Mrs. R. C. Spooner, chairman; Mrs. A. Edmison and Mrs. H. A. Elliott, to give their reports on "Comics." "For two years," she said, "these talented ladies, all mothers, and, therefore, deeply interested in the subject have been delving into the comics displayed on our news stands into their influence on their children and ours." Mrs. Spooner is a graduate of the University of London, England, a historian, a librarian and a teacher.

Mrs. Edmison, graduate of McGill, where she obtained her well-known here, is active in many civic enterprises in Kingston. Mrs. H. A. Elliott, a graduate of Queen's University, lived for 15 years in West China where her husband was professor of a university.

COMICS—3 CLASSES

For study purposes, these ladies had divided the comics into three classes, (a) the familiar or ordinary ones, (b) the love comics and (c) the passion comics of which many samples of all three classes were shown.

Mrs. Spooner, the first speaker, stated that they would begin with the familiar comics and progress to the shocking ones. Showing samples of "Walt Disney," "Little Lulu," "Tootsi," "Space Cadet," she reported "the worst that can be said of these is that the coloring is crude, with four colors used over and over again, and the drawing worse; the sentence structure is poor with the use of incorrect English common." She objected to the fact that all these comics are American outputs with American backgrounds to the stories.

She also stated that, though they may provide some escape fantasy for the young, these comics serve no real useful purpose. "Lassie," the story of a dog, was the only one of the familiar comics mentioned with some degree of approval, yet none of this class met with extreme disapproval.

Mrs. Edmison continued with the results of her investigation into love comics. The stories, she reported, are all the same, like the old melodramas, the villain, hero, girl, mortgage on the house or some such, all ridiculous and stupid. She herself, found them difficult to read, but girls, when asked, replied, "Oh, we don't read the printed part we just look at the pictures, and read the little balloon inserts." All they get out of it, she said, is rotten filth, and a lot of mistaken ideas to fill their minds. She objected strongly to the emphasis on teen-agers in the stories, the young public to whom this trash is directed. Though not actually immoral, these comics are definitely junk, not worthy of any child's attention.

Spot-checking among her friends, she said she found parents divided between those who didn't care, and those who banned these comics. She said it depended a lot on how much the parents had seen of these love comics.

PASSION COMICS

Mrs. H. A. Elliott carried on with "Passion Comics." For these comics, full of knifings, murders, racial intolerance, Mrs. Elliott said she had nothing but harsh blame as positive extreme-ly bad influences on their readers. "The seduction of the innocent" she said, "is precisely what happens to readers of these comics. The heroes are always tall, handsome and brainless, the women nothing but curves, barely covered the villains are always ugly, lustful and unhealthy. The villain never meets death at the hands of a law-abiding society, but at the hands of some avenging god. The police never enter into their scheme of things. These comics are completely sadistic and truly shocking. Their appeal is to the subnormal section of our society who are on the verge of becoming delinquent, to those whom the law is trying to keep from becoming criminals, and their influence on these people can only be to make them worse."

At the conclusion of these reports, an animated discussion broke out among the members, which in a deep urge to be able to control the spread of disease in Canada. The panel was most gracious in answering all questions.

It was felt by the panel that banning fines did little good in stopping the influx of comics into the country, but that Mrs. John Public controls what is sold in the stores by her public expression of opinion and some crusading on the matter, she help to control what appears on her newsstands.

It was also advised that children be provided with good substitutes for these comics, such as "Jack and Jill," "The Children's Digest," and for teen-agers, "Seventeen," "Mademoiselle," also that children should be guided from an early age, in public library, where interesting, colorful and good books abound for all from the age of four years. It was felt that if the children were faithfully encouraged in this direction their reading would tend along the better lines, and they would have no time or inclination for the trashy comics.

Mrs. A. E. May, program convener, expressed the hearty appreciation of the Belleville Club to the Kingston ladies for the courtesy of their visit, and to the three ladies on the panel for sharing the results of their research into the subject.

A social hour followed with refreshments served by Mrs. J. Haig, and her assistants, Mrs. Grout, Mrs. J. H. Bateman, Mrs. R. Finlayson Miss K. Daly and Miss R. Sylvester.

V.O.N. Gives March Report

The March meeting of the local branch of the V.O.N. was held in the Kiwanis Centre, that the members might have the opportunity of visiting the newly decorated offices of the nurses.

The president, Mrs. W. E. Bulger, was in the chair, and the monthly reports were received.

VISITS MADE

Forty-three of the patients cared for were mothers and babies. Thirty-nine were medical and surgical and nine were infants for health instruction.

Seventy per cent of the visits in February were for nursing care. The remaining 30 per cent were for health instruction.

It was noted that an increasing number of medical and surgical patients are being admitted to the V.O.N. service for nursing care.

Approximately 51 hours were spent in special activities.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

ABOUT - TO - BE - CITIZENS TO CELEBRATE FIRST ANNIVERSARY WITH A PARTY IN THEIR CHURCH HALL

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

My husband and I are to celebrate our Silver Wedding Anniversary soon. We plan to give a party in our Church Hall, at 8:15 in the evening, albeit of our friends. Then we'll step in the church, and I'm organist there. We want everything to be correctly planned. (You see we are English, have been in this country five years, we love this country and its people, and we're becoming citizens in a very few weeks!)

1. Will you please suggest a nice, suitable menu for about 100 guests? I had thought of serving ham sandwiches, cake and ice cream. Also, of course, soft drinks. Any suggestions about this, Mrs. Beecham?

2. When should the refreshments be served?

3. How should I arrange a program? I am inviting two or three very delightful singers.

4. What would you propose I wear? And would it be correct for my husband to wear his tuxedo?

A.S.

A very charming plan you have in mind for this so-significant occasion. A happy celebration of your Wedding Anniversary, and a happy Party, I'm sure, for your becoming citizens of our wonderful country!

1. Here are some suggestions. (a) Hot ham sandwiches, please. . . hearty, too, plenty-like for such an occasion. Instead you should serve small, thin sandwiches, crusts cut away, some delicate cheese and watercress, thinly-sliced chicken, perhaps cream cheese with chopped olives, thinly-sliced Swiss cheese or other cheese; chicken paste sandwiches or other sandwich spreads. It's a good idea to use various kinds of bread for the sandwiches: white, whole wheat, rye, pumpernickel, raisin bread, brown bread. Guests always welcome a choice in sandwiches. Some of the sandwiches may be round (for example, the popular brown-bread-and-cream-cheese sandwiches), others may be square, some oblong, others triangular. And they may be made the day before, wrapped tightly in wax paper, and kept in the refrigerator until just before the party-time. (b) It's always a good idea to have food-servers for the nibbling' . . . heated potato 'chips, popcorn, assorted nuts, mints, or any of those delicious packaged items. (c) In addition to the Anniversary Cake, serve some interesting cookies. The ice cream, you; and the soft drinks, yes. And there should be a hot drink—coffee and or tea.

2. About 8 o'clock might be a good time.

3. Have you and your husband (you at your husband's right) should stand to receive all your guests. Then there might be the music I'd you have arranged with your friends to sing!) then the serving of the refreshments; and at last, the gala and romantic climax, when you, the "bride," and your husband, the "bride-groom," cut the Anniversary Cake, sharing the first slice, as renewed symbol of your forever-sharing." (And I hope the guests sing "The Bride Cuts the Cake," which is sung to the tune of "The Farmer in the Dell.")

4. Appropriate for you to wear, I should think, would be a simple dinner dress, not a long dress. It becoming, perhaps a narrow, radiant bandeau on your hair, or a few small flowers, artificial or real. And yes, correct for your husband to wear his tuxedo. And a Happy Anniversary to you both!

UNCERTAIN ABOUT GOD-DAUGHTER'S REQUEST

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

I have been invited to attend the informal wedding of my goddaughter. Since receiving her invitation she has contacted me and my husband, and in a "must" is this particular case. Please tell me whether it would be considered wrong for me to tell the bride-to-be that I believe it would be incorrect for me to dress as I had expected. —M. W.

Your goddaughter pays you very special and loving tribute. . . but still I can understand your hesitancy. However, since it is the bride's mother who is the hostess of the wedding, and the bride who, with the bride, makes the decision, it is most important that you talk over with the bride's mother the type of gown the bride has asked you to wear. . . or, perhaps easier, ask your goddaughter to talk over with her mother and "report" to you her mother's decision. I'm sure that the bride's mother wishes only to have the bridal attendants and guests appropriately dressed, so your dress might be of some formality, but of the so-called "cocktail dress length."

PERFUME—A NECESSARY LUXURY

There is something about perfume that puts a woman on her toes. It makes life more interesting because it has such a luxurious appeal. When you feel sunk, fancy your illusions are vanishing or that perhaps, after all, the world is not such a good place for a woman, really don't wind flower yourself to a little crystal vial filled with fragrance. And use it, every day! Don't conserve it.

When selecting perfume do...not forget that what you buy you will have to live with, so it should have good wearing qualities.

Apply a few drops to your wrist. Wait a few moments until the warm flesh has caused the alcoholic content to evaporate, and only the flower scents remain. That is the test of its true fragrance. Purchase a small purse-size bottle so you can try it out. If you find it pleasantly appealing purchase a larger vial and stick to that one scent. Your entire wardrobe will become impregnated with it and you will walk in a delicious aura as if you were in an old-fashioned garden.

You should have a toilet water of the same fragrance. It is a real extravagant when spraying it from an atomizer, misting it over your neck, arms and shoulders after your bath. Everything will find sachets, too, that belong to the same perfume family. Tuck these little pads in handkerchief and glove boxes, in the pockets of your coats, among piles of undies. They are wonderful boys and, each year, seem to have better lasting qualities.

There are delicate scents for the ingenue type. There are exotic blends for the sophisticate and those who is always one leap ahead in this parade. There are woodsy perfumes for the outdoor girl. There are all dolled up for gala occasions, perfume is the final, important touch. Apply a few drops to the crook of your ears, on the backs of your hands, on the hem of your slip.

When you are building your home or remodelling, avoid, if possible, bathroom windows over the bathtub, as drafts may be felt from the window when you bathe.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IS THERE A DRINKING PROBLEM IN YOUR FAMILY?

One of the things that helps most when we are in some special kind of trouble is to realize that other people have had the very same experience.

Too often, when we are unhappy and depressed, we are apt to think no one has ever felt as we feel; no one has ever been through just what we are going through. But once we realize there is no unique problem in the world, and that at the very moment we feel most alone in ours, there are those who are struggling with exactly the same thing, the loneliness does lift a bit.

Most helpful of all is the realization that the problem we seem unable to solve has, in many cases, actually been solved by others. This says to us with hope.

There is, perhaps, no problem which brings greater despair to those who must meet it than that of the alcoholic husband, or wife, son or daughter, brother or sister. For there is practically no family which belongs a home and family quicker to ruin.

Yet even this problem, which often seems utterly hopeless to those who struggle with it, is, in fact, not insoluble. Every year sees a growing number of those who have suffered from it and recovered, as research into the causes and cure of alcoholism is carried on more intensively, and as people in general become more informed on the subject, and so better able to deal with it, whether for themselves or for others.

In the meantime, for those who must struggle with this curse in their own families, for dreadful loneliness which once was so torturing can now be helped. For through the efforts of the organization known as Alcoholics Anonymous, and through the work of the National Committee on Alcoholism, dedicated wives of drunken husbands, and grief-stricken mothers and fathers of alcoholic sons or daughters, can get together with others like them to find comfort and companionship in a common trouble, and to learn how best to cope with the situation by exchanging experiences with others, they not only feel supported and reassured by the knowledge that they are not alone, but they discover how those others have dealt with the problem, thus growing wiser in ways in which they might soon apply to problems their own.

Two pieces of reading matter which should be invaluable to families seeking practical ways and means of helping an alcoholic relative, as well as help for themselves in bearing this dreadful burden have just come to my desk. One of them is a booklet in which a prominent business executive tells how, through drink, he finally lost his wife, his job, his health and his self-respect, and how, in the end, he was all of them back by conquering he craving for alcohol. This booklet, titled "I Was a Very Sick Man," may be purchased for 50 cents from the National Committee on Alcoholism, at 2 East 103rd Street, New York 29, N.Y.

The other piece is a three-part article which appeared in a fine magazine called Guideposts.

The first part of the article tells the story of a remarkable woman named Marty Mann, once a down-and-out alcoholic and now Executive Director of the National Committee on Alcoholism. In the second part, Mary Mann herself describes how she brought the National Committee into being and what its purposes are, and in the third part, Mrs. Mann answers questions that have been asked her about how a person can tell whether or not he or someone else is a true alcoholic, how alcoholics can be helped and how this help can be obtained.

I have on hand reprints of this three-part article, and will be very glad to mail one to anyone who requests it and sends me a self-addressed stamped envelope.

If one may condense the message of all these articles into a single word, that word would be Hope. For if the right factors are put together—the desire of the alcoholic to be cured; the understanding, patience and love and support of those who loved the alcoholic, and the help now available for alcoholics and their families—the case of alcoholism can ever be said to be hopeless.

Slices of pineapple wouldn't do. Fresh pineapple wouldn't do. Those we had. But no, she had to have crushed pineapple for what Dorothy wanted to make. So, in spite of having just bought $18.41 worth of groceries we had to tear out and buy a can of crushed pineapple for Dorothy was in a dessert-making mood.

You see, Dorothy is one of my cooking buddies, and was visiting us for the week-end, and when she takes over in the kitchen she is exacting about the supplies she requires.

She prepared Saturday night's supper. I sat down with my hands folded in my lap and just talked sort of ladylike on the never-tiring topic of our kids while she cooked for them.

CLAM CHOWDER

Cook 3 thick slices of back bacon, finely chopped, in large frying pan. Add 1-16 teaspoon garlic powder, and 1 No. 2 can of clams—whole or minced, (She used whole clams and cut them up coarsely.) Let this come to boiling then add 1 can of condensed clam chowder, 1-4 cup evaporated milk and 2 cups whole milk. Bring to boiling. (If you like celery, per pal Marianne to polish the silver soup tureen to give this dish the elegant service it deserves.) This makes a rich chowder, and while a cookery expert should not resort to cutting corners, using the can of clam chowder saved all the trouble of paring, chopping and cooking raw onions and potatoes it was popular and served five generously.

Yugoslavian Woman Only One In Canada Who Studies Rocks

TORONTO (CP)—A Yugoslavian woman who fled with her husband and child from their homeland is busy with rock studies that will help engineers plan the St. Lawrence power project.

Dr. Ludmila Dolar - Mantuani works in the research department of the Ontario hydro commission.

She is the only woman in Canada, and one of three in North America, with a degree in petrology, the study of rock formations. A graduate of civil engineering and doctor of philosophy, she has had offers of work in Argentina and in the United States but has chosen Canada.

Her days are spent tapping and examining rocks to decide whether they will be suitable bases for dams, generator stations and various other works in connection with the hydro project.

BECAME TEACHER

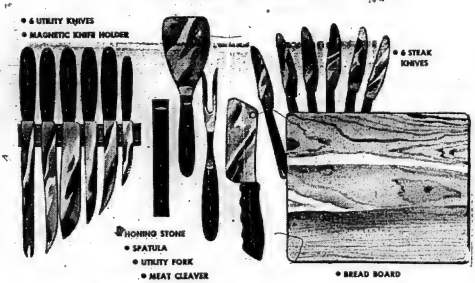
Her interest in rocks started in the Alps at Ljubljana, northern Yugoslavia, where she climbed the slopes at the age of seven. When she reached university age, she was the only one in her group to enter geological classes.

As the daughter of a professor of Latin and Greek at the University of Ljubljana, it was natural for her to move into the teaching profession. She combined teaching with research work in mines and civil engineering.

During the German occupation of Yugoslavia, she and her husband, also a doctor of philosophy, decided to make a bid for freedom with their son, then three years old. Lying in the back of a truck, they crossed the border into Trieste, then made their way to Canada with the help of the Committee for the Placement of Intellectual Refugees financed by the Lady Davis Foundation of Montreal.

Regarding their decision to make their new home in Canada, she said in an interview:



"This is the place we want to educate our son, Mark, who now is 12. The Canadian educational system is good because it does so much for the spirit of the child. Instruction in knowledge is possibly better under the old European system but here the spirit is better."

Alberta Will Double Penalty In Drunk Driving

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alberta plans to double the penalties for drunken and impaired driving.

Amendments to the Vehicles and Highway Traffic Act were given first reading Tuesday. They double to 12 months the automatic suspension of a driver's licence for drunk driving, and increase to six months the licence suspension for driving with ability impaired.

The bill also provides for a mandatory 30- to 90-day jail term for operating a vehicle while one's licence is suspended, or for knowingly driving a vehicle while its registration is suspended.

INCREASED BENEFITS

In British Columbia, increased pension and compensation benefits are provided for workers under proposed amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act.

In Saskatchewan, the legislature unanimously approved a resolution asking that a comprehensive crop-insurance scheme be set up.

Tough Ex-Miner Seen as Strong Kremlin Leader

LONDON (Reuters) — A tough ex-miner from the Ukraine, Nikita S. Khrushchev, is progressively emerging as the Kremlin's strong man.

As Communist party chief he is officially No. 3 man behind Premier Malenkov and Foreign Minister Molotov. But western observers have not forgotten that Stalin ruled Russia for 13 years in the job Khrushchev now holds before he became premier as well.

Thus, by precedent, the premier is not necessarily the strongest man in the Kremlin. Each day, Khrushchev's voice is becoming stronger as the top Kremlin power —at least on the home front.

Two days ago, the Communist party newspaper Pravda devoted four pages to his stinging rebuke of the ministers trying to boost food production.

The publicity given by press and radio to the statement revealed that accorded to Malenkov's major policy declarations on home and foreign affairs.

RELIEF PROMISED

For Arthritic and Rheumatic Pain

Toronto, Ont. (Special)— Discovery of an entirely new method of relieving pain has been announced here. Science has now developed a cream that acts in a new way to bring relief from arthritis, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains. Sold under the brand name "InfraRUB", this new odourless and greaseless cream relieves these pains without the need of pills and other internal medicines.

InfraRUB does not merely set up a surface irritation but penetrates deep down into sore muscles and joints. This permits fresh oxygen-rich blood to flow freely through afflicted areas and actually helps drive away the pain-causing congestion and pressure.

Another feature of InfraRUB that appeals to so many people is its ease of application. No long and painful rubbing is necessary as InfraRUB penetrates in a few seconds and vanishes with a moment's light massage.

InfraRUB leaves no oily film or greasy objectionable odour on the skin. Users find they are able to put on clothing in complete safety immediately after application.

Written medical reports on the success of this new help for patients suffering from rheumatic and arthritic pains and general muscular aches and pains have been prepared, based on hundreds of cases in British and French hospitals. InfraRUB users claim almost immediate relief from rheumatic and arthritic pains, sore muscles and joints.

Now for the first time, InfraRUB can be obtained without a prescription from your local drug store for only $1.95. InfraRUB is guaranteed to give hours and hours of comforting relief from arthritis, rheumatic and muscular aches and pains or your money will be refunded in full.

LONDON SUBWAY — London's "tube," the another 60 miles. Shown here is the brightly-91-year-old grand-daddy of the world's subway systems, still is growing. Since the Second World War 35 miles have been added to the world's largest subway system and plans call for adding lighted lower concourse at Gants Hill station which leads to train platforms from escalators capable of handling up to 10,000 persons an hour. (CP Photo).

Granddaddy of All Subway Systems, in London, Still Grows

Canada's first subway opens in Toronto March 30. Here's a story about the world's oldest and largest underground system.

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — London's "tube," the 91-year-old "granddaddy" of the world's subway systems, is still growing.

The bright red trains now roar along 286 miles of track, largely underground, to service a city and suburban area of 2,000 square miles—only a little smaller than Prince Edward Island.

Since the Second World War, 35 miles have been added to the world's largest subway system and plans call for another 60 miles at an estimated cost of £114,000,000.

IMPROVEMENT SLOGAN

But directors of the government-owned London Transport executive are more concerned with improving rather than extending a service used by almost 600,000,000 passengers annually. Canadian visitors wonder how it can be done when the present system, which served as a model for those in Glasgow, Moscow, Stockholm, Copenhagen and Istanbul, whisks them to any part of the city in a matter of minutes—and in comfort too.

Here's how it works:

The tube traveller enters one of 277 stations scattered throughout the metropolitan area and purchases his ticket from a vending machine, which automatically provides change, or from one of several wickets. Line-ups at the ticket windows rarely run to more than four or five persons except at teeming centres such as Piccadilly.

High-speed escalators and elevators take passengers to platforms at many stations. The escalators run at about 150 feet a minute and can handle 10,000 persons an hour. The longest escalator, at Leicester Square, drops 80 feet, while the Hampstead station elevator falls 182 feet below street level.

On the platform, the passenger probably waits three or four minutes. If he's travelling at a busy hour and from a main down-town station, the chances are he'll catch a train in less than 90 seconds.

SIX-COACH TRAINS

Most trains comprise six coaches, each seating 40 to 48 passengers. The latest have fluorescent lighting, wide windows and scarlet upholstery, patterned with the familiar LT bar-and-circle symbol. Smoking is permitted in some coaches.

All doors are air-operated and automatic. In wet weather they can be switched over to manual, push-button control so that only a few need be opened at suburban surface stations.

Trains on all six main lines and the numerous branches run at an average speed of 20 miles an hour and reach that rate in 17 seconds from a standing start.

Most passengers make one or more changes during a single trip —statistics show the average journey is 5½ miles long and takes 19 minutes—but the single ticket taken them all the way and is not surrendered until the last station. Switches from one line to another can be made at 18 interchange stations in central London.

Part of the continuing improvement program is taken up with repairing and renovating old stations. Some opened in 1863, when the world's first subway was burrowed four miles from Paddington to Farringdon street, are still in use.

STATION DESIGN

All stations are of the same functional design, although no two are exactly alike. In outer London they are either of multi-colored or tan brick and within the central area the walls are of polished granite to shoulder height and portland stone above.

Temperatures are kept at an average of 73 degrees year round and the air is changed every 15 minutes. Some 2,000,000 gallons of water are pumped out daily.

Transport officials say they are unable to supply separate figures on the cost of the underground. The entire transport system, including buses and trolley-coaches, costs £93,000,000 a year.

The biggest chunk, about 55 per cent, is spent on staff which totals 96,474, including 10,586 women. About one-quarter are employed on the underground.

Revenue figures also are unavailable but it is known that some 40 tons of coins are collected each day.

London Transport's proudest claim is its underground safety record. Only one in every 240,000 passengers ever suffers injury, although the system runs up an annual mileage of 213,000,000.

GETS FOUR YEARS

WELLAND (CP)—John Russell Hill, 17, of Fort Erie, was sentenced to four years in penitentiary for robbery with violence. John C. Ferguson, 56, of Bertie township said Hill came to his home last Feb. 4 presumably to watch television but instead robbed him of $83.91 and a set of binoculars.

Corporal Punishment Deterrent To Crime Says Warden Allan

OTTAWA (CP) — Corporal punishment was described today as "very definitely a deterrent" to crime among offenders in the 16-24 age group.

Warden R. M. Allan of Kingston, Ont., penitentiary said however the strap or paddle has a greater effect as a deterrent than the lash or cat-o'-nine-tails. He suggested the lash be done away with, but that the strap be retained.

The 64-year-old penitentiary official added that application of corporal punishment has varying effects on individual inmates.

He said that in his 41-year experience he has found no evidence that whipping leaves prisoners embittered towards society.

The strap or lash, he told the Commons Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries, leaves no physical marks on a man's body. He said he has never known an inmate to be incapacitated for work more than 24 hours after receiving corporal punishment. He knew of no case of permanent disability due to corporal punishment.

EXAMINATIONS MADE

Most inmates who get the corporal punishment returned to work the same day unless they ask for rest. They were submitted to a physical and mental examination the day corporal punishment is administered. Doctors could decide whether corporal punishment should be administered or not.

The penitentiary physician was in attendance during administration of corporal punishment and could stop it at any time.

The strap is administered for serious violations of prison regulations, such as assault on an officer, rioting, or wilful property damage. It is applied on bared buttocks. The leather strap is about 18 inches long by 2½ inches wide. It has a 10-inch long leather handle.

The cat-o'-nine-tails is applied only as part of a court sentence. It consists of a wooden rod of about 13 inches. At one end are attached nine strands of sash cord, about 18 inches long.

Leather thongs on the strands were abandoned some 20 years ago, he said.

13 KILLED IN RIOT

DACCA, East Pakistan (AP)—Thirteen persons were killed and 35 were injured in a riot at the Chandragona paper mills at Karnaphuli, about 230 miles from here, it was announced Tuesday. The announcement said it was believed the riot followed on exchange of hot words between the manager and a subordinate officer.

H-Bomb Explosion March 1, So Big it Was Out of Control, Showered U.S. Navy Tanker

By WILLIAM J. WAUGH

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — The United States' hydrogen explosion March 1 at Bikini atoll, described by one congressional observer as so tremendous that it was out of control, showered radio-active ash on a U.S. Navy tanker carrying 82 men.

The navy, in a cautious announcement Tuesday night, disclosed the new victim of the mighty blast but said "no apparent injury to crewmen exists."

The naval district here said the 4,300-ton tanker Patapsco received "a slight and not a dangerous contamination of radio-active fallout."

Twenty-three Japanese fishermen were also showered in a shower of nuclear ashes from the same blast. They said they were 80 miles away and outside the official hazard zone.

Representative Chet Holifield (Dem., Calif.) said Monday that the explosion "was so far beyond what was predicted that you might say it was out of control."

Its power has been estimated as between 600 and 700 times greater than that of the 1945 Hiroshima atomic bomb which killed 60,000 persons.

Confronted with the tremendous power of the latest thermonuclear devices, U.S. authorities have more than tripled the distance ships must keep between them and the flash point of any new Pacific tests. The radius is 450 miles from the new danger zone, an increase of more than 30 times in square miles. The old hazard zone was roughly 150 by 200 miles.

Pictures Taken Protested By Some Members

OTTAWA (CP) — News photographers seldom find anything picture-worthy at parliamentary committees.

Tuesday, however, two of them came upon warden R. M. Allan of Kingston penitentiary who showed the Commons-Senate committee on corporal punishment what a strap and a cat-o'-nine-tails look like.

They shot pictures of Mr. Allan holding the two whipping instruments, but there were rumblings of protests from committee members.

After the committee meeting was opened Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) said news photographs might place witnesses in an embarrassing situation. He suggested that the committee's steering committee should study the question of picture coverage in the future.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY

The public was entitled to know everything that goes on in the committee and that included news photographs of exhibits shown at meetings.

He said he is "highly indebted" for the newspaper coverage given to the work of the committee. Evidence presented was not only to help the committee's 27 members make up their minds on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries. The public also should have access to that evidence.

Physician is Critical Of Doctors' Attitudes

CLEVELAND (AP) — A physician who was once an ordained minister criticized doctors "who feel that God made them, and everybody else just happened."

Dr. Robert M. Myers of Kansas City, Mo., made the remark in urging doctors to "become more human" in dealing with patients, especially prospective mothers.

In a paper prepared for delivery today to the American Academy of General Practice, Dr. Myers said:

"I have a very definite conviction that the professional doctor, interested in his pocketbook, instead of the patient and thinking only of retiring as soon as possible, does far more to further the cause of state or socialized medicine than all the politicians who ever lived."

Diesel-Power Used Entirely On N. Y. Central

Train 378, of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway arrived from Hamilton shortly before noon. Four hours later, the next train was diesel powered.

It was the final transition from steam to diesel operations for the NYC in Buffalo. The T. H. and B. is a subsidiary of New York Central and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Most of the steam locomotives retired in recent years have been scrapped, but a few still are idle in the yards.

New Equipment To Help Fight Forest Fires

TORONTO (CP) — New equipment and new ideas for fighting bush fires are expected to help protect Ontario's forests this year.

Lands and Forests Minister Gemmell said Tuesday in a statement that designation of 19 fire districts will make it possible to close one or more of the areas to travel when the fire hazard is high.

Improved radio communications, tied in with airplanes and helicopters, as well as new fire-fighting techniques will be used.

Water bombing, dropping of fire-fighting equipment and provisions to fire line crews and the carrying of small initial attack crews on fire patrol aircraft are techniques to be expanded in 1954. All were found highly useful last year.

Last year the number of fires, 1,520, and the area burned, 58,309 acres, exceeded the average for the last five years.

"Reasons for last year's unusually high fire loss included a province-wide spring hazard period, an abnormal incidence of lightning fires and an abnormally long season with fires in March and in November," the statement said. Twenty-five per cent of last year's fires occurred between May 1 and May 15.

National Guard Reviews Record

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The New York National Guard has ordered "a complete investigation and review" of the reserve service record of Roy Cohn, chief counsel to the McCarthy Senate investigations sub-committee, a guard spokesman said Tuesday.

Maj. John D. Kenny, public information officer of the state division of military and naval affairs, said a national guard inspector-general this week began a "routine" examination of Cohn's service as a result of inquiries.

Kenny said some questions had been raised, mostly by the press, about Cohn, centre of the controversy between Senator Joseph McCarthy and Army Secretary Robert Stevens.

Kenny would not say what questions had been raised or who ordered the inquiry.

Five Members From Que. Want Full Deduction

OTTAWA (CP) — Three Independents and two Progressive Conservative members from Quebec Tuesday night asked the federal government to allow full deduction of Quebec's new income tax for purposes of federal income tax payments. There was no reply from the government.

Paul Gagnon, Independent member for Chicoutimi, initiated the debate with a proposal to allow the full deduction. He was supported by Raoul Poulin (Independent, Lotbinière), Fernand Girard (Ind.—Lapointe), Leon Balcer (PC—Trois-Rivières), and Robert Perron (PC—Dorchester).

They used the argument that the provincial income tax will bring into Quebec coffers about $23,000,000, an amount far below the subsidy offered by the federal government for remis of direct taxation rights.

Mr. Balcer said the federal government offered Quebec an annual subsidy of $123,000,000 if that province would sign a taxation agreement.

Quebec is the only province which has refused to sign a tax agreement with the federal government.

Mr. Balcer said that if full deduction of the provincial tax was allowed, it would not take anything away from the federal subsidies to the other provinces.

China Policy To be Debated On Thursday

OTTAWA (CP)—China policy is expected to be the focal point of an external affairs debate scheduled for Thursday in the Commons.

Possibility of Canadian recognition of the Chinese Communist government has been a hot topic in the capital since Prime Minister St. Laurent made a series of pronouncements on the subject near the end of his world tour.

At Manila, Seoul and Tokyo, he said Canada is sooner or later bound to recognize the Chinese Reds, no matter how much she might dislike the Communist complexion of China's government.

He stuck to that view in a press conference on his return home a week ago today, though in the Commons Monday he said the government didn't considering recognition "at this time."

DEAL WITH GOVERNMENT

In the Far East, the prime minister's chief point seemed to be that if there were to be any solution to problems in which China was directly involved, and which couldn't be settled without co-operation of the government in control of China, then Canada could apparently have to deal with that government.

China is obviously involved in two such problems, Korea, and Indo-China. They will be discussed at Geneva starting April 26 by Britain, the United States, France, Russia and Communist China.

As a nation which participated in the Korean war, Canada will also be represented. External Affairs Minister Pearson plans to head the Canadian delegation.

Informed sources here say Canadian recognition of the Chinese government may hinge on the outcome of the Geneva conference.

If the conference made progress—the Ottawa view is pessimistic—Canada then would be prepared to give serious thought to recognition.

Britain recognized the Chinese Communist government in 1949, but the United States has been bitterly opposed to recognition.

George Nowlan, Progressive Conservative leader, is on record as opposing recognition. The CCF contends the government should recognize the Reds.

NEEDS BLINDS

CANTERBURY, England (CP)—Albert Parrish complained a bus stop outside his home allowed top-deck passengers to look into his bathroom. The stop was shifted to a grocery store until the grocer complained it interfered with deliveries. Now it's back at Parrish's house.

Search For Slayer Concentrated In Windsor Area

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The search for the slayer of Fern Russell of Woodstock was concentrated in Windsor area Tuesday as police announced they were hunting two young men.

The half-naked body of the girl was found March 13 in a water-filled ditch about 15 miles southeast of Windsor.

Police traced her movements from Toronto to Tilbury and one to Windsor Thursday then back to Hamilton Friday. The trail was lost at the junction of Highways 2 and 8 outside Hamilton at an early hour Saturday morning.

Police are hunting an old-model red tractor-trailer which is believed to have picked her up on the highway juncture. Police think the truck may have carried her as far as Tilbury where the two young men picked her up sometime between 3 and 8 a.m. Saturday. She was found about 3:30 p.m.

Canadian Troops Tackle Back-to-School Movement

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Lieut. Doug Wallace, the army's schoolmaster in Korea, gets a bang out of the way the Canadian troops have tackled the army's back - to - school movement.

Wallace, from Barrie, Ont., supervises the simplified and standardized "Dare K" courses aimed at bringing men up to grade eight standard, and the voluntary spare-time courses in subjects ranging from navigation to bee-keeping.

Jack Brayley

The compulsory courses are conducted by unit officers in make-shift classrooms in tents and quonset huts. These consist of four one-hour classes a week. At the moment, 1,000 troops are attending these classes to bring themselves to the grade eight level. Most of these unit school in grades five, six or seven. The classes also include a small number, illiterate when they joined up.

RESENTED AT FIRST

Wallace said the first reaction of most soldiers when they hear of the compulsory education program is to resent it. They feel they didn't join the army to go back to school "but the great majority soon realize they can't win promotion unless they improve their educational qualifications so they dig in and get the most out of the courses."

The courses are designed for practical application not only for army promotion but to make them more useful citizens when they leave the army.

This program is supplemented by voluntary spare-time courses which at this moment have an enrolment of more than 900 men. They are improving on their grade eight standing and branching into special subjects, some leading to senior matriculation.

Most popular subject is mathematics and this is because it is the foundation of so many army activities. The higher the standard in this department the better the chance of promotion.

Also in this brigade, which includes the predominantly French-speaking Royal 22nd Regiment and predominantly English - speaking formations, there is an unusual amount of study of both languages.

GOOD AVERAGE

Do the troops confine this part-time work with consistency? "More than 50 per cent do," said Lieut. Wallace. "This compares favorably with the write-off in civilian night schools at home."

Instructors for both programs are selected from the officers and NCOs of each unit who have received teaching technique as part of their own training programs.

"And it's surprising how keen these instructors are and how successfully they handle courses," Wallace said. "Why some of them are almost like some of the dedicated teachers at home."

Another segment of the education program is the compulsory weekly hour on current affairs. This is conducted as an open forum and complete freedom of discussion is encouraged.

An officer or senior NCO acts as moderator or guide for the discussion which covers every aspect of the world and its problems. Recognized services at some conclusion.

"You'd be really surprised how conservative our troops are," said Lieut. Wallace.

Little Benny's Note Book

Last nite pop went away on bizness for 2 days, and this morning I was eating breakfast alone with ma, and I said, G., ma, it seems funny without pop, dont it?

It seems sad, ma said, and I said, well, that's what I meen by funny. Hay ma, do you realize I'm the man of the house now? I said.

Why yes, that's a cute idea, I hope your responsibilities don't way too heavily on your little shoulders ma said, and I said, Oh, I dont mind, maybe I better stay home today and attend to bizness.

You watch your peas and cues and get to school on time, the idea, ma, said, and I said. Well sorways, ma, you better ask me what to have for dinner, like you ask pop every morning

Well, I suppose there's no reason you cant make your own menu, as long as it's nothing silly or involved, ma said, and I said. Dont worry, ma, I'll make it something short and simple. I'll even write it down for you, I said.

That would be cute, ma said, and I got a piece of paper and wrote it, being, Salad, none, Vegetables, none. Soup, apple cider. Meat, frankfurters and beens. Dessert, ice cream, cake and pie.

And I showed it to ma and she said, Oh my goodness.

What's a matter with it, ma? I said, and she said, It's perfect from your point of view, I'm sure.

Well I got a 3rd Mas, ma, I said. Let's go and eat at Dave's Delikatessen, I said, and she said, Now that's more sensible, I really have a lot to do today.

Meaning without cooking, and she took me to the R. and W. French's Restaurant, not being as good as Dave's Delikatessen but more fun than home.

Detroit Red Wings, Canadiens Grab Lead In Stanley Cup Semi-Finals

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SO THE MAN SAYS!

There may not have been any high-flyer salaries for hockey players way back, say forty or more years ago, but the lads of those days were not a bit averse to tossing in the odd spot of skullduggery if it served the purpose.

In this particular case the adage: "We swear it on the Bible," came in for literal translation.

It happened in Picton around 1910, when the famous "Little Men of Metal" of the Prince Edward County town were cutting a wide swath in Ontario hockey circles. If our information is correct the team was the provincial title or a couple of occasions, and were the most feared sextet, or was it septet, in this neck of the woods.

However, it seems the Metals were playing off with an Ottawa team for the title or in a semi-finals series, when the Ottawans' management came up with the greatest shin sone of the Metals was ever kew. They reported it to the then parent body in Toronto, and the fat was in the fire.

Oldtimers of these parts will remember the "Little Men" which had such players as Charles Bedborough, Johnny Jewel, Bert Burns, "Hooker" Croft and others. Clare B. Morgan, now of Belleville, was the manager.

"We had a tough time with the Ottawa people," said Clare the other day, recalling the incident. "We had no birth certificates, and the OHA would not allow this player to play until we provided some proof of birth."

Someone came up with the idea that the date of birth might be inscribed in the family Bible of the player. That was the custom in those days.

"But," said Clare, "the mother of the player objected to us using the family Bible as a medium of proof."

"Are you going to let these fellows make your son out to be a liar?" someone asked.

The mother flared. "No one is going to call my son a liar. There is the family Bible. Take it and prove to these men that no son of mine ever told an untruth."

"We took the Bible to a home and looked for the date of birth. We looked and searched and searched and looked. It was not there."

"Then one of the players took the Bible home. A few hours later he called me and said he had found the date. It was on a separate piece of paper."

"How that piece of paper was overlooked, I have never discovered," said Clare. But there was something of a twinkle in his eye which might have meant anything.

In any event the Bible was carefully packed, and expressed to the OHA and the afternoon of the day of the all-important game with Ottawa, permission was received to use the player involved in the dispute.

POINT ANNE-FLYERS

What should be another flaming tilt takes place tonight in Memorial Arena when the Point Anne squad takes on the Trenton RCAF Flyers in the second game of their Trent Valley Hockey League southern sectional finals. The Ox Pointers eked out a narrow victory in the first clash of the squads and the Boucher crew are eager to wipe out the defeat.

Meanwhile the Marmora Millionaires and Havelock are battling it out for the northern section title. The Millionaires took the first three games of the best-of-seven series but the "Lockers" roared back with a decisive 9-1 victory to take the fourth contest. The series winners will meet in a best-of-seven series for the league championship.

STANLEY CUP PLAYOFFS

Last year's Stanley Cup champions, Montreal Canadiens, will be among their sixth straight appearance in Stanley Cup playoffs this spring. It is the 16th appearance in a row for the six-time N.H.L. champion Detroit Red Wings, and the fourth time in a row for the Boston Bruins. Toronto Maple Leafs, seven-time Cup winners and only team in the history of the National Hockey League to annex the Cup three seasons in succession, 1947, 1948 and 1949, missed the playoffs a year ago.

Canadiens first won the Stanley Cup in 1916, prior to the formation of the N.H.L. They were also winners in 1924, 1930, 1931, 1944, 1946 and 1953. Detroit captured Lord Stanley's famed jewel in 1936, 1937, 1943, 1950 and 1952. Toronto Maple Leafs won the Stanley Cup in 1932, 1942, 1945, 1947, 1948, 1949 and 1951. Boston Bruins, first of the present United States cities to join the National Hockey League, were Cup winners in 1929, 1939 and 1941.

Toronto's Conn Smythe has managed seven Stanley Cup champions. No one can beat this record. Jack Adams of Detroit has managed five winners, while Boston's Art Ross managed three and Frank Selke of Canadiens one. Oldest coach in professional hockey at 61, Dick Irvin of Canadiens has coached four Cup champions. He coached Toronto in 1932 and Canadiens in 1944, 1946 and 1953. Tommy Ivan piloted the last two Detroit teams to the Cup in 1950 and 1952. This is King Clancy's first Stanley Cup playoff as a coach and it is Lynn Patrick's fifth. Patrick was Stanley Cup finalist twice but is still seeking his first Stanley Cup champion as a coach.

Ted Kennedy, captain of the Toronto Maple Leafs, has played on five Stanley Cup champions. No player in modern hockey can match this record. Only team to repeat the Cup in the minimum number of games was Detroit in 1952 the Red Wings downed Toronto four straight in the semi-finals and did the same thing to Canadiens in the finals. Longest overtime game in playoffs took place in Montreal on March 24, 1936. A total of 116 minutes and 30 seconds of extra play was recorded before Mud Bruneteau scored for Detroit to give the Red Wings a 1-0 win over Montreal Maroons. The game last 176 minutes and 30 seconds. Shortest overtime game lasted 25 seconds. Syd Howe tallied for the Red Wings against the New York Americans at Detroit on March 19, 1940, to give Wings a 2-1 win. Sid Smith scored for the Maple Leafs against Canadiens 15 seconds after game started for the fastest goal in playoffs on April 11, 1951, at Toronto.

Champions Blank Toronto 5-0 As Habs Trounce Bruins 2-0; Old 'Hex' Works For Winners

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The best still works for Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens. It could carry them into the Stanley Cup finals.

The Wings, who haven't allowed Toronto Maple Leafs a National Hockey League victory at Detroit since Nov. 2, 1952, whipped the Leafs 5-0 Tuesday night in the first game of their cup semi-final series on home ice. And Canadiens kept right on where they left off in the regular season by blanking Boston 2-0 at Montreal to keep their record clean against the Bruins at the Forum this season.

The victories gave Detroit and Montreal the first big lead in post-season play and with the second games of the best-of-seven semi-finals scheduled for the Forum and Olympia Stadium Thursday night, it could mean a 3-0 lead in games for Wings and Canadiens before they move to Detroit and Boston for the third and fourth games.

The Wings, with two Stanley Cup victories in their last five championship campaigns, scored in every period to shut out the inept Leafs before 13,757 fans.

SECOND-PERIOD LEAD

Boston held Canadiens to a scoreless first period but the Montrealers broke the ice at 1:25 of the second on a goal by Rookie Lorne (Gump) Worsley. Bernie Geoffrion scored the insurance goal at 12:48 of the last period, reaching around to flip his legs to tap the puck past goaltender Jim Henry who had previously thrown at him by the defending cup champions.

At the other end, goalkeeper Jacques Plante handled only 12 shots, many of them from far out. His biggest scare of the night came in the first minute of the second period when Rookie Doug Mohns shot from 15 feet out and the puck bobbled off Plante's pads and dribbled about the goal line.

The Bruins bowled that a goal had been scored but goal judge George Moore of Detroit ruled the puck had not crossed the line.

Canadiens did not dress two players—veterans Cy Mosdell and Ernie Lach and defenceman Jim MacPherson. Bruins were short defenceman Hal Laycoe, left at home with a groin injury, and two rookie farmhands were used, centre Guyle Fielder and left-winger Wayne Connelly in place of the Western Hockey League.

DEFENSIVE LAPSE

Detroit capitalized on a defensive lapse by Toronto's Sid Smith to take a 1-0 lead at 5:31 of the first period on a goal by Marty Pavelich.

Ted Lindsay made it 2-0 before the period ended and Tony Leswick and Glen Howe added second-period goals, Pavelich, who scored only nine times during the 70-game schedule, clicked again at 14:01 of the final.

In the third period referee Bill Chadwick slapped Tod Sloan, Toronto centre, with a misconduct and game misconduct penalty. When the referee called the game misconduct the fiery player pushed Chadwick by the throat. The two penalties carry a $75 fine.

LANDY STAYS AT HOME

The secretary of the Australian Amateur Athletic Union, A. Hodson said Tuesday night Landy has received offers to race in the United States, Finland, Sweden, France and Britain.

"Neither he (Landy) nor the Victorian Athletic Association has given fit to notify the Australian AAU whether he is going to accept the offers," Hodson said.

"Within the next few days I will write all overseas organizations which invited him, telling them that interview of Landy's silence, it can be taken that he does not intend to visit their countries and the invitations are declined."

Landy has been flirting with the four-minute mile for the last two years and did 4:02 in December.

Wolves Defeat Abitibi Eskimos To Even Series

NORTH BAY (CP) — Sudbury Wolves overcame their surprise in time to defeat Abitibi Eskimos 4-3 in overtime Tuesday night and square the best-of-five Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior final 1-1.

The Eskimos, who weren't given much chance before the series began, pulled their first upset Monday by edging the Wolves 1-0 on the strength of some tremendous netminding by Sully Porter.

Tuesday night the Eskimos were ahead for a large part of the game and again it was Porter that held them together. With six minutes left in regulation time Abitibi led 2-0. Then Yucker Flynn banged in Sudbury's first marker of the series from a goal-mouth scramble. Before the game ended Flynn received Nick Tomluk tied the game for the Wolves.

George Dechlice gave the Wolves their first lead of the series 86 seconds after the overtime period started. The goal came from a scramble in front of the net after a face off. Ed Harrison, former member of the National Hockey League Detroit Red Wings, scored the insurance marker after taking a pass from Andy Miller.

SECOND PERIOD TALLIES

Both Abitibi goals were fired in the second period. Gerry Labelle and Ray Watson were the marksmen.

Porter, the stocky little netminder, couldn't be held responsible for the goals. Supported with airtight defensive crew he had held Wolves scoreless for 114 minutes and 34 seconds before being beaten by Flynn. It was surprising that the Wolves got only two goals in the third period because the Sudbury snipers outshot Abitibi 15 to 5 in the period.

Third game of the series is in Schumacher Thursday, followed by the fourth game in the same arena the next night. Winner of the series will entertain the all-Ontario final against either Owen Sound or Stratford Indians. Indians, finalists in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league, Owen Sound leads that best-of-seven final 3-0.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Madison Square Garden was packed with 14,000 enthusiasts who paid $30,000 to see England's Fred Perry defeat Big Bill Tilden 17 years ago tonight in a match between the premier tennis net-men giants. The black-haired Briton won out over Tilden by scores of 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0, when Tilden suffered his first defeat at the Garden.

FAVORITE WITHDRAWN

Trainer Cyrby Paget said the horse had pulled a suspensory ligament, possibly in the soft going of the recent Cheltenham Gold Cup.

Mont Tremblant, second in the race last year, was fourth choice at 20-1.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana state athletic commission has announced that no preliminary or main event fights will be permitted to end in a draw.

If a fight ends with both fighters receiving the same number of rounds, then the officials will have to specify a winner, pointing out aggressiveness, clearer punching etc.

EAST YORKS ARRIVE HOME

TORONTO (CP) — The East Yorks arrived home Tuesday from the world hockey championships and received a rousing welcome from 1,000 fans. The team, which lost to Russia in the final, was mobbed by relatives and friends they haven't seen for two months. "We played our best for Canada" said manager Don Preston. "We lost the big game. But if we had it to do all over again, we'd all go back—and this time we'd beat Russia."

British Board Won't Recognize Empire Fight

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—George K. Garnett, president of the Canadian Boxing and Wrestling Federation, said Tuesday night the British Boxing Board of Control would probably not recognize a British Empire heavyweight championship fight between Don Cockell the present titleholder, and Earl Walls, Canadian champion.

Referring to a suggestion by Frank Tunney, Toronto promoter, that such a fight be held at Toronto, Mr. Garnett said the since Walls has been put on the unavailable list by both the CBWF and the National Boxing Association, it is "ridiculous" to imagine the British body recognizing the Canadian fighter.

TEST ENDS IN DRAW

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (Reuters)—The fourth game in the best-of-five test cricket series between England and the West Indies ended in a draw Tuesday.

England was still batting as time ran out. The team was then 253 runs behind with seven wickets standing.

At the end of play last night, the scoreboard read: West Indies 681 for eight declared and 213 for four declared. England 337 and 98 for three.

England needs to win the final test in Jamaica to tie the series. The West Indies won two of the three previous matches and England one.

St. Michael's Hold Teeps to 6-6 Tie As Marlboros Oust Dutchies Juniors

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Home ice, a haven for St. Catharines TeePees and Toronto St. Michael's College Majors during the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A schedule, has turned into a dread for the teams in the playoffs.

The Majors and TeePees have each won a game in the best-of-seven semi-finals. One game remained. The Majors won their game in St. Catharines in the opener of the series and St. Catharines came up with their victory in Toronto in the second game. The third game in St. Catharines Tuesday night ended in a 6-6 overtime tie but again the Collegians nearly won it. A goal 12 seconds from the end of regulation time gave the TeePees a 5-5 tie to send the game into the extra period. Each team scored once in overtime.

In the other playoff game Toronto Marlboros defeated Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts 5-2 in Kitchener to win their best - of - five quarter-final 3-1. Marlboros will meet Hamilton Cubs in the semi-finals.

MARLBOW GETS THREE

The Collegians led through most of the game. Held to a 3-1 tie in the first period they netted another 3-3 in the second and led 5-4 with less than a minute left in the third. Hugh Barbeau scored one of his three goals 12 seconds from the end of the third period and fired another one in overtime to give St. Catharines a 6-5 margin. Don McLean, Hank Cleala and Cec Hoekstra tallied the other St. Catharines goals.

Jim Logan counted three for St. Michael's, including the overtime tally at 8:28 of the overtime period that gave the Irish an even break with the TeePees. Other Irish goals were scored by Paul Knox, Brian Jackson and defence man Marc Reaume.

If the first two games of this series are any indication, tonight's game in Toronto should be poison for St. Michael's.

ALBANI SPARKLES

The Marlboro victory, which eliminated the Greenshirts from the playoffs, was featured by the netminding of Johnny Albani, five-foot, five-inch goalkeeper for the Dukes. Albani was brilliantly great in the third period when Marlboros were outshot 17-7.

The Marlboros went ahead 3-2 in the second period but were outscored 3-1 in the third.

Golf School Members Show Improvement

The YMCA Golf School reached its half way mark last night at the YMCA, when students met for their fourth lesson. The interest and enthusiasm of all participants is continually increasing, as they now can see for themselves definite signs of improvement.

Miss Acquafredda and Joey Pilotti, instructing the beginners class are very pleased with the wonderful improvement shown by members of this class. Instructors of advanced class, too, report tremendous improvement in this group's swings and believe that members of this class will be far advanced in their game, when the golf season opens.

It is felt, by the YMCA Golf Committee and those instructing, that with the continued interest, both those taking the course and golf clubs in this area will be greatly benefited.

The next and fifth lesson will be held next Monday and beginners are asked to bring a 2 and 4 or 3 and 5 iron, while the advanced will work on short irons 7, 8 or 9.

Sport in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eddie Le-Baron, Washington Redskins' No. 1 quarterback, has scrapped his contract with the Redskins to jump to Canada.

George Preston Marshall, owner of the Redskins, said Tuesday LeBaron told him by telephone from his Lodi, Calif., home that he planned to play with the Stamfeders.

Lebaron, a five-foot-one ball-handling expert, said, however, that there will be a definite announcement about the Calgary situation for a week or two.

There was no confirmation of persistent reports that the chief factor in Lebaron's decision was his unwillingness to play in the National Football League under Curly Lambeau, the Redskins' coach. The feud between Lebaron and Lambeau has long been generally known.

Marshall said that he will take no action against Lebaron even though the California signal caller is tied to the Redskins under an option in his 1953 contract.

"I'm sorry to see him go," Marshall said, "but I won't stand in his way."

At Calgary, Lebaron would play under coach Larry Siemering, who was backfield coach of the Redskins last season and head coach of the Edmonton Eskimos, when Lebaron was three times named to little all-America teams.

Win Cage Title

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Toronto West End YMCA easily won the eastern Canada juvenile basketball final Tuesday night, outscoring Saint John high school 94-55 and taking the two-game total-point series 185-100. YMCA now plays Halifax juveniles for the Canadian championship.

Leuszler Hurls Challenge At 'Flo' Chadwick

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Mrs. Winnie Roach Leuszler, Canada's top long-distance swimmer, challenged Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif., to a race "any time, any place, any distance."

Mrs. Leuszler said in a radio interview Tuesday night she can "swim just as far and just as fast" as Miss Chadwick and I would relish a chance to prove it."

Miss Chadwick Tuesday inspected a 31-mile course between Toronto and Fort Niagara, N.Y., and said she was "dying to try it." The Canadian National Exhibition is offering $25,000 in prizes for the swim.

Mrs. Leuszler said she has injured three other official challenges to Miss Chadwick but received no reply. But when the U.S. swimmer attempted to conquer Canadian waters it was "time to draw the line."

She would be glad to compete in the CNE swim or under separate sponsorship, whichever Miss Chadwick decided.

Mrs. Leuszler, mother of three children, said when she swam the English channel, her time was better than Miss Chadwick's. "Maybe it is my turn" attempt. Florence took several tries at it before she was successful."

Matane Ousts Cornwall Colts

MATANE, Que. (CP) — Matane Red Rocks came from behind Tuesday night to take a 5-4 decision over Cornwall Colts and capture the best-of-five eastern Canada Allan Cup senior-final by three games to one.

Matane now meets Fredericton Capitals in the eastern Canada semi-finals which get under way Saturday at Fredericton.

The victory also gave the Lower St. Lawrence League the right to the Howard Stewart Trophy, emblematic of supremacy in Quebec senior amateur hockey.

A wildly-cheering capacity crowd of 2,500 home-town fans saw Raymon Leduc slam home two goals in the final period to wrap up the series. The first game ended in a draw, Cornwall took the second and Matane the next.

Lucien Gilbert counted two for Matane, besides assisting on both of Leduc's, Bernie Limoges got the other. For the Colts, Norm Guindon scored twice, Scott Belmore and Gerry Moore were the scorers.

Training Camp Notes

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—Outfielder Hank Bauer and first baseman Joe Collins returned to action Tuesday as New York Yankees filled an open date on their exhibition schedule with an intrasquad game. Bauer was out with a sprained ankle and Collins with a pulled shoulder muscle. Centrefielder Mickey Mantle, out until mid-May with osteomyelitis, a bone disease affecting his leg, is the only Yankee regular still on the sidelines.

LAKELAND, Fla. (CP) — Lefty Jock Thompson, former Toronto Maple Leaf and Baltimore Oriole hurler in the International League, survived home runs by Bill Tuttle and Harvey Kuenn to gain credit for a 9-7 victory by Chicago White Sox over Detroit Tigers Tuesday. Red Garver yielded seven runs in the first six innings to absorb Detroit's 10th defeat in 15 exhibition games.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—Vic Raschi blanked Milwaukee on five hits during a six-inning performance as St. Louis Cardinals went on to edge the Braves 6-5 Tuesday.

The former Yankee fanned six and didn't walk a man. Rookie outfielder Billy Queen drove in four runs in the last three innings for the losers, hitting a two-run homer off Ellis Deal and a two-run homer off Al Brazle.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) Carl Erskine, first "Brooklyn pitcher to go the route, limited five-hit ball Tuesday as the Dodgers downed Philadelphia Athletics 10-2 Roy Campanella headed the Brooklyn attack with a homer and two singles.

With The Minors

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville Minor Hockey Association has a big night planned for Friday, April 23rd. That's the date to remember for all boys who have participated in any one of the organized leagues this past winter from the Squirts to the Jr. A's.

A party has been planned that will top all parties and it will be held in the city's largest public meeting places, the Armouries. Movies, food, treats, presentations and a guest speaker are some of the things on tap. The cups for the individual players will be presented and the different championship winners will be honored, while several persons are working hard in an effort to get either an N.H.L. player, coach or some professional hockey "great" to appear as a guest. The night is a month away yet and it's possible that several other forms of entertainment will also be provided.

Not only the players are asked to attend but all managers, trainers and coaches will be welcome and are expected to be there.

"Red" Green was asked me to remind all players who have their sweaters and hose to be sure and bring them in this Thursday night. Word has it that anyone fossilt to be admitted to the party.

Saturday is the date for the big East-Central Peewee Hockey Tournament being held in the Lindsay Kiwanis arena. This will be the fifth."

From all reports they show the boys a good time up there as well as letting them play a little hockey year in grand style. It will be a straight elimination affair with each opener on tap for 9.00 a.m. There is a trophy for the winning team as well as one for each member of that team. Fourteen entries are in at the time of the writing.

The mothers need not worry about food for the kids as a lunch will be supplied to each team and a member of the Lindsay Minor Hockey Association will welcome the boys and see that they have the necessary facilities.

A phone call by "Red" Doran Tuesday to officials in Lindsay revealed that Belleville will meet Ajax in their first game at one o'clock, Saturday in the Peewee tournament. A loss would put them out, so good luck kids. The bus leaves the arena at 9 a.m. and anyone not there on time will be left behind.

Tomorrow night will wind up the season here for another year with one bantam game and a double-header in the midget section.

The Moose Leafs and the Bruins play their second game for the bantam title at six o'clock with the Leafs carrying a 2-1 edge in goals on the round. If the Bruins can come up with a good game as they did Saturday morning in the Peewee department they can notch a few goals they may pull another upset, but that's a lot of "ifs."

Big "A" meet Robb Royals in a doubleheader for the midget championship with the first game slated to get under way at 6.45.

Robb's are the hottest team in the loop right now with Jack Powell doing a terrific job between the pipes. They ousted Moose Lodge in easy fashion last week with a 4-1 and 6-4 victories, after beating Reid's Regents, the only team that finished above them but did is league standings.

In both cases it's the first place club the fifth place finishers in the finals. Maybe we'll get one upset at least.

Bill Was Good So Was 'Dog'

Just before the Toronto Hockey League game against North York Flyers Tony tendered a $10 bill for a 15-cent hot dog. The concessionaire thought it was counterfeit and called police.

Tony was taken to the station. By the time the bill was found to be "good," the hockey game was over. Tony had to walk back to the arena.

Majors Sign 'Pitch' Penny

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Bob Penny, right-handed pitcher who had an 84 won-lost record with London Majors last year, has signed up with the Senior International-County Baseball League team for this year.

Penny had an earned-run average of 3.31 and struck out 96 batters.

Can Swim Lake In '18 Hours' Thinks Chadwick

Chadwick skimmed over chilly Lake Ontario Tuesday—aboard a Royal Canadian Air Force transport—and said that she could swim it from the United States side to Toronto in "about 18 hours" if whether or not she tries the 31-mile route depends on the weather of her managers and the financial arrangements.

The 36-year-old dark-haired marksbowser, after a three-hour huddle with chief officers, decided that this was one more large body of water she would like to swim. "It's a challenge and I'm dying to try it but it will be a long grind—about 18 hours," she told reporters.

She said it wouldn't be as tough as the English channel because of the currents but that the average water degree of 58 for the lake is the same. "I make it awful tough and I don't think too many will make it." The Canadian National Exhibition, which is sponsoring the swim, is the world's marathoners from the British swim from Fort Niagara, N.Y., to Toronto.

The CNE may put up a purse of $25,000, with first prize of $10,000, but it is likely that Miss Chadwick would be the only swimmer scheduled for early September, with the others, if recommending it may managers that I try it but I think they'll say I should swim it alone, she said.

"I'm convinced the swim could be made, and I'd like to be the first to do it," she added.

Habs May Use Intact Line From Buffalo

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens said Tuesday that an intact line now with Buffalo will form a chance to start with the National Hockey League club next season.

A statement said that "the work of Gaye Stewart, Eddie Slowinski and Don Marshall has definitely earned this line the right to start with Canadiens next season, always assuming that the players keep their present form and training camp in good physical condition."

The three have proved a high-scoring line for Buffalo's American Hockey League club this season.

They were placed on Montreal's eligibility list for Stanley Cup play.

Tri-Bells Take Second Victory

Bells won their second straight game Tuesday night in the best-of-five eastern Canada senior basketball title series against Ottawa Brooks 68-58.

That victory, plus the overwhelming 101-67 triumph of the Tri-Bells in the opening game of the series Monday night, puts Toronto in the favorite spot to take the eastern final in the third game tonight.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Some bridge writers give and leave the wrong impression about the system to use. Most of them would have you believe a beginner should do exactly the same as an expert does.

This sounds complimentary to the palookas. They eat it up and what happens? They go out and bat their brains out doing what comes unnaturally to them; to their everlasting discouragement.

The basics of a system are as good for the tyro as for his most expert partner. But not the variations which an expert can handle with a skill that a beginner should not attempt until he is better.

In a rubber bridge game there was this north hand:

♠K J 6 4 2
♣9 6 5

At the end of the hand there was a re-hash of what happened and why. It seems that south got burt in a contract of two notrump that was doubled. Somebody wanted to place the blame.

The bidding was opened by south with a no-trump. The non-expert in north responded with two spades. South then bid two no-trump, which was doubled. North passed and the fun was heavy.

North did not have a sound response to an opening one bid of any kind. He lacked two high cards promised by an unforced reply bid. And he did wrong without knowing how to prevent trouble.

His first reply should have been a pass. If in competition south did go to two no-trump north is in a very good position to protect the pair. Especially if the opener is penalty doubled.

He can then back in with a bid of three spades. Being a back-in after a pass, south is duly warned to leave it there. And certainly a bid of three spades will not get hurt as much as two no-trump.

This business of "back-in" is part of every sound system where variations are known. Beginners can learn it as they advance. Until they do they should stick to basics.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, MARCH 25, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — About the same for you as for most of us today, so we might as well stick together. Remember, in union there is strength. Furnish ideas, plans, initiative, vigor. You can.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Prospects look more encouraging and could snow-ball into the unexpectedly benefic, if you work toward that end. You will have to be the pivot, thought and force, however, so start early. It's up to you.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mildly favorable rays in your sector. You may encounter some irritating situations but meet them cheerfully. You have ability. Use it.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Show stress need for self-control and a pleasant disposition. Others have troubles, strenuous work too. So be wise: do everything with a smile and you will get help.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Your planet is entering a benefic aspect; do your share and things will move well for you. Inventions, new ideas, business changes, labor, clerical work favored.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Take all in stride. This may not be a time for extensive doings or trying new methods but it can be fruitful if you co-operate fully in your intended way.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—A great day for you who will pitch in and devote yourself to fine causes and better personal relationships. Use your innate talents and you'll find real reward.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Benefits most likely because of unselfishness in daily tasks. Your aim to please and help, and how well you do your share and co-operate now matters greatly. Avoid the use of force.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Between 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. most benefic aspects favor practical matters, wholesome activities. Not a day for wild schemes or carelessness about health.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some personal wishes must bow to projects for the general good. Your advantages may tie up with those engaged in extensive operations, civic issues. Confer, be co-operative.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Refuse to become involved in questionable plans or situations for the results could be regretable. Everyone has a plan of action; consider yours well.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Progressive lines of endeavor, constructive thought, action will always produce good results. Domestically, social affairs, home activities need attention also.

YOU BORN TODAY are largely governed by impulse, quick in decisions. Clever, humorous, fond of the arts and science, you enjoy harmony, beauty and often luxury. You can be a bright conversationalist, have ability to say the smart thing at the right moment. You have a certain amount of egotism so try to realize that your ideas are not the only perfect ones. Live moderately, for the good of your soul, health and happiness.

Financial Critic Wants Lid Put On Money Issued

OTTAWA (CP)—The opposition's financial critic urged Parliament Tuesday to place a lid on the amount of money that can be created in Canada.

Gordon Churchill (PC—Toronto Greenwood) told the Commons banking committee that currently there is no limit on the amount of money which can be created by the government.

There was the "terrible danger," he said, of some "irresponsible" government getting into power and increasing the money supply indiscriminately as an election manoeuvre.

Under the current law, he added, there is nothing to prevent a government from, say, increasing baby bonuses to $60 monthly.

Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, said he does not know of any practical way to limit the creation of money, except through these two ways:

1. Canada could go on the gold standard and this would mean that a certain fixed portion of Canada's money would have to be backed by gold.

2. Parliament could place a limit on the amount of money which the Bank of Canada can hold. But there would be many difficulties provide for shifts in holdings when Parliament is not sitting.

Mr. Macdonnell suggested that reasonable limitations should be imposed for the next year for safety on protection.

Mr. Towers replied it was a question of what "checks and balances" there should be on the administration of the law.

The issue developed as the committee continued scrutiny of the government's two monetary bills, which would create a greater central control over bank credit and streamlining and extending the lives of Canada's chartered banks.

Rhee Calls Upon U.S. to Help Unify Korea

SEOUL (AP) — President Syngman Rhee today called on the United States to help unify Korea by the use of guns from a South Korean army which needs no help "in peaceful efforts fall."

Only if one of these conditions is met will South Korea accept next month's Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China, Rhee declared.

THE SOUTH puts 2 yrs-1621. The South Korean army numbers 20 divisions, American military experts have voiced doubts that the Korean economy could support a larger army or that the 20 divisions could fight for more than a few days without American supplies.

Rhee said he has not received adequate assurances from the United States concerning South Korea's position at Geneva. However, he said he understood he assured Rhee that the U. S. will stand and this would mean that a certain fixed portion of Canada's money would have to be backed by gold.

Progress Made In Treatment Of Radiation

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Important progress in developing an effective treatment for atomic radiation sickness was reported today to the 1954 national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

Encouraging results of experiments on mice suffering radiation injury was reported by Dr. R. E. Main, chief radiological chemist in the United States naval radiological defence laboratory in San Francisco.

Dr. Main described the curing of radiation injury in mice by means of a "spleen protective factor." Mice recovered from the effects of ordinarily fatal x-rays when they received injections of this "protective factor," obtained from the nucleus of spleen cells.

'What Legion Does' Topic Heard At Legion L.A.

CAMPBELLFORD. — The Ladies' Auxiliary, Branch 109, Canadian Legion, was honored on Monday evening by a visit from Zone Commander, Mrs. Baker, his provincial secretary-treasurer, Mrs. MacMillan and the Cobourg president, Mrs. Ewart.

Mrs. Baker gave a short address on "What the Legion Does". She closed with the following comment—"Remember the motto of the Legion-Service." She also reminded the local branch ladies that the rally is to be held in Trenton this year on May 14.

The Auxiliary ladies were reminded of the Kinsmen Club banquet on April 29, for which this Branch is catering, and also of the bridge, euchre and cribbage party to be held in the Legion Hall on March 31.

After the meeting adjourned, refreshments were served by group 1 under the leadership of Mrs. Chadwick.

A draw was held on an electric heating pad donated by the Ladies' Branch of the Legion. Mrs. Ewart of Cobourg, was the lucky winner.

Hospital Auxiliary Expresses Thanks For Donations

CAMPBELLFORD. — The Hospital Auxiliary held its March meeting in the Campbellford Memorial Hospital, 30 ladies being present. Mrs. Fox welcomed the ladies and Mrs. E. Abernethy read the minutes of the February meeting.

A vote of appreciation was expressed to the Seymour East Women's Institute for a donation of $15, to Seymour West W.I., for an electric tea kettle and three dozen cups and saucers; and to Mr. Miller for his donation of coffee and milk.

Mrs. W. Withun thanked the ladies for their help and co-operation in the card tournament, $276.35 being realized up to date.

Mr. Knapp donated a feather tick which will be made into pillows.

Mrs. E. Craighead reported on the sewing and the Auxiliary have a good supply on hand. She expressed her appreciation to all who helped with the sewing and also to the New Canadians (Dutch) for their assistance. Seven ladies gave subscription for magazines.

Mrs. Daniels, the superintendent of the Hospital, spoke on the work being accomplished and expressed her appreciation to the Auxiliary for its excellent achievements.

The Auxiliary will hold an "Opportunity Sale" in the Hay store on Front Street, starting in April. Mrs. E. Abernethy will be in charge.

Several articles have been donated to the Auxiliary, to be drawn at a later date.

"Open House" will be held at the Hospital on May 12.

The ladies enjoyed refreshments served at the close of the meeting.

Sugar Beet Growers Endorse Directors

CHATHAM (CP) — The annual meeting of the Ontario Sugar Beet Growers' Association Tuesday defeated a want-confidence motion in the directorate of the board proposed by Walter King of Dresden.

Rumors were rife, Mr. Craig said, that directors of the board, even those who negotiated with the company, were shareholders in the company; it should be stated, he made a condition of accepting a directorship not to hold shares in the Canada and Dominion Sugar Co.

Military Rule In Egypt to End Naguib Declares

June Elections Announced After Two Days of 'Crisis'

By GILBERT SEDBON

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Mohammed Naguib today announced that the military movement which carried him to power in 1952 and swept Farouk off the throne will be withdrawn shortly from Egyptian politics.

He made the announcement after two days of "crisis" cabinet meetings during just one month after he was removed as president—only to return two days later.

Naguib announced that all political parties, now banned, will be restored and that the country will elect a new president through a constituent assembly due to meet July 23 after elections in June.

The constituent assembly, he said, will replace the 13-man military junta—the revolutionary council—which has ruled Egypt since Farouk's forced abdication July 26, 1952.

SPLITS WITH NASSER

After Naguib returned to full power early this month, the junta agreed on the formation of a constituent assembly but was given last to remove itself as a political force.

The latest clash resulted from Naguib's pledge last week to return the nation to full parliamentary life. Egypt has been under a state of emergency and martial law since the "black Saturday" riots in Cairo, Jan. 26, 1952.

Nasser and National Guidance Minister Mai. Salah Salem did not attend Wednesday night's emergency cabinet session. They appeared today, however, for the meeting.

WERE NAGUIB'S FOES

Nasser, 36, handsome, six-foot "behind the scenes" power of Egyptian politics, and Salem played leading roles in deposing Naguib—for a brief period. Nasser boasted after that: "We could have killed Naguib but we decided to let him live."

One newspaper today quoted Naguib as telling his top two officers, who worked closely with him in forcing King Farouk to abdicate July 26, 1952, they were Wednesday night because of illness.

Observers said that Naguib himself was repeatedly "ill" before the temporary eclipse from power. They said the plot which had almost undoubtedly arisen over Naguib's moves to return power to democratic processes in Egypt.

Nasser and his followers are known to feel it would be rushing things to carry out this promise. They prefer rigid control by a military dictatorship until Egypt's internal affairs are more settled.

PAPERS EXCITED

Egyptian newspapers blazoned forth stories of the latest crisis in their biggest headlines. Al Akhbar said: "Difficulties to achieve unity in the government had failed to those who have been acting as mediators for a solution. The situation is becoming more and more complicated."

Youths Appeal Their Convictions In Sudbury Death

SUDBURY (CP)—Two Montreal youths, sentenced to be hanged next May 18 for the murder of Frank Asselin, have appealed their convictions.

G. D. Kinsman, counsel for 18-year-old Jean Guy Henaire, and Leo McMahon, counsel for Emile Bedard, 17, said the appeal is being made jointly and the necessary papers were sent to Toronto Wednesday.

The youths were convicted of murder in the bludgeon-death of Asselin, 53, near here last Oct. 3.

The notification of a statement by the accused and the charge of the judge to the jury are two grounds on which the appeals are based.

Winnipeg Man Held After Wife, Step-Son Stabbed

WINNIPEG (CP)—Police are holding a 46-year-old man today in connection with the stabbing death of his wife and step-son in their north Winnipeg home Wednesday night.

Victims of the double stabbing were Mrs. Martha Woytyshyn, 36, and Orest Dragan, 16.

Held in custody is Anthony Woytyshyn, unemployed graveyard worker. Inspector of detectives George Blow said Woytyshyn "will definitely be charged with both offences."

Mrs. Woytyshyn was found dead in a pool of blood in a second-floor hallway when police arrived at the Burrows avenue home.

Ostapowich, her son by a previous marriage, lay in a nearby bedroom. Still alive, he was taken to hospital but was dead on arrival. Hospital attendants said he suffered several stab wounds and his hands were slashed.

Vietminh Forces Again Repulsed At Dien Bien Phu

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — The French army today claimed its tanks and mobile units killed 400 Vietminh rebels in a fresh clash in the southern sector of besieged Dien Bien Phu.

It was the second time in three days that the French had reported a battle with the Communist-led enemy outside the southern perimeter of the northwest Indo-China fortress.

Intensive fire-bombings by American-supplied planes continued to take a heavy toll of the rebels digging in around Dien Bien Phu for new mass assaults. Seven Flying Boxcars and Dakota transports were used to jettison jellied-gasoline bombs on the enemy.

In the 13 days of this major battle the French artillery estimates more than 15,000 Vietminh troops have been killed and wounded. More than 3,000 killed and 9,000 wounded were believed lost in the three wild frontal assaults by the rebels.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: An extensive area of strong winds, thunderstorms and heavy snow edged into western sections of the province Wednesday night ahead of an intense low pressure area centred over Iowa. As this storm speeds northeastward across the Great Lakes, the precipitation will spread across the whole of Ontario today, followed on Friday by strong northwesterly winds and dropping temperatures.

ISRAEL ASKS WEST'S BIG THREE FOR UN ACTION

But Security Council Likely to Move Slowly

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Israel appealed today to the Western Big Three for immediate United Nations action on the Arab killing of 11 Israeli bus passengers in the Negev desert last week, but diplomats here at the international headquarters anticipated that the Security Council would delay action.

The council was to meet today for debate on Israel's charges that Egypt is blockading cargoes destined for her via the Suez canal. UN observers reported last week that they would try to dispose of this matter before turning to the bus attack, for which Israel blames Jordan.

Jordan, which has denied responsibility for the ambush 12 miles from her border last week, informed Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold officially Wednesday that she would not meet with Israel in the council over border troubles.

Invoking a clause of the Palestine armistice, Israel had demanded the meeting during Security Council discussion last November of the killing in October of 56 Egypt Arabs in an Israeli raid on the Jordan village of Kibya.

SPEAKERADE DRIVE

Speakerade the drive for immediate council action on the new Israeli charge, the Jewish state's ambassador to the UN and the United States, Abba Eban, was to meet in Washington today with State Secretary Dulles.

Eban was expected to press the U.S. minister on the dispute between Israel and a ban on such shipments by the Arab states. Israeli premier Moshe Sharett called for immediate Wednesday in a speech to Parliament in Jerusalem.

Sharett also instructed his ambassadors in London and Paris to press their case there.

Two Members Of Tribunal Were Germans

OTTAWA (CP)—Two members of the five-man tribunal which sentenced Communist Leader Fred Rose to six years in prison were German citizens at the time they closed Wednesday.

Meyer, 43, was convicted Dec. 8, 1939, by a Canadian court-martial of inciting his troops to mutiny and sentenced to death. Sentence of responsibility in the mass shootings of 18 Canadian prisoners.

He was originally sentenced to death but this was reduced to life imprisonment. Following good conduct behavior, Meyer can be released on parole from the British zone of Germany as early as Sept. 7 this year.

Man With Loneliest Job in World Ends Patrol in Time to See Queen

By ROTH JONES

He is L. G. Burton, whose job is to patrol a fence stretching nearly 1,400 miles from the great Australian Bight in the south, along the western Australian border to prevent wild dogs getting through to south Australia. It keeps him in the "out back" for three months at a time.

He set out in his land rover (jeep) early in January, intending to complete a tour and get back to Adelaide for the royal visit.

But the rains came. They flooded roads, fields and creeks all along his route. When the land rover wasn't axle-deep in water it was axle-deep in boggy mud.

This didn't bother Burton. Day after day he drove, pushed and pulled his way along. Wednesday he drove his mud-spattered land rover to Ceduna, 60 miles from Adelaide in time to wave to the Queen as she drove from Government House to the airfield for a plane trip along the Murray valley.

The Australian meteorological service today forecast smooth flying weather for the royal couple's flight Friday to Perth, western Australia. It will be their longest flight of the Australian tour. The first hop will cover 938 miles to Ceduna. Then they will have only 350 miles to fly to Perth.

Fresh Demands Made in House, Press to Banish A-War Threat

LONDON (AP)—Reports of the unexpected fury of the U. S. hydrogen bomb test explosion in the Pacific March 1 prompted fresh demands in Parliament and the press today for diplomatic efforts to banish the threat of atomic war.

The Daily Herald, Labor paper, in a rare front-page editorial, demands that the United States call off any more hydrogen bomb tests before it turns the Pacific into "a desert of evil." It calls on the British government to take the initiative in seeking international consultation "on all the problems involved by mankind in possession of the bomb."

The influential Manchester Guardian, Liberal, also warns of the possible "most serious" consequences of further hydrogen bomb tests. Newspapers gave prominent coverage to President Eisenhower's 1,700-word written statement Wednesday that somehing must have happened in the March 1 explosion that surprised and startled scientists.

ASK NEW APPROACH

In Parliament, Labor members renewed their demands for some sort of fresh approach to Russia. A few Conservatives also have been pressing for such action.

In the House of Lords Wednesday Lord Henderson, Labor, proposed an "all-in" Europe security treaty which would recognize the continued existence of both the East's defence arrangements and the West's NATO alliance. Lord Salisbury, Britain's atomic chief, said the government would be ready to study the idea.

FEAR, DESPAIR DANGER

London's Liberal News Chronicle says editorially that fear and despair over the hydrogen bomb may develop into a helpless apathy which might make atomic warfare "not only possible but inevitable."

The Daily Herald quotes an unnamed British atom scientist as saying: "It is now theoretically possible to make a hydrogen bomb that would disperse sufficient radioactivity to kill all humanity. He adds, however, that the bomb's immense size would make it impracticle "in any foreseeable future."

"But in my scientist's view," he has quoted as saying, "this explosion has now never reached the stage at which they should remove their experimental bomb from any land or any shipping routes."

URGES PETITION

Fenner Brockway, president of Britain's Methodist conference who frequently espouses left-wing causes, has joined in a campaign calling on Christians everywhere to petition their governments to ban or abolish atomic and hydrogen bombs.

Sabotage Blamed For Blast As 100 Polish Miners Perish

VIENNA (AP) — Warsaw radio said today that a large number of Polish coal miners, possibly as many as 100, have been killed in a major mine explosion at Chorzow in Silesia.

The broadcast charged sabotage, and said that when fire broke out in the mine, "several score" of the Polish miners buried and could not be pulled out in time to save them.

The Polish word used for "several score" could mean up to 100.

Investigations are being carried out by the prosecutor general and the minister of public security, the broadcast said, and those responsible will receive posthumously the highest decorations and their families will receive pensions and state protection.

NOT COURT

"We merely attempt to discharge our responsibility to be careful. We are not in the position of a court trying an individual and having to direct evidence, but we have rather to have the benefit of the doubt, if it can be given in favor of the insured.

"If there is any doubt about the likelihood of there being disloyalty, we just cannot take any risks; but we do not, in the case of any such kind of a conviction that would justify branding an individual in such a way as to cause him harm in the community generally."

The Committee of Fascist activities or associations are not the only reasons for dismissal or transfers, Coyne said. "Indecisions of weakness of personality or character habits and circumstances that render a person susceptible to pressure or blackmail, or unintentional indiscretions."

MEXICO SCHOOL OPENS

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico's new $22,000,000 University City opened for classes Wednesday with scant ceremony. Only 5,000 of the 30,000 students will study this year on the new campus, 15 miles out of town. The rest will not be moved to University City until all buildings have been furnished.

Red Paper Says U.S. Officials Acted as Spies

MOSCOW (AP)—The newspaper Trud today charged four members of the United States embassy's military staff with spying on Soviet airfields and other important installations while on a trip from Moscow to Vladivostok.

The embassy refused to comment.

Trud, the trade union newspaper, charged that the espionage mission was revealed in military intelligence reports the Americans left behind in their compartment on the trans-Siberian express. It said the chief conductor found the papers at the end of the run.

The newspaper's story continued, "constitute an intelligence report on the most important railroads between Moscow and Khaborovsk," an industrial and transportation centre of 300,000 persons north of Vladivostok on the Manchurian border."

German Free Love Advocates Jailed

MUNICH (Reuters)—Ten men and women members of a "free love" sect were sentenced here today on charges of procuring and immorality.

Two other members were acquitted.

The sect, called by its members "Die Weiheit" (truth), operated in a few secret centres around the town of Dennegdorf.

The 10 convicted members said they would continue as a secret sect practise "free love" after they had served their sentences — ranging from eight months to four years at hard labor.

Among those sentenced were Franz Xaver Angerer, 57-year-old stonemason and founder of the sect, and Josef Kochl, the sect's 53-year-old "bishop."

BIG PAY-OFF

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The winning double at the Warwick racetrack here returned $9,700 for a ticket that cost J. Darby the equivalent of 55 cents. He was the lucky punter to hit the winning combination that day.

Bizarre Case Of Double Murder Is Concluded

LONDON (AP) — The bizarre case of the double murder in the old folks' home was closed today, with Ronald Chesney, suicide husband, as one of the dead men named officially as the slayer. Police believe he killed his wife last Christmas Day, then took poison and marry a pretty German sweetheart.

A coroner's jury decided Wednesday that Chesney drowned his wife, Edith, 42, in the bathtub, then strangled her 73-year-old friend, Mrs. Rose Dixon, after she happened upon the scene.

Then Chesney, 46, Chesney shot himself dead in Cologne, Germany, leaving a note claiming his innocence. Police said he had a long record as a smuggler and adventurer.

Subway Chiselers Are Expected Soon

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Transit Commission expects some 50,000 persons will ride the new subway opens next Tuesday, TTC commissioner Norman admitted as much Wednesday night when alderman Allan Grossman said he didn't like the commission's plan which does not require transfers to be punched when entering to Bloor cars.

The TTC spokesman said the speedy decision to do away with the no-trans fer policy would "more than offset the loss there may be on chiselers."

'QUEEN' SETS RECORD

CHERBOURG, France (Reuters) The liner Queen Elizabeth docked here Wednesday after crossing the Atlantic at an average speed of 29.47 knots—setting for her—despite icebergs on the route. Cmdr. Denis Thompson, the captain, said she covered the 3,197 miles from New York in four days, 12 hours, 20 minutes. The transatlantic record, over a shorter 2,942-mile route from New York to the English coast, is held by the American liner United States, which averaged 35.56 in July, 1952.

GOVT. TAKING NO SECURITY RISKS WITH EMPLOYEES

No Publicity Given Dismissed Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—The government says it takes no security risks with its employees, but does not want to harm individuals by publicity concerned with every dismissals or transfers for security reasons.

Prime Minister St. Laurent informed the Commons Wednesday that the "number of security dismissals and transfers is "not very numerous."

However, he made no direct reply to a question by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) as to the number of civil servants affected by security precautions since Jan. 1, 1953.

Mr. St. Laurent said that in every instance the security department must consider the possibility of identification "that will cause unnecessary publicity to an individual who has not had any trial, and against whom no charge has been brought, but who, we feel, it would be undesirable to take risks for."

It would be difficult, if not impossible, to provide a breakdown of dismissals or transfers and the reasons for each case, the premier said, could be done it might be "not in the best interests of the public to state that kind of list public."

Under cross-examination, Williams agreed with the suggestion that an insured person contemplating suicide would not leave any trace of the fact.

R. J. Meyler, accountant at the Mead Johnson Company where Bell had been employed since 1934, said the late engineer had been covered to the amount of $2,000 up to last September, when a company policy change enabled him to increase it to $3,500 and $2,500 of this amount has been paid to the beneficiary, Mrs. Bell.

He did not know if the $1,000 rebate from the company pension fund had been paid to Mary Bell named as the beneficiary.

Armed Gunmen Enter Penitentiary At Rochester and Free Two Inmates

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Two armed ex-convicts bluffed their way into Rochester's state penitentiary early today, tied up two guards and swiftly engineered the escape of two prisoners. Several hours later police claimed the capture of both gunmen and one of the escaped prisoners.

Police said Joseph Compton, 30, of Dubois, Pa., one of the prisoners, and Paul R. Freeman, 24, of Rochester, accused of being one of the gunmen, were captured shortly after officers surrounded a house in southwest Rochester.

One hour or four earlier, police had picked up George (The Duke) Donner, 24, in Buffalo. He is in a hotel room, and accused him of being one of the gunmen.

Still at large was Anthony Mendola, 45, who had been serving three to five years for burglary.

Freeman and Bonner recently had been transferred to the penitentiary. Freeman after serving a term for non-support and Bonner after a term for passing a bad cheque.

Police quoted Compton as saying he and the other three had discussed an escape while they had been prisoners. But he said today's break was completely unplanned.

The hoodlums used a ruse to gain entrance to the penitentiary. Clyde Lavalla, 45, a prison guard, said the men appeared at the gate after midnight, saying they had a message for a new paper for Compton. Jefferds said he admitted them and then checked his ledger.

Then they turned to face them, one had drawn a revolver.

The gunmen then tied him with a necktie, put adhesive tape over his mouth and took his wallet and car keys. They took the tool kit keys and opened a cell-block door. Inside was James Marshall another inmate.

"Ok, I'll take over now," the gunmen told him.

He ordered Marshall to release the two guards and Mendola. The four returned to the turnkey's office, bound Marshall with his necktie and left him there.

The four then left in Jefferd's car.

The guards freed themselves in a few minutes and flashed the alarm.

Inspection of visitors' records showed that Mrs. Frances Brothers of Rochester had visited Compton Saturday. Detectives, sent to check on Brothers, found Jefferd's car outside his home. Brothers was not.

Meanwhile, a cab company reported a driver had been called to the neighborhood of Brothers' home and on arrival found the company told police nothing had been heard from the driver or the cab since then.

Policies Totalling $10,600 Taken Out By Percy Bell

Defence Requests News Ban on Certain Evidence

Life insurance to the amount of $10,600 had been placed on the late Percy Bell, husband of Mary E. Bell charged with his murder, evidence in the preliminary hearing revealed today.

In addition there was a rebate of premiums from Bell's employer company, amounting to $1,000. In all cases the beneficiary was named as Mary Bell.

Benefits were listed as $5,600 and $1,500 in Mutual Life Assurance policies, $2,500 in company group plan insurance.

FINANCIAL DEBT

Don Williams, insurance agent said Mrs. Bell had taken out the $1,500 policy to cover a debt owing to finance company. The policy had no cash surrender value and was payable in case of death only.

"The company", Williams said, "would not pay a claim on this policy if insured committed suicide within two years after issuance.

Mrs. Bell had asked the company to pay cash on the larger policy, but had been informed it would pay the monthly income of $20 a month to Mrs. Bell and that contained in a clause of the policy.

Under cross-examination, Williams agreed with the suggestion that an insured person contemplating suicide would not leave any trace of the fact.

R. J. Meyler, accountant at the Mead Johnson Company where Bell had been employed since 1934, said the late engineer had been covered to the amount of $2,000 up to last September, when a company policy change enabled him to increase it to $3,500 and $2,500 of this amount has been paid to the beneficiary, Mrs. Bell.

He did not know if the $1,000 rebate from the company pension fund had been paid to Mary Bell named as the beneficiary.

Veteran Refuses To Meet Queen Unless Wife Comes

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australian war veterans and newspapers today rallied behind a First World War hero who has refused to meet the Queen unless he can bring his wife.

Unqualified support was reported from Jack Axford's Australian army comrades who saw him with the Victoria Cross, Britain's highest military award.

Axford Wednesday turned down an invitation to be presented to the Queen at Perth this Saturday because his wife would not be permitted to sit beside him on a dais at the presentation. He pointed out that Australian parliamentary members are taking their wives to the dais; he refused arrangements for his wife to sit by herself in the gallery.

Officials ran into more snags Saturday today when a huge cross of barricades, flying colors "for your dead" and "God have mercy on us" were found hallowsahed on the door and walls of a bathroom set aside for a royal beauque Saturday. The beauque—dinner at noon - sights on disease-stricken Australia's recent epidemics in the middle ages—were thought to be a crank's derogatory on Western Australia's polio outbreak.

Three City, District Men Hold Tickets on Horses in Sweeps

Two Hastings county men, one in Belleville and the other from Frankford district, will be keeping their fingers crossed between now and Saturday hoping that horses drawn in sweepstake draws come through as winners.

Pat Melchior, 44 Evans Street, employee at the Belleville post office, has drawn "Martinique" in the Army and Navy sweepstakes, while Ross Dafoe, Frankford district farmer, has drawn "Gentle Maya" in the same sweep.

"I was really surprised when the telegram came notifying me that I had drawn a horse," Mr. Melchior stated today. "I have bought quite a number of tickets, always on the Army and Navy sweepstakes, but this is the first time I have ever drawn a horse."

The same was true for the Dafoes at Frankford. Mrs. Dafoe said her husband had bought the ticket. She said he bought tickets occasionally but she couldn't say whether they were Army and Navy or Irish Sweepstakes tickets.

"I don't know much about them," she said. "I do know, however, that this is the first time Ross has ever drawn a horse."

If horses drawn by Mr. Melchior or Mr. Dafoe come through as winner, the holder will receive first prize money of about $40,000.

A Lindsay man, George Jordan, working with the C.N.R. Bridge and Building at Madoc, has a horse on the Irish Sweepstakes. This is the first time Mr. Jordan has drawn a horse although he has bought tickets for years.

Fished-Out Lakes And Conservation Subject of Talk

Restoring fished-out lakes and conservation of our Canadian fishing was the subject of an interesting talk given last night at the "Y" by Ken Erlaava, biologist of the Department of Lands and Forests at Tweed, at the monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Protective Fish and Game Club. There were 125 in attendance and president Don McEachnon stated there would be only one more meeting before the anglers get their gear ready for the opening of the trout season. At each succeeding meeting more women and young girls and boys are present at the meeting, showing the trend that angling has on the increase of the populace.

Before Mr. Erlaava spoke, a film "Men With a Thousand Hands" was shown. The picture reviews the construction of the Kitimat project in British Columbia, and is most interesting and entertaining. Mr. McKinnon also showed a film resume of his trip to B.C., telling of the fishing, the scenic beauty and the type of bait used. He also announced that at the April meeting a "how to tie flies" will be held at which anglers could bring their own.

GIVEN LIFE MEMBERSHIP CARD

Mr. Joe Shortt, president of the club for the past years, Eastern Zone representative for years, and a member of the finance committee of the Ontario Federation, was presented with his gold life membership card by the past president. Mr. Shortt thanked the club for the gesture and was sure that he would do the work all over again because he had a great interest in the progress of the association.

Mr. Erlaava spoke of fish management within the department and told many interesting facts respecting the length of fish at certain ages at different lokes. The closing of lakes in Frontenac county was discussed at length and the speaker felt that it would help propagation of the water fish. He also spoke of stream improvement and believed that thrown trout could live under tougher conditions than the speckled trout.

He also stated that fish parasites were harmful if the fish were properly cooked. He believed that census cards would be a great help and that these cards should be carried in the tackle box at all times and after angling the cards should be filled out and sent to the department at Tweed.

Mrs. B. McMillan and R. M. Carmichael won the prizes that were drawn for and before the meeting concluded it was announced that Doug Lavell would be at the Trade Fair to give a demonstration of spinning and bait casting.

Slept in Marysville Shack, Man May Lose Both His Feet

A twenty-six-year-old Pembroke man faces amputation of both feet as result of having them frozen Tuesday night when he crawled into an abandoned shack near Marysville to sleep.

Dr. D. C. McVicker of Deseronto stated Michael Fitzpatrick had both hands and feet frozen during the night in the open shack. Every effort was being made to save the man's feet from amputation. The father of Fitzpatrick's hands would be all right.

Provincial police said the man had gone into the shack near Marysville on No. 2 highway, 15 miles east of Bel- ville, to spend the night. They were no windows in the shack and his feet became frozen. Thursday afternoon Fitzpatrick was able to attract the attention of passing children and he was taken to hospital at Belleville.

Woman Falls Out of Car, Not Injured

As she reached for the door open door she lost her balance and fell out of the car. The driverless car continued along the highway 125 feet and smashed into a tree.

Puppetry Course May Be Given In City

Puppetry is gaining in favor in all parts of Canada and last night at St. Charles School auditorium, George Merten, puppetry adviser to the Community Program Branch of the Department of Education gave an interesting and instructive talk on the subject to members of the Recreation Commission and a large number of residents from the city and Trenton.

Mr. Merten teaches summer courses in puppetry at Western and McMaster Universities and the Gaitskill summer school at Trenton. He gave a short demonstration in the form of a variety show and answered many questions in regard to the construction, manipulation of the puppets to the beginners and how to organize a puppet club.

The chairman of the local recreation playground and rink, thanked the speaker for his interesting and instructive demonstration and told his listeners some of the aims and objectives of the commission. He stated that the commission was formed about three years ago by a vote of the electors and that at present the members had utilized most of the time in organizing playgrounds and entertainment for the children.

"I think that the city with the present list of playgrounds to be put in operation this year, is well equipped," he said. "I am sure that the commission will give every facility to organize a Puppet group and judging from the enthusiasm shown here tonight, it will be a popular one." Mr. Merten through Charles Weir, representative of the district for the department, has promised to have a course of two or three days in this city in the fall and all interested people are requested to get in touch with L. C. "Red" Doran, recreational director, who will assist in organizing the group.

Members Clash Over Treatment Of Ailing Chicks

TORONTO (CP)—Two government members of the legislature clashed Wednesday over the treatment of ailing chickens.

Harold Fishleigh (PC—Toronto Woodbine) charged that feed-store proprietors who dispense "drugs" for ailing chickens were "quacks."

Ray Connell (PC — Hamilton-Wentworth) disagreed. He said that when his chickens become sick he'd much prefer to deal with a feed man than a druggist or a veterinary surgeon.

The members argued during a meeting of the legislature's health committee which heard objections from representatives of the pharmacy profession over the Pharmacy Act passed last year but not yet proclaimed.

W. V. Moffatt and C. P. Taylor, members of the council of the Ontario College of Pharmacy, and A. Goldfinch, president of the Toronto Retail Pharmacists' Association, all claimed that the sale of antibiotics by "unqualified persons," even for veterinary purposes, "has not proven satisfactory."

Mr. Fishleigh said feed men who sell antibiotic preparations were "quacks" because they prescribe treatment. Mr. Connell declared they were capable men who gave better service than druggists or veterinary surgeons.

Spruce and Jackpine Are Soon to Be Graded

TORONTO (CP)—It may soon be as simple to choose grades of eastern Canada spruce and jackpine as it is to select the grade of butter and eggs.

The Ontario Retail Lumber Dealers' Association said at its 37th annual convention Wednesday that a standard set of grading rules, by which consumers can select the lumber, will go into effect in a few months.

STEAM-HEATED HOT AIR?

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The city hall here has been too hot since a section of the boiler used to heat it burst. An old steam tandem roller, which put its best years of service into smoothing asphalt paving on city streets, was pressed into service. It's a good temporary boiler but the heat can't be controlled.

Dept. Neutral On Fluoridation Of Drinking Water

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government is not prepared at the present time to approve or condemn the fluoridation of water as a tooth decay preventive, Health Minister Phillips said in the legislature Wednesday.

He said the health department had full files on both sides of the much-debated question. He was replying to G. C. Gordon (Lt.-Brantford) who asked what the government's position was on the matter.

Mr. Gordon also renewed his attack on a sewage fluoridation area recently in The Globe and Mail which, he said, were prejudiced against fluoridation.

Earlier he had said the articles referred to Mr. Charles Dillon who, Mr. Gordon said, was not known in Suffield, a town area in which he had been reported as having done research. He also had compiled a report for British and United States dental authorities.

Mr. Gordon referred to the reports by other authorities attaching the Suffield findings. "They have found that only 40 per cent of the women in South Shields, an area of fluoridated water, visited by Dillon, were dentures as compared with 70 per cent in North Shields, a non-fluoride water area" Mr. Gordon said.

CNA VIEW

Dr. Phillips said his department had been in constant touch with Canadian Medical Association and the World Health Organization on the subject.

He quoted a letter from the CMA which said:

"This association has not endorsed any research project on fluoridation and it seems regrettable that many people are reading into our reports certain recommendations which may or may not be there."

From the W.H.O. letter, Dr. Phillips read:

"This organization has not expressed any official view on water fluoridation."

Easter seals are going out in the mails this week and with them an appeal from the Belleville Rotary Club for residents of Belleville and district to be generous and help provide for the aid crippled children in the city area.

The Rotary Club launches an annual Easter Seal Campaign to raise funds for its welfare work among the crippled children and through contributions given by the public many children in the area have been aided.

Since that time $,350 children in the Quinte area have received corrective or clinical treatment. Fourteen areous cases received help last year. Children with polio and others with bone deformities were provided with corrective braces and shoes, together with clinical treatment both at Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto and the Kingston General Hospital.

SUDBURY (CP) — Board of control decided Wednesday to demand that the province's unconditional grant to the city be increased from $2.50 a person to $4. The decision must be approved by council.

Never Suspicious of Mrs. Bell, Jenners, Boarder in Home, Tells Preliminary Hearing

Roscoe "Rusty" Jenners, roomer at the home of Mrs. Mary Bell, charged with the murder of her engineer husband, Percy W. Bell on January 3, testified at yesterday afternoon's session of the preliminary hearing into the circumstances that would point the finger of suspicion at the accused woman.?

Under cross examination by Ronald W. Cass, counsel for the accused, Jenners said, in reply to the query: "What is a bad question to answer, but if you were referring to anything that happened around the house on the night of January 2, I know nothing of that nature."

Re-examined later by crown prosecutor Alex. Hall, Q.C., Jenners was asked why he qualified his answer to the question of Mr. Cass.

"Have you had any suspicions since that night?" asked Mr. Hall.

"I have never had any suspicions at any time," Jenners replied.

Jenners strongly denied during examination by the crown that he had given strychnine in any form or manner to Percy Bell.

"Do you know of anybody else administer it?" asked Mr. Hall.

KEPT EYES AVERTED

During the entire period of Jenner's testimony Mrs. Bell kept her head averted. She sobbed, at times, and it will be witness. Midway through his evidence she removed the familiar glasses and, instead, held a small black dress.

Her hair is far more subdued than before the type as had been reported, now is the "haggard and pale."

The boarder adjourned at noon today because of previous judicial engagements. It will be resumed at the first of the week.

Under examination by the crown, Jenners said he could not recall that Bell had a bruise on his face on Wednesday, September 16.

"Did Mr. Bell vomit on the day he died?" Jenners said he only once and it flew in all directions. Some of it struck my sweater."

Mrs. Bell moved to another part of the house after the death of her husband.

On the night of Bell's death, Mrs. Bell wore a dark housecoat and Jenners said he could not recall to Bell.

Could she change this apparel before the doctor or undertaker came?"

"I don't think so."

ADMITTED OWNERSHIP

Jenners admitted ownership of it cloth, but said there was a tear in it and a button missing. August 28.

He could not recall the date he left the Bell residence for Toronto but it was two weeks after Bell's death. No one else lived there.

He said he did not know of in the house was iodine in a fishing tackle box.

"Did you make a pass at Mrs. Bell on the night after they came back from a dance at the Club Commodore?"

"No."

On the night of the death, witness and Bell went upstairs together, Jenners said.

He could not remember if he had a drink with Bell that night.

Bell called him He never heard Mrs. Bell come upstairs. He was in his room and remained that way until awakened. He did not see Mrs. Bell that night. Bell's bedroom door was always open.

PAID $1 WEEKLY

He paid a week for his room and 40 cents a meal. He usually paid Mrs. Bell every Wednesday.

Asked if he had a dressing gown, Jenners said "yes, but never thought to wear it when awakened on January 2nd.

He denied ever a reporter named Boyd Upper, who talked to him, had seen him in his dressing gown.

He denied to me Mrs. Bell did not want me to talk to him. There was a lot of publicity about the matter and I didn't like it any more than she did.

"Was Mrs. Bell's apparent state of health?"

Mr. Arnott objected to the use of words pertaining to the furnace was not working properly and Bell might have gone down for that purpose. He was down there nine or ten minutes.

Bell said later "My old liver is kicking up" and witness volunteered to get him the Little Liver pills.

"How many did he take?"

"I do not know."

"Were they white?"

"Yes."

"Did you notice a greyish one in Bell's hand?"

"I could not see them."

SAY IN CHAIR

Bell sat down in a chair when he first came up from the cellar. Five minutes later he said "I'm going to bed" and witness followed him upstairs. He did not hear of Mr. Bell. Cop. return to.

On the visit to Wooler on Jan. 1st., the Bells and witness' aunt and Bell ate a dinner prepared by Jenners' mother.

Bell ate dinner and all that goes with it, cranberries cucumber pickles, etc. Coffee was drunk. The witness played with Mrs. Bell's Mc" on his violin at the request of Mr. Bell. Cop. return to Belleville, Bell put the car away, while Mrs. Bell and Jenners went into the house. He could not recall the length of time that elapsed before Bell came into the house.

Bell had taken three kinds of chocolates and Christmas candy during the visit to Wooler, Jenners said.

OBJECTION SUSTAINED

"Did Mr. Bell ever buy liquor for you before September?" Objection sustained by Mr. Cass.

"She served drinks when the Bells were watching television," Jenners said.

He did not know how much liquor she bought.

He accompanied the Bells at times on parties, only when Mrs. Bell asked him. Relations were friendly and good between the witness and the Bells.

"Did Mr. Bell ever have an imposition?" asked Mr. Hall.

"No."

Nothing they did was none of my business."

"Did you ever smell cocoa in the Bell home on that night?"

"No," said Jenners.

KNEW NOTHING

Dr. G. S. Cronk, the Bell's family doctor, said he had known Mrs. Bell since 1928 and had treated him only once since 1948.

Dr. Cronk said he regarded Bell as a healthy man.

The doctor said he was at home on the night of January 2 when a phone was by his bed, and he was told that he would have heard it had it rung.

Questioned by Mr. Cass, Dr. Cronk said that Bell's illness was caused by pus in the kidneys and would require surgery.

PHONE DID NOT RING

Dr. Cronk said his residence phone did not ring in his bedroom.

"You were not the doctor who told Mrs. Bell she was suffering from kidney chills?"

"No," replied Dr. Cronk.

Dr. Austin Walters said he had examined Percy Bell twice without the latter being aware of it life insurance policy.

The doctor said his point produced two insurance policies, one for $5,000 and the other a shorter term.

The witness stated he recommended that a $10,000 would have made no difference to his being a good insurance risk.

Witness was not sure whether he was home on the night of January 2nd. As a matter of convenience, he said, had nothing to do with his duties on that evening.

Recalled by the crown, Dr. Walters reiterated he couldn't be sure where he spent the evening of January 2nd.

Billy Graham Preaches Bible Says Bishop

LONDON (Reuters) — Billy Graham, whose theater - packing evangelist crusades now in its fourth month, has become a target of controversy, was described by an Anglican bishop Wednesday as "a fine, sincere man" but not a prophets and religious leaders."

Rt. Rev. R. Stannard, Bishop of Barking, said in a speech: "Billy Graham has been able to fill Harringay Arena to capacity. Every night, after hearing him, thousands of people have rushed to give themselves to God."

The bishop said 533 persons made their "decision for Christ" at Graham's meeting here Wednesday night. That made a total of 7,458 since the "crusade" began January 14.

"Why does this man get results?" the bishop asked. "Because he preaches the Bible while we clergy are too apt to substitute for it our own ideas, bursts in on us and causes us astonishing numbers of people to come to God. Surely we can learn from Billy Graham. We have to preach the Gospel to people in Communists believe in their religion."

The British Free Church Federal Council, in congress at Worthing, Sussex, also supported Graham.

The moderator, Rev. E. Benson Perkins, told the congress that Graham's methods "should be adopted for the crusade or not, they ought to thank God for its results."

POLICIES

SOLD BELL INSURANCE

Don Williams, Mutual Life Assurance Company representative, said he sold a policy of $2000 with a decreasing term rider, Rebence brought out the fact that Bonnie Jenners shortly after the policy was taken out the beneficiary would receive $2,000 on the term rider and $2,000 on the policy, plus $40 a month for life.

Mrs. Bell was present at all times during discussions of insurance. Mrs. Bell paid the premium by cheque, $38.45 quarterly.

"Who was the beneficiary?"

"Mrs. Bell."

The value of the policy at the time of Bell's death would be $5,000, the witness told the court.

In August, Mrs. Bell called the witness' office and said she was interested in more insurance. She took out a five-year term policy for $1,500 which she said was to cover a financial emergency.

This policy had no cash surrender value, Mr. Williams said, in case of death.

The company, Williams said, would carry a claim on this policy if insured committed suicide within two years of the insurance.

Mrs. Bell had asked witness to pay the cash on the first policy, but the company said it would only pay the beneficiary.

DEFENCE COUNSEL OBJECTS

Defence counsel Ron Cass strongly objected to the admissability of the insurance claim evidence being brought by the crown. Magistrate Wylie said: "It is going to be subject to objections. You can object in another court if you wish. I am not going to rule out evidence because someone objects to it."

Williams said he had seen Bell's will but could not recall any changes in the beneficiary. Rosco Jenners' name was not appointed.

He had received the will from lawyer James Bell, Percy's brother, who told him it was in the lawyer's possession.

NOT CROSS-EXAMINED

Under cross-examination witness said it was not unusual to claim on a policy of suicide.

He did not know of any reason why the company would not issue a policy for $5,000 to Bell.

It was the first time to his knowledge that a company policy had been taken out to cover a finance company debt, said Williams. He did not know if this is a usual occurrence.

Referring to the suicide clause which states no payment would be made if the insured committed suicide within two years, counsel suggested that therefore Bell, now deceased, would not leave any trace of suicide.

TELLS OF WORK

Mrs. Mary Bell, accountant at the Mead, Johnson Company branch here, said Bell started work there as a stationary engineer in 1938. He made $60 a week.

Taylor said Bell, outside of vacation, worked 40 hours plus overhours from work since 1954? He had two weeks' vacation each year. He took his last vacation in August, the other the last two years, Taylor said.

The company had group insurance, Taylor said. The company kept a file on the hours Bell worked and the employee pays for the rest. Bell's policy was in charge of $2,500, with his wife named as the beneficiary.

"Of this insurance $2,500 has been paid," Taylor said.

Bell would not be entitled to a refund of nearly $1,000 from the pension fund, which would go to Mary E. Bell, his witness did not know if it had been paid.

ARRANGED INSURANCE

The witness, with the company superintendent, Mr. Mead, had met Bell home on January 3 to arrange claim papers. He had known Bell and visited him a number of Bell's will, for insurance purposes.

He saw Mrs. Bell a week later after he had forwarded a cheque for $1,901.09 to her. He called on her for advice on how to handle the money. Bishop suggested a joint account she had with Bell.

Cross-examined, Taylor said the $3,500 coverage on Bell's life had been in effect since September. Previously it was $2,000.

There was an overall coverage.

Questioned under questioning by the crown, Taylor said Bell had taken policy for $2,500 in charge and increased his insurance to $3,500.

D. C. King, manager of the Niagara Finance Company branch here testified that the company had loaned Mr. and Mrs. Bell approximately $1,400. The company had paid off smaller loans to other companies in various amounts totalling $1,400. Last transaction to the Bells was $74. The loan was made on Dec. 28th, 1953, by the Bellvue Finance.

MADE APPOINTMENT

In his December witness received a phone call from Bell, and made an appointment for him to see Bell next year. Mrs. Bell had also phoned, but the witness did not know what for.

Mr. King said that Mrs. Bell phoned him in January and wanted to know if he had heard about her husband. He told her he had read about it.

The defence suggested the finance company might suggest protection of the loan with life insurance coverage of the wage earner. The witness did not know why the loans were re-financed by the Bellvue Finance Company.

INSPECTOR TESTIFIES

The hearing resumed at 11.35 a.m. with C.I.B. Inspector Frank Kelly taking the stand after some debate between counsel.

Mr. Hall said: "I understand, your worship, that this hearing will have to be enlarged. I propose to call Inspector Kelly with reference to the disinterment of the body and the exhumation order and the continuity of exhibits, so that the validity of the exhumation order can be established.

Mr. Cass remarked that he would prefer that all of Inspector Kelly's evidence be presented at one time for a continued cross examination.

Magistrate Wylie said that Cass that it was a matter of time now and that Mr. Hall would not be established in Mr. Cass' satisfaction the validity of the exhumation order.

Inspector Kelly took the stand and identified the signature on the exhumation order from Inspector Hayes on January 9th and took it to Dr. Cecil Cameron at the Riverview cemetery.

He gave the letter subsequently to Mrs. Smith, secretary Riverview cemetery.

SIGNATURE GENUINE

Inspector Kelly stated that he was satisfied that the signature on the exhumation order was that of Attorney General Dana Porter.

Mr. Hall read the letter which authorized the disinterment of the body of Percy Bell, Bell for the purpose of autopsy and investigation by the coroner for death.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Cass, Inspector Kelly stated that the order was issued on the advice of Dr. Cameron and Coroner Gordon Robertson, Q.C., and Magistrate Wylie. Also Mr. Hope, senior solicitor in the attorney general's department.

Mr. Cass stated that it has not yet been proven that the exhumation order was properly issued.

"There are some intriguing aspects to the first court," he told Mr. Cass.

Magistrate Wylie stated that he has tried to bring the issue to a head.

EVIDENCE ADMISSIBLE

Mr. Hall explained that even if there were no order to disinter the evidence was still admissible. If it were necessary to identify Mr. Porter's signature it could be brought into the box myself," said Mr. Hall.

Magistrate Wylie allowed the evidence given by Inspector Kelly to be subject to objection.

Mr. McWilliams said that Bell was his understanding that Mr. Bell was a smoker before he left Mead Johnson. The company in 1947 and started smoking again in November 1953 after a friend."

INTERESTS DIFFERED

Mr. McWilliams stated that Mr. Bell had a small estate to his heirs. "After the fishing season, I think," he said. He stated he had visited Mrs. Bell when she lived on John street and on Albert street after the death of her husband during those three years ago, "because our interests differed."

He said that Mrs. Bell were sociable.

"I never saw them fighting," he said.

At this point Mr. Cass objected to the publication of this evidence.

Mr. Wylie said, "I think I am right in over-ruling your objection and will not say anything to the press about it. Mr. Cass intimated that he felt cross-examination might bring out information which might be prejudicial to his client and therefore he did not want this information published.

Magistrate Wylie said he would not rule on hypothetical cases until something of that sort occurred.

INSTRUCTS WITNESS

Mr. Hall instructed Mr. McWilliams not to reveal anything which had been said by Percy Bell.

Magistrate Wylie said that anything said in the presence of the witness was admissible in evidence.

"I am going to rule it as admissible," said Magistrate Wylie.

McWilliams said that Mrs. Bell told him everything, that she had account, house and all and was in her name. She said these things when

Newfoundland Plans Fishery Development

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The speech from the throne mentioned only two acts and a joint resolution when Newfoundland legislature opened Wednesday.

The bill would authorize creation of a fisheries development authority to supervise the spending of "the great many millions of dollars in fishery development."

Premier Joseph R. Smallwood, Minister Leader of the Progressive Conservative opposition, said the speech was somewhat "thin."

Liberal Premier Joseph Smallwood said: "He's going to have so much about fish in this session he's going to feel like a fish."

The bill to establish legislature, Labor Minister A. E. Stalling, a Progressive Conservative, introduced a Weekly Rest Period Act. It provides for employers, with some exceptions, to be given a weekly rest period of at least 24 consecutive hours.

The Manitoba legislature cleared the way for construction of an approving Treasurer R. D. Turner's 1954-55 budget for $50,633,019.

Plan Six Rinks

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control has approved in principle a $562,000 capital program for six rinks in Toronto's parks in 1954. They will replace about 40 natural rinks.

The six rinks would bring to 10 the number in Toronto's parks system. Four are permanent; the others portable.

GERMAN PARSON ARRESTED

BERLIN (Reuters) — Roman Catholic Church officials here today confirmed the first arrest of an East German parson since a church-state truce was concluded on June 10. He is Johannes Tschop of Sonneberg, Thuringia, whose arrest Feb. 27 has just become known here. No official reason was given, but church officials said they believed that he had circulated "undesirable" Christian pamphlets.

WILL MAKE TRUCKS CARRY BUMPERS

Soon all Ontario motor vehicles may be compelled to carry rear bumpers. This is a move which has been proposed in the editorial columns of this newspaper more than once in recent years.

There was a day when bumpers served to greatly reduce the damage in many highway collisions.

The effectiveness of bumpers, however, has been steadily reduced as the weight of the vehicles, and the speeds at which they travel, have increased.

Why, then, should the Ontario Legislature consider making the installation of bumpers compulsory at this late date?

Because there is one class of vehicle on which their installation would be of great value. We refer to large trucks.

As trucks have got larger, and cars have got lower, the danger has increased of serious injuries resulting from cars running into the rear of the trucks. Very frequently the car is travelling only slightly faster than the truck. The impact is not great. But, because the force of this collision may fall on the body of the car in close proximity to the driver, very serious injuries or death can result from what should otherwise be a trivial accident.

There is one difficulty. Hon. George Doucett, Minister of Highways, reports that to date no suitable method has been found for the attachment of bumpers to certain heavy vehicles. It is hoped that this problem will shortly be solved. When it is the government proposes to issue an order-in-council making the installation of this equipment compulsory.

TRANSPORTATION TREND

Timing is important. Both the golfer driving for the green and the golfer's wife driving for a new green hat are aware of that fact. Seldom, however, does one see such excellent timing achieved by executives as that displayed this week by the Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Good Roads Association. The same mail brought reports from both these organizations to the editorial desk.

The C.N.R. reported that, despite record revenues of $896,622,451, its surplus was "disappointingly small," only $244,017 to.

The Canadian Good Roads Association reported that in less than two decades trucks had more than doubled the share of livestock shipped to the stockyards. In 1934 trucks carried only 25.5 per cent of the cattle shipped to stockyards and packing plants. In 1952 71 per cent of the cattle were delivered by trucks. Trucks handled an even larger proportion of the calves in 1952, 79 per cent compared to 37 per cent in 1934. In 1952 70 per cent of the hogs were shipped by truck, compared to 35.4 per cent in 1934. Those for sheep were 58 per cent in 1952 and 34.6 per cent in 1934.

The Canadian Good Roads Association report does not include any statistics for other freight handled by trucks. But it, too, has increased. The competition which the railroads are facing from highway transportation has been the theme of much discussion. These figures on livestock shipments will, however, surprise many, so marked is the trend revealed in this field.

AN UNUSUAL OBSERVATION

Malcolm Muggeridge, the editor of Punch, told an Ottawa audience that he is "a factor in the freedom, a bulwark against totalitarianism and the first casualty of dictatorship."

We have heard that before.

Mr. Muggeridge also said that good taste is the enemy of humor.

That idea may not be original but it is certainly more unusual. One's first reaction is to wonder whether Mr. Muggeridge has been misquoted. It seems strange to find totalitarianism and good taste placed in the same camp as the foes of humor.

But after our first surprise we may find ourselves wondering whether we have not been an example of that description. Perhaps it is only because the world's dictators have too often been assisted, although unintentionally, by those whose "good taste" prevented them from adopting the only effective methods of fighting totalitarianism.

We need, however, to be careful not to confuse "good taste" as Mr. Muggeridge has used the phrase, with bad taste. Not only is there no need to discard them in any fight against dictatorship but it is absolutely essential that they should be our guide-posts to action.

LET'S ABOLISH MARCH!

The Romans decreed 12 months in the year. We propose that this be changed to 11, by the simple process of suppressing March.

Let February be given a reasonable number of days —say 44 in ordinary years, 45 in leap years—and let April be 45 days too. Thus February, which everybody expects to be miserable anyway, will carry on until what is now the 14th or 15th of March, and April will begin as soon as February ends.

We are entitled to have decent weather in April, and with April beginning a full two weeks earlier the weatherman will know that he is expected to deliver. Or else. (Calgary Herald).

THE ENDURING CHARMS

Style and custom come and go,
What is now a splendid show
Will perhaps tomorrow be Something people laugh to see.
Fads and fancies reign awhile,
Then are labeled 'out of style;'
Things no longer to admire;
Dead to fashion and desire.

Joys men cunningly create
Pass when they are out of date.
Something different, something new,
Restlessly we all pursue.

Weary of the old, we crave
Some fresh fashion to enslave.
What's forever passed by fast,
When it comes it cannot last.

But although from year to year
Lilac blossoms reappear,
Though their charms are ages old,
Still we love of men they hold.
Still the tulips and the phlox,
Peonies and hollyhocks
Stay in fashion. Time nor change
Can man's love for them estrange.

Valediction of Anson

(St. Thomas Times—Journal)

The passing of an old friend felt with regret, no matter how long it has been since last you were in his company or how low big clothes and worldly cares has sunk since the days of his prime.

There are many who will read with misty reminiscence that the R.C.A.F. is turning out to pasture all but one of the Anson aircraft in possession of the service, the case being the scrap-heap of the War Assets Corporation. The one will be kept as an "historical" memento."

The Anson was noisy, cold, slow, uncomfortable, held together by sticky glue and baling wire, invariably equipped with fuel lines that became clogged by instruments, that were too temperamental to be relied on and doors that refused to close with less than half an inch clearance. But, for all its faults, it was the patient nurse that taught the first steps of the grim business of war to many young Canadian airmen in the early years of the past conflict.

Many of those airmen who went on from Ansons to Harvards, to Lancasters, to Mosquitos, to Spitfires of the new era, will hold most memorable their early uncertain flights in a decrepit yellow Anson. Many a navigator will recall sitting on an upturned pail in the rear of the plane, trying to chart a course with compasses and map in one hand and holding on to the pail with the other.

For all the drawbacks the Anson was reliable. It may have been a slow trawling box-car with a maximum speed of 110 miles an hour, but it did not indulge in displays of temperament like a Harvard or a Cansec. When it got hungry, or when the man at the controls decided it was time to refuel, the Anson would trundle in to any airport and, with a mere grunt of protest, would accept the gasoline and oil that was proffered.

It was the Anson that taught the fledgling pilot to "feel" his plane, to sense the moment when the controls should be eased back to bring the machine into a three-point landing. ## Banks Increase Service Charge On Cheques

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's 11 chartered banks have increased the service charge on savings accounts to 10 from eight cents a cheque, the Canadian Bankers' Association announced today.

T. H. Atkinson, vice-president and general-manager of the Royal Bank of Canada and association president, said in a statement the increase was implemented "because of the cost of servicing the ever-growing number of cheques drawn on these (savings) accounts."

He said the number of cheques drawn on savings accounts is more than 10,000,000 a year and the increase is an attempt to meet part of the mounting cost of the bookkeeping involved. The increase will bring the banks about $2,000,000 yearly.

The charge is the amount the banks deduct from a savings account for each cheque drawn. The charges, computed quarterly come into effect with the first quarter of the year, the January-March period.

The banks will allow one free cheque for a quarterly balance of $100; two free cheques for a $200 balance, and three free cheques for $300 or more.

Announce Stand On Budget Day

The Quebec tax will amount to about 15 per cent of federal income tax collections in the province. Present federal tax laws permit deduction of only five per cent of the federal payments.

Weddings

FARQUHARSON—ASHBURY

Lovely standards of spring flowers, daffodils, tulips, iris and snapdragons adorned the altar of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Belleville, and white satin bows marked the pews for the wedding on Saturday, March 6th, at 2:30 p.m., when the Rev. J. G. Hornsby, pastor of the church, united in marriage, Elizabeth Ethel Ashbury, Toronto, daughter of Mrs. James R. Ashbury, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Ashbury, to Gordon Henry Taylor Farquharson, Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Farquharson, of Corbyville, Ont.

Mr. Kenneth Cowan, organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist Miss Ethel Crutcher, of Toronto, who sang, "The Lord's Prayer" and "Through the Years."

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. Leonard Galloway, of Toronto, was lovely in her white taffeta and tulle gown featuring a redingote of Chantilly lace fashioned with sweetheart collar with fitted buttoned-down-the-front bodice and long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. The skirt fell in graceful folds of billowing net. She wore a matching lace headdress edged with seed pearls which held her fingertip nylon tulle veil, and carried a bride's bouquet of red and white Christmas beauty roses backgrounded with white lace.

Miss Bernice Ashbury was Miss Janette Ashbury, of Belleville, sisters of the bride, were maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively attired alike in Dresden blue taffeta gowns, in ballerina length, with overskirts of triple type net. # 'How to Keep Pre-School Child Occupied', Heard at Contact Club

Monday evening's meeting of the Contact Club, Christ Church, took the form of a social gathering which was attended by a large group of members. The "Mom Squad" was in charge of the happy and also instructive program.

The speaker for the evening, Catherine Roulet, was introduced by Daisy Rosevear who recalled with pleasure two previous talks Catherine had presented to the club. Catherine is an active Contact Club member and a graduate of the Froebel Institute of London, England, a training centre for kindergarten teachers. Her talk on "How to Keep the Pre-School Child Occupied" was full of suggestions and good advice.

BETTERING CHILDREN'S LOT

Froebel was a German who dedicated his life to bettering the lot of children. In his day, children were put to work at an early age, working in mines, as chimney sweeps and hard labor of all descriptions. The only education received was the barest minimum and consisted of the three R's. Children were taught at an old age in the wonderful adventure of education. Froebel founded a training college for teachers in Germany but his revolutionary methods met with strong opposition and he was expelled from his country and went to England. There he met Madame Mitcha, and together, they worked for the betterment of conditions for children. A Holiday Home for Children, sponsored by the "Save the Children Fund" is operated by present and past students of the Froebel Institute—a fitting tribute to the memory of the man who founded the kindergarten. Contrary to some modern teachings the young child needs and actually welcomes guidance in his own feeling of security. This is necessary to prevent children from the rules which govern all as they grow older and also to make them liked and accepted. A child who is kept well occupied at his own intelligence level is usually a happy child who needs little in the way of punishment. A tiny child cannot be expected to keep himself occupied and amused for long periods of time and a wise parents, when introducing a new form of activity will work along with him until he becomes accustomed to the new idea.

PLAY ACCESSORIES

A playpen for the small baby and a gate across the doorway of the older child's room will serve to keep him near enough for friendly conversation and among his own special possessions. Outdoors, a large wired pen is recommended to keep mother from worrying about traffic and little wanderers from straying. Large toys, as old tire and blocks of wood will keep children's ones busy.

For the pre-schooler the C.B.C. "Kindergarten of the Air" is an excellent program. Painting with bright colors and large brushes gives much satisfaction and may be enjoyed by parents and children together. Children never tire of stories and mother should learn the art of telling the story

O.S.D. Students Display Attractive Art Work, Leather Handicraft

A lovely display of student art and handicraft by the pupils of the Ontario School for the Deaf has been on display for several days at the Model Dairy Dressing and will continue until Saturday of this week.

Among the large variety shown are oils, depicting fantasy painting, in shades and tones, resembling marble, in gorgeous colors, eye-catching and intriguing; landscapes realistic and colorful; posters, bearing the legend: "Protect Our Children" drawing in nature- study; paste patterns for book covers; and a case of leather handicraft.

LOVELY WINTER SCENE

There were two large murals, one depicting a lovely winter scene, showing snow-covered mountains in the distance, with a tall evergreen and a bridge in the foreground, and children sliding down a hill on the right, the whole backed by a dun-colored sky, which was most pleasing with its crystal cleanness and human interest. The other was of Autumn, "The golden glow" sinking behind the red house, with a picturesque old barn and a leafless tree having a little squirrel all curled up for his long nap. Both murals were done, with colors and subject matter corresponding to the season it wished to show.

The posters were of several different kinds, from all dealing with the idea of fire hazard; one showed a smoke filled room, with flames and two children being rescued by the distraught mother; "Burning Leaves" was another, which by picture bore out the old Chinese adage: "One picture is worth 1000 words." This showed the ideal way in which to dispose of dead leaves by placing them in a wired receptacle. Human interest centred around the little lad, who was pictured as fireman, his hose and red wagon, who came rushing to the scene of the blaze, accompanied by his little terrier.

TO THE RESCUE

Another poster was that of firemen pouring streams of water upon a tall tenement or factory building from whose windows flames were ies rather than always reading them. At an early age the child should learn to love books and many be introduced to the children' room at the local library, where he will soon take pride in choosing his own stories.

Listening to and making music is another rewarding activity that the family may participate in together. Belleville children are fortunate in having musical opportunities in the form of school bands. Community singing and talk with the charmingly told "Little Boy Blue and the Lazy Wife." The enthusiastic appreciation of the club members was expressed by Joyce Woodley.

A number of amusing games were conducted by Alice Wonnacott and Merle Brennen were enjoyed and prizes and winners being Marg. Shappee, Daisy Rosevear and Lois Beeby. A fine display of aprons to be sold at the forthcoming "Shop-Right Store" was on view.

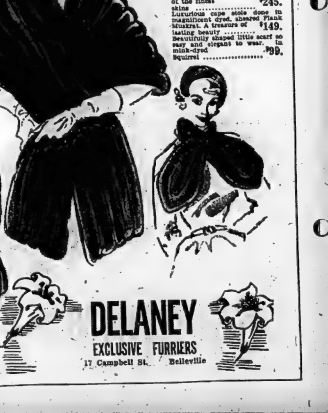
W.S.G. Discusses Book, 'So Little For The Mind'



The Women's Study Guild which met at the home of Mrs. George Wishart, Dufferin Avenue, on Monday evening, took up as their monthly topic the much-discussed book by Dr. Hilda Neatby, "So Little For the Mind, an Indictment of Canadian Education."

Following a brief business meeting, under the chairmanship of Mrs. A. D. Archibald, an appropriate worship service was led by Mrs. Ardell Wilson, who told the story of "Hannah", and his campaign for literacy among the three-fifths of the human race who are still illiterate.

The "indictment" of various chapters of the book were summarized by three local teachers, Miss Olive Kleen, Miss Frances Sullivan and Mrs. Edna Emery. Much interesting and enlightening discussion, both pro and con, resulted.

At the close, light refreshments were served by the hostess committee.

GOOD MANNERS

By: MRS. BEECKMAN

SHE WANTS TO WEAR LIGHT-COLORED DRESS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have two questions about a June wedding.

1. Would it be correct for an elderly woman to wear a light-colored dress to an evening wedding or must she wear black?

2. Is it correct for a woman to wear a hat at an evening wedding? — P.M.M.

1. It's definitely not a must that any woman, younger or older, should wear black to an evening wedding. An older woman (even, as you say, an "elderly" woman) may suitably wear a light-colored dress to an evening wedding. The dress should be of her most becoming color . . . perhaps a gray of a soft shade. Please, only if gray is becoming to her, and not just because it is often regarded as a suitable color for an older woman), perhaps a lovely light shade of blue, perhaps a beige, very often the most effectively becoming color.

2. The requirement of the decoration of the church in which the ceremony is held must be observed as concerns the wearing of hats in an evening wedding. However, some women always wear some kind of head-covering at an evening wedding. a simple little bandeau perhaps, or what would be called a "dressy" hat, or a narrow half-hat. Today there is such a wide and wonderful choice of radiant little head-coverings that it is no problem at all to choose a decorative little something which will not only fulfill the requirement of a "head-covering for a woman in church," but which will also add a charming costume-detail.

AN AMENITY OF BEVERAGE-SERVING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My new husband and I have just started housekeeping in our small apartment. We do want to begin to invite our friends to come for whatever kind of hospitality we can offer, even just for "a cup of tea" or "a drink and some canapes." One item of serving we disagree about. My husband, who presides over the serving-of-drinks maintains that it is perfectly correct to bring in a drink to a guest (such as a dry drink, say scotch and-plain-water, the favorite of most of our friends), already poured. My father always insisted that this type of drink, when there is a question of the preference of the guest as to "how much" . . . what proportion of whiskey, and how much water or soda . . .should be served so that the guest could give his preference. That is, my father said that the drink should not be brought in already poured, the host, not the guest, thus obviously making the decision as to the proportions. Which form-of-service is right? — Maria S.

Your father's form of service is the correct one. . . and for exactly the reason you mention so clearly. The guest should be given the privilege of choosing the proportions, and the serving-procedure, no matter how simple and informal, should be planned on this hospitality idea.

BE SPARING WITH EYE SHADOW.

With rose-red lips, a gardenia-textured skin and eyelids touched faintly with blue pigment a girl can place herself in the glamorous class. That is, if she uses restraint and her makeup technique is all as it should be. Powdering the face and applying lipstick are common, daily observances, but playing with eye-shadow requires a strong mirror in a strong light, the soft touch and cosmetic know-how. It is important to find the most flattering color and essential to condition the flesh before the application is made.

The girl who is about to experiment with this flattering cosmetic would do well to have professional advice. She can get that at a make-up bar. There is no charge for the service; one has only to make the necessary purchases.

There are eye-shadows of many colors, blue being a favorite with both blondes and brunettes. It seems worth while to point out that light and dilght of brown eyes as well as blue ones. There are various shades and the girl with golden locks must be sure that the shadow will not be darker than the shade her eyes.

Paler green eye-shadow is most flattering to redheads.*It does something to accent the beauty of the flaming hair. There are delicate bronze tones for the girl with golden skin and hazel eyes. For the white-haired woman with delicate transparent skin, mauve shadows are exquisitely alluring.

Before applying shadow, the skin should be lightly creamed, the cream removed. Apply close to the lashes, let the coloring do a "fade-away" as it is pressed upward and outward. It is important that the pigment should not extend beyond terminal of the eyebrows.

The meeting closed with refreshments served by the hostess, Laurine Rabethge. The next meeting will be held at the Trent House, Monday, April 5, at 7 p.m.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By: BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHY CHASE BOYS WHO AREN'T INTERESTED?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My girl friend and I are interested in two boys who are brothers. They know we like them but show no interest in us. Their friends have told us that they like us but won't introduce us to them.

Do you think we should approach them or wait until they approach us, or how would you suggest that we get better acquainted with them? — A.M.

Dear A.M.:

Since you've apparently made it obvious to these boys that you are interested in them and would like to get acquainted, it would seem as though they better leave things at that instead of trying to chase them. Why put yourselves in the position of getting a quick brushoff?

As I have said many times, the best way for girls to get boys interested in them is to let the boys see that they are girls who have lots of good times with lots of friends. Then the boys will feel they're missing out if they don't become friends of such popular girls.

You're not likely to attract boys by running after them. On the other hand, if you go about in a business-like way, you'll find more boys who are well liked by everybody, the chances are they will be attracted to you.

HE'S IN SERVICE—SHOULD HE HAVE DATES WITH OTHERS?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For five years, I went steady with a fellow who has now been in the service three months.

Since he left, I've had a lot of opportunities to go out with other fellows and I have had dates with three, but I don't enjoy just dates and didn't mean anything, but the third fellow has me wondering! I've been out with him four times now and he keeps asking me out.

Do you think it's right for me to go out while my boy friend is in the service? We are not engaged but since I am now 19, and have gone steady with him for five years, you can see most of my dating time has been spent with this one fellow. I hear from him regularly, and I know he loves me very much and that he would be hurt if he knew I was dating others. I know I loved him, too, but now I'm not sure.

Do you think I feel the way I do just because we are parted, and do you think I should keep on having date? — Puzzled — J.K.

Dear J.K.:

Yes, I do think the fact that your young man is away is the cause of your present confusion. If he were here, I'm sure you would still be going out regularly with him and the thought of dating other boys would never enter your head. Now, the dating pattern you have been following all these years is suddenly broken and you are very lonely, so you are torn between your loyalty to your boy friend and your very natural desire to go out on dates rather than sit home alone every night.

If I were you, I would write your boy friend a very honest letter and explain just how you feel. It never seems right to me that a young girl should be deprived of a normal social life while her boy friend is away, but at the same time I don't think she should be going out on dates without the knowledge of the boy in which she has committed herself, as you appropriately did.

So it's only fair, it seems to me, that you should explain things to your service man. Not only that, but if you do, you'll lose the guilty feeling that you have about being behind his back.

Don't try to make any big decision for awhile, but just be content to go about in a normal way, have the right kind of good times with all your friends and wait for the future to make it clear to you what your true feelings are. Time and patience will keep you from making any mistake that you'll regret.

Swedish Tea Ring For Saturday Lunch

By Mary Moore

Pete, my chief consumer, is in Montreal this week-end, so I'm baking for Sunday.

His grandmother in B.C., is a Swedish Tea Ring expert (among other things) and I would dearly love to dunk a piece of her ring in a cup of coffee.

In the oven right now is what I hope will be a reasonable facsimile of Nana's tea ring.

Marianne is on the graveyard shift at the hospital (2:30 to 11) for two weeks so lunches are the only meals she eats at home. Naturally Herbie will be here too.

SWEDISH TEA RING

In the measuring cup measure 1-2 cup lukewarm water. Add 1 teaspoon sugar, sprinkle on 2 package granular yeast. Do not stir. Let stand 10 minutes, then stir. Into warm mixing bowl measure 1-3 cup warm milk and 1-3 cup sugar and 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup soft shortening. Beat these things until shortening is almost melted, then beat in 1 egg. Stir in yeast. Add 3 1-2 cups sifted bread or all purpose flour, adding only 2 cups first, then beating with a spoon until smooth, before adding remainder. Turn out on lightly floured board, and knead, folding and turning 20 times. Place in bowl, cover with damp towel, and let rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 2 hours at 75 degrees Fahr. Use finger tip into dough. It will leave an indentation when dough is doubled. Punch dough down in bowl, pull edges into centre and turn over in bowl. Now let it rise again until almost doubled in bulk—this time it takes only about 45 minutes. Be sure it is carefully covered. After second rising roll dough into an oblong 9 x 18 inches. Spread with 2 tablespoons softened butter and sprinkle with 1-3 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cinnamon and 1 cup washed and dried raisins. Roll dough up tightly, starting at wide side. Seal by pinching the edges of roll together. Place sealed-edge-down in a circle on lightly greased baking sheet. Carefully join the ends to seal them. With wet scissors make cuts 2-3 of the way through the ring at 1 or 2-inch intervals. Twist each cut section so that it lays on its cut side. Cover and let rise until doubled, covered—about 3-4 to 1 hour. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 30 minutes.

If desired frost while warm: Mix together 1 cup sifted icing sugar, 1 tablespoon (or a little more if you like the frosting thin) of water, or milk or cream and 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. You may prefer to use lemon juice instead of vanilla. If so, add a little grated lemon rind too. Drizzle this over the tea ring while it is slightly warm.

NOTE—Up to the stage where yellow dough is sprinkling with sugar and cinnamon, you are also making cinnamon rolls. For cinnamon rolls do not include the raisins. But roll up, then cut roll into 1-inch slices with very sharp knife. Place a little apart in greased 13 x 9 pan. Cover and let rise and bake same as Swedish Tea Ring.

For Butterscotch rolls make same as Cinnamon Rolls, but coat baking pan with mixture of 1-2 cup each melted butter and brown sugar. Strew one-half to 1 cup whole pecans over butter-sugar mixture. Place cut rolls barely touching on this. Let rise, and bake as for Cinnamon Rolls but immediately turn upside down on a large tray allowing pan to remain over rolls until all of the butterscotch runs down over them.

Statesmen Around World Praised by P.M's Daughter

MONTREAL (CP)—The daughter of Prime Minister St. Laurent says that statesmen around the world "are just as natural as my dad."

Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell, who acted as Mr. St. Laurent's official hostess on his round-the-world tour, said that before the trip she had never met any prime minister except her father.

"I needn't have worried though, the statesmen we met are just as natural as he is," she said in an interview on her return here.

Mrs. O'Donnell's story showed a woman's attention for detail and the romantic aspect of the places she visited—and she also managed to add to her housewifely lore.

At Midway Island and Waikiki beach, Honolulu, "I relaxed in the warm Pacific, the water so buoyant you could sleep on it, and ate roast pig at Dan the Beachcomber's."

HOW TO COOK TURKEY

At luncheon with Sir Winston and Lady Churchill, "I learned the answer to something that puzzled me since Christmas—how Lady Churchill's cook coped with a 43-pound turkey given to No. 10 Downing street.

"They put it in a tin tub and boiled it on top of the stove.

"But two things I shall never forget are the natural kindness and hospitality of statesmen and their wives, and the wonderful morale of Canadians in the East."

The St. Laurent party arrived home last Thursday, "but the trouble is I'm still in Tokyo," said Mrs. O'Donnell, meaning she had no chance to add to her trip-diary since arriving in that city.

DIARY FOR HUSBAND

The diary was begun primarily for her lawyer husband and children, Mary, 8, and Michael, 5, on the nine-hour flight between London and Bahrein, and "then I wrote for eight hours straight."

During the subsequent packed program, she noted each day's events in letters home.

"It is a personal account, written for my husband," she said. "Perhaps later I may re-write it for others to read. Yes I think I shall."

High on the list of unforgettables was the performance of four tired and hungry elephants at a garden party one night in Ceylon.

"It all happened because of a chance remark of Sir John Kotelawala, the prime minister," Mrs. O'Donnell explained still astonished.

"I said I had not seen an elephant all the time I was in India. Then at a party Sir John gave us in the magnificent garden of his home, there were the elephants waving their trunks at me.

"They were wakened specially and were tired because they usually get up at 5 a.m."

KOREA RUGGED

A far cry from such luxury was the stern terrain of Korea, where she spent a night as guest of the British minister in Seoul, and two more as guest of Canadian Red Cross girls and army nurses. These nights revived other memories for the prime minister's daughter, the former Major Madeleine St. Laurent, who served four years in Canada and overseas with the Canadian Army Women's Corps during the Second World War.

"Dad's two secretaries, Annette Perron and Andree Monet, thought it 'terrible,' but for such a spot as Korea I thought the conditions were good," she said.

At Tokyo, Mrs. O'Donnell began catching up on her father's shopping—selecting a tailored brocade dressing gown for her mother, who was unable to make the trip.

"There were presents for 17 grandchildren, two other daughters, two daughters-in-law and Aunt Laura St. Laurent at Compton, Que." she said.

"In Pakistan on a hurried visit to a shop all an assistant could suggest for the grandsons were daggers and knives. Heaven they're trouble enough without be armed."

Mrs. O'Donnell, dazzled by an "array exquisite but confusing" settled for embroidered silk and straw hats and handbags embroidered in gold and silver, and tiny mirrors.

She said that "Once at New Delhi when dad had spoken about home to a g thering in the Canadian embassy and everyone broke spontaneously into the singing of 'O Canada,' I almost disgraced myself by crying. Despite their high spirits we knew then how homesick they really are."

HANDY BOX

PORT ALBERNI, B.C. (CP)—A new letter-slot devised by William Riley, assistant postmaster here, features a roller suspended on a bar instead of the usual flat metal flap. Letters and papers may be put through the opening in a one-hand operation.

Festival Time in Valencia

For centuries the Spanish town of Valencia has been celebrating its traditional "fallas," or feasts, which last a week and reach a climax in celebrating the day of Saint Joseph, patron saint of the town. On this day the townspeople burn hundreds of monuments made of paper, wax or wood, which symbolize the most interesting national or world-wide events of the year. This year there was a "falla," symbolizing the friendship between Spain and the United States in the form of a reproduction of the Statue of Liberty. At centre of this arch is one of Columbus' three ships. — Central Press Canadian.

Rest and Recuperation Centre Near Seoul 'Swell' Place

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SEOUL IN KOREA (CP)—A quiet Englishman is playing host to 350 Commonwealth Division troops every five days or so. His Canadian guests at the rest and recuperation centre near the battered port of Inchon call it a "swell" place to stay.

Jack Brayley

When Maj. Gen. Bray of the famous 1st King's Own was suddenly plucked out of the Commonwealth Division officer pool to run the "R and R" centre he accepted his lot with Solidarity philosophy.

"After all, you do about everything else in the army these days—why not run a hotel. So now I'm the division's Billy Butlin"—a reference to a British resort camp operator.

MAY TO MANDLE

He was a little worried at first about the consequences of handling a new 350-man batch every five or six days because they are a mixed lot with divergent ideas about such basic things as food and recreation. The centre is used by Britons, Australians, New Zealanders and Canadians.

"But I needn't have worried because they all get along fine and in fact any arguments we've had have been between troops of the same country and they haven't been very serious."

A posh Japanese spa before the war, the centre, is on Korea's southwest coast between pine-clad hills. It has a nine-hole golf course, swimming and bowling facilities.

In the central square a sign post points 14,500 to Ottawa, and gives the distances to other Commonwealth capitals. The golf course is called the Royal Ancient and Modern Golf Course of Inchon.

PLAY MANY SPORTS

Other facilities include tennis courts, ball diamond, cricket pitch, football field, shooting range, billiard room and bowling alley.

The shaggy soldier arrives from his field post after a long ride in a battalion lorry and finds a world of inexhaustible hot water for baths, clean sheets and pillow and four meals a day—including a British tea hour. There's also a canteen, a gift shop, movies every night, a good library and a writing room.

The centre is not an alternative to the popular leave centres in Japan but rather a change for men in the lines who need regular rest periods. It's also used by men recuperating after hospital treatment. They stay for three weeks. The staff includes a chaplain and a medical officer.

"This is my second time back so I must like it," said Craftsman Frank Marlisaz of Kamsack, Sask.

"No sergeant-majors, no parades, it's swell," chipped in Pte. Cecil Atkinson of Clarke's Harbor, N.S.

Christian Herald Says Four Million Catholics Have Become Protestants

NEW WYORK (AP) — The Christian Herald reports more than 4,000,000 Roman Catholics have become Protestants in the United States in the last 19 years—nearly four times the number of converts to Catholicism.

During the same period the Roman Catholic church has reported 1,071,297 adult baptisms, or converts to the church.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the magazine, said publicity about Catholic conversions had led many persons to believe that inter-faith conversion was a one-way process.

He said it was "felt that getting the true facts would serve the cause of freedom for all religions."

Dr. Poling also is head of the World Christian Endeavor, interdenominational Protestant youth organization.

MOT NEWS

In Washington, Msgr. Paul F. Tanner, assistant-general secretary of the National Catholic Welfare Conference, said "it is not news to us that there are Catholics who have lapsed from their faith."

The magazine, which has no official church ties, said the survey findings were based on questionnaires sent to 25,000 of the 181,000 Protestant ministers in the country.

The magazine said that "with allowance for error" the national total of Catholic-to-Protestant shifts during the 19 years "could not be less than 3,000,000. . . and in all probability runs closer to 5,000,000."

Official statistics show there are 54,000,000 Protestants in the United States and 30,000,000 Catholics.

McCarthy Got Present Job By Sticking Around

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy reached his present position of power—chairman of a Senate sub-committee investigating Communists in the United States government — by sticking around.

No one planned to put him in his present position of power. It happened that way through the seniority system, an ancient Senate custom, which automatically moves a man up to chairman if he outlasts those ahead of him.

When the Wisconsin Republican first came to the Senate in 1947 after his election the previous November, he was assigned by the older Republicans to what was then the committee on expenditures in executive departments, as well as to the banking committee.

McCarthy's chief interest then was housing, handled by the banking committee. Looking for Communist dens, it seem to have been even a gleam in his eye in 1947 and he probably never dreamed the hundrum expenditures committee eventually would afford him the means of making headlines.

Five other Republicans were on the committee ahead of McCarthy.

WON LAFOLETTE SEAT

Orinically, McCarthy had won his Senate seat from Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin, in 1946. Lafollette was one of the authors of the congressional reorganization act that year. Because of this act the work of the expenditures committee was expanded and, as its investigative arm, it had a subcommittee to study government operations at all levels.

Looking for Communists was not then its main job, but later became so under McCarthy.

Senator John McClellan of Arkansas became chairman of the expenditures committee in 1949 when the Democrats won a congretional majority. By that time McCarthy had moved by seniority to become senior member of the new Republican minority.

OTHERS MOVED ON

What happened to those other five Republicans who had been ahead of him in 1947? They're all still around but by then had, for one reason or another, moved on to other committees.

So when the Republicans took over in 1953 McCarthy automatically became the head man. By that time he had made a career of communist hunting.

"Others who made the DOMINION 10-WEEK TEST Saved $25.60 each!"

"That's right, Ma'm! More than 100 Canadian housewives recently made a 10-week shopping test of Dominion . . . and reported savings that averaged $2.56 a week. Think of it! That's a total average saving of $25.60 each, in 10 weeks!"

Corporal Punishment Greatly Modified From 19th Century Methods Says Deputy Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ontario prison official says too many persons believe Canadian penal institutions use 19th-century methods to lash and strap prisoners.

Col. Headley G. Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions in Ontario, said Wednesday that corporal punishment now bears little resemblance to that depicted in the film, "Mutiny on the Bounty."

But, he told the Senate-Commons committee on corporal punishment many Canadians still regard corporal punishment "as the brutal beatings and lashings of the last century when no mercy was shown."

Even educated Canadians believed that the cruel methods of the 19th century, including the application of salt to open lash wounds, still existed. Some still thought men were beaten "within an inch of their lives."

Those days have long since passed," he said. The form of corporal punishment today is extremely modified."

NO DUNGEONS

The same ignorance was shown in Canadians who believe that Canadian jails and prisons maintained dungeons and kept confined prisoners on a bread and water diet. Conditions of that sort ceased years ago. There were no dungeons and men in close confinement were fed a special meat loaf which gave them a balanced diet.

Col. Basher said the lash does not inflict so painful punishment as the strap, both of which are administered only after a prisoner has been examined by a doctor and is judged to be in normal physical and mental health. He knew of no cases in Ontario institutions where men had been sent to hospital after being lashed or strapped.

There were still members of the judiciary who believed that the lash was more painful than the strap. In effect, it was the other way around.

RETAIN DEATH PENALTY

Col. Basher said the death penalty for murder should be retained in Canada and there should be no degrees of murder. However, he recommended that an alternate method of execution be investigated.

The penalty for murder in Canada is hanging, but Col. Basher did not propose a specific alternative. He said he was testifying before the committee as a private individual.

The death sentence should be retained because it was a definite deterrent to murder. Abolition of the penalty would increase murders and could result in killings by professionals from the United States.

Col. Basher's views on the death penalty were in direct contrast to those of the Canadian Welfare Council. It recommended in a brief that the penalty be abolished and said it doubts that it has much deterrent effect on potential murderers.

PRESERVE HISTORIC SITE

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has designated the site of an Indian village that may be 7,000 years old at Sheguiandah, Manitoulin island, as an archeological site. The government will protect the 300-acre village against the encroachment of commercial interests and souvenir - hunting tourists.

Legal Action Possible Against Two Officers Says Telegram

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Telegram has instructed its lawyers to investigate the possibility of legal action against two police officers following an incident in a city hall corridor when a Telegram photographer was temporarily held and his negatives confiscated.

The action was announced Wednesday by John Bassett, chairman and publisher of The Telegram, and he named inspector Ellsworth Walker and sergeant Sam Priestly of the morality division of the city police department.

Mr. Bassett said he was placing the matter "in the hands of our solicitors and carefully considering what legal steps can be taken."

He added the action is indicated to make sure that the rights of working newspaper men are protected fully, not from the standpoint of special interests or privilege, but on the grounds that newspapers are the eyes and ears of the public and must be safeguarded.

"Therefore, the normal course of the law will be followed to ensure that the rights of all citizens are not interfered with," the publisher said.

The photographer involved was Albert Van. The Telegram said Mr. Van was picked up by Sgt. Priestly who was making a court appearance to face an assault charge brought by Mrs. Dianne Phillips, 23-year-old mother of two children. She charges that on March 1 the morality officer slapped her face and called her "filthy names" on a Toronto street corner.

The Telegram says in a newspage story that Mr. Van took a picture of Sgt. Priestly before the trial and "was grabbed by Priestly who took him into the courtroom and demanded the picture be destroyed." The newspaper said inspector Walker "had the photographer remove the slide from the negative case, which ruined the picture."

The newspaper says Inspector Walker told reporters on the scene that Sgt. Priestly was "being persecuted" because he was a police officer and asked: "Why don't you take pictures of all the other people in this court?"

Mayor Allan Lamport said he planned to "look into" the matter and police chief John Chisholm said he wanted to "get all the facts."

During the court hearing of Sgt. Priestly a doctor testified that Mrs. Phillips did not appear to have any injuries from the alleged assault. The hearing was adjourned until today.

Suggested Boards Take Steps to See Area Not Saddled With Unemployed Workers

OTTAWA (CP) — The Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade Wednesday heard a suggestion that its members take steps to see that the area is not saddled with unemployed construction workers after the building of the St. Lawrence seaway-power project.

The warning was given by H. D. Callan of Ottawa, the body's industrial commissioner, as the boards held a meeting preliminary to an area development conference under sponsorship of the Ontario government.

"We are building high hopes around the seaway," Mr. Callan said. "It makes great talk for politicians. But some areas along the seaway route are better organized than we are. It is for us to make sure that, when the construction job is done, we are not left with thousands of construction workers on our hands."

One of the board's four zone groups—representing the Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry area on the river—reported that delay on getting the seaway started is keeping new industries out of the area.

Members of that zone suggested that Boards of Trade along the St. Lawrence river set up a "seaway committee" that would be concerned with industrial development resulting from the seaway and with the relocation of a half-dozen communities on the Canadian side of the river that will be flooded out by the project.

A similar suggestion came from a zone further upriver, in the Brockville area, which will not be touched directly by the development but which would get more hydro power from it.

DIVERSIFY INDUSTRY

Dealing generally with the development of industry in the eastern Ontario area, Omar Armstrong of Ottawa, president of the associated boards, said there is need of more diversification of industry in Ontario to keep up employment.

This was particularly necessary in the boards' area—largely in the valleys of the Ottawa and St. Lawrence rivers—where several communities had been hit by depressed conditions in the textile industry.

Mr. Callan said his department had been in touch with more than 100 industries on the possibility of their establishing plants in eastern Ontario.

Three were expected shortly to make a "definite decision" to locate in the region. He was hopeful about some others.

Mayor R. M. Simpson of Arnprior, chairman of the boards' industrial committee, said Premier Frost had largely accepted the line of argument put up by a recent delegation from the boards calling for decentralization of industry away from the Toronto area.

In said eastern Ontario needs industrial development now, for the maintenance of existing employment levels rather than for increasing employment.

Reds Beat Bushes Seeking Men To Storm Fortress

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI (AP) — Communist-led Vietminh today were "beating the bushes" everywhere in western and northwestern Indo-China to round up every available fighting man for their next big assault upon the French Union "dustbowl" fortress of Dien Bien Phu.

Rumors circulated in Hanoi that the Vietminh military commander-in-chief, Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, has sworn he will amass a force "up to 100,000 men" if necessary to crush the French fortress.

It is no secret that along with rushing up fresh war equipment, ammunition and other essentials over the dirt roads and mountain trails linking Vietminh hill positions with the border of Red China, Giap also has been moving in fresh troops.

On the basis of information available in this war capital for the French Union forces, there appears no chance that Giap can muster regular troops anywhere near 100,000.

POSSIBILITY SEEN

But the possibility is not excluded that he might get somewhere near that figure by mobilizing every regional and guerrilla Vietminh fighter in the area.

The French command said meanwhile that fierce fighting has broken out in the vicinity of Plaiku, in south-central Indo-China.

Plaiku, 130 miles northeast of Saigon, is a provincial capital of some 10,000 inhabitants and one of the key points in the distribution system for Cochin-China and the north.

The Vietminh, continuing widespread attacks in attempts to disrupt the flow of U.S. war supplies westward to aid Dien Bien Phu, also are concentrating on the highway linking Hanoi with the seaport town of Haiphong.

TURN DOWN CENSORSHIP

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—The judiciary committee of the Michigan senate Thursday pigeonholed a bill to establish state censorship over television advertisements of beer and wine. The bill would have required the state liquor control commission to forbid sale of intoxicating beverages which were advertised on television in such a way as to dramatize the act of drinking.

Little teases with big bowlfuls don't give a pig-tailed whoop that more families ran out of Corn Flakes this morning than any other cereal. No wonder so many women pick up a spare package of Kellogg's Corn Flakes every time they buy any cereal of any kind. It's real good "tomorrow-morning insurance."

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Way, of Saskatchewan, who have been touring the U.S.A. and eastern Canada, have been visiting their niece Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Ingram and family for several days.

Mrs. Freeman spent the week-end in Prescott, the guest of her daughter, Miss Rachel Freeman.

Mr. Edgar Wight was the guest of his mother, Mrs. Laura Wight over the week-end.

Mr. and Mrs Boyce Wiltse were week-end guests in the village and attended the Masonic banquet in the town hall on Friday evening.

Mrs. J. N. Sword returned home from the Kingston hospital on Wednesday.

Among those who attended the funeral of the late Byron Bailey on Thursday at Salem United Church were Mr. and Mrs. Norman Allison, Mr and Mrs. Will Laufman, Mrs. A. Ogilvy, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Graham, Mr. Charles McFaul, and Mr. Clifford McFaul.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Raynor has returned home after spending several months in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Elster Osterhout, Diana and Janice, of Toronto, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey and Mr. and Mrs Frank Osterhout, Burr's.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bovay, Denis and Nancy of Picton, spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay. Mr. Ross Bovay, Ottawa, was a week-end guest at the same home.

The public school teachers held open house on Monday evening for the parents and anyone else interested in the work of their pupils. Mr. Snider, principal, welcomed the visitors at the door, while the rest of the teachers were in their class rooms ready to talk over any problems with the parents.

A splendid display was in each room and it was wonderful to see just what the children of today do while at school. Much credit is due to the teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bovay were recent guests of her brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Way of Belleville.

Congratulations to June Pettigill and Glendon Sanders who were married in Toronto on Saturday.—W.W.I.

The March meeting of the Wellington Women's Institute was held recently in the town hall. About 50 were in attendance as 18 Wolf Cubs and their leaders Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg and Mrs. Garrett Harris. Several mothers of the Cubs were also present.

Mrs. Walker the president, was in the chair, while Mrs. Jackson took over for Mrs. F. Harris, secretary, who was absent.

Bills and communications were discussed. Moved by Mrs. Gerald Stoneburg 2nd by Mrs. Adams all bills be paid. Thank-you cards were read from Mrs. Graham, Mrs. Greer, Mrs. Robinson, Mr. Konack, Mrs. Wannamaker, Mary Jane Palmer and Mrs. Harris.

The president thanked the corresponding secretary Mrs. Moore for the good work she is doing. The menu for the banquet to be held on Friday night was discussed. Routes for canvassing for the blind were allotted to the different members. This is a worthy cause and it is hoped everyone meets the canvassers with a nice donation. The birthday box was again swelled with five members having birthdays this month. This goes towards the hospital fund.

THANKS EXPRESSED

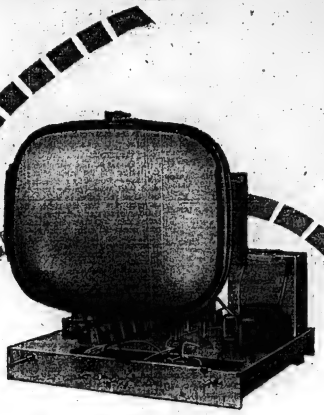
Thanks were given to Mrs. O. Bovay and Mrs Doug McFaul who added $8 to the fund by selling tickets on some crochet work and flowers that had been made by these ladies. Also another $3.50 went into the fund from the sale of tickets on a lovely doily donated by Mrs. C. Wannamaker; Mrs. Susie Dower being the winner of this. If all work hard together the W.I. will soon have the quota for the fund. Proceeds from the school dance were $37.

A banquet for the Scouts and Cubs was discussed next and it was decided to charge them 75 cents a ticket for their banquet on April 2nd.

Mrs. Stoneburg took charge of the program which opened with a poem by Mrs. Walker, "Go Wash Your Dirty Face," which was enjoyed by all. Current Events by Mrs Moore.

The Cubs then opened their part of the program with the grand howl led by Jimmy Smith and their prayer. Two short skits were put on by the boys. First came Perry Easton as "Britain", Bobbie Gorsey as "Ireland" and Larry Greenfield as "Scotland" which showed the forming of the Union Jack by uniting the three crosses.

Mrs. Harris described the origin of the Cubs, while two of the Cubs demonstrated what she was telling.



Another short skit was the making of the compass with boys coming to all points describing the different countries' climates from where they came.

Master Larry Greenfield favored with two piano solos, after which Mrs. Stoneburg related many things that the boys do and thanked the mothers for turning out.

Much credit is due to the leaders of the Cubs for the grand work they are doing.

Mrs. Stoneburg then dismissed the boys bringing the program to a close. Refreshments were served and a social time spent. All enjoy these evenings when the Cubs are present.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was playing solitaire with cards, and pop said, I ran into Red Lennox downtown today.

Do you' mean that awful man that was in the army with you? ma said, and pop said, That discribes Red exactly. He just happens to be in town for a few days, he said, and ma said, Thank goodness he doesn't live here.

It seems he never married, pop said, and ma said, I could of told you that much, he hasn't got a single marrigible qualification.

He asked after you, he said he'd like to see us, pop said, and ma said, Now William, if you think I'm going to disrupt a whole day preparing dinner for that gassly person, and then look at him while he eats it, you're living in another world.

I admit he's hard to take, but we could help each other in a bizness way, pop said, and ma said, Well, in that case, oh dear, I suppose I could manage it. Of course we just had the Hewses Monday, and 2 company dinners in one week will just about brake the last straw, and Mrs. Columbo probably be available to help me with the werk, and tell for mitch an unspeekable caracter, but if you think so, William, she said.

Well the fact is, Red spoke of taking us to the Stitz Roof for dinner, pop said, so by dizzert he'll be practically lovely, pop said, and ma said, I haven't eaten on the Stitz Roof since I don't remember when.

Being the happy end of the subject for her.

Maple Leafs, Bruins Will Be Gunning For Revenge In Tonight's Clashes

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

SHOULD BE GOOD!

"Mike" Weichel, popular president of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, writes this department to say that he will be unable to attend the Stirling-Kincardine hockey game here on Saturday night when the Jack Roxburgh trophy will be presented to the winners, but "he gladly accepts the invitation to the Stirling club's banquet which will be held later.

The estimable "Mike" lives in Elmira, Ont., and he writes that town has already won one OMHA title with another team well on the way to a second championship.

However, Secretary Jack Christie will be on hand to do the presentation honors and in all probability other executive gentlemen of the OMHA will be along.

Meanwhile the Stirling juveniles, which incidentally is sponsored by the Canadian Legion branch in that village, are readying themselves in earnest for Saturday night's important championship battle.

Russ Fryer's kids have never been closer to a championship than they are this year, although they have knocked on the door two or three times before, only to have it slammed in their face.

Although they are only one goal down on the goals-to-count series, the Stirling team is not selling the Kincardine youngsters short. Any team in any sport must needs be good to get to reach the championship series and the youngsters from the shores of Lake Huron are no exception. They are a big, bruising team, according to observers who saw the total game, are fast skaters and tricky movers.

But the Fryer kids are brimming over with confidence and that means that Saturday, night's tilt should be one of the best minor hockey engagements ever played in Memorial Arena.

• • •

LIKES IT!

Roly Sarsault, former goalie of the Belleville Mems, writes all the way from London, "over" where he is playing with the Wembley Lions in the British Hockey Loop. Roly writes he has won his last two games in a loop that he considers plays a better brand of hockey than Canadian Senior "B". He likes it in England and may be tempted to stay there.

HERE'S AN IDEA!

Don McKinnon, president of the Belleville and District Fish and Game Association, told this department between sessions at the ball meeting hearing how cosy and in the county courthouse, that he ran across a novel idea while attending the Winnipeg Sportsmen's Show.

• • •

"Out there," Don said, "some enterprising gentlemen hit upon a money-making scheme that proved very popular."

They installed a large tank mounted on a dais which they filled with water and installed rainbow trout from the "keeper" size as high as eight pounds. The "customers," who paid twenty-five cents for the privilege were given a short fishing rod and a short piece of line. They were allowed to angle for the beauties for a certain period of time when the next shift took over."

• • •

While Don looked on, one lucky Wallon hooked two weighing three and four pounds each. An attendant took the fish, killed them, cleaned them, packed them in dry ice and forwarded them to the home of the lucky angler.

However the "catches" did not occur too often. The money was made from the luckless blokes who failed to hook a fish.

• • •

To 600 hockey fans from this district, the hockey playoffs are neither in Detroit nor Montreal nor Boston nor Toronto, these nights. The hockey playoffs are in Memorial Arena between the RCAF Flyers and the Point Anne Cementmen. Last evening the Flyers squared their best-in-five southern division TVL finals with the Cementmen at one game apiece by picking up an 8-4 victory. On the play the Flyers deserved the win. In fact, the Flyers have had an edge in five of the six periods played to date and the two periods that unless the Cementmen start playing up to their potential they won't be around when the league finals start with the north division winners.

• • •

Last night it was veterans Leo Goyer and Tim Williams who carried the big scoring thrust for the Cementmen with Williams collecting three goals and Leo Goyer two. Gerry Goyer had four assists. The Pointers' other goal was a solo effort by Bob Hunter. The high scoring and high speed trio of Mahaffey, Gilmour and Jacklin failed to pick up a point and probably therein lies one of the reasons for the Ox Pointers' poor showing. However, the Flyers couldn't be faulted on their performance last evening. They outchecked the Pointers with a steady passing attack and gave the impression of being a little more eager as a team to pick up the win.

Taylor Named Golf Captain

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordon B. Taylor of Montreal Kanawaki Wednesday was named playing captain of the Canadian amateur golf team that will compete in Commonwealth matches at St. Andrews, Scotland, June 14.

Others on the Canadian team, previously announced, are Don Doe Granby, Que., Phil Farley, Toronto, Dick Wetlock, Windsor, Ont., Doug Silverburg, Red Deer, Alta., and Walter McElroy and Bob Fleming of Vancouver.

The Canadian team will also compete in the British amateur championship at Muirfield, Scotland, early in June. The Commonwealth competitions.

Jack Jacobs Raps Trafton

FLIN FLON, Man. (CP)—Jack Jacobs, quarterback of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, has opened fire here on his former coach, George Trafton.

In a brief address to the annual Kinsmen Sportsman Show, aimed at raising funds for crippled children, Jacobs said:

"We would have brought George Trafton along with us, only I understand he has been fired.

"Of course this doesn't make me unhappy one little bit. I will just enjoying football again."

Jacobs apparently was replying to newspaper stories which quoted Trafton as saying "Bombers will never win the Grey Cup with Jacobs at quarterback."

Red Wings Are in Fine Fettle For Second Battle of Series; Habs Confident of 2 Straight

By The Canadian Press

The Leafs, blanked 5-0 Tuesday night in Detroit, meet the Wings in Detroit for the second game of the series while Boston, white-washed 2-0 by Montreal Canadiens Tuesday, play their second game in Montreal.

Going into tonight's game in the best-of-seven series against the National Hockey League champions, the Leafs have scored only four times in eight appearances on Detroit ice this season.

The Wings will be at home four times if the series goes the seven-game limit. No matter how many times the Leafs beat Terry Sawchuk in Toronto it won't get them any more than three victories.

Besides battling the Detroit scoring famine, the Leafs have to cope with a slump by goalie Harry Lumley, who was voted Vezina Trophy for the best netminding record for the regular schedule.

LOOKED BAD IN DETROIT

While the Owen Sound, Ont., native hung on to edge Sawchuk by one goal for the league title, he has been scored on 18 times in his last three appearances, looking particularly bad in fanning on a couple of long shots Tuesday night.

The Leafs, on the other hand, with four rookies in their lineup who have never tried for a Stanley Cup, showed signs of playoff jitters Tuesday.

In Montreal, coach Dick Irvin said he's pleased with the 2-0 victory No. 2 with the same lineup that stopped the Bruins.

"We said that first game and I'm planning to go along with the same bunch," said Irvin Wednesday night.

DENIES GALLIVANTING

Incidentally, Irvin denied reports that he was gallivanting off to a farm Wednesday to see his chickens.

Instead, he spent most of the day at his home in Montreal, worrying over his brood of hockey players and the power of the "unseen hand", which, to Irvin's mind, plays an important part in every game.

"I still think the breaks will decide this series," said Irvin. "We played very well Tuesday night but we can play a little better. That goes for two or three of our fellows, anyway."

"If we take the second game we will be hard to beat."

MIGHT END IN MONTREAL

The third and fourth games are in Boston. The teams then alternate between cities game by game and if the series goes the seven-game limit it would end in Montreal.

Coach Lynn Patrick of the Bruins may have to make line changes. He was giving consideration Wednesday to moving Jack Bionda, of four, lines, especially when defenceman Hal Laycoe has recovered from an injury and is ready for rear-guard duty.

Centre Leo Boivin was expected to be ready for tonight's game, with Bionda ready. Patrick planned in drop Guyle Fielder, up from Seattle of the Western Hockey League.

Patrick also has to find some means of overcoming Canadiens' defensive strength. In the first game, won by Montreal 3-0, the Bruins were outshot 45-12.

'Flo' Chadwick Turns Down Swim Challenge

TORONTO (CP) — Florence Chadwick of San Diego, Calif., has turned thumbs down on a challenge by Mrs. Winnie Roach Leuszler of St. Thomas, Canada's top long-distance swimmer, for a race "any time, any place, any distance."

Miss Chadwick, here inspecting the proposed 31-mile Lake Ontario swim course between Toronto and Fort Niagara, N.Y., said she would consider "nothing to gain by racing anyone."

She said she was "not being boastful, but I've got a lot at stake in this swim business."

"If I raced and won, they'd say I should have; if I lose, they'll say I'm slipping."

She said she would like to be the first person to do the 31-mile Lake Ontario swim proposed by the Canadian National Exhibition for $25,000 in prizes "and then let someone beat my time."

Whether the 34-year-old American aquatic marathoner will take on the 31-mile course depends on the speed of her managers and financial arrangements.

Crude Slugger Gets Verdict Over Nardico

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Charley Norkus, a crude heavyweight slugger from Jersey City, hammered out a unanimous decision over tough Danny Nardico of Tampa Wednesday night in a brutal 10-rounder at Miami Beach Auditorium.

Neither fighter went down for a count but the battle was as savage and bloody as the eight-knockdown brawl the two men staged here last Jan. 20.

In the final round, Nardico's knees were rubbery and his eyes glazed but he kept charging into Norkus, swinging wild haymakers he couldn't land.

The fight was televised nationally. Some 4,000 fans paid a gross gate of $17,770 to see it in person. Both the attendance and the gate set records for the auditorium.

Norkus, who scored his fourth six times to win by a technical knockout in the ninth round in Philadelphia last April 13th. Danny weighed 180½.

Nardico, the seventh-ranking light heavyweight, declared through puffed lips in his dressing room that Norkus "is too tough. I had to give too much weight."

Training Camp Notes

ORLANDO, Fla. (CP)—Manager Bucky Harris and pitcher Harry Scull, fleet Cuban outfielder, will join Washington Senators as their first Negro players.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—Bill Skowron, a rookie first baseman who has only three other men to beat out for the job, made a strong bid for at least a pinch-hitter's job on the New York Yankee roster Wednesday as he drove in six runs to lead the Yanks to an 11-7 exhibition victory over Boston Red Sox.

Skowron, competing with Joe Collins, Eddie Robinson and Frank Leja for a regular berth, had a homer, a double and a single in three trips to the plate. Hank Bauer also homered.

LAKELAND, Fla. (CP)—A two-out single by rookie Harry Bright knocked in the winning run in an eventful ninth inning Wednesday as Detroit Tigers ended a five-game losing streak by edging Milwaukee Braves 5-4.

Ted Kluszewski led off the ninth the Braves scored three runs to take a 4-3 lead. But shortstop Bobby Logan booted a grounder to let in the tying Tiger run before Bright's pay-off single.

TAMPA, Fla. (CP) — Chicago White Sox offset power with speed Wednesday as they downed Cincinnati Reds 6-5.

Despite home runs by Ted Kluszewski and Jim Greengrass, the Sox sewed up the game with two-run rallies in the sixth and eighth innings. A stolen base by Chico Carrasquel in the sixth and a double steal in the eighth contributed to the two outbursts.

Fighting Irish Edge Teepees 3-2, Take Game Lead in Junior Series

TORONTO (CP) — Before the 1953-54 season started, a few hockey men in the know smiled Toronto St. Michael's College Majors to take the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A title.

The Collegians, who finished third in the standings, made the forecasters look bad during the schedule but in the playoffs it's a different story.

Meeting St. Catharines TeePees, first-place finishers, in the best-of-seven semi-finals, the Irish have encountered most of their trouble on home ice, about the only place they could win during the regular schedule.

They won one playoff game in St. Catharines and tied another one there while suffering their only loss of the series in Toronto.

Wednesday night they completed the cycle. Sporting the TeePees two goals, they tightened their defence and went on to score a 3-2 victory. Centre Jack Caffery spearheaded the Irish attack, scoring the tying and winning markers and assisting on the first Toronto goal. Ken Gribbons fired the first St. Michael's tally.

Cec Hoekstra and Barry Cullen had given the TeePees their lead in the second period.

NEED NO HELP

After the game St. Catharines coach Rudy Pilous said his TeePees put two pucks on St. Michael's sticks which resulted in goals. "They're too good a club for us to help out," he added.

As in most St. Michael's victories this season, netminder Gerry McNamara was the big defensive standout. He was realistically applauded by the 5,283 fans while turning aside the more difficult of the 28 shots taken at him. Marve Edwards warded off 24 drives in the TeePee net.

Caffery's first marker of the night was a picture goal. Taking a pass from linemate Paul Knox inside the Majors blue line, he went through three TeePees to tie the score 3-3. Less than a minute later he banged home the winner on Knox's rebound.

The TeePees have a chance to square the series in the fourth game at St. Catharines Saturday.

BETTER RECKONING

MONTREAL (CP) — New methods of studying the age of mammal fossils have changed the estimate of the age of the Rocky mountains, Dr. L. S. Russell of the National Museum of Canada said here the Rockies were thrown up only 40,000,000 years ago, not 70,000,000 years as was formerly believed.

RCAF Flyers Knot Series With Cementmen by 8-6 Win

(By GARRY ALEXANDER)

The R.C.A.F. Flyers took a 8-3 lead in a wild second period, that saw nine goals scored, and added two more in the third with a single reply from the opposition to rack up a 8-6 win over the Point Anne Cementmen and knot the best-of-five TVL southern section finalist one game each.

Both teams were even at a goal each going into the middle stanza when play opened up and both teams scored almost at will. The clubs combined at 8:46 to start scoring kind of a scoring record, when Bowman hit the hemp for the Flyers. Leo Goyer tied it again at 4.31 and then at 4.43 Beatch made the count 3-2. By this time the crowd was roaring but it was not over yet as Tim Williams beat DuPaul at 4.59 to finish a scoring spree that had produced four goals in nine minute and thirteen seconds. After the goal, one of the officials would take the puck to centre ice, face off and the other team would carry in and flash the light on the first play with the result that the score was still tied at 3-3 when things slowed down.

FLYERS IN FRONT

Bowman shot the Flyers out in front again at 10.56 from Boucher, only to have playing coach Tim Williams of the Pointers, take matters into his own hands and blast a goal by DuPaul in little more than a minute. Both goals were the result of nice passing plays with both Goyers getting assists on the first marker and Gerry setting up the second.

With the Green boys on defence, turning in a good game, it looked like Point Anne's lead might hold for a while, but then trouble came. Pete Green and Bowman went into the corner for the puck and started pushing each other, with Bowman finally landing a blow that sent Pete to the ice. This was the cue for brother John to come to the rescue, who promptly wound up atop Bowman on the ice with both teams milling around. The younger Green had regained his feet by now and was ready to take up where he had left off, but he was held back as the other pair were hauled to their feet and parted.

Referee Mac Carson handed Bowman and John Green five minute majors, while Pete Green drew two minutes for roughing and with the Flyers playing five men to four Boucher combined with Beatch and Rochon to tie the score at 5-5.

DREW CHARGING PENALTY

Seconds later Pat Gilmour drew a charging sentence and at 11.30 Rochon closed out a wild period of hockey with an unassisted goal while John Green, Bowman and Gilmour were still cooling their heels in the sin bin.

The Flyers increased their lead at 11.49 of the final twenty minutes when Boucher stickhandled through a maze of Cementmen to neatly flick the puck past Bates. This goal was one of the prettiest of the game and proved to be the winner.

Rochon made it 8-5 at 14.31 with Bob Hunter getting that one back near the end of the game on a close in drive that caught the corner to complete the scoring.

Glogras had blinked the light early in the first period for the airmen with Leo Goyer taking Gerry's pass from behind the net to tie it at 12.36. The Trenton crew had a big edge in territorial play during this period with passes putting them into the clear on more than one occasion. Don Bates turned back rubber from all angles to keep them from opening a lead in the first period but the goalies were lost in a barrage of flying discs during the high scoring middle stanza.

ROCHON BIG GUN

Rochon was the big gun for the winners as he flashed the light twice and set up three other goals. Boucher netted a pair and assisted on one while Beatch had one and two, Bowman two goals and Glogras one marker.

Leo Goyer-Williams-Goyer line was tops for the Ox-Pointers as Leo touched the scoring mark on many assists, Tim Williams had three goals and Gerry Goyer claimed four helpers. Bob Hunter once and Pete Green picked up one assist.

The referees sent eleven men to the penalty box with Bowman getting a major and later a misconduct for throwing his broken stick into the seats, this sentence was questioned by most of the 682 spectators.

The third game will take place here on Friday night at 9 o'clock with the winner taking a strangle hold on the series.

The teams:

Point Anne—Bates, J. Green, P. Green, G. Goyer, L. Goyer, T. Williams, Mulholland, Stewart, P. Maracle, Hunter, Bradshaw, Gilmour, Strahan, Jacklin, B. Wheelan, Yves.

RCAF—DuPaul, Boucher, Veina, Rochon, Beatch, Bowman, Parzell, Gingras, Dickson, Racicot, Cowick, Dalgis, Adams, Stewart, Tardiff.

Marmora Takes Second Straight From Waterford

MARMORA — Marmora Dukes returned to town in the wee small hours of Thursday morning with the scalps of the Waterford club dangling at their belts. The Dukes racked up a 5-4 victory at Silmour Wednesday night in the second game of their seven-game OHA Intermediate C playdowns with the Waterford club. It was their second straight win and the Dukes now hold a commanding lead.

Wednesday night, though, they had some shaky moments. The Dukes opened strongly, netting the puck three times in the opening stanza, while holding Waterford off the score sheet. Neither team could score in the second period, but in the closing frame Waterford staged a strong rally. Four times the puck ended up in the Marmora net, but the Dukes retaliated with a pair of counters of their own to emerge from the fray with a 5-4 margin.

Trumble led the Marmora scorers with a pair of counters, while Jones, Smith and Mills got one apiece. The next game will be played in Simcoe on Saturday night.

Senators Whip Valleyfield 4-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ottawa Senators, who finished third in the regular season, Wednesday trounced sixth-place Valleyfield Braves 4-2 in the first game of their best-of-seven Quebec Hockey League quarter-finals.

The teams will play their second game in Valleyfield Thursday before returning to Ottawa for a third encounter Saturday.

The playoffs opened Tuesday with Quebec Aces defeating Chicoutimi Sagueneens 3-0 to take a 1-0 lead in a best-of-nine semi-final series. In another game Tuesday, Sherbrooke Saints beat Montreal Royals 3-2 to grab a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven quarter-final series.

In Ottawa Wednesday, centre Phil Maloney broke a 2-2 deadlock with a pair of third-period goals to give the Senators their win. Al Kuntz and Dusty Blair picked up the other two counters for the Senators, while Rolly Leclerc and Jack Irvine scored Valleyfield's markers.

Mercurys Whip Stratford Indians 7-4, Take Senior Crown in Record Series

STRATFORD (CP)—Owen Sound Mercurys set a record last night when they walloped Stratford Indians 7-4 to win the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship.

The Mercurys became the first team to win an OHA Senior A best-of-seven final in four games. They last met in the game in 10 playoff contests this year. They eliminated Chatham Maroons 4-2 in a best-of-seven semi-final.

The Indians, who finished fifth in the regular schedule, couldn't do much against the Mercurys this series. They showed the wear of their two previous playoff rounds. The Indians took the best-of-five quarter-finals 3-1 from Windsor Bulldogs and then eliminated the favored Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, last year's Allan Cup champions, 3-1 in the best-of-five semi-finals.

The Mercurys, first-place finishers in the standings, outplayed the Indians all the way in Wednesday's game. Held to a 2-2 deadlock in the first period, they shot ahead 5-3 in the second and outscored Stratford 2-1 in the third.

HIGH SCORING LINE

Owen Sound got the best from its high scoring line of Bill McComb-Buck Forslund-Jerry Reid line. The trio accounted for seven goals and 10 assists. Reid counted twice with McComb and Forslund each tallying singles.

Roy Leckie, Herb Carnegie and Gardiner Kinsella the other Owen Sound markers. Herve Dejordy, Don Peart, Bill Flick and George Atkins were the Stratford goals.

The game produced only five minor penalties but two of these counted in the scoring. Stratford's first goal in the opening period by Dejordy was notched while Elmer Skov was off for Owen Sound.

Then Leckie fired Owen Sound's first goal while Ron Ingram was sitting it out for the Indians.

The Mercurys now advance into the all-Ontario final and the eastern Canada Allan Cup quarter-final against either Sudbury Wolves or Iroquois Falls Athletic Eskimos. The Wolves and Eskimos are tied 1-1 in the best-of-five Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior final.

Barons Defeat Bisons 7-2 In Opening Game

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Fred Glover netted a pair of goals Wednesday night to lead Cleveland Barons to a 7-2 win over Buffalo Bisons in the first game of their American Hockey League semi-final series.

Glover's line-mates, Jack Gordon and Eddie Olson got one goal each and Glover passed to defenceman Fred Shero for a fifth tally. Steve Kraftcheck and Andy Bathgate got the others.

The Mercurys now advance into the all-Ontario final and the eastern Canada Allan Cup quarter-final against either Sudbury Wolves or Iroquois Falls Athletic Eskimos. The Wolves and Eskimos are tied 1-1 in the best-of-five Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior final.

Many a skillful bridge player will not fool around when he has made up his mind that an slam should be tried. He simply ignores the much sounder method of first learning about aces and kings.

Is he right? Absolutely not. Even if he is nationally famous as one of the tops in the world he is wrong. He is simply stubborn about admitting that there is a sounder method than his.

He may show you deals in which it was not necessary to learn about aces and kings. But it could not have hurt him to find out about them before going slam. And with others it would have helped.

There came the spread shown here: -

The players bid it like this:

| South | North |
|---|---|
| 2 S | 3 NT |
| 6 S | Pass |

The two spade opening is a forcing-to-game signal. You may not like a game force opening with the kind of stuff held by south. But you are sure of what is promised by such a start.

When a sure trick the first response by north would be two no-trump. With a sure trick it must be something else. Lacking a takeout or assist, three no-trump shows a sure trick.

With a king or queen in each suit, south knew that north sure trick must be an ace. But he had time to bid four no-trump; askes of aces and kings. North might have had two aces and a king.

If so, south could bid the "third a grand slam. But he elected to go six without further information. And even that was dangerous.

The west diamond ace lead followed by a diamond would have killed the spads small slam at once. But west elected to start out with a lead of the heart ten and declarer took all 13 tricks. Do it.

ODDS SHORTEN

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top bookmakers have shortened the betting price of the favored Conyburrow as backers poured money on the big Irish eight-year-old jumper for the gruelling Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree Saturday.

Conyburrow, s e t a blished the clear 8-1 choice at Monday's call over, emerged the 15-2 pick Wednesday night.

Irish Lizard's odds for the four-mile, 856-yard grind, also dropped from 19-2 to 8-1.

Another Irish horse, Royal Tan, also came in for some big betting and his price dropped from 10-1 to 8-1. Royal Tan, owned by Joe Griffin and trained by Vincent O'Brien, now is high weight for the race with 161 pounds. Conyburrow, with 151, and Irish Lizard with 145, are ideally weighted for the big race on which an Irish hospital sweepstakes r e s u l t is based.

The announcement that Mont Tremblant would be withdrawn because of a sprained ligament, affected the odds of other horses. Genlis Moyn was made 20-1 after being quoted at 25-1. Dominick's Bar and Wishergirl Steel emerged 25-1 after being 33-1.

Other odds were Churchtown and Tudor Line, 100-8; Ordnance, 20-1; Sanperion, 25-1; Legal Joy, 28-1; Statesman and Southern Coup, 33-1. Others of the 29 still in the race were not quoted.

POSTPONE FIGHT DECISION

LONDON (AP)—Don Cockell's manager said Wednesday night the British heavyweight champion has received an offer of $50,000 to fight Canadian champion Earl Walls for the British empire heavyweight championship in Toronto.

Manager John Simpson said the offer came from Canadian promoter Frank Tunney, Simpson said Cockell was "extremely interested", but would make no decision until after his fight with Roland La Starza here next Tuesday.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Maroons advanced to the western Canada Allan Cup semi-finals Wednesday night by defeating Fort William Beavers 6-1 to win the best-of-seven Thunder Bay - Manitoba series, four games straight.

Tri-Bells Take Sabbath Trophy

OTTAWA (CP) — Toronto Tri-Bells won the Bunny Sabbath Trophy for the third time in four years Wednesday night, defeating an Ottawa basketball team for the third time in four years to do it.

Plan Dormitory Space For Royal Winter Fair

TORONTO (CP)—C. S. McKee, general manager of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, says the fair executive is trying to provide adequate dormitory space for herdsmen at the show in November.

Speaking to the fair's annual meeting Wednesday, he said the city has been asked to provide a dormitory building.

The Ontario government and the city of Toronto had each offered $1,000,000 to the fair's building program, provided the federal government matched the figure.

GARBAGE INTO LIQUID!

TORONTO (CP)—The city hopes to sell part of the 300,000 tons of garbage it collects annually. Now under study is a formula for converting household garbage into a commercial sugar which would be combined with yeast for sale as livestock feed. Some refuse may be made into a cereal-type food for plants.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Oscar will have his biggest audience tonight when the 26th annual Academy Awards are handed out before millions of lookers and listeners on TV and radio.

The biggest star splurge in television history will be seen during the hour-and-a-half show. The United States armed forces radio service will send the broadcast to 73 stations from Point Barrow, Alaska, to Pago Pago, Samoa.

For the first time, the Oscar event will be staged visually for the benefit of TV viewers. Director-designer Mitchell Leisen, whose films are noted for eye appeal, is putting on the affair.

AMOUR TOP CONTENDER

The song nominations will be decided as well as sung. Among the performers are Ann Blyth, Mitzi Gaynor, Dean Martin, Vic Damone, Donald O'Connor and Connie Russell. The song race is considered a tight match between "That's Amore" and "Secret Love."

Among those scheduled to present the awards are Elizabeth Taylor, Michael Wilding, Esther Williams, Marge and Gower Champion, Gene Kelly, Kirk Douglas, Irene Dunne, Walter Brennan, Mercedes McCambridge and Cecil B. DeMille. Another presenter is a fellow who used to play bit parts in movies but has since made a name for himself on TV—Jack (Dragnet) Webb.

In keeping with tradition, the winners of last year will present the awards to the best actor and actress of 1953. But this will be accomplished by long distance.

COOPER FROM MEXICO

Gary Cooper, who won last year for "High Noon," will be featured on a film clip reading the nominees for the best-actress award. Cooper is in Mexico making a movie just as he was when he won last year.

Shirley Booth, winner for "Come Back, Little Sheba" last year, will be seen on direct telecast from Philadelphia, where she is trying out a play.

Part of the telecast will also be made from New York, where a number of the nominees will be gathered.

Men on Beat Risked Jobs To Raid Edmonton Gamblers Causing Big Police Shake-Up

By GRAHAM TROTTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—An upheaval in the Edmonton police department has rocked this booming oil city.

It originated in police ranks, among men on the beat. It culminated this week in the resignations of chief constable Reg Jennings, 61, and detective-sergeant William Smith, 64, head of the morality squad, and elimination of the morality squad itself.

These major changes were decided upon by the city's three commissioners, headed by Mayor William Hawrelak, who have direct control of police in the absence of a police commission.

A survey of the force by Frank B. Baxter, retired RCMP expert, was under way when seven uniformed constables and a sergeant raided a suspected gambling house Feb. 13. This was customarily the work of the morality squad, but neither it nor Chief Jennings knew about the raid.

In the resulting inquiry, the commissioners were told by the raiding constables that they risked dismissal by bring conditions to the department to public attention.

CRITICISMS LISTED

The commissioners and Baxter then issued reports saying police organization and administration were unsatisfactory, morale and department efficiency low, and that the chief had "lost control." There were rumors of police protection for gamblers and bootleggers, but this was denied by the chief and morality detective.

There has been a rising tide of break-ins, bringing almost daily reports of stolen property. Alderman Abe Miller gave figures to council in January showing that from Sept. 1 to Dec. 31 last year there were 419 shopbreakings and 59 arrests, 105 housebreakings and 24 arrests.

The Baxter survey found, among other things, that the police officers' manual of 1925 had not been brought up to date and copies were not available for distribution; that the file of known criminals was locked at night; that there was little organization for modern aggressive action by the morality squad and that training of recruits was inadequate.

Constables complained they were required to adhere to a strict beat routine. Criminals knew exactly where a policeman would be at a given time.

Ontario Spending 33 Million For Hospital Beds

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government has been committed to spending almost $33,000,000 toward new hospital beds in the seven years the provincial hospital grant program has been operating, Health Minister Phillips said Wednesday.

About $26,000,000 has been paid out, he told the legislature, and 18,893 new beds have been added or are planned.

gers, but this was denied by the chief and morality detective.

Russia Inquires About Price Of Ships in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—The Soviet embassy has opened inquiries with a view to ascertaining the price of constructing various types of ships in Canada.

A spokesman for the Canadian Shipbuilding Association said Wednesday that an embassy official made a personal visit to the office and suggested shipyards provide the embassy with construction cost of four types of vessels: Fishing trawler, fish carriers, tugs and cargo ships.

The association immediately advised along the request to some 30 shipyard members across the country. Recently Soviet ambassador Dmitri Chuvahin told a press conference that Russia is interested in promoting trade with Canada and mentioned ships as an example of the type of item Russia would like to buy from Canada.

Canadian government officials doubted whether Russia would place orders for ships in Canada when she could buy them cheaper overseas.

A trade department official said that before Russia could get Canadian ships consideration would have to be given as to whether such vessels can be converted to war uses.

SEEK HOMES FOR PAWS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) The United Nations has approached three Latin American countries to ask them whether they will take prisoners-of-war from Korea, Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold disclosed Wednesday. The men refused repatriation to either side in the Korean war and asked for refuge in Mexico, Brazil and Argentina.

West Germany's Minister Stirring Up A Tempest

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germany's new families minister, fighting to stimulate the flagging German birth rate by cleaning up morals and checking divorces, has stirred up a tempest.

The press is hotly critical of the minister—Dr. Franz-Josef Wuermeling—and charges he is "interfering with peoples' private lives and civic rights. Politicians and judges have been upset by his outspoken blasts. And the film industry is mad at him because he complains that German films are corrupting the nation by not portraying married life in the right way.

Wuermeling's ministry was created last fall. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer gave the 54-year-old Roman Catholic lawyer the job because he was worried about the decline of traditional German family life.

German statisticians have calculated that by 1980 there will be 60 per cent more people over the age of 65, while the working population will remain stationary at 22,700,00.

Today there are five women to every four men in Germany. More boys than girls are being born but this will have no real effect for the next 30 years.

SEES FUTURE ENDANGERED

"We are in danger of becoming a dying people," Wuermeling says, explaining his aim of halting the decline which has brought down the surplus of births over deaths from 13.6 a thousand in 1900 to 5.2 today.

The divorce rate has risen to 106, 100 marriages as compared with 25 in 1914. In the last three years more than 200,000 children lost their normal home life because of divorce.

There are 3,000,000 widows, 1,300,000 orphans and 530,000 illegitimate children to be cared for.

An estimated 19,000 couples are living together without blessing of church or marriage certificate.

Himself a family man with six children, Wuermeling is gravely worried at these signs or moral degeneration following the disillusion of a lost war.

ACCUSED OF INTERFERENCE

Stung by his castigation of the morals of film stars, the film industry has accused him of trying to censor public conduct. The Social Democrats say he is interfering with the rights of the individual.

He got into hot water when he suggested that judges who took a purely civil oath of office were granting more divorces than those who take a religious oath. This was taken as an attack on the integrity of the judiciary and the government had to disavow the allegation as his personal opinion. Wuermeling is not opposed to divorce but wants a thorough reform of divorce law. He wants to introduce "marriage guidance offices" to help repair broken marriages.

Above all he wants to root out the conditions that make the seventh month of marriage the most usual one for the birth of the first child in West Germany today.

POLICE SEIZE NARCOTICS

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Detectives, acting on a tip from New York City police, arrested a New York bookie as he stepped from an airliner Wednesday night and seized $1,500 worth of marijuana and heroin. Walker M. Barrington, 32, was charged with possession of narcotics with intent to sell. Police said he was carrying the narcotics in a paper bag.

EXPLOSION WRECKS HOME

BUNKIRK, N. Y. (AP)—A farm house was wrecked Wednesday in a gas explosion that rattled windows a mile away. Peter Modica, 76, was in fair condition today with second-degree burns of the arms, hands and face. He was knocked down a flight of stairs by the blast, which set his clothes afire. His wife, Mary, 73, collapsed of shock and was taken to a neighbor's home.

Member Favors Sweepstakes In Province

TORONTO (CP)—J. S. Dempsey (PC—Renfrew South) Wednesday called for the legalization of bookmaking and sweepstakes in Ontario.

Speaking during the budget debate in the legislature, Mr. Dempsey said 3,000 to 4,000 bookmakers were operating undercover in Toronto alone.

"Why shouldn't the bookie be under government supervision. You will never get rid of them. . . . I don't think we have the right plan."

Mr. Dempsey suggested the province hold a sweepstake of its own, perhaps at Woodbine race track in Toronto, and turn the money over to Ontario hospitals instead of allowing thousands of dollars flowing to Ireland.

Fishermen Say Explosion Rivalled Sun in Brightness

NEW YORK (AP)—A Japanese fisherman—71 miles away from the March 1 hydrogen explosion—says the H-bomb rivalled the sun itself in brightness.

Life magazine's March 29 edition, carries an interview by its Tokyo bureau chief, Dwight Martin, with the 23 Fishermen burned by H-bomb ashes aboard the Daigo (No. 5) Fukuryu.

The fishing ship, whose name means "lucky dragon," was 71 miles from the Bikini island blast at about 6:13 a.m. March 1.

"Then we saw flashes of fire as bright as the sun itself rise to the sky," Life quoted Sanjiro Masuda. "They rose about 10 degrees from the horizon and the sky around them glowed fiery red and yellow. "Someone yelled to the men below. 'The sun is rising in a strange fashion. Hurry up and see it.' Then I realized that what we were watching could not be the sun, for the light was coming from the west. It was at this moment that I first felt fear and first thought of plakdon (atomic bomb)."

Masuda said the glow continued for several minutes, then faded away, leaving a dull red color like a piece of cooling iron.

He described a pyramid-shaped cloud of towering height that followed the explosion.

About two hours later, a fine white dust began to fall.

Ask Churchill To Seek Cessation Of H-Bomb Tests

Officials Will Not Comment On Rumors He Has Acted

Food Faddist Is Successor To Medicine Man

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The old-time medicine man didn't die, he's still doing business as the food faddist and food quack, a nutrition scientist says.

Some 10,000,000 Americans pay out $500,000,000 a year for "health foods," "health aids" and "diet supplements" they don't really need, Dr. Horace L. Sipple, executive secretary of the Nutrition Foundation of New York, told the American Chemical Society in a paper prepared for delivery today.

Worse, he said, "the health of a significant number of these persons is being endangered" by following the diet of the faddist."

Woodrow Wyatt, a former Labor minister, gave notice that he will urge the prime minister to ask Eisenhower to ban such experiments until scientists are absolutely certain of confining the effects to a specified area.

Churchill is expected to make an important statement to the Commons early next week, but officials close to him would give no support to Wyatt's request that the prime minister, in his present close contacts with Eisenhower on the H-bomb, Asia and elsewhere ask him to suspend all Pacific tests.

PRESS APPREHENSIVE

Newspapers in the second straight day displayed virtually unanimous concern over a new bigger American H-bomb test planned for the near future.

The Daily Herald said that radioactive dust from "the mass-production" of the new bomb could go the entire world. The Daily Mirror ran a front-page cartoon of a huge baggage tagged as an H-bomb with the caption "Of course I know what I'm doing!"

The press split fairly evenly on whether the Pacific tests should be continued or stopped. But even the newspapers which supported further tests as a necessary safeguard urged new top-level negotiations for peace.

Philip Noel-Baker, a ranking Labor member, announced Thursday he will call on Churchill next week to ask both the U.S. and Russia to suspend tests "immediately" pending further talks on international control here have been fruitless.

Other Opposition chiefs plan to ask Churchill to press Washington for immediate postponement of the H-bomb explosion, which showered radioactive dust far beyond the expected range.

Jap Scientist Says 'Death Ash' Could Boomerang

TOKYO (Reuters) — The wartime use of atomic "death ash" would not be Japan's largest strikes "completely unthinkable" for at least two years, scientist Iwao Ouchi said today.

Otsuka, a member of Japan's scientific research institute, was commenting on reports that the United States may be planning employment of radioactive dust as a war weapon.

The "death ash" could prove a double-edged weapon, he said.

"There is always danger that dust from an explosion may reach the stratosphere on high winds and rests and drifting to hit the population of the attacking country."

WIDE AREA MENACED

A bomb containing highly radioactive elements, such as cobalt, could "quite possibly destroy a wide area that produced by the explosion. Lethal ashes might spread more than 50 miles."

People living in the area would be affected much more seriously than the 23 Japanese fishermen who were showered with radioactive dust by the U. S. test on March 1, he said.

The scientist said he did not believe the Bikini explosion was specifically designed to test the effects of atomic dust.

French Attack Vietminh Troops In Indo-China

HANOI, Indo-China (Reuters)—French forces today hit building trenches close to the main French positions. They seized two small hills today but were driven off by a heavy artillery barrage supported by air strikes.

The spokesman said the Vietminh still are subjecting the forces' air strip to automatic-weapon fire at night. The rebels creep to about 400 yards from the strip, but withdraw before dawn.

The Vietminh radio said guerrillas shoot to death the French-held Tonkin delta killed or captured 150 French troops and seized machine-guns and more than 100 rifles in five weeks.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synpsis: Snow is still falling over northern Ontario this morning in the wake of the intense storm centre that spun its way northeastward over the Great Lakes Thursday. Northwesterly gales following the passage of the low are bringing cooler air to southern regions today, where the mercury will remain near 40 in contrast to Thursday's springtime 50-degree temperatures. Cool weather will remain throughout Ontario Saturday, although some fair to clear off satisfactory to make it a more pleasant day.

CANADA'S POLICY ON RED CHINA LIVE, LET LIVE

No Diplomatic Status For Present at Least

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's policy toward Communist China is live-and-let-live but no diplomatic recognition for the present at least.

This policy, was enunciated Thursday in the Commons during an external affairs debate by Prime Minister St. Laurent. He said it would be most unfortunate to change its stand by giving the pledge not to recognize the Chinese government.

Outside the House, observers called this an indirect criticism of the often bitter anti-Communist policy of the United States.

These observers said the U.S. may be tying its hands at the April Geneva conferences on Korea and Indo-China. The Chinese Communists could offer any variety of acceptable peace settlement, knowing in advance the Americans would not agree to them because the U.S. refused to recognize the government with which it must negotiate.

COULD BE WORSE

Mr. St. Laurent said: "If we do not [illegible] we [illegible] active policy] as possible, we then have to face the risk of cold war as something of very long duration with always the possibility that the cold war may become something worse than the cold war."

Earlier, he said:

"I think it would be most unfortunate if we were to go down by declarations and commitments that would make it impossible for us any time to come to the conclusion that even the diplomatic recognition of China would not be helpful to peace and security in the world.

"The policy of the Canadian government at the present time is to . . . keep an open mind as to when, if ever, conditions may be such that it will be in the interest of peace and stability in the world to recognize diplomatically whatever government may be in control of the forces of China. . .

Books Seized In Toronto Law Office

TORONTO (CP)—The books of a contractor named in the investigation into irregularities in the Ontario highways department were seized in a Toronto law office, Attorney-General Porter said Thursday.

The attorney-general was replying to a question put by opposition leader Hepburn (Liberal) in the provincial legislature.

Mr. Porter did not identify the lawyer and said later there was no significance in the raid, since the government generally cooperates in their possession. He added:

"I am not prepared to be drawn in the investigation which required seizure of the books."

Earlier, Mr. Oliver said he was referring to the office of Mr. Arthur Slaght of the firm of Tenner and Brunt.

Dismiss 3 Charges Against Captain Of Lost Vessel

CLEVELAND (AP) — A United States coast guard board Thursday dismissed three of six allegations against Capt. Henry Stiglin of the ore freighter Jacob Steinbrenner which sank last May 11 in Lake Superior with a loss of 17 lives.

At a hearing to determine whether Stiglin's licence should be suspended or revoked, trial examiner Frank Holland said he found in the investigation which required seizure of the books."

Earlier, Mr. Oliver said he was referring to the office of Mr. Arthur Slaght of the firm of Tenner and Brunt.

'From Here to Eternity' Wins Academy Awards Tying Record

By JAMES BACON

The movie, From Here To Eternity, tying the all-time record of eight awards, was named best picture of 1953 as the 26th annual academy awards presentations highlighted a star-studded television and radio show Thursday night.

Holden, who played a semi-heel in the movie "Stalag 17," was named best actor and signed for a first Oscar. He was happy, of course, fog-winning the top honor but said he was "very upset" for having to bury his acceptance speech due to the television time commitments.

"They told me to say, 'thank you,' and get off," Holden said. "I wanted to give credit to Billy Wilder (producer of Stalag 17) for having so much faith in me.

Miss Hepburn, in stage make-up for her Broadway role of a water nymph in the play "Ondine," brought the house down in the New York portion of the show. Her first words after starring was last in the princess on the loose in "Roman Holiday."

Donna Reed, as the prostitute of the game, Jones bare-skelled her, emerged as the surprise winner in the movie, won her first Oscar in the supporting actress field. When her name was called, she ran all the way, and her first words were: "It was a long walk. I didn't know if I was going to make it."

The night started out like a testimonial banquet for Walt Disney, whose cartoons and documentary films won four of the first six awards.

Senators Say Mass Evacuation Improved Killer 'Missiles' Key Points in U.S. Defence Plan

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON

WASHINGTON (AP)— Informed senators said today that rapid mass evacuation of cities and improve aircraft "killer" missiles are key points in super-secret United States plans for defence against possible enemy atomic attacks.

Chairman Leverett Saltonstall (Rep. Mass.) and members of the senate armed services committee back into closed-door session the next morning to study the latest plans for continental defence.

With extreme caution, Saltonstall announced that top-secret details of the defences had been outlined Thursday in a lengthy closed session by Robert C. Sprague, North Adams, Mass., producer and electronics manufacturer, who made a survey.

Saltonstall's public statement said the senators got a picture of an "effective" defence which however, could not guarantee "complete protection."

"GRATIFYING CO-OPERATION"

Saltonstall said Sprague had full co-operation of all defence, intelligence and atomic agencies for his survey. The secret report indicated "a sound over-all continental defence program is under way, with "gratifying co-operation with Canada."

These measures, plus prompt action by "our offensive forces, provide an effective defence for the United States commensurate with the threat," Saltonstall said.

But he emphasized that "even if every resource of our country were to be put into the offences and defences, it would not buy complete protection that we will not be attacked, nor complete protection in the unfortunate event of an atomic attack against us."

Other senators who heard Sprague said rapid evacuation of urban and industrial populations was one of the protective measures.

Another, they said, was expansion of the Nike missile system which now ring 10 locations, to about 30 or 35. Nikes are high-speed guided missiles designed to search out and destroy enemy aircraft.

Acts of Violence, Including 1 Death, Mar Circus Trip North

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—An investigation began here today into acts of violence, including one death, which marred the departure of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey circus for its 1954 tour.

At Samoset, a few miles north of Sarasota, a man was found dead beneath the wheels of the train.

Here there was a report of another circus fight, a knifing and kicked in a drunken brawl.

At Lake City, 60 miles north of here, a man was found beside the tracks. He said he was thrown off the train.

Longshoremen Offered 10-Cent An Hour Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—The shipping industry has sought to get longshoremen back to work on the strike-crippled New York waterfront by offering them a package of fringe benefits worth 10 cents an hour and about $1,720,000 in retroactive pay and welfare benefits.

The deal received a cool reception from both the striking independent International Longshoremen's Association and the rival AFL union of the same name, which has been operating on the docks.

John Dwyer, port chairman of the AFL-ILA, which aims at a wage boost twice as large, said "This is an attempt by the bosses to help their satellites, the old ILA, get back on the docks." He said, however, that AFL-ILA men will continue to work.

The ILA officially is an outgrowth of the battle between the ILA and the AFL-ILA for control of the docks. Thomas Hogan, Mr. Oliver said he was referring to the office of Mr. Arthur Slaght of the firm of Tenner and Brunt.

Russia Agrees To Discuss Future Of Nazi Prisoners

BONN (AP)—Allied officials disclosed today, that the Soviet Union has agreed to discuss with the Western Big Three the future of the seven Iscarlot Nazi prisoners held in bleak Spandau prison.

Officials said the Russians expressed willingness to talk about the prisoners' fate through diplomatic channels to Washington, London and Paris.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Russia's Foreign Minister Molotov on the conference during the Big Four Berlin conference in January, officials said. They now expect a note from the Soviet high commissioner, Vladimir D. Semyonov, listing the time and place for such talks.

Western authorities said Thursday that Allied officials had proposed to Semyonov that the seven normal penal regulations be introduced in Spandau. Prisoners would be eligible for medical parole and relatively soon, they said, because claim the body of any Spandau prisoner who dies.

Drive Starting To Get Road Hogs Off Highways

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett says he can't understand how a man can be a gentleman in the dining room and a cad when he gets behind the wheel of a car.

Mr. Doucett said in the Ontario legislature Thursday night that his department is going to start a drive to get road hogs off the highway.

"The real cure lies in the universal acceptance of the rules of good citizenship," he said. Each year, about 30,000 drivers were taken off the highways for one reason or another and for varying periods.

WEST PROMPTLY BRANDS RUSSIAN MOVE A 'SHAM'

East Germany Raised To Sovereign State

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

BERLIN (AP) — Communist propaganda drums beat today to announce that the Soviet Union has raised East Germany to the status of a sovereign state, but the West promptly branded the Russian move a sham.

The Russians said they hereafter will assume the same relations with the Communist East German government as they have with other sovereign states", but will continue to keep their occupation army in the east zone to "safeguard security."

Many Western observers regard this as the latest in a series of Soviet moves to counter the official Western recognition of the east-zone satellite, a campaign continually rejected by the Western Allies and the West German government as the puppet east-zein regime does not represent the people.

As soon as the East German official news agency ADN distributed the Soviet announcement Thursday night, newspapers in the west zone went out with banner headlines proclaiming the new "sovereignty."

Morrow's newspapers were three hours late in hitting the streets as the Soviet announcement and the new move.

But the United States state department in Washington recalled the widespread workers' revolts last June in East Germany and declared the "entire puppet regime" remains under the heel weight of hatred and hostility of the populace" if Soviet troops were withdrawn.

SAYS PROPAGANDA

West Germany's acting chancellor, Ernst Bluecher, heading the Bonn government while Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is on a state visit to Turkey, termed the announcement "just another propaganda battle of the East against the West".

The Russian announcement said the East German republic will be "free and fully . . . in her internal and external affairs, including the question of relations with west Germany."

But it immediately added that the "Soviet Union retains in the (east) German democratic republic those functions which ensue from and with safeguarding security and which result from obligations of the USSR, as the U.S.S.R. from four-power agreements."

Dairy Industry Surplus Needed Says Goodfellow

MITCHELL (CP)—Welfare Minister Goodfellow said Thursday night it will be "a sorry day if we ever reach the point where the dairy industry has no surplus."

Speaking to the Perth County Federation of Agriculture, he said the dairy industry ever fails to produce a surplus, no government could prevent the manufacture of import of substitutes.

"A surplus helps to deter-mine prices," he said.

Army Outraged As Naguib Frees Political Foes

Moslem Brotherhood Chief Among Hundreds Released

By ROBERT K. HEWETT

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's military government today freed hundreds of political prisoners, mostly members of the powerful Moslem Brotherhood. Their release was a first step under President Mohammed Naguib's new pledge to return the country to civilian rule.

Liberation of the Moslem brothers touched off immediate predictions that their organization will gain a dominant position in coming parliamentary elections scheduled in July.

There were also unconfirmed reports that Naguib is negotiating with leaders of previously-outlawed political parties to set up a caretaker civilian government to supervise the elections.

Young army officers supporting the military regime are reported outraged at the swing from the civilian government. Violent outbreaks, and perhaps another revolution, were predicted today in some quarters.

Police broke up a pro-military demonstration in the north Cairo suburb of Abbassia after the explosion of a small homemade bomb. There were no casualties but police reported they found seven other similar bombs among the crowd, which numbered 2,000 persons.

A government spokesman made clear that the liberation of the political prisoners, including the Moslem Brotherhood's "supreme guide" Hassan Hodeibiy, and 500 of his followers, does not mean a general amnesty. He said those sentenced by the revolutionary tribunal and those still awaiting trial before military courts, including several Communists, still are held.

Senator Urges Drug Ring Heads Be Put to Death

OTTAWA (CP)—A woman senator whose province is the home of many of Canada's narcotic addicts urges that the brains of the rings be put to death after being convicted.

Senator Nancy Hodges, a Liberal from British Columbia, said Thursday stronger punishment than the proposed 14 years in prison is needed for "the higher ups in the drug traffic, those men who sit like bloated, obscene spiders spinning a vile web in which to lure and enmesh the innocent victims of their hellish trade."

Mrs. Hodges, a newcomer to the Senate and former speaker of the British Columbia house, was during debate on a series of changes proposed in narcotics laws. She noted police authorities are saying that the increase since the 1953 addition of the streets at all times and another 300 are serving jail terms.

A physician, Senator F. W. Gershaw, Liberal from Calgary, opposed charges that Canada has about 3,000 addicts. He said the amount of illegal possession of narcotics had the drugs because of the increased distribution facilities.

The proposed changes would remove fines and provide penalties ranging from six months to seven years for being in illegal possession. Fines are provided for those having narcotics and trafficking in them would be boosted to $5,000 from seven.

Whipping as a penalty for illegal possession also is dropped but it may be added by the judge to the penalty of anyone convicted of trafficking.

Flow of Capital In Canada Rose To All-Time High

OTTAWA (CP) — The flow of capital for direct investment in the petroleum industries in Canada rose to an all-time high of $385,000,000 in 1953, $135,000,000 more than the 1952 total—up from $320,000,000 in 1952, bringing the American total in Canada to a new high of about $4,900,000,000.

There were no complete figures for the British but the bureau estimated the 1953 investment was two or three times the 1952 total of $213,000,000. This would boost the U.K. total to about $350,000,000 or $450,000,000 from the $50,000,000 at the end of 1953.

West Australians Spurn Safeguards To Give Queen Tumultuous Welcome

PERTH, Australia (Reuters)—Strict police precautions fell by the wayside today when thousands of people thronged the streets to welcome Queen Elizabeth on her arrival here.

Some 100,000 Australians ignored the police peril in Western Australia state to turn Elizabeth's arrival into a tumultuous scene of welcome. Many of them ducked under the barricades and crowded close to the royal car.

The Queen and Duke of Edinburgh had to have made an informal drive from the airport here to the Government House in the state capital Golhe—their official home during the Western Australia tour—but the 18-mile route was crowded with sightseers.

The police spokesman spread-ing today appealed to local people to gain their—curtailed tour of the state, and the extreme health precautions were observed initially.

Only 28 carefully-screened children and the adults, apart from officials, greeted the Queen as she arrived by plane this afternoon at the start of the town of Kalgoorlie on her way here.

The official welcome under a blazing sun and in whirling red dust took only two minutes, the start to lengthy ceremonies of earlier occasions.

Premier Albert Gardner, governor of Western Australia, and the state premier, Arthur Watts, were among official visitors. There were no handshakes.

Meanwhile, the number of polio cases in Western Australia rose by six to 345.

The royal couple will live aboard the royal liner Gothic, which berthed at Fremantle this morning. All their food will be supplied by the Gothic, and a tuberculous naval guard has been put on the liner.

BERT ROBINSON HOLDS PERFECT CRIBBAGE HAND

Bert Robinson, of 231 Bleecker Avenue, had begun to believe he would never hold a perfect hand in cribbage because he had been playing the game since 1936, but last night it happened. Playing against his wife he picked up the six cards dealt him and there was the start of the perfect hand. He had the five of clubs, spades and diamonds with the jack of hearts. It was his cut and sure enough up popped the five of hearts. The perfect hand in cribbage is hard to get and some play a whole lifetime without holding such a hand.

FIREMEN GIVEN TWO RUNS IN NIGHT

City firemen were called out on two runs last night, one of them a false alarm and the other for a chimney blaze.

The other run was to a Graham street address where stovepipes became overheated and caused a chimney blaze. No damage resulted.

City Council Can Expropriate Land For Industries

City council has the power to expropriate land within the confines of Belleville for industrial purposes. This information was revealed by Mayor Mark Hicks at the bi-monthly meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce on Thursday. According to the Municipal Act, no private bill need be passed by the legislature and neither is it necessary to call for a ballot of the electors. If assent is gained from the minister of municipal affairs, city council may pass a by-law giving the city the power to expropriate land for industrial purposes.

The directors approved a recommendation of the industrial section asking the Belleville Chamber of Commerce to take out membership in the Retail Federation of Canada. It was noted that many benefits would be derived from membership in this organization.

Don W. Kingdon, secretary-manager of the Chamber, will attend the two-day Dominion Secretarial Conference in South Bay April 8 and 9. This was the decision of the directors.

Number of Tree Branches Broken By High Wind

A strong wind which at times was reported to have reached a velocity of 50 miles per hour and more broke off numerous tree branches in the city during the night.

City Engineer Charles Mott said nothing serious had been reported but noted a few branches had broken off and fallen to the streets.

The sidewalk on Front street was effectively blocked off when the wind caused the barricade in front of old Bay store which was blown over to become impaled on parking meters. Wreckers are engaged in razing the old building and a plywood barricade had been erected to protect pedestrians.

Hearing Resumes in Tweed Beverage Room Vote Issue

Hearing of the application of E. J. Courneya, Tweed hotel proprietor, to have the Tweed beverage room vote of Nov. 19th set aside was resumed today at the county court buildings before Judge J. C. Anderson.

Originally scheduled for January 19th, the hearing was then adjourned after two witnesses were called to allow certain election papers required as evidence to be returned from Toronto.

Mr. Courneya is asking that the vote be set aside claiming irregularities had taken place during the voting. Among the irregularities claimed by Kenneth C. Ross, counsel for Mr. Courneya are that a number of persons not on the voting list were allowed to vote without being properly sworn; that the vote was not secret and also that the ballot boxes were not properly sealed either during the election or after voting had been completed.

Opposing the application to have the vote set aside is Garrett Morton, Tweed village clerk, who is represented by Richard D. Arnold.

All three questions included in the November vote were defeated by small majorities. Voting was on whether a lounge licence should be granted to the ladies' beverage room and on a men's beverage room.

Most of the morning's session was taken up by examination by counsel of certain election papers and other documents concerning the vote, which were returned from Toronto.

Court was adjourned twice during the morning, first to allow counsel to determine which documents would be entered as exhibits, and again to allow Mr. Ross more detailed examination of the election papers.

Thomas Breen, poll clerk at No. 1 poll, was the only witness called during the morning and proceedings were adjourned for noon lunch before cross examination could take place.

Mr. Breen told the court that a number of persons had voted whose names did not appear on the list. He said these persons had voted after he was told they had been sworn.

He read the names of a number of persons marked in the polling book as having been sworn and was asked to check these against the list of persons entitled to vote. He was unable to read the fine print and counsel said this would be done by a later witness.

Witness said the oath of allegiance had not been administered to anyone at the poll. He could not say whether the deputy returning officer had placed the numbers opposite voters names on the ballot counter-foils.

Questioned by counsel Mr. Breen said the table in the polling booth at his poll had been beneath a window and said that a person, outside the building could have seen a voter marking his ballot.

He said the ballot box had not been sealed before voting and afterwards had been sealed only with sticking tape.

Field Secretary For Blind Now Has Assistant

Preston Timmins, field secretary of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind for the six counties of Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Leeds and Grenville, has announced the appointment of Robert Padden as his assistant field secretary.

Mr. Padden assumed his new duties on March 15.

Mr. Padden, who hails from Paris, Ontario, is a graduate of the Ontario School for the Blind. He worked for seven years in the stands and cafeterias department of the Institute in Hamilton before entering field work last fall.

Mr. Timmins stated that there are 450 registered blind persons in his area and that with the opening of the new institute centre in Kingston drawing nearer, it was felt that the increasing amount of work necessitated the appointment of an assistant.

Mr. Timmins also announced that workers are plastering the rooms in the Institute building in Kingston now, and that early occupancy is anticipated.

FATEFUL QUESTION

It is becoming increasingly clear that March 1, 1954, may prove to have been a fateful day in the history of the world.

That was the day on which United States scientists exploded a thermonuclear device at Bikini.

Unlike earlier tests, this one does not seem to have proceeded "according to plan."

We now have the word of President Dwight D. Eisenhower that what occurred "surprised and astonished" scientists.

Events have forced United States authorities to increase the estimate of the size of the danger zone to a circle 900 miles in diameter.

The Manchester Guardian, one of the world's great newspapers, declares that what is scheduled for next month should be called, not a test, but an explosion.

The scientists, it says, are moving into the realms of the unknown. The device to be tested in April is estimated to be four times as powerful as that exploded on March 1, but the scientists were wrong about the power of that explosion at the start of this month. They could be wrong again.

The hydrogen bomb may force man to make a fateful decision. Already he faces is not the new problem of whether he should explode more hydrogen bombs. Rather it is an old question, which must be answered by every man individually. The question is whether or not he will cede to his country, which may order him to test some new device, or to the world as a whole?

EXCHANGING MAYORS

The road to hell, 'tis said, is paved with good intentions.

We hope that neither the citizens of Cortland, N.Y., nor Peshawar, Pakistan, have future cause to recall that saying.

The Mayor of Cortland, N.Y., is now on his way to Pakistan, to find out what it is like to be mayor of Peshawar. In the meantime Abdul Rashid will arrive in the U.S. from Pakistan to act as mayor of Cortland.

It all began about 18 months ago, when the citizens of Cortland began taking an interest in Pakistan to improve their knowledge of other people's ways of life and problems. The Cortland Citizens Pakistan Committee was formed and relations were established with Peshawar.

There is no question about the good intentions behind this exchange of mayors. And in this case we anticipate that the results will be happy, for the exchange appears to have been preceded by careful study. Mayor Robert H. Kerr of Cortland says that he is convinced that the people of Peshawar are "similar to us in philosophy and in government." Trading mayors between such similar cities as Cortland, N.Y., and Peshawar, Pakistan, may be all right. But what if the custom spreads? We shudder to think of what would occur, for instance, if Toronto and Montreal were to exchange mayors.

Still, the movement offers great possibilities. Once trading mayors comes into style, municipalities may take greater care in the selection of their chief magistrate. It would be a tragedy if a community found itself saddled with a mayor who was a drug on the market, for obvious reasons.

Then there are other municipalities which might discover that the outside world believed they had been practising mayoral inflation. Is Mayor Charlotte Whitton really fancy quality, fit for the export trade to coronations and such, or would Ottawa find that it had to trade her on the home market?

THE CHALLENGE OF BREAKFAST

"What other 60 minutes in the day present to the homemaker so great a challenge and an opportunity as the breakfast hour?" asks a writer on the woman's page of one of America's great newspapers.

Sixty minutes? For breakfast?

Well, some of the gal had her troubles, too, with helter-skelter breakfast habits. Her family, like most of our families, ate breakfast on the run, in the dash between the bathroom mirror and the clothes closet. But she held a council of peace with her brood and they worked out a schedule. Seems it did wonders for them.

We suspect, however, that this problem would not be solved by most of us breakfast hustlers.

We read someplace, somewhere, that there are two types of people, those who feel their best hours are the hours before arising, and those who are in their top spirits at night, just when it is time to go to bed. The scientists, as you might have guessed, even have a name for each group.

Now it seems to us obvious that a happy breakfast hour is only feasible if the members of your family are the morning glory types. There is no arguing with these people. How anybody can crawl out of bed to the tinny death-rattle of an alarm clock, shiver before an open window which refuses to budge, stagger in a losing race for the bathroom, discover that it is not a single cigaret in the house, don a clean shirt with a button off the sleeve and then sit down to breakfast with a smile is more than we can understand.

At night things are different. The day's work is done. The children are abed. There is an air of relaxation around the house. And morning is a long, long way off. Ain't life wonderful!

Will you drift with the current or paddle up stream?
Fair name or shoddy, good habits or bad,
Step up and pick them. They're here to be had.

On Saturday, March 17th., Mr. William Claus of the Mohawk Reserve, celebrated the 80th anniversary of his birth and was thrilled called to see him at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William Smith, to extend congratulations and express good wishes. Sixty-eight years ago Mr. Claus was united in marriage to Miss Catherine Hill and they have a family of three sons and two daughters. Mr. and Mrs. Claus are in fairly good health and they can tell many interesting stories of the early days on the Reserve.

Close to four hundred fewer relief tickets have been paid in Belleville for the year ending last, at the month end, than was the case in the previous year. This means there are in the neighborhood of that number of persons at least who have not paid the required radio license. Few of these, it is believed, have dismantled their sets completely.

Mr. F.O. Diamond, Dunbar Street, who is the supervisor of the interviews for South Hastings, says that an investigation of this matter will be undertaken prior to the issue of license next month.

Quartermaster-Sergeant Harold Anderson, Hydro Superintendent for New Brunswick, is renewing acquaintances in town.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Hart have returned home after visiting friends where they visited their son, Harold.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bull of Saskatoon, Sask., are visiting their son-in-law and in the vicinity.

Mr. Roy Farley, who spent the winter here with his mother, Mrs. Hedley Farley, Church Street, has left for his home at Nanaimo, Sask.

40 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1914

About one o'clock this afternoon the vast body of ice which was held at the Grand Trunk Railway bridge, began to move and it certainly was a great sight. When the ice reached the upper bridge it piled up against the piers and even reached the superstructure. The force was sufficient to move the bridge five and a half to three feet along the top of the piers. One pier was shifted from its base and some damage was done to the second pier. Many sightseers were on the bridge at the time and they made a hasty retreat. The railing on the south side of the bridge was slightly damaged.

50 YEARS AGO

March 26, 1904

The continued thaw of the last few days added to the heavy rain of last night caused the ice in the river to break up early in the early part this morning the ice between the lower bridge and Cooper's dam moved down, but owing to the harbor being solid the ice stopped a short distance below the bridge. Then a large body of ice broke up in the vicinity of Eatert's mill and this moved to the vicinity of the upper bridge and piled up several feet. It was expected that this ice would remain there, but shortly before nine o'clock it went down further up the river and this started the immense body of ice towards the bay. It was expected that there would be a disastrous flood, but the volume of water forced the ice out into the harbor for a considerable distance. On the city that the supplementary water pipes were over the bridge. Many cellars on both sides of Front Street are flooded and also the Grand Trunk railway track, sidewalk on Everett Street is covered with water and many houses are surrounded with water. On Coleman street the water is over the sidewalk in many places along the street. The footbridge gangway is impassable.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A conversation piece, in the lingo of artists, art dealers, critics, art directors and other volunteers among the intelligentsia, is any work of art, whether picture or sculpture, antique, or other object that is displayed in order to excite conversation.

For example, you may have a living room that is so conventional, so like all other living rooms everywhere, that conversation is deadened. The conventionality of the room compels conventional conversation.

But you go for a walk along the beach and pick up a piece of driftwood that looks like a toothache and bring it home and set it on a small table square in the middle of the living room: that is a"conversation piece." You will be surprised the effect it has on the conversation: not merely of your visitors but even on your own intimate circle of family and friends.

For years I was unable to get the hang of this modern abstract art in painting and sculpture. But all seriousness, artists and intellectuals have labored to let me in on the secret. It was only lately that it dawned on me that abstract art is the conversation piece of those who otherwise would have nothing to say.

There was a recent show in one of the art galleries of my home city and I persuaded myself that I should visit it. It was the very latest in abstract art.

In the windows of the gallery were three or four outstanding samples of the show that is to be held in Paris. They were the familiar massive chube and scrawls of staining paint, mostly red, brown and grey. Rarely does abstract art venture into blue or yellow, my two favorite colors.

Trembling slightly, I opened the door and entered. The place was crowded. A rich, buzzy hum of conversation flooded the long gallery. Its walls were hung with large, plain, jagged and stabbed with familiar themes of abstraction.

But I wasn't there to look that I rooted me to the floor and compelled me to remain. It was the people. There were gaunt high-cheek-boned blondes, there were big-boned, high-colored males, the kind who stand drooping. There was a fat man in the corner, there was a stout, motherly woman. Just a mob of obviously frenzied painters and intellectuals. I beat it, and went down the street to Woolworth's for a little friendly wander.

Cyclone-Hunting

(Written for Unesco by DANIEL BEHRMAN)

One night in 1942, a cyclone came from "nowhere" and struck, prowled through the darkness of the Bay of Bengal, and fell with the sudden murderous fury on the Indian state of Bengal. The storm, gone again almost as quickly as it came, killed 11,000 people, injured 1,500,000 and devastated an area of 3,000 square miles.

Cyclones are an old story on the Bay of Bengal, one of their most fertile breeding grounds. The 1942 storm was unusual only in its scope and destructiveness. Every year, cyclones sow disaster in the Bay and on the shores of India and East Pakistan, showing no respect at all for national boundaries.

Given fair warning, a ship can ride out the direct brute of the storm and a coastal city can order its population to safety when a cyclone is in the offing. But, to provide this fair warning, meteorologists have to find a cyclone, and if possible determine its course and speed, all of which are changeable without notice. Keeping track of a cyclone is somewhat like clinging to the tail of a man-eating tiger.

Some two decades ago, the Rev. J. Emilio Ramirez, a seismologist, working at the Belen Observatory in the United States, observed that cyclones left traces on his instruments as microseisms — that is, movements of the earth far smaller than those caused by "ordinary earthquakes". He developed a technique for tracking the course of cyclones by taking bearings on them from three stations.

The technique was first used extensively during World War II by the U.S. Navy and Army to gather information for Pacific landing operations and for forewarning invasion plans through the use of aircraft. The United States is now using seismographs to provide hurricane warnings in the West Indies.

This year, the Pakistan Meteorological Department, with UNESCO aid of a technical assistance mission from the United Nations Educational, scientific and cultural organization, is establishing a cyclone-tracking network in Chittagong in East Pakistan on the Bay of Bengal.

The leader of the Unesco team, H. G. Whitaway, a British geophysicist, recently pointed out that seismology, like meteorology, already has more of a role to play in Pakistan than in the Western hemisphere.

"In the Bay of Bengal, shipping is rather thin on the ground. "There are a good many fishermen, but they carry no radios.

"Besides, the aim of shipping in the Bay of Bengal is to keep out of the way of a cyclone. Aircraft are either grounded or flown over the cyclone's course a wide berth. In other words, even when a cyclone is known to exist, information on its speed or course may be very unreliable until it crashes the coast."

Mr. Whitaway stated that the great advantage of the microseism method is that it can detect the presence of a cyclone perhaps days before it is likely to be seen and reported by a ship. "After all, the size of a cyclone is roughly 100 miles across — a mere needle in a haystack," he commented.

The scientist explained that the seismic method of detecting and tracking cyclones depends on the fact that — in a manner not yet fully understood — pressure waves generated by a cyclone are transmitted through the sea to the solid floor. When they hit bottom, they travel outwards and eventually reach the coast.

If three seismographs are situated on the coast at the corners of a triangle measuring about half a mile on each side, the cyclone's location and the cyclone on all three instruments can be registered on a central station.

The seismologist then follows a simple vibration, measures the time it requires to reach each of his three instruments (each vibration measures in fractions of a second.) Trigonometry then supplies the necessary data on the cyclone.

With a second station of three instruments, a cross bearing is provided and the position of the cyclone can be plotted. When in operation, the Chittagong station in East Pakistan will be only a station already established at Madras in India.

Cyclone predictions are much more sensitive than ordinary seismographs, which can distinguish between seismic waves generated by storms, wind, surf, and those generated by earthquakes.

Mr. Thirlaway, however, does not claim that the problem of tracking cyclones in the Bay of Bengal can be solved by the new technique. "One of our problems is that vibrations travelling through the earth's crust are deflected from their true course by geological formations on the sea floor," he stated. "In any case, I anticipate trouble from the numerous islands in the middle of the bay."

Other seismological agencies are affected by storms at sea. Mr. Thirlaway cited the case of the Perlen, in the Arabian sea on the night of January 5 this year was investigating the disturbance in Pakistan's Geophysical Observatory at Quetta, which is situated more than 350 miles from the sea.

Eel Can Light Neon Sign

(National Geographic Bulletin)

Earth's creatures possess many different weapons for survival—fangs, claws, poisons, flight, protective strength, or human brains—but none stranger than the ability of the electric eel to produce electricity.

In the inland waters of tropical South America, where the eels live, ing. Its name is Electrophorus electricus, or simply the electric eel.

So powerful is the jolt this shocking specialist can give that in part that it foils horses, paralyzes fish, and temporarily stuns men. In one demonstrations lights neon signs for a split second. An average eel packs a non-stuck-any battery of equal size.

These fish live in the Amazon and Orinoco grow to eight feet long and as thick as a man's leg. Usually they are not eels at all, but are classed among the gymnotids, related to the catfish. The rear four-fifths of their smooth bodies are composed of electric generating cells.

Scientists of the New York Zoological Society have studied the electric eel, learning much about its habits and how it produces shocks. But as yet almost nothing is known about how it produces electricity in living tissue.

A full-size fish can discharge up to 500 volts and almost 1,000 watts of power. A standard light bulb, by comparison, draws 60 watts on a 110-volt line.

Apparently the electric eel can control at will the charge it uses against an enemy. The shock can come from various parts of the thick tail, or travel the entire length, from stern to bow, through a succession of feet per second. The current moves 12 to 15 times as fast as human nerve impulses.

In 1800 the famous explorer Alexander von Humboldt, in the land llanos of Venezuela, saw natives drive wild horses into a shallow pool to bear the attack of electric eels. Then the fish were captured.

Electric fish gave the first indication of the practical value of use of electricity to treat human ailments. In the Nile, as in other African rivers, electric catfish are found. Hieroglyphics prove they were known and used by Egyptians.

Plato wrote of the torpedo fish, electric ray common in the Eastern Mediterranean. Torpedo rays were used by Romans as fast as forward.

Railway Tries 'Buffet-Car'

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

Railroads and people who travel by train will watch with more than ordinary interest the experiment of the Pennsylvania Railroad in operating a buffet or dining car, if it is successful, and there is a fair chance that it will be, the principle could mean benefits on trains.

The car is split into two sections, one of which contains a small restaurant counter with stools, sinks, fruit juices, soft drinks and ice cream may be purchased. Just aft of the counter is the Automat restaurants in New York, with a number of coin-slot unit capable of seating 13 people. The other half of the small liquor and it will be presided over by a bartender.

The modest lunch arrangement should be made the delight of long distance travelling and will probably be welcomed by those who do not like the complete expensive meals with the conse-quent delays. The bartender in the new diner may strike a body blow at the station restaurants which have a fair amount of business for a few minutes and are empty the rest of the time, as well as trains and in any case take no-tice of them. He is studying the problem to see what effect the train service, dissatisfaction and reduction in cost. Perhaps the Pennsylvania buffet-car contains at least the germ of the answer.

physicians as shock treatment for gout and headaches. Modern doctors treat epileptics with electric rays are known in both Atlantic and Pacific waters. They can send a current through metal harpoon shafts, just enough to daze, and not a wet fishline.

Another sea fish called the star-gazer, because its upward-pointing eyes never move, has an electric cell in its head. Several African fish discovered in recent years have both electrical transmitting and receiving; a sort of piscine radar system. One of these, Gymnarchus niloticus, is said to be able to detect by this swim backward

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

CONCEDING NO PROGRESS

I have been telling the world that we have used aluminum kitchen or cooking utensils in our home for y e a r s and we have kept pretty well. We believe we have used at least one kind of baking powder containing aluminum — I never paid any attention to that, because I don't think it is a health question whether baking powder does or does not contain alum.

So far as I know, the makers of aluminum utensils and alum baking powder—if any —do not claim that they exist or that the foodings have any weight with the general public.

I quoted here Jan. 21 a bit of anti-aluminum propaganda purporting to be a "Report of R. A. McGuigan to the U.S. Trade Commission" — that "all vegetables cooked in aluminum are made poisonous" and will cause stomach ulcer, colitis, gastritis and the Aluminum Wares Association informs me that Dr. R. A. McGuigan, professor of pharmacology at University of Illinois college of medicine, died unsuspected for years and sends me a signed statement of Dr. McGuigan's saying: "My appearance before the Federal Trade Commission in docket case No. 540 was to tell them that aluminum in cooking vessels and in alum baking powders is harmless."

Indeed I learned in the first few years in this racket that it is better to have no defense at all than to attempt to defend myself and then be condemned, gentleman summoned me to his sanctum to set me right about (a) the teeth and (b) getting the feet wet. I did fairly well on the first count but not so well on the second. When the old fellow ordered me to inevitably look cold if he walked from office to club for lunch when the weather was damp and he didn't wear overshoes. I lost control of myself and got with a great guffaw. Thereafter the paper got along for years without any help. After all I was laughing at the great man's funny notion.

Strength for the Day

WAR AND PEACE

Most of us envy good fortune and prosperity. We look at the other fellow's house, boat or personal problems, whose material needs are generously supplied and we say, "Oh, how rosy life must be for those who have no trials and troubles to meet." Yet the truth is that those who have no trials and troubles are never important people. Only the strong are chosen as men of any group or nation are those who have had to struggle and excel in the struggle have proved their worth.

Any military commander prefers to face the enemy not with raw troops whose physical conforms still boast sparkling buttons, but with seasoned veterans of battle, whose previous dangers, escapes, and defeats have left them a little battle scarred. No captain would willingly take his ship to sea with a crew composed of smooth-water sailors who have not survived a storm or been sea-sick.

Yes, we would all like a serene, peaceful existence. But the only kind of person we admire has attained through conflict. This kind of hard-won peace brings contentment and security.

So don't curse your hard knocks. Like the scar and callouses of the athlete beginning his training period, they are the price or way to a state of true well-being.

Modern Homes

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

The office grouch says there is something absolutely wrong with a civilization which keeps building skyscrapers and smaller homes with larger and larger medicine cabinets.

SOWERS OF SEEDS

Now that springtime is upon us, there soon will be a sowing of seeds, far and wide. Seeds are the symbol of hope. Many a farmer puts his faith within the seeds that he sows, and the flower of flowers and sprouting garden gains inspiration and spiritual enrichment as the dream of the sowing seeds quickens God in the world.

Many a poet has written poems in Miami, Florida—John C. Gifford —one of her most useful citizens, has a delightful little book, full of golden pay dirt. Here is one of his poems: "One may not completely change the character of a single country, and the industry of its people by dropping a single seed in fertile soil." Anyone, who has ever planted seeds knows that they have been performed in this day, has but to plant a single seed within his heart, and know that, upon planting it, it will perform a miracle.

Most of us, who love to read of useful personalities and learn from them, have read about Luther Burbank, widely known as "Johnny Appleseed." All through his active life, and now mid-western territory, he learned how different var-

"I do hope that we in this Parliament will not decide on broadcasting the sessions of Parliament."

Mr. Harris said the matter comes under supervision of the speaker.

Speaker Rene Beaudoin said nothing.

Algoma Steel Strike is Ended

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) The big Algoma Steel Corporation plant here was to start producing again today after a wildcat strike of 100 scrap men forced 3,000 coworkers off the job. The walkout lasted two days.

The strike, labelled as unauthorized by officials of Local 2251, United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), was ended at a mass membership meeting Thursday night. The 100 rail mill workers walked off the job in a dispute over seniority policy.

The 3,000 union members approved by a standing vote an executive request to end the strike. The resolution was accepted by the 100 employees after the vote was taken.

Strong Opposition to Polish Regime But Nothing Done Says Foreign Correspondent

Frederick Kuh, foreign correspondent of the Chicago Sun-Times, recently spent two weeks behind the Iron Curtain in Poland. He moved freely about the country, seeing many things that diplomats stationed in Poland for years have not been able to look at. This summary of his findings is condensed from the Chicago Sun-Times by The Associated Press. Copyright 1954).

By FREDERICK KUH

Poland presents a picture of mixed strength and weakness. Nobody with whom I spoke sees an acceptable alternative at hand. Yet there is strong opposition to the regime.

Partly owing to fear of war, partly to comply with Soviet demands, the Poles have been forcing the pace of industrialization. In the last four years Poland's industrial output increased by 115 per cent. Farm production rose by only nine per cent. This hurt.

You can't get a lot of things most people take for granted. Razor blades, hairpins, household utensils, thread we've simply unobtainable. Since the Polish Communist party, following Moscow's lead in 1933, decided to switch its accent from heavy to light industries, many of these shortages are being relieved.

WAGES LAGGING

One of the ugliest problems is the gap between wages and prices. It takes 10 days of an average worker's salary to buy a pair of shoes.

Most tangible accomplishment is housing. In one city after another, squalid slums are vanishing. Marked social advancement has come to underprivileged groups. At the top, as in Russia, a new class of privileged have more than their share of good things. About 2,500,000 peasants and their families, formerly too poor to buy finished goods, now are participants in the market.

The two great forces in opposition to the regime are the mass of peasants and the church. A minority—mostly lay Catholics — has formed a church group loyal to the government but its influence is small. A large majority of peasants strongly oppose collectivization of the land.

The party's chief agricultural economist, Jerzy Tepicht, told me candidly that in the last three years 150 collective farms have been disbanded because under pressure was put on peasants to enter them or because the collectives were small or otherwise not viable.

Bad weather explains partly why Poland had to import 1,000,000 tons of grain in 1953. Weather conditions alone fail to account for Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz' statement that his country will have to import about another million tons of cereal in 1954. These shortages are due in part to peasants' resistance or indifference.

INDUSTRIES CREATED

Poland has been creating industries it never knew before, manufacture of heavy machine tools, heavy equipment for steel mills and mines, machinery for chemical and shipbuilding plants, tractors, autos and synthetics—especially artificial fertilizers.

A visit to the new auto works in Zeran on Warsaw's outskirts illustrated how the Soviet Union is creating an additional mobilization base in Poland. The Russians have supplied 75 per cent of the machinery for this plant, which is producing a copy of a Russian car. This factory could be switched on short notice to standard Soviet models, trucks or other military vehicles.

Soviet control over Poland's economy forces goes very far. Cyrankiewicz, otherwise affable, showed displeasure when asked about this.

The army is reputed to consist of about 22 divisions of 440,000 troops, including supporting units. More than half the officers in the army, navy and air force, a high communist official in Warsaw told me, have been trained in Soviet Union.

REBUILDING WARSAW

In 1945 four of every five buildings in Warsaw were destroyed, and only one in 20 habitable. Warsaw's chief city planner, Zygmunt Skibniewski, told me some 17,000 building workers are engaged in rebuilding the capital.

Members of non-Communist embassies are incessantly watched. Their telephones are tapped as the main source of information for Communist diplomats.

Absence of civil liberties is less obvious to Poles who have almost never known them at home. Yet the straitjacket of totalitarian ideology is breaking. Cultural life in Poland today.

Bureaucracy is another evil. The state and other public authorities have swollen their ranks beyond belief.

My belief is the majority of Poles are definitely against the regime.

Sixty Students Enjoy Visit To Legislature

PICTON — A visit to the Ontario Legislature was enjoyed by sixty students of Picton Collegiate on Wednesday. The visit was arranged by the local Rotary Club, who provided cars for transportation. The group was met on the steps of the Parliament Buildings by Norris Whitney, M.P.P., Prince Edward-Lennox, and they were his guests at luncheon in the cafeteria in the East block. Mr. Whitney extended an official welcome and was joined in this greeting by Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings South.

The visitors were much interested in seeing large oil paintings of two Prince Edwarders who became speakers of the House, Hon. Nelson Parliament and Hon. James deC. Hepburn. Later, seated in the West Gallery, they had the opportunity of hearing a spirited debate by members of the Legislature.

A 92nd and a first birthday were jointly celebrated this week. Mrs. George Martin will be 92 tomorrow, while her great grandson, Martin Leroy Brough, was one year old on Monday. The party was arranged by Martin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brough, to mark the double anniversaries. Refreshments included suitably inscribed cakes for each. Mrs. Martin continues to enjoy excellent health though her hearing has failed some. One of her favorite recreations is watching television and her only complaint is that it keeps her up long past her usual bed time. Nearly all her life has been spent in Athol township, Prince Edward County.

BLOOD DONORS LINE UP

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Doctors who amputated the leg of 13-year-old Mike Parsons Thursday were assured of an ample supply of blood for the young haemophilia victim by hundreds of donors who turned up outside the hospital. When an appeal for blood was sent out, soldiers, merchant seamen, police and even small boys joined the line-up to replenish the hospital supply.

Martin Praises Red Cross Work

WINDSOR (CP) — Health Minister Martin said Thursday night although governments have been called upon increasingly to act on major social problems, at all times and for all varieties of human need, there is an essential place for voluntary action.

Mr. Martin was addressing the opening dinner of the annual convention of the Ontario Red Cross Society.

The health minister said it must never be thought government should assume the whole responsibility in the partnership between government and voluntary agencies.

"For myself," said Mr. Martin, "I cannot conceive of a democratic society in which government assumes total responsibility for health and welfare."

DOE LIVED 15 YEARS

ARTESIA, N.M. (AP)—A pet doe which lived twice the life expectancy of a deer and gave birth to 22 fawns has died on a ranch near Artesia. Affectionately known as "Fawny," the 15-year-old doe was found in the Sacramento mountains in 1939 when one year old. The state game department said the normal life of a deer is seven or eight years.

Sunnyside Park Will Make Way For Expressway

TORONTO (CP) — Sunnyside amusement park, a midway of ferris wheels and bowling stands, along one of Canada's busiest roadways, will disappear next year. An expressway will take its place.

The park, stretching more than a quarter-mile along the Lake Shore road in west Toronto's waterfront, attracts thousands of visitors every year. But civic officials say most of it will have to go.

To be retained, however, are the big outdoor swimming pool, largest in the Commonwealth, a children's play area, and some beaches.

It is expected the midway will be moved to the Canadian National Exhibition grounds about a mile east.

66th Wedding Anniversary For Rednersville Couple Will Be Quiet Affair

The 66th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Weese, of Rednersville, in Prince Edward County, is going to be a quiet affair.

"I am not feeling too well and don't feel up to a party," the 92-year-old Mrs. Weese said on the eve of her anniversary. Only one daughter lives in London, Ont., was expected to be on hand for the anniversary.

But the 66-years married couple are in remarkably good health for their age. They retired from the farm 23 years ago, but every summer since then until last year they have worked in a small canning factory a few miles from their home.

During their active years, they operated three different farms and milked as high as 30 cows by hand. Mr. Weese never had a milking machine, and never used a tractor. He sets little use for a tractor on a small farm.

To recall harvesting grain with a cradle, then used a reaper and finally a binder. "Now they have combines," he says.

He remembers when Prince Edward County shipped thousands of bushels of barley and wheat to Oswego each year by lake schooner.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weese have remarkably good eyesight and hearing and wear glasses only to read. Mr. Weese has no recipe for long life, but smokes all the time.

"I don't think what you eat or drink has anything to do with it," he says.

He still drives his own car and has never had an accident. The couple have three sons, Clayton of Smithfield; Norman of Frankford, and Albert of Windsor, and two daughters, Mrs. Flossie Brickman, of Toronto, and Mrs. Thomas Leslie of London.

NEW PROOF THAT MILLIONS CAN END
THE NEED FOR LAXATIVES

With all the progress of medical science over the past 30 years, authorities say there is no longer any reason why irregularity should be our most widespread human malady.

Nor is there any reason for developing the habit of harsh laxatives—of dosing with one preparation after another in the vain hope of finding, in some potion or pill, that "perfect" relief.

Long-continued study of the problem has shown that one of the most common causes of irregularity is lack of bulk in the diet. And when this is the case, the common-sense corrective to be found not in the drug store but in your food store!

IT HAS LONG BEEN A MEDICALLY RECOGNIZED FACT THAT NATURE HAS PROVIDED, IN THE NATURAL FOODS MEN WERE INTENDED TO EAT, ALL THE INGREDIENTS NECESSARY FOR THE LIFE-LONG AVOIDANCE OF COMMON CONSTIPATION.

One of these elements is natural fibrous bulk, or vegetable cellulose, which normally and naturally aids the rhythmic process of elimination.

In no natural food is this natural bulk so ideally found as in the outer layers, or bran, of the whole wheat kernel which, as you know, is lost in modern milling.

Because of the known value of bran in promoting regularity the Kellogg Company has produced a complete, whole bran—with nothing taken away to lessen its effectiveness—sold under the name of Kellogg's All-Bran, the natural laxative-cereal. How effective is All-Bran? This has been demonstrated in a series of systematic clinical studies reported in leading medical journals.

In one study, 135 people with chronic constipation for years were given one ounce of All-Bran daily for one week. They were studied clinically and with X-ray with tests made before, during and after they ate the All-Bran.

OF THE 135 PEOPLE, 107 SHOWED DEFINITE CLINICAL IMPROVEMENT. IN JUST 7 DAYS.

IN A FOLLOW-UP STUDY, BETTER THAN 5 OUT OF EVERY 6 PATIENTS WHO WERE GIVEN ALL-BRAN IMPROVED.

The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage.

When people use these products habitually—in a way that laxative makers never intended—they punish their digestive system in a way that nature never intended. Instead of correcting the cause, they often actually make their condition worse.

If you think you must take a laxative preparation occasionally, do so. But do it wisely. Read the instructions completely. AVOID EXCESSIVE USAGE. But for natural and lasting relief put your trust in nature, just as daily a one-ounce serving of All-Bran for healthful and drink plenty of water.

This All-Bran plan has helped millions to re-establish and to maintain healthful regularity. Why not you?

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS AND ANSWERS

MARRIED AT 13, SHE'S SEEN DIVORCED SINCE 17

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I was married when I was only 13 years old and left N. H. my husband and I have been divorced for four years. I have one child who is crazy about her father. But even after all this time, every time he comes around he beats me.

I'm now going with a man who is lawfully good to me and my child, but I don't know whether I love him or not. There is also another man who has asked me to marry him, and I just can't make up my mind which one I really want to marry.

What would you do if you were in my place? — U.E.

Dear U.E.:

What I would do if I were in your place is not to marry any body while I was so uncertain of my feelings. Any person who can't decide whether he loves you enough to marry isn't in love with either, and should proceed with the greatest caution.

My advice to you is not to think of marriage until someone comes along about whom you are in no doubt whatever. With one broken marriage behind you, you want to be certain that any second marriage will be a success.

MAYBE THIS GIRL IS SHY, TOO

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a girl 15 and like a boy who is very shy.

Every Friday we have a dance at school. My girl friend goes with her boy friend and I usually have to go away because I think I'm in the way. I want to know how to "break the ice." — L.I.N.

Dear L.I.N.:

What I think you mean is that you have no boy friend with whom to go to the dance; that you feel awkward and self-conscious when you go with your girl friend and her boy friend because "three's a crowd," and that when you say you want to know how to "break the ice" you mean how to make friends with this boy you say is shy. Is this the way it is?

The best way, of course, to make a new acquaintance is to get someone who knows you both to introduce you to each other. If you have a friend who knows this boy, then come right out and ask if he, or she, won't introduce you, and you might even be frank enough to ask if a blind couldn't be dropped to the boy that you'd like to go to the dance with him. Lots of girls do things like this, and you needn't feel it would be out of order.

On the other hand, if this boy is in school with you, it should be easy for you to get to know him without using as formal as to ask a special introduction. If there's any place where girls and boys should be able to get acquainted with each other, certainly that place is at the school they attend. So, next time you see this boy, I suggest that you say a few words to him about something that's going on at the school and see how he responds. If he really is shy, perhaps all he's waiting for is some friendly sign from one of you girls.

It sounds to me as though you might be having trouble with shyness, too, and if you are, then you might like to send me a stamped self-addressed envelope and let me mail you my suggestions on how to be popular.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mrs. Norah Scott, tall and energetic, is the hard-working executive secretary for the British Empire Games to be held here this summer.

Behind a crowded desk and flanked by a huge poster of the Duke of Edinburgh, a constantly ringing telephone and countless calendars and pamphlets, she is helping Vancouver prepare for the biggest sports event in its history.

Born in Vancouver, she went to China after leaving school to work in a Hong Kong shipping agency.

Next came England, marriage in London, the war and various postings with Canadian military headquarters, the British Army of the Rhine, the United States embassy and a stint with American forces of occupation in Germany. Meanwhile, her husband was serving with the RAF in the Middle East.

Mrs. Scott's daily task is crammed with problems dealing with the arrival next July of 800 athletes from 24 countries and a continuing 50,000 visitors expected to follow in their wake.

She worries about such things as: Minutes must not be served pork; Fijians will need generous portions of "taro" waiting for them on arrival. She thinks "taro" is some kind of root and says she will do her best to get it. Failing this "they'll have to eat bread and potatoes."

Make your shortbread, shape into 2-inch rolls. Wrap in freezer paper or foil and chill quickly. When ready to use, put in refrigerator and bring up to refrigerator temperature. Then roll out and shape with cutter or break off and mould into flat rounds by hand and bake. Frozen rolls of cookie dough will always break when you attempt to slice them unless you have an extremely sharp knife or raise the temperature to refrigerator temperature—at least that has been my experience.

BREATHE DEEPLY FOR BEAUTY'S SAKE

Beauticians are stressing circulation as they are stressing other health measures to help in the campaign for good looks. They urge their customers to breath deeply, get exercise out of doors. They explain that the free circulation of the blood has much to do with the vitality of the hair, the delicate coloring of the complexion, the rosy glow of the flesh beneath the finger nails.

The circulatory system is marvelously organized. It supplies nourishment to all the tissues of the body every half minute—every thirty-second heart beat to be exact.

The heart is a sort of suction pump; the arteries, veins and capillaries are like a series of elastic tubes. This marvelous machinery will carry on best when one leads an active, normally healthy life. The lazy woman who loves her soft cushions, who never stands if she can sit, who never walks if she can ride, is no better give the subject a little thought, that is. If she desires to keep within touch of her youth, retain her svelte figure and a glowing complexion.

Deep breathing ships up circulation. Shallow breathers are apt always have pale skin and narrow, flat chests. Fresh air should be drawn into the very depths of the lungs. Stand before an open window while deeply through the nostrils. Exhale slowly through the mouth. Within five minutes your skin will glow, showing that the blood is circulating actively. This habit, through stimulation of the circulatory system, will have a favorable effect upon facial tissues and the muscles of the body. It's the cheapest kind of beauty treatment! And its effects last forever.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

BRIDE AND GROOM HAVE DIFFERENT IDEAS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I, We have a problem—and such a problem! It's about the liquor that is to be served at a wedding, and who provides the liquor. My sister is to be married in June, the 3 o'clock ceremony to be followed by a large reception and Wedding Breakfast (at 10:30.) The bride-to-be is of Polish descent, and her parents want to plan to have a real breakfast, not the tea-and-crumpet breakfast the groom-to-be suggested. The groom-to-be, who is French, says it's "unheard of" to serve the kind of breakfast-menu the bride's parents suggest, and that if they insist on serving liquor with such a breakfast, the bride's father will have to buy it. (Her parents are paying for all the food, the service, the rental of the hall, as well as the bride's clothes.) I maintain that no matter what sort of wedding reception it is, liquor is served, and it's the groom who provides it. Is this correct?

A. Another problem we have: The hall is hired for the Breakfast only, from 10:30 A.M. to 2 P.M. The wedding guests must be out by 3 o'clock, because the hall is hired for another group for an afternoon-and-evening dance. How can the invitations be worded so that there will be no misunderstanding and hurt feelings about this? I suggested that they have a small breakfast at home with only the wedding party and the members of the families present, and this way no one will be asked to leave early. Do you agree with this idea?—J.R.

Q. The parents of the bride-to-be are the hosts of the Wedding Breakfast, and if it's their wish to plan to serve a hearty and generous menu for this breakfast, that's just what they should do. They pay for every detail of the breakfast . . . including the customary wedding champagne and or whatever beverages they choose to serve. You are wrong about this . . . the providing of the beverages is not the responsibility of the groom. It is for whatever kinds of foods are served.

E. The invitations would invite the guests to "the wedding breakfast at half after ten o'clock" (or "following the ceremony"), with no mention of the ending-hour. The reception would be over when the bride and groom depart, and they would be expected to schedule their departure in good time before the 3 o'clock deadline! It is not for you or me to suggest an alternative plan for the breakfast procedure . . . the wedding breakfast the bride's parents are planning is in good taste, in good form, and apparently they are quite capable of leading their own hospitable arrangements for their festivity after the marriage ceremony.

POPULAR WITH THIS SEASON'S BRIDES

Corvettes, Warriors of Battle Of Atlantic, By-Passed For Sleek New Anti-Submarines

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Author Nicholas Monserrat related recently that when his book "The Cruel Sea" was being made into a movie, the film makers couldn't find a corvette in Britain and had to borrow one from Greece.

In 10 short years, the dumpy little warriors of the battle of the Atlantic have been by-passed by sleek new anti-submarine vessels which slice through the seas at twice their speed.

The plain fact is—and it was becoming plain even as early as 1946—that the corvette is no longer of any use in a modern navy.

ONE IN HALIFAX

At its wartime peak, the Canadian Navy has 64 corvettes. It has only one today. This relic, the Sackville, is on loan in Halifax as a hydrographic survey ship and is manned by civilians.

The original corvettes were 200-foot ships running just over 850 tons. The earliest of this class were given names of flowers. After extensive modifications there finally came the big class of 1,100 tons with better accommodation and deadlier anti-submarine equipment.

All of Canada's corvettes except the Sackville have been disposed of through War Assets Corporation which hasn't one left. They are turning up in odd corners of the world. For instance, the former Bowmanville, one of five Castle class corvettes sold to Nationalist China, now is flying the Red flag of Communist China. Two sister ships, the Tillsonburg and Orangeville, are still in Nationalist hands, but the fate of the Humberstone and Copperclif is not known.

NOW TRAINING SHIP

Another former Canadian corvette, the Arnprior, is a training frigate in the Uruguayan navy. The Stellar, Stratford and Thorlock have joined Chile's navy. Venezuela bought seven corvettes from Canada. Israel took the Norsyd and Beauharnois, the Dominican Republic the Lachute, Peterborough, Belleville and Rivière du Loup.

Canadian sailors didn't shed many tears over departure of the original corvettes. The ships rolled badly and though extremely seaworthy they also swung something like a pendulum because they were bottom-heavy. The originals had a short fo'c'sle and no shelter deck so that meals had to be carried astern over the open deck.

The corvette was modelled after a 1810 whale-catcher built in Britain for a New Zealand firm. The whaling company wanted a vessel which could accelerate rapidly to overtake a whale and manoeuvre easily to follow the whale's erratic course.

HAD GOOD RECORD

The corvettes cost about $360,000 each—or a total of nearly $70,000,000. They had a top speed of 16 knots and a range, in the late models, of 6,200 miles. The original corvettes carried depth charges, minesweeping equipment and anti-aircraft guns. Crews numbered from 50 to 100 men.

Canadian corvettes took a hand in the killing of 31 enemy submarines—13 German and two Italian—for the loss of 10 of their own number. The nine lost were the Lavelle, Spikenard, Charlottetown, Louisburg, Regina, Alberni, Trentonian, Shawinigan and Weyburn.

Twenty-two Canadian corvettes shared in sub kills. The first sub sunk by a Canadian corvette was the U-501, Sept. 8, 1941. Both the Chambly and Moose Jaw took part in the kill. The Chilliwack was the only Canadian corvette to participate in two U-boat sinkings—the U-356 Dec. 29, 1942, and the U-744 March 6, 1944.

Other corvettes credited with sub sinkings were the Wetaskiwin, Oakville, Battleford, Napanee, Ville de Quebec, Shediac, Drumheller, Calgary, Soowberry, Camrose, Fennel, Owen Sound, Rimpeler, St. Thomas, Port Arthur and Regina.

CHRISTMAS KILL

The St. Thomas got the last—the U-877—two days after Christmas in 1944.

The Windflower, sunk in collision in 1941, was the first Canadian corvette commissioned—Oct. 20, 1940. The first 10 built served with the Royal Navy, though manned by Canadian crews. The first commissioned for service with the Canadian Navy was the Collingwood, launched Nov. 7, 1940. By the end of 1940, 14 corvettes were serving with the RCN.

Most of the Canadian corvettes were built at Montreal, Sorel and Lauzon, Que., Port Arthur, Saint John, Victoria and Vancouver. They were cheaper and faster to build than destroyers.

By late in the war, enemy submarines could outrun the corvettes underwater.

But they served their purpose," one old corvette hand said recently. "Without them, we probably would have lost the battle of the Atlantic—and perhaps the war. We lost some but we knocked off more of the enemy. And there's no telling how many attacks we prevented on shipping, just by being there."

Smiley All Smiles Again As His Village Is Booming

SMILEY, Sask. (CP) — Ernest Smiley is watching the village that took its name from him become a boom town for the second time in 50 years. First it was wheat. Now it's oil.

Born 77 years ago in the United States, Smiley as a young man hitched his wagon at this spot near the Saskatchewan-Alberta border, 135 miles west of Saskatoon, in August, 1909. He built a home of earth and sod and settled down to farm, helped by his wife and small son.

Smiley says a real estate agent who called on him one day suggested he name it for the Canadian National Railway townsite man in Winnipeg. That's how the village got its name.

ON THE RAILROAD

At first there was only the Smiley family and Ernest's partner, a man named Hyatt, and his wife. But the railroad was winding nearer and soon they had neighbors. By the time the track-laying crews reached the village a large crowd of settlers was there to greet them.

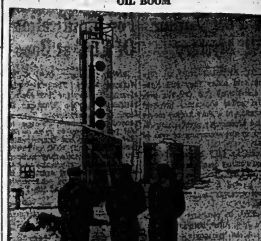
The settlement prospered. A rural municipality was formed, a school and stores were built and, in 1918, the first grain elevator. Ernest Smiley was president of the first grain local while his wife was secretary of the women grain growers organizations.

"The village was booming," Smiley recalls, "and seemed destined to become a town. The population grew to twice as large as it is now."

Then the drought came followed by the depression of the 1930s. Smiley's members shrank by more than a half.

But Smiley had confidence in the country and was sure it would recover. . .

OIL DISCOVERY



Last Sept. 17, light oil was discovered here. Since then the village has thrived. Forty wells have been drilled. Oil men and their families are taking up every square foot of available accommodation. The population has leaped from 100 to 400 in six months.

A new electrical distribution system has been built as well as two grain elevators, a theatre, curling rink, cafe and clothing store. A billiard parlor and barber shop now are under construction.

A crude-oil loading truck has been erected on Mrs. Smiley's right-of-way. One of the big oil companies has installed telegraph service for inter-office communications. Officials come by air to visit the oil discovery.

OIL BOOM

Ernest E. Smiley (left) is watching Jhe Saskatchewan village named for him go through its second boom in 50 years. First it was wheat. Now it's oil. Light oil was discovered at Smiley last September 17 and since then the village's population has grown from 100 to 400 as oil men and their families move in. Forty wells have been drilled so far and one of them is on Mr. Smiley's farm. In this picture he is shown at the well's control valve. With him is his son, Franklin (centre), now farming the Smiley homestead, and a grandson, Ernest. (CP Photo.)

The next meeting will be held April 7th at 2.30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Fleming.

W.A. MEETING

The March meeting of the W.A. of Wellington United Church was held at the pleasant home of Mrs. Barton Cronk on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance of members and visitors. With the president, Mrs. B. Alyea, in the chair the meeting opened with Mrs. Alyea reading a poem and thanking the hostess for her hospitality and extending a welcome to all present. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Bishop and correspondence read by Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson.

Following items of business the devotional was conducted by Miss Edith Ward; Bible reading by Mrs. Barton Cronk and a reading by Miss Ward on the topic, Mrs. Will Adams had charge of the program. Humorous readings by Mrs. F. Harris and Mrs. E. Marvin were splendidly given and much enjoyed. A shamrock contest presented by Mrs. Bryan Cronk was won by Mrs. Nash and Mrs. Preston. At the close a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed.

Several members of the W.M.S. motored to Napanee on Wednesday to attend the missionary convention.

CHICKS VETOED

Prince Charles Proclaimed World's Best-Dressed Man

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—Prince Charles was proclaimed Thursday by Tailor and Cutter to be the world's best-dressed gentleman.

The five-year-old prince squeezed out his father, the Duke of Edinburgh, who is not placed among the 10 men named the best dressers. There is an impression in Saville row, where tailors dictate men's fashion, that Tailor and Cutter is provoked with the duke because he sometimes goes bareheaded.

Tailor and Cutter is the magazine which in Britain is a mighty and caustic authority on fashion. It has scolded presidents and prime ministers for slovenly dress, and has praised misers for the snappy cut of their overalls.

Once a year the magazine selects the 10 men it regards as leaders of male fashion, and this year Charles leads all the rest. Last year he was just in the list.

FRAZER'S CAP

The prince was commended for his baby bow tie, the fawn stalker cap (a variation of the deer stalker) and his partiality to double-breasted top coats. He is praised for wearing an ordinary cloth cap with distinction.

"The cloth cap should always be moulded to a curved-peak effect," Tailor and Cutter said. "His velvet-colored top coat, too, follows a popular current trend."

After the prince the top-flight dressers, in order, are: Harold Macmillan, British health minister; Rene Massigli, French ambassador to London; Stewart Granger; Fred Astaire; Harry Hopkinson, British minister of state for colonial affairs; Porfirio Rubirosa, Barbara Hutton's most recent husband; Captain Cecil Boyd-Rochfort, trainer of Queen Elizabeth's horses; Alan Wheatley, British television actor and Sir Hartley Shawcross, Socialist member of Parliament.

Such a distinguished team of dressers, the magazine believed, should have a substitute to step in, should one of the first 10 be caught some day with baggy knees. For this reserve spot Tailor and Cutter named heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano.

"Marciano has taken a sudden interest in British styles," the magazine said. "This boy could go a long way."

GOOD MATERIAL

TISDALE, Sask. (CP)—The provincial resources department is collecting moose hides from hunters in this district. They are being sent to Indians on reserves, to be made into moccasins, jackets and handicrafts.

FINE PAINTINGS

LONDON (CP) — Four landscapes by Cornelius Krieghoff who painted in Canada 100 years ago, sold for £2,800 at auction. They price of £250 for a snow scene with a cabin in a clearing is believed a record for the works of the artist who died in 1872.

Wellington on the Lake

MARCH TWILIGHT

A twilight hush pervades the land.
No wanton breezes wander by
To stir the trees, a silent band,
So like grim sentinels they stand
Clear-etched against a crimson sky.

The ice-bound lake in winter's thrall
Gives no assuring signs of Spring,
But as the twilight shadows fall
And wings of dusk encompass all,
We hear a robin sing!

O sweet this season of repose
The quiet hush of twilight time!
When colorful in gold and rose
The sunset flag a glamor throws
Inspiring thoughts sublime.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WELLINGTON —Spring arrived on March 21st, bringing a wintry atmosphere. But the robins have arrived and folk who have been wintering in the Sunny South are returning home. And sap is running! So in spite of the chilling March wind we fancy that Spring is here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Raynor have returned to Wellington after spending the winter in Florida.

Mrs. C. Wannamaker spent a few days in Trenton with her daughter, Mrs. Archie Cassens. With Mrs. Cannons she visited Mr. and Mrs. Peter Grais, Campbellford, Ont.

Mrs. G. C. Blakely and Mrs. Wannamaker, Rose Hall, were the guests of Bloomfield Women's Institute on Friday.

Mrs. W. A. Davern travelled by plane to Florida last week and will visit Miss Ruby Nash, who has spent the winter there.

Mrs. W. D. Reddy, The Willows, Picton, with her sister, Miss Mattie Young, Hillier, motored to Florida last week.

Mrs. Edna Platt is spending this week in Welland, the guest of her sister, Mrs. MacArthur. Mr. MacArthur and family. During her absence her mother, Mrs. S. MacDonald, is staying with Mr. and Mrs. McCoy, Bloomfield.

Miss Marjorie Blakely visited her aunt, Mrs. Philip MacDonald of Lakefield, who has been for some time a patient in Prince Edward Hospital.

The Yaymen's banquet of the United Church Thursday evening was a very pleasant affair. The evening Auxiliary provided the menu.

SANDERS — PETTINGILL

On the afternoon of Saturday, March 20th, a quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Presbyterian manse, Whitby, when Miss June Pettingill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pettingill, Hillier, became the bride of Mr. Glendon Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warden Sanders, Toronto, with Rev. Mr. Marshall officiating. The double ring ceremony in the presence of a number of family friends. Mr. Mack Deacon ably supported the groom, while Miss Betty Mearns attended the bride.

The bride was attractive in blue velvet with a corsage of pink roses, while the bridesmaid was prettily attired and wore a corsage of red roses.

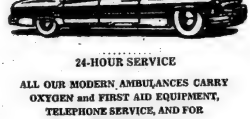
Following the ceremony and congratulations and felicitations, the wedding party motored to Toronto where a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warden Sanders, the latter receiving in a dress of navy and white with corsage of carnations. A delicious turkey dinner was served at quartet tables, after which Mr. and Mrs. Sanders left by motor for Buffalo and other western points, the bride travelling in a suit of grey with blue accessories. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

Guests attending included Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pettingill and Billie, Mr. Frank Haight and Mrs. Arthur Good Murphy, from Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Sanders, Toronto.

WELLINGTON WCTU

The Wellington WCTU met on March 18 at the home of Mrs. Leonard Wilse with Mrs. A. T. Fleming in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Frank Harris, evangelist superintendent, gave the devotional, her topic stewardship and service. She reminded us in mind the thought that time is the most valuable thing in the world. Each minute of each day should be used to the full in service to our fellow men.

The members observed a period of silence in memory of their late beloved president, the late Mrs. E. B. Phillips. Mrs. Harris closed with prayer. Mrs. Fleming also read a poem in tribute to Mrs. Phillips.



Mrs. Ralph Dorland was made a provincial life member of the WCTU. Mrs. Fleming made the presentation and gave a short address.

It was moved by Mrs. Harris and seconded by Mrs. Earl Marvin that the slate of officers elected last year be continued, Mrs. Fleming taking the chair as president for one year. Motion carried. The slate of officers read as follows: President, Mrs. A. T. Fleming; first vice, Mrs. Eldon Walt; second vice, Mrs. L. D. Garratt; third vice, Mrs. Mary Goodman; recording secretary, Mrs. Cecil McCoy; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Nina Rorke; treasurer, Mrs. Earl Marvin.

Little Benny's Note Book

This was the last day of pop's bizzness trip, and ma expected him home for dinner, and I said to her, (I, ma, why dont you cook him something extar fancy special?

He's only be away for 2 days for land sakes, ma said, and I said

Well sure, ma', that's the very reason why I'll prove how much you miss him and give him an idea how you would miss him if he was away for 2 weeks or 2 years, I said.

Oh dont be silly, but still it's nice ides, ma said, and I said, Sure it is, ma, why dont you cook him something Frenich, like chicken stuffed with wine?

Goodness, even if such a dish existed, it wouldn't tempt your father as much as an overflowing platter of liver and onions, ma said. Rich or poor, or land or sea, he likes nothing can take the place of liver and onions. And that's just what I'll have for him, so he'll know it's a special event, she said, and I said, Why how about dinner? That's the most important of all, I said.

I'll call up the bakery and order one of their lemmon marrang pies, ma said. They're practically better than home made, or at least they're almost as good. It's a very nice ides and I'm glad I thought of it, she said.

Which just then the telephone rang and it was the telegraff office to read me a telegram from pop, saying he would be a little late and for us to meet him for dinner at the Sut Hotel, and ma said, Well how lovely, he knows how I kwn the foot at the Sitte.

G ma, pop's the one that's going to celebrate to prove how glad he is to be back, I said, and ma said, Well, he can't say I didn't plan a special dinner for him, because I'll tell him.

Which she did.

Manitoba Ends Shortest Session Since 1943

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Manitoba legislature was prorogued Thursday night to end the shortest regular session since 1943 and become the first western Canada legislature to clear up its business.

The Liberal-Progressive government has announced a committee will study the redistribution of election boundaries and will report back to the next regular session. Another committee will study present liquor laws. Cocktail bars and mixed drinking in beer parlors are not allowed in the province.

Later, Progressive Conservatives Dufferin Roblin and Lt.-Col. J. A. Ross announced they will contest their party's leadership at a convention here June 18. Errick F. Willis, provincial leader, also will be a candidate.

Walter E. Darby, Liberal minister-general and provincial treasurer for Prince Edward Island, announced he will bring down the budget March 30.

Meanwhile, the Alberta legislature completed its item-by-item approval of a record $250,000,000 budget.

The Saskatchewan legislature defeated by 35-8 a resolution asking the CCF government to abolish its tax on farm mineral rights. Premier T. C. Douglas said the resolution, introduced by Ross McCarthy (L—Cannington) was the "most amazing piece of political footwork" he had seen.

The tax provides a levy of three cents an acre on all freehold mineral rights, those not held by the crown or retained by the federal government.

At Halifax, Premier Angus L. Macdonald's Liberal government defeated an opposition move to revise a bill providing a $1,000 maximum fine for a person erecting a building costing $80,000 or more without employing an architect.

Adenauer Wins Turkish Support For Defence Plan

ISTANBUL (Reuters) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany left Turkey today after wooing and winning Turkish support for the European Defence Community in exchange for his pledge of more trade.

Adenauer is returning home after a three-week tour of Greece and Turkey. He will have talks with Italian Premier Mario Scelba and other government leaders in Rome on his way back.

Before his visit, Turkey had enthusiastically supported the principle of West German rearmament but was cool toward the EDC proposals. She saw EDC as likely to shift the centre of gravity of defence to northwest Europe, making Turkey a "second class" North Atlantic Treaty Organization power.

Adenauer is understood to have told Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes that he will support a pact linking EDC and the Balkan pact which puts Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia inside the NATO framework.

Accuses Britain Of Overlooking 'Acts of Murder'

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — Israel's ex-premier David Ben Gurion today accused Britain of overlooking "acts of murder and robbery" against Israel's citizens in order to strengthen British influence in neighboring Jordan.

He was commenting in the newspaper Davar on the massacre of 11 Israelis on a bus near the Jordan frontier nine days ago. Israel has asked Britain, the United States and France for their support on a United Nations hearing of the incident.

Writing from his retirement on a sheep ranch, Ben Gurion said: "We must get rid of the unfounded and foolish illusion that there is any force outside the state of Israel that will protect the lives of our citizens."

Mexican Airliner Crash Kills 18

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A Mexican airliner crashed about 16 miles north of Monterrey early today. All 18 persons aboard—15 passengers and three crew members —were believed killed.

The plane, on the Torreon-Monterrey run in north central Mexico, had not been heard from since Thursday night. It was operated by the Mexican-owned Aereo Naves Ilse.

FISH DIE BY THOUSANDS

FORT ERIE (CP) — Another large mass of dead fish was blown on to the Canadian shore of the Niagara river in the Fort Erie area by a strong wind. Conservation officials have complained that industrial wastes, dumped into the water on the American side of the river, are responsible for the death of fish.

3 Men and Girl Seized by Police At Peterborough

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Within six minutes of the ringing of a burglar alarm in the police station Thursday night, detectives had raced to a warehouse, handcuffed a man and a girl and located two others who were attempting to hide. One man jumped into a nearby creek.

In magistrate's court today Gerald Hogan, 24, James Atkins, 28, Lorne Cremie, 26, were charged with breaking and entering and theft. Noreen Ferguson, 18, found with the men, is being held on a vagrancy charge.

The four, all from Peterborough, were remanded without bail to appear Monday.

The warehouse, owned by J. W. Steinkraus, is a cigarette distributing centre.

In a nearby car owned by Cremie, police said they found about $65 worth of cigarettes and some cash taken from the till.

The three men are also wanted for questioning on other alleged break-ins.

Movie Shooting At Port Arthur Still Mystery

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — City police said today they still have not questioned two Ontario provincial police constables involved in gunplay in a Port Arthur movie theatre Wednesday night which resulted in the wounding of one of them.

Constable Cliff Foerter is reported resting comfortable in hospital and not in serious condition after having a slug from a .38 calibre revolver removed from his body.

Foerter, in company with Constable Jack Allen, both in uniform, had entered the movie which was featuring a cowboy picture and considerable gunplay. They watched the show while standing at the back of the theatre and after an unusually loud bang was heard Foerter slumped to the floor. City police said Thursday they had determined that Foerter's gun had been removed from its holster. Today they said they had still not determined how the gun discharged or what took place just prior to the shooting.

District provincial police Inspector Percy Hake said he was "satisfied in my own mind that the shooting was accidental."

BIG BUSINESS

Life insurance was introduced to Canada by British and American companies around 1850.

Way Is Now Clear For Ratification Of EDC at Bonn

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Western allies Thursday night cleared the way for final German ratification of the European Defence Community treaty. They approved constitutional changes that will permit Bonn to raise a 500,000-man army, but barred actual conscription until EDC is ratified by all six participating nations.

This was a compromise worked out after a week of wrangling between Britain and the United States on one side and the French on the other.

The French feared that the German constitutional amendments voted by the West German parliament last week would give the Germans unrestricted rights to rearm.

After much hesitation and caustic comment from the Germans, the French accepted a British-American compromise.

The high commissioners, who must approve all constitutional changes, attached the stipulation that no German could get into uniform before EDC is ratified by all six nations. EDC has been approved by the Dutch, Belgian and German parliaments. Luxembourg, Italy and France have yet to act. Prospects for quick action in either France or Italy appear remote.

Hunt For Mother Who Abandoned Chubby Infant

TORONTO (CP)—A search continued today for a mother who abandoned a chubby, three-month-old baby girl three weeks ago after arranging with a strange woman for week-end care of the child.

Mrs. Florence Burton of suburban North York said the woman, who gave her name as "Mrs. Scott," said she wanted her to look after little Joanne. The woman said she planned to go to a wedding party during the week-end and had no one to care for the baby.

Mrs. Burton today described the woman as short and slight with black hair and sharp features.

"From what I can remember now, it looks as if she never meant to come back," said Mrs. Burton. "She left clothing for the week-end, gave me brief instructions about the formula, and didn't seem at all worried about the baby. She asked no questions and seemed nervous and in a hurry to get away."

Mrs. Burton, who had advertised "say and weekend care for children, cared for the child 10 days but the woman did not return.

Mrs. Burton has turned the child over to the Children's Aid Society.

Frost Declares Further Highway Charges Possible

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Thursday night there may be further charges laid in connection with the investigation into alleged irregularities in the highways department.

The premier's statement, made during an uproarious debate in the Ontario legislature, was lost in the confusion of charges and shouts by government members and the opposition at the time and was heard only by a few.

The premier declined to elaborate today.

Five members of the Fort William division of the highways department face preliminary hearing on criminal charges. Two other members of the staff, in the Huntsville and Ottawa divisions, have been suspended. The books of nine construction companies have been seized.

Highways Minister Doucett and Premier Frost both indicated Thursday night that extradition proceedings may be taken against H. H. Nelson, chief engineer of the department until his retirement last fall. Mr. Nelson, reported to be in the United States, has refused to answer questions put by the provincial auditor's department and had his sick leave pay suspended.

Doucett Discusses Alleged Highway Irregularities In Noisiest Sitting of House

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Doucett Thursday night took his first major stand in the legislature over alleged irregularities in the highways department then let fellow government backbiters and the opposition pelt each other with name-calling and charges.

In the noisiest sitting of the current session, Mr. Doucett defended his department and said he would not discuss in the legislature or elsewhere the cases involving members of the department faced with criminal charges.

"I shall not be a party to any discussion here or elsewhere which might in the slightest degree prejudice the cases of the accused. . . I say without hesitation that when the various investigations and proceedings. . . have been concluded, a vast majority of our thousands of departmental employees will have emerged with honor from a trying, distressing episode."

The debate, during consideration of the highways department's estimates—the House finally approved $82,347,000 in ordinary expenditures and $65,800,000 capital expenditures—brought forth a statement by Mr. Doucett and Premier Frost that extradition proceedings might be instituted to bring back to the country C. H. Nelson, chief engineer of the department until his retirement last fall.

DIDN'T CO-OPERATE

Mr. Nelson, who had his sick leave pay cancelled last week by a suspension order after allegedly failing to co-operate with the provincial auditor in answering questions relating to the investigation, is reported to be in the United States.

"I don't know where he is," said Mr. Doucett in reply to a question put by opposition leader Farquhar Oliver. "I hope he returns. . . but if he doesn't we will have to institute proceedings."

W. J. Grummett, CCF house leader, asked if that meant extradition.

"Yes," replied the premier.

In addition to Mr. Nelson, D. S. Patterson, divisional engineer at Huntsville and Donat Dubeau, patrol chief of a division in the Ottawa area have been suspended.

Facing preliminary hearing next month in Fort William are five members of the Lakehead division. A. M. Mills, division engineer is charged with breaches of trust. Charges of conspiring to defraud were laid against division clerk Douglas F. Cutting, clerk Donald T. Gaudier, principal clerk Graham W. Turner and Thomas L. Ayers, superintendent of the department's asphalt plant.

BOOKS SEIZED

The books of nine contracting firms have been seized by provincial police.

Mr. Doucett said the government has established enough machinery to discover what offences may have been committed and to force offenders to give an accounting for any misdeeds which have been committed. It was also able to get at the causes related to misdoing and to devise safeguards for the future and to assist, if required in a revision of departmental procedure in the interests of efficiency and economy.

The management consultant firm of J. D. Woods, Gordon and Company Limited of Toronto was called in earlier by the provincial auditor to make a complete investigation. Premier Frost announced last week that a select committee of the House would also investigate the department.

"I think I have made it clear that neither I nor my colleagues will be parties to violating the established principles related to the British system of administering justice," said Mr. Doucett. "In this decision I think I have the support of the honorable House."

Mr. Oliver said the highways minister left the impression that the matters before the criminal court shouldn't be discussed in the legislature and that would follow that they shouldn't be discussed in the select committee.

USE COMMON SENSE

The premier said the matters could be discussed in the legislature with the reservation of "common sense and justice."

Albert Wren (Lib.-Lab.—Kenora) asked the minister to discuss matters not related to the accused, such as high-level policy in the issuing of tenders.

Mr. Doucett then gave a detailed explanation of the issuing of tenders.

Mr. Wren asked if the minister recommends the granting of contracts at less than what was estimated by the engineers.

"Certainly," replied Mr. Doucett. "Engineers aren't contractors. They send in approximate estimates and in many cases we sent out the contracts at less than the engineers' estimates."

Mr. Wren's question on just how far out the engineers' estimates were out, brought from Public Works Minister Griesinger the remark: "How stupid can you get?"

Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar then jumped to his feet and asked Mr. Wren, the former clerk-treasurer of Sioux Lookout, why his estimates on the waterworks plant were so out of line and why the town had a $34,000 deficit.

CHANGE STANDARDS

Mr. Wren said his estimates were never out more than 12 per cent.

Mr. Oliver asked Mr. Doucett to explain why a trans-Canada highway contract in northern Ontario was awarded for $429,000 but $1,282,000 was paid out.

Mr. Doucett said the area was rugged country and the linements, grades and standards had to be changed.

The opposition leader later referred to a contract—the Little Pitch highway which was awarded for $615,000 and final payment amounted to $1,200,000.

Mr. Doucett said there were grade changes to be made.

"But most of that country is rock," said Mr. Oliver. "How is that?"

The highways minister said that contract, awarded to Tomlinson Brothers, "may be one of the contracts under audit. If not it might be due to swamps and muskegs. . . There will be an answer to it all."

'MCCARTHY TACTICS'

G. C. Wardrope (PC—Port Arthur) said he resented the "slurs" being thrown . . . the McCarthy tactics . . . I'm getting sick and tired of all this constant ballyhoo . . . anything the minister may say now is guesswork, the same as my honorable friend from Kenora."

Mr. Wardrope said the crux of the question was if the people "were getting value for the price."

The member said he was "surprised and shocked" to read where Mr. Wren accused the provincial auditor's department of "brain washing" department engineers.

"It is unfair to use that phrase when to my knowledge this is not true. . . If my honorable friend says he can bring in witnesses who say they have been 'brainwashed' I'll bring in three to each of his one who say they have been treated courteously, without coercion or compulsion."

Indians Staking Burial Grounds Near Geraldton

GERALDTON (CP) — Indians have been staking native burial grounds near here in the hope of turning up base metal deposits.

Two prospectors, Donald Murray and Ed Assad, said Thursday Indians from Heron Bay, in this district, had staked properties around Killala lake, 35 miles south of here. Ancient Indian draw knives made of copper and fish spears made of bone were found there recently.

"The Indians knew where there was free copper," the prospectors said. "Th information had been handed down for generations. They had much of the ground staked before we arrived, but we got some of it."

Killala lake is about 30 miles from the Manitouwade base metal find.

Mayor Whitton Given Seat On Commission

TORONTO (CP)—A non-voting seat for Mayor Charlotte Whitton on the Ottawa Transportation Commission was approved Thursday by the legislature's private bills committee after a stormy 5-minute argument.

The committee heard a bill presented by D. H. Morrow (PC—Carleton) asking that a fourth member be allowed on the commission and that Mayor Whitton be added in an ex-officio capacity.

The committee recommended addition of Mayor Whitton but limitation of the commission membership to three. The bill is to be submitted to the legislature.

Alf Cowling (PC—Toronto High Park) said the Toronto Transit Commission has prospered as a result of refusing membership to politicians. He suggested Ottawa should follow Toronto's example.

"Heaven help us if we have to copy anything Toronto has done," said Mayor Whitton.

HONDURAS PROBE ENDED

BELIZE, British Honduras (CP) The government of this British colony Thursday ended a three-day investigation into possible contacts between the People's United Party of British Hoodurs and the neighboring left-wing state of Guatemala. Sir Reginald Sharpe, who conducted the inquiry, is expected to make his views public next Monday.

Editor, Columnist Cited to Answer Contempt Charge

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Province, its publisher A.W. Moscarella, editor H. C. Anderson and columnist Eric Nicol were cited by Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne in assize court Thursday to appear in court April 2 to answer a charge of contempt of court.

The charge arose out of an article by Mr. Nicol in Saturday's edition of The Province. In the article Mr. Nicol took the role of a spokesman for society in condemnation of capital punishment.

Mr. Justice Clyne expressed the view that the article reflected on the judge and jury of the murder trial of William Gash, 19, which began in assize court here March 15 and ended March 18 when Gash was convicted and sentenced to be hanged June 22.

The judge read the offending paragraph to the jury panel, which included the Gash jury, at the close of the winter assizes Thursday:

"Although I did not myself spring the trap that caused my victim to be strangled in cold blood I admit that the man who put the rope around his neck was in my employ. Also serving me were the 12 people who planned the murder, and the judge who chose the time and place and caused the victim to suffer the exquisite torture of anticipation."

Mr. Justice Clyne said the action he was taking would not affect the recommendation of mercy made by the jury in the Gash trial.

RCMP Veteran Charges Film Distorts History

OTTAWA (CP) — Hollywood's sometimes-curious sense of history was raised in Parliament Thursday when an RCMP veteran charged that the film "Saskatchewan" distorts Canadian history and puts the Mounties in a bad light.

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes VC, a Mountie from 1912-15, asked the government in the Commons "if any public funds were expended in the production of this atrocious film." Justice Minister Garson said no public money went into the movie.

The film, starring Shelley Winters and Alan Ladd, depicts incidents which are claimed to take place in 1877. The story centres on an invasion of Canada by Sioux Indians from the United States.

Gen. Pearkes said the story "besides being full of historical and geographical inaccuracies, is an insult to the RCMP, a force in which I served and of which all Canadians are justly proud."

Mr. Garson said he hasn't seen the film himself but RCMP commissioner L. H. Nicholson had given him information indicating that Gen. Pearkes' remarks are correct.

Cruelty Charges Laid Against Bachelor Farmer

WINGHAM (CP) — Provincial constable Robert Lewis said Thursday charges of cruelty to animals have been laid against bachelor farmer Robert Scott as a result of the death of 18 cows on his farm in nearby East Wawanosh township.

Veterinarian Dr. K. M. MacLennan said one cow on which he performed an autopsy had died from malnutrition although there was a large supply of grain in the barn. Eighteen cows died within two weeks. Some were found in the stalls, partly covered with manure.

Neighbors now visit the farm every day to make sure the remaining cows are fed and cared for.

Const. Lewis said Scott will appear in court in Wingham April 5. He said Scott has given no reason why the cows were not fed.

BOMB SCARE AT MET

NEW YORK (AP)—Police made a bomb search at the Metropolitan Opera House Thursday night during most of the opera "Fledermaus" without patrons being aware of the fact. An anonymous telephone caller had told a telephone operator: "The Metropolitan Opera House in going to be blown up."

3rd Battalion RCR Carrying Out Last Korean Assignment

By JACK BRATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The 3rd Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, now part of the Commonwealth Division's watchdog force in Korea is carrying out its last job.

The battalion, soon to rotate home, will be disbanded, some members going to other RCR battalions, some to other infantry regiments, and the rest becoming the nucleus of a new unit — 1st Battalion, Canadian Guards.

Jack Bratley

When the RCR's leave Korea they will take with them an honor roll of 35 dead and 90 wounded and a list of 18 decorations won in the fighting last spring and summer.

NEW SENIOR UNIT

The soldiers have accepted the army reorganization plan with mixed feelings. The RCR, first raised in Fredericton in 1883, has tradition and haste.

The 3rd Battalion's commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Ken Campbell of Toronto, and most of his officers have volunteered to go into the new battalion. It will be rated as the senior infantry unit in the Canadian Army.

"There's a tremendous pride in our battalion as a unit," the colonel said. "We've been through some tough times together and most of us want to stay together."

The colonel himself started with the 48th Highlanders and has also served with the Princess Louise Dragoons, the Lanark and Renfrew Scottish and Lord Strathcona's Horse.

The battalion drill instructor is S. Sgt. Mark Heleic, 27, of Goderich, Ont. He won his post after placing first in an RCR's drill course at the world's toughest drill school, the Brigade of Guards in England. His last big job was preparing a composite brigade honor guard and recital ceremony for the visit of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

KEEN SHOOTING DRILL

The RCR's activities include firing on their own 100-yard range. They've adopted a unique program of having snipers instead of NCO's as coaches. The NCO's aren't necessarily good shots.

"In this way we can keep close tab on their shooting," said sniper Arnold Jardine of Tatamagouche, N.S. "If a guy consistently hits rifle is off, we just try it. If we get a bull's eye, we know it's the man who's off."

Other snipers at the range the other day were Pte. Jack Wright of North Bay, Ont., Mike Paddock, London, Ont., and Don Elford, Streetsville, Ont.

The regiment has also produced some dead-eyes for game shooting, including Lieuts. Joe Mombourquette, L'Ardoise, N.S. The colonel has been lucky, too, and he uses the battalion mascot buster, a german shepherd dog, to flush out the game.

The premium on tidiness in the battalion is a "cock of the walk" trophy that's won as the result of the effort of lads like Sgt. Cliff Scott of Ingersoll, Ont., whose commanding officer's stores are a model of orderly efficiency.

"But don't say anything about it or the wife will expect me to help clean house when I get home," the sergeant said.

Junior company commander is Lieut. Bill Boulton who is kidded about the name of his home town — Nova Scotia. They say that when Bill tells anyone here he's from Kedgemakooge they invariably say "Yes, that's your Korean address, but where do you live in Canada."

Advance Guard Climbing Team Leaves For West

TORONTO (CP)—The advance guard of an eight-man mountain climbing team left for the West Wednesday night to tackle something no one has ever tried before —the great icefields of the Canadian Rockies.

Three members of the expedition left on the first leg of their journey with not a snowflake in sight. The other five, including one woman, Mrs. Peggy Austin of Ancaster, a former Canadian women's ski champion, leave Toronto Friday.

The party will scale and ski the zig-zag mountainous boundary between Alberta and British Columbia across eight icefields on a treacherous, 300-mile route.

Bad weather over the Rockies delayed dropping of food caches along the trek route and the party will start out 48 hours later than planned. Expedition leader Peter Bennett, department store advertising man from Oakville, who has planned the trip for two years, estimates the icefields trek will take three weeks.

The expedition will be guided by Tony Kosterl, a Swiss veteran of the famous Alpine troops, now living at Lake Alta. He has three weeks flying over the route by plane.

Three friends, Pat Boswell, 30, Ted Pope, 36, and Murray Snively, 30, all of Toronto, are the advance party. Boswell and Snively, a salesman, skied together while students. Mr. Pope and Boswell work together at the CBC.

The other two party members are a tobacco company director, Peter Austin, of Ancaster, whose wife Peggy is accompanying him, and Dr. Allan Bruce-Robertson, 32, of Toronto, who will be expedition physician.

This map shows the route five men and a woman will follow on the first ski expedition across Canada's major icefields. Purpose of the three-weeks trek across 200 miles is to explore the highest peaks and glaciers in the Rockies. The skiers will follow the highest ridges through wild and rugged country, some of which has never been travelled before. In the party are Peter Austin and his wife, Peggy, of Hamilton; Pat Boswell, CBC supervisor; Dr. Allan Bruce-Robertson of the Banting Institute, Toronto; Murray Snively, Toronto insurance man; and an Austrian guide, Tony Kotll. — (CP Photo.)

Rev. R.J.D. Morris Gives Centennial Message on 'An Island of Order'

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN

Large congregations attended two centennial services last Sunday, at St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

Rev. R. J. D. Morris, B.A., B.D., associate secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund, based his morning message on the theme "In Trust."

In a most straight-forward style he pictured to his audience that they were only stewards. "God had given to them the good things of life as a trust and if they were practising stewardship they would adhere to the principle that all of life is a trust from God to be used for the highest good of all so that blessings would be bestowed upon the less fortunate and that God's kingdom might advance. He pointed out some of the ways Christians are failing short of their ideals.

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, presided and welcomed this outstanding minister.

Mrs. A. E. Baker presided at the organ and rendered Lenten music.

Mrs. Walter Warren and Mr. R. Aylsworth gave a duet, "Into the Woods the Master Went".

Flowers were placed in the church sanctuary by Dr. William Cornett in memory of his father, who passed to his reward six years ago.

EVENING SERVICE

"The evening service based on the theme "Christ for the World" was one long to be remembered as Mr. Morris based his message on "An Island of Order." The gifted speaker said "This subject was one of "those—chosen by the World Council of Churches as there is so much disorder and confusion in the world of today.

"An Island of Order' is a willingness for individuals to respond to appeals to feed the hungry world and provide clothing for the needy." In his seven years as assistant secretary, he had found the Spirit of God at work in many places. The speaker graphically pictured the United Church missionaries, who have gone to British Columbia, Labrador, Newfoundland and other lonely places to minister to the sick and needy.

The speaker gave real incidents of the work of Dr. Burry and told of an Exeter service held under his direction which was surely "an island of order" in a desolate place.

COMMUNITY MISSIONS

Dr. Morris also gave encouraging reports of community missions in Winnipeg, where incorrigible boys are being taught how to become good citizens. He graphically pictured the ten fresh air camps where ten thousand mothers and children enjoy God's air besides God's lakes and streams.

The speaker outlined the 800 student mission fields, and also the Indian work across Canada. Dr. Morris paid tribute to the service of Dr. A. S. Murray, port chaplain at Montreal, and workers appointed by the Woman's Missionary Society. God is working through these servants to bring 'islands of order' here, there and everywhere.

The speaker gave a few incidents of his own work along the Skeena River in British Columbia, where he and his bride first began their missionary work. He explained witchcraft and said "anyone who says he doesn't believe in missions, doesn't realize whereof he speaks.

It is a great thing to understand the 23rd Psalm and pagan people live under constant fear. Everywhere servants of the church are at work and Dr. Morris closed with a beautiful meditation, "The Voice of God is Calling."

THANKS EXPRESSED

Mr. George Carlisle thanked the guest minister for his outstanding messages of the day.

Mr. Grant Rice-Jones sang an appropriate solo and the Senior choir rendered an anthem with Mrs. A. E. Baker playing selections from Handel and Mendelssohn.

Rev. A. E. Baker presided and welcomed the guest and reminded his audience of the special reopening services at Carmel next Sunday as well as the special Easter plans.

This worthwhile service closed on the missionary theme hymn written by Charles Oakley, and another centennial service goes into history.

Labor Federation Suggests 50,000 Low-Rental Houses Would Help Unemployment

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Labor (AFL-TLC) today suggested that construction of 50,000 low-rental housing units within the next two years would do much to overcome unemployment and at the same time would provide needed housing.

A delegation from the federation, which claims to represent 200,000 Ontario workers, made the proposal in a brief it presented to Premier Frost and members of the cabinet as part of its annual submission to the government for legislative reforms.

A. F. MacArthur, federation president, headed the delegation. The brief called unemployment "the most serious problem in Canada today." It said nearly 200,000 are idle, about 100,000 more than at this time a year ago.

"In some parts of the country the unemployment total has reached 15 per cent of the labor force, which is well over the danger point."

The federation urged the provincial government to co-operate with federal and municipal governments to plan for a solution to the problem.

RAF LOAN COMPANIES

Another recommendation was that the province pass legislation to clamp down on loan companies' promotional techniques. The brief said some companies' "advertise and exploit the practice of consolidation of debts with vague promises of assistance, financial backing and friendly, helpful service."

Reading from the brief, Mr. MacArthur said the "only service afforded by such companies is that of agent without obligation or responsibility, a 30,000 people threatened by the swollen River Trigis before it is deliberately breached in three places. Authorities have decided to breach the river above Baghdad to prevent flooding in the capital. The Tigris is swollen by the heaviest rainfall in living memory.

trades. It also suggested that for minor offences beverage room employees should be fined instead of hotel and bar licences being suspended.

The brief urged establishment of a civil defence program "well prior to the unlikely delivery of the first bomb."

The federation also urged rescinding of an order eliminating Wednesday milk deliveries in Toronto.

CANADA'S POLICY

"The position at this time is that we are not, under present conditions, contemplating diplomatic recognition of China."

Presence of Communist China at Geneva did not imply recognition.

"But it does constitute an admission that that is the government that is controlling the forces that we have been resisting."

John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative external affairs spokesman, said:

"This is no time to play with the ball of recognition of China. This is no time to give a fillip to communism in Asia by permitting these people to believe that aggression will, if not rewarded, at least be considered in the international world of today."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. St. Laurent's statement would arouse Communist hopes that China could win recognition despite aggression. Recognition in turn would mean, as bid by the Chinese Reds to get into the United Nations, Canadian support.

CCF leader Coldwell said the prime minister had marshalled all the arguments in favor of recognition.

Though the CCF disagreed with the Communist ideology and method of gaining power, it favored recognition because the Red government in China was a fact. Negotiating with the Communists in Geneva, by inference, was recognition.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said he opposes recognition at present. Recognition was not necessary to enable Canada to deal with the Chinese.

Though China policy was the main theme of the debate, there was a discussion on the European Defence Community and U.S. defence policy.

External Affairs Minister Pearson indicated Canada is becoming exasperated with France and Italy for not ratifying EDC, which would permit 12 German divisions in a one-uniform European army.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson had indicated alternatives to EDC if EDC were not ratified and asked the minister to outline them. ASKS PATIENCE

Mr. Coldwell noted that France had been twice invaded by Germany since 1914 and said:

"Don't let's be impatient with France."

Speaking on defence policy, Mr. Pearson was applauded when he said:

"There can be no continental security without collective security. And there can be no collective security without collective arrangements for collective action. And no such action can be effective without close and continuous collective consultation."

This was a follow-up to his speech at Washington last week in which he sought assurance from the U.S. that Canada would be consulted in event of U.S. atomic retaliation against the Communist world.

You can't go ALL-OUT IF you feel ALL-IN

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. That strain on body and nerves saps physical fitness sooner or later—harder to regain. Today's tense living, lowered resistance, overwork, worry—any of these may affect normal kidney action. When kidneys get out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. Then backaches, disturbed rest, that "tired-out" heavy-headed feeling often follows. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's stimulate the kidneys to normal action. Then you feel better—sleep better—work better. Ask for Dodd's Kidney Pills at any drug counter. 23

HOCKEY!

This season's matches between Point Anne and the Trenton RCAF Flyers resumes tonight in Memorial Arena with the teams all-even with one victory each. The series looms up as being a wild and woolly affair with one guess being as good as another. It looks from here as if the series will go the limit, with the fine passing plays of the flyboys being matched by the more rugged offensive efforts of the Ore Pointers. Tonight's game is an all-important one and both teams will be gunning for the victory. It gets under way at nine o'clock instead of the customary 8.30.

Meanwhile the Marmora Millionaires continue their winning ways. They hold a 2-0 lead over the Waterford club in the intermediate "B" series, and have won 12 of their last 13 starts. They have been absorbing a lot of hockey during the past few weeks and should be in the best of condition for the Trent Valley League finals if they eliminate the Havelock squad.

BASEBALL!

Hope for a Peterborough entry in the Central Ontario Baseball League looked brighter this week with the announcement that baseball men are holding a meeting to organize a club if possible. The meeting was set for last night, and at the time of writing there was no information as to what happened. Word is expected any time from Watertown baseball interests and when this comes, if favorable, things will begin to hum in diamond circles hereabouts.

WOULD BE O.K.!

Some people we know are saving their hard-earned shekels for the time when they hope to shove off to Florida or some other holiday paradise where they can spend the rest of their days in summer retirement.

Be that as it may. A sea-going friend of a friend of ours reveals a spot in Asia that should be ideal for the likes of us who have no pipe lines to Fort Knox nor are on speaking terms with bank managers.

Jim Cook received a letter from a nautical pal who sails the seven seas in a freighter, most of the time between Japan and "stateside."

"When I die," he writes, "I don't want to go to heaven. I prefer Japan. Yokohama preferred."

The sailor boy says he keeps a modern four-roomed house there where he spends his spare time. It costs $22 a month and it is furnished from style with refrigerator, gas stove and all the necessary implements.

"Two can live very well there for $125 per month and that means chicken, steak and lobster every day." A quart of Nip sake costs 37 cents American and, the mad says, it is good if not better than the Canadian type.

Two good, tender steaks cost 42 cents and you can buy carrots, beets, onions, or what have you, for 15 yen or roughly 2.7 cents the bunch. A double handful of potatoes costs the same.

"Fish, crabs, lobsters and oysters are practically given away. Two lobsters cost 28 cents. And if you have a job with the American government you can get a PX card which entitles you to American canned food and groceries at prices far below those in the United States and Canada."

Gasoline is 14 cents a gallon in Yokohama and, the sailor lad writes, there are many ways in which "you can put your loot to work and get returns from it."

LOOP FOR LADY BOWLERS!

There are some pretty good gal keglers in this village and they are going to get a chance to earn themselves some pin money. Bill Bateman of the Bowl-O-Drome pinlopping emporium tells us that he has organized a Ladies' Spring Bowling League that should attract some of the best female trundlers hereabouts.

The pin-money amounts to $75 with the winners taking $30, the runners-up $20 and the third-placers $15. The remaining $15 will be distributed through playoffs to the remaining teams.

The league will be comprised of eight teams of six players each. The league will operate for seven consecutive Tuesday afternoons starting April 6 or 13. In order that all bowlers will have a chance a handicap system will be set up, each player having a handicap two-thirds of the difference between their season's average and 226 with a maximum of 50.

Individual bowlers wishing to enter should leave their names with Bill Bateman or Leo LaBelle at the Bowl-O-Drome.

Jockey Returns

TORONTO (CP)—Pat Remillard, one of the top jockeys on Ontario tracks who was injured twice last season, will ride Free Lance this year, it was learned.

He previously rode for the stable trained by William Thurner. In 1936 he rode the greatest number of winners during the fall meeting at Dufferin Park.

Moore Scores Fastest Goal In History of Stanley Cup; Habs, Bruins Set 'Fight' Mark

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs won a game on Dettori Ice, 23-year-old Dickie Moore grazed veterans' play-off scoring records and the brawling Montreal Canadiens and Boston Bruins topped Stanley Cup penalty records. To top it off, Detroit and Toronto agreed with each other!

That was the situation following play-off action on two fronts Thursday night. Canadiens walloped the Bruins 8-1 to make it two straight in their best-of-seven semi-final series at Montreal and the hot-and-cold Leafs got hot for 60 minutes to whip the Wings 3-1 at Detroit, knotting their semi-final series at one game each.

Moore, 23-yea. old left - winger with Canadiens, caused a rewriting of the books with his performance: The fastest goal in Stanley Cup play, just 18 seconds after the opening face-off, and the most scoring points in one game.

He scored two goals and four assists for six points, one more than the mark held jointly by four players and made at various times since 1918. They include Don Metz of Toronto, Eddie Bush of Detroit and Maurice Richard and Toe Blake of Canadiens.

The 10-second goal beat the old mark of 15 seconds by Sid Smith of Toronto April 11, 1951, in a game at Toronto between Canadiens and Leafs.

RASH OF FIGHTS

Canadiens and Bruins enlivened the proceedings for the howling 14,464 fans at the Montreal forum with a rash of fights resulting in 22 penalties, including eight majors and two misconducts. The old record of 21 was set March 31, 1951, between the Bruins and Leafs at Toronto.

The 13,614 fans at Detroit Olympia sat on their hands as Leafs, 2-to-1 underdogs, got better after their 5-0 first-game loss Tuesday night, started at a six-second pace to win their first playoff game at Olympia since April 6, 1950. And after the game Detroit agreed that the Leafs played the pants off the Wings.

"We out-played them all the way," chortled Leaf coach King Clancy. [illegible]

"We were out-skated, out-played and out-hustled at times in this game," said Jack Adams, Detroit general manager. Adams even praised the work of referee Frank Udvari who dealt out nine penalties with this remark: "This was a well-officiated game."

The series now shifts to Boston and Toronto and here's how the experts figure it: With two Leafs an even choice to advance to the finals and Canadiens almost a shoo-in to get past Bruins and fight it out for their second straight Stanley Cup.

SHARE SIX GOALS

It was the Moore-Jean Beliveau-Boom Boom Geoffrion line that almost wrecked Boston's chances as they figured in six goals.

Boom Boom and the high-priced Beliveau each clicked on two goals and three assists for five points. Other Montreal goals went to Lorne Davis and Paul Meger.

Gordie Hannigan, left-wing sophomore seeing play-off action for the first time, paced Leafs form reversal with a two-goal effort—one in each of the second and third periods. Marcel Pronovost scored for the Wings in the final session.

Leaf Goalkeeper Harry Lumley had none of the jitters that plagued him earlier in the week and played a solid, heads-up game.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston players won three places on the National Hockey League all-star team named 15 years ago today—Frank Brimsek in goal, Eddie Shore and Dit Clapper on defence. The team had Syl Apps of Toronto at centre, Gordon Drillon of Toronto on right wing and Toe Blake of Montreal at left wing. Boston won the Stanley Cup that spring, and beat Toronto four games to one in the Stanley Cup final.

Ski Conditions Good in Spots

TORONTO (CP) — A province-wide survey shows excellent skiing on tow hills and in the bush at four Ontario centres: Flesherton-Markdale, Kirkland Lake, Larder Lake and Sudbury.

Skiing is good at Sinclair township and fair at Brimmacombe, Collingwood, Haileybury (good in the bush), Huntsville, Owen Sound and Raglan. Poor conditions are reported from Orangeville-Hockley and Sundridge.

There is no skiing at other points.

Joe Levandoski Central Figure In Protest

MONTREAL (CP) — President George Slater of the Quebec Hockey League said he has received a wire from Montreal Royals protesting the use of defenceman Joe Levandoski by Sherbrooke Saints in Thursday night's playoff game in Sherbrooke.

The protest followed a ruling by Slater that Levandoski was ineligible to play for the Saints. Sherbrooke disregarded the decision and had the former New York Ranger defencoman in action in their 8-3 victory over Montreal. Slater called the players to drop him from the line-up after a ruling forbidding clubs from obtaining players from leagues of equal or higher standing after Dec. 31, except in cases where they replace injured players.

Training Camp Notes

LAKELAND, Fla. (CP)—Ralph Branca, who served up a pennant-winning home run home run to New York Giants' Bobby Thomson when he was with Brooklyn three years ago, saw history repeat itself Thursday.

Trying to live down the past with Detroit Tigers, the righthander yielded another three-run homer to catcher Bobbie Landrith of Cincinnati as the Reds outslugged Detroit 13-11. Two other Redlegs, including pitcher Harry Perkowski, reached Branca for four-baggers.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—Stan Musial led the attack with three hits and scored both St. Louis runs Thursday as the Cardinals edged Brooklyn Dodgers 2-1 for their second straight victory over the Dodger baseball champions.

Gerry Staley yielded four hits in seven innings to gain credit for the victory.

SARASOTA, Fla. (CP)—Rookie Bob Wiesler pitched two-hit ball for seven innings and Hank Bauer drove in both runs with a third-inning single as New York Yankees blanked Boston Red Sox 2-0 in an exhibition game Thursday. Wiesler's double, sending catcher Lou Berberet to third, set the stage for Bauer's game-winning blow.

TAMPA, Fla. (CP)—An impressive relief job by rookie Tom Flanigan gave some consolation to Chicago White Sox Thursday after Washington Senators pounded Billy Pierce, their ace southpaw, for a 7-2 victory.

Flanigan gave up the last two Washington runs in the fourth inning but pitched scoreless ball for the next four innings before being relieved by Al Sima. Connie Marrero, who whipped the Sox four times last season, was the winner.

BRADENTON, Fla. (CP)—Philadelphia Phillies outlasted Milwaukee Braves in a 15-run ninth inning Thursday night.

Wet Track May Cause Upsets In Saturday's Grand National

AINTREE, England (AP)—Cheeperwee, favorite in Saturday's Grand National Steeplechase, likes dry going, and the recent rains have not made his jockey happy.

"If the rains keep on," said Pat Taaffe, a slim Irish lad who has been assigned to ride Cheeriwee, "the going will be heavy and that isn't good for the horse.

"We have Nasa (an Irish track) to my brother Tom, who was up on Churchtown, not long back because of the heaviness. Coneyburrow wants good, hard going—dry track and a smiling sun."

Pat probably won't get his wish, nor if the weather man is right. The forecast is for rain.

ODDS MAY CHANGE

Before the bookmakers thought over that prospect, they had installed Coneyburrow as the 15-to-8 choice. What the odds will be after the hours of rain is anyone's guess, but most experts are inclined to think they might go 2 to 9 to 1 at the final call-over tonight in London.

Irish Lizard, who runs well under any conditions, probably will pick up support after the rain. Lizard won in the mud at Cheltenham and had similar victories here when the track was heavy. So far, he's the No. 2 favorite at 9 to 2.

Two other favored horses who don't like mud are Tudor Line and Ordinance. Slidings could really be upset if the rain continues. In fact, there are some experts who think a long shot among the 25-odd starters could win it.

Paris Jay York, a youngster of seven, is rated the best bet among the outsiders.

Quebec Defeats Chicoutimi 2-1 In Overtime

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces defeated Chicoutimi Sagueneens 2-1 in overtime Thursday in take a 2- lead in their best-of-nine Quebec Hockey League semi-final playoff series. The two teams play in Chicoutimi Sunday.

In Scarborough, the Saints beat Montreal Royals 8-3 and lead 2-0 in their best-of-seven quarter-final. Montreal lodged a protest because the Saints used defenceman Joe Grandmaitre despite an order from league president George Slater to keep him from playing. The third game is scheduled for Montreal Sunday.

In Valleyfield, the Braves defeated Ottawa Senators 2-1 and evened the series at 1-1. The clubs will return to Ottawa Saturday.

Earl Anderson sparked the Saints with four goals. Others were scored by Gilles Dube, Ed Brunetta, Jean Guy Gendron and Lou Irving. Montreal scorers were veterans Ray Laplante, with two, and Dick Gamble.

Hornets Defeat Hershey 3-0 For Second Win

HERSHEY, Pa. (CP) — Pittsburgh Hornets defeated Hershey Bears 3-0 Thursday night for their second straight victory in their best-of-seven American Hockey League semi-final.

Two goals by Bob Sabourin and one by Larry Cahan in the second period wrapped up the game. The Hornets won the opener 4-3 in overtime Tuesday night.

The teams meet again in Pittsburgh Saturday.

TORONTO JUVES WIN

HALIFAX (CP)—Toronto West End YMCA defeated Halifax All Stars 51-40 Thursday night in the first game of the best-of-three series for the Dominion juvenile basketball title.

The second game will be played here tonight.

RANGERS WIN

FREDERICTON (CP) — New York Rangers of the National Hockey League opened a Maritime tour Thursday night by edging Fredericton Capitals, Maritime senior champions, 5-4.

Big 'A', Bruins Win Minor Hockey Titles

The curtain came down on a very successful season of minor hockey at the Memorial Arena last night with the Big "A" Consumers' team taking the senior championship with a double win over Bond Lights in the best-of-three series. The Bruins pulled the biggest upset of the year to win the second game when they overcame a 3-1 deficit from last week's game to down the Maple Leafs 5-1 in overtime, thus winning the round 4-3. This was the first time the Leafs have lost a game this year.

With the Leafs one goal up going into last night's game, Ralphen Schwab, defenceman for the Bruins, tied the series in the first period when he outraced a Leaf to a loose puck at centre ice and went in all alone to beat Gorden. Bob Garrison got that one back before the period ended for the Leafs. He is the only one to lead for the Maple Leafs on the round.

The middle stanza was scoreless but once again it was Schwab for the Bruins with his third period about half over on a screen shot that gave Coffee Jones's hopes alive. With the Bruins ahead 2-1 on the game and the series even at 3-3 the final whistle, it was decided to play another overtime session but not even this produced no score so the game ended in a 5-5 tie with the series decided with the first goal taking the title.

Garrison was outstanding in the nets for the Leafs but at 7.40 Bob Gore put the Bruins ahead right wing and fired from close in to beat the little netminder and bring the championship to the Bruins.

The Big "A" Company had no trouble winning their title with Bob Wannamaker leading the way. Bob had three goals in the first game with Leo St. Denis getting the other. Foster had two assists as did Lucas with Charles Rowbotham getting one. Bobby put up a good fight in this game with Jack Thomas netting their goal from George Ferguson.

The second game saw the Big "A" squad have a field day in a row before Green took Hagerman's pass for Bobby's second goal of the series. Bill Foster had three markers and one assist with Ken Gore for the win while Wannamaker picked up two goals and as many helpers. St. Denis had a goal and a pair of assists, while Lucas scored twice and Rowbotham assisted on one.

Action, Upsets Cause Shake-Up In Ring Ratings

NEW YORK (AP)—A lot of action in sports in the last month has resulted in a major shake-up of almost every division in the latest Ring Magazine ratings, announced today.

Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, 22-year-old Brooklyn heavyweight who stopped Red Layne and beat Clarence Henry, gained his first position in the top 10. He took over the No. 7 spot and Bill Gilliam (No. 10 as Henry and Harry (Kid) Matthews were dropped out of the rankings.

Middleweights Joey Giardello and Rocky Castellani traded places Giardello being tabbed as No. 1 contender for his impressive TKO seven series 11-1.

Of Willie Troy. Jimmy Carter, who lost his lightweight crown to Paddy DeMarco, was chosen as the No. 1 contender.

The two Canadians in the last ratings remained in the same spots. Earl Walls of Edmonton and Windsor, Ont., is eighth among the heavyweights and Armand Savoie of Montreal ninth in the lightweight division.

BETTER THAN PROGRAMS

DETROIT (CP) — The octopus plopped into the Stanley Cup playoffs again Thursday night.

One of the 13,177 fans in the Toronto-Detroit semi-final series tossed it on to the ice during the third period. It's been happening for the last few years and, as usual, the octopus was dead.

After Detroit Olympia cleaners got rid of the slimy octopus, the Leafs went on to whip the Red Wings 3-1 and square the best-of-seven series 1-1.

Sudbury Wolves Can Win Title Tonight

TIMMINS (CP)—A win tonight would give Sudbury Wolves the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship and a berth in the all-Ontario finals. Wolves scored a 6-3 victory Thursday night over the Abitibi Eskimos, highly underrated in pre-series speculation, to take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-five series.

Eskimos scored a surprise 1-0 victory over Wolves in the opening game and extended Sudbury into an overtime period before falling to a 4-3 defeat in the second game.

Eskimos kept within striking distance through most of the game but fell behind when Sudbury scored late in the second period and added another in the third.

Nick Tomiuk, Sudbury, opened the scoring early in the first period, but Eskimos tied it a minute and less than two minutes later but Jim Milligan put Wolves in the lead shortly before the period ended.

Milne scored his second goal of the game in the second period and Ed Lamarche answered for the Eskimos minutes later but the period ended. Reg Campbell counted for Abitibi and Hub Brumwell and Ed Harrison scored for Sudbury.

Brumwell ended the scoring in the third period with his second goal of the game.

Chicago Rinks Unbeaten In Toronto 'Spiel'

TORONTO (CP)—Two Chicago rinks, skipped by Charlie Watson and Wally Ursel, remained undefeated Thursday in three rounds of play in the annual mixed bonspiel at the Granite Club.

In the second round of play, G. Braund of Peterborough skipped his rink to a 13-7 win over E. N. Gregory of Lindsay. Watson downed Dr. J. M. Black, Oshawa, 17-8 and G. P. Thompson, Toronto Park, defeated C. S. Price, Chicago, 12-4. In an extra end match, Wilson scored an 11-9 victory over Bert Everson of Bobcaygeon.

Cincinnati's Cud-Chewing Baseman Is 'Toughest Little Monkey' in Loop

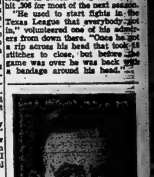
By GAYLE TALBOT

SARASOTA (AP) — Birdie Tebbetts, serving his first spring as manager of Cincinnati Redlegs, has found his man—a guy whose fighting spirit, hustle and all-around contributions to the whole team up with Birdie's brains to yank the club higher than sixth place in the National League.

The youngster, who already has earned Birdie's respect, is a tobacco-chewing hard-rock second-baseman named Johnny Temple. He is listed at 187 pounds, but somebody must have had a foot on the scales.

"He's the toughest little monkey I've come across in a long time," Tebbetts says happily. "Up to now he's called every man on the team a dirty name except me, and I expect to be next. He's a real throwback to the old days.

"He's been playing down in Venezuela this winter, and when he reported to camp I told him if he would like to take it easy for a few days I wouldn't down at all. I haven't got time to take it easy. If he can hit enough to play every day he for me, I guarantee you'll see some action.



"The other day Del Crandall (Milwaukee catcher) blocked the plate on him when he was coming in and you never saw such a collision. The ball flew off and that little guy picked himself up and Johnny came limping to the bench.

Somebody told him Crandall was still down and he said 'that's nothing—I'm afraid to look and see if I've still got a kneecap.'

"Then, before he sat down, he went over and spoke to Wes Covington, the biggest player in the world, and said, 'Get back in action to you, you big slob.' Our star first-baseman hasn't thought of an answer yet."

Temple played with Tulsa of the Texas League in 1951 and part of 1952, and is said to have left an indelible impression. He led the league in stolen bases in '51, and hit .306 for most of the next season.

"He used to start fights in the Texas League that everybody got in," volunteered one of the scribes from down there. "Once he got a baseball across his head that took 17 stitches to close, but before the game was over he had it back with a bandage around his head."

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT YOUR PROPERTY INSURANCE AGENT—

He knows How to "Tailor" Protection to Your Needs

YOUR property insurance agent doesn't just "sell you insurance." A good agent arranges the right protection for you at equitable rates. He knows value—and understands the insurance market.

How much would you lose if fire destroyed your home or your place of business? Or if you became involved in a costly law suit resulting from your ownership of property? Or if you were sued because of some unfortunate action by a member of your family, an employee, or yourself?

To know how to answer these questions with the best protection is the job of your property insurance agent.

He must also know whether certain coverages are necessary or merely desirable in your particular case.

He must know local values, local conditions, and insurance provisions and rates offered by various companies.

Let a competent property insurance agent survey your fire and casualty protection needs. Rely on his sound advice. It costs you nothing.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A palooka acts as if he dummy hand will fly away before he can get his clutches on the first card from there. So, he grabs it fast and plays it to the first trick before stopping to think.

A skilful player plans his future before a card is touched in the dummy. That first dummy card may be a winner. So, he figures out his campaign for the whole deal before using it.

It may be that the first dummy card can be used to better his position if held as a futuse entry. Or it it is played at once for the purpose of unblocking something in the opposite hand.

South was declarer at six spades in this deal:

NORTH
♠ 4 3
♥ A Q J
♦ 9 8 5 4 2
♣ Q J 10

WEST
♠ J 9 . .
♥ 10 9 2 .
♦ A Q 10 8
♣ 9 7 6 4

EAST
♠ K 2
♥ 8 7 6 5 4 3
♣ 8 5 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A Q 10 9 8 7 6
♥ K
♦ K 7 3
♣ A K

West could have defeated it fast by cashing his diamond ace and then leading another diamond for east to ruff. But west elected to start with the lead of his heart ten.

South looked over into the future before cashing for dummy. He had diamond losers and possible trump losers in his study it suddenly dawned on him that this was his only chance to reach dummy.

Also that he had a chance to eliminate his diamond worry with unblocks. So, his dummy heart ace took the first trick, dropping his own king. On two more hearts south flung ace and king of clubs.

Then he led the three dummy clubs and threw all of his his south diamonds thereon. A dummy spade was successfully finessed by the south queen. Spade ace was cashed and picked up the outstanding trumps.

Thus did declarer take all 13 tricks with a combine of cards that looked as if he must be down a couple. Of course, he was lucky to find trumps the way they were. But the rest was not luck.

What constituted most his success was his study of dummy's hand before playing a card from there. This told him what he was up against; what lone plan could save him. Plan before you fan.

When I saw the new bobby-sox idol, he was doing a scene with Dorothy Malone in "Battle Cry." She was in a bathing suit, he in a pair of trunks.

Hunter is the latest young man to profit from what Hollywood calls beefcake, a form of publicity that has helped send Kirk Douglas, Tony Curtis, Rock Hudson and others to stardom. It is the male counterpart of cheesecake, which has proved aboon for such dolls as Marilyn Monroe, Jane Russell and Betty Grable.

Tab's fame started when he was chosen to play the bare - chested hero of "Island of Desire" with Linda Darnell three years ago. Green as an actor, his performance was somewhat less than sterling.

While the studios failed to flood him with offers, the fan magazine readers swooned over him. For three years they kept his career alive although he played in only three quickies during that time.

NOW'S HIS CHANCE

Tab's big chance now comes in Warners' "Battle Cry," taken from the best-selling novel of marine corps life. If he proves successful, the studio can pick up his option for a term contract.

Oh, yes, about that name. The boy's real handle is Art Gelien. But this is the era of unusual names, as for instance Rock Hudson, Race Gentry, Touch Connors, etc.

The agents sat around and figured their client would have to be labbed something else. "Tab—that's it!" exclaimed one of the brains.

May Rebuild Shelters Used During World War

BONN, West Germany (Reuters) West Germany, hard hit in the air bombing of the Second World War may rebuild some of the huge bunker shelters of that war under a four-year civil defence plan now being studied.

The plan, if adopted, will cost between 1,500,000,000 and 2,000,000,000 West Marks (*350,000,000 to $464,000,000).

It will coincide with the setting up of West German contingents in the projected European army and prepare West Germany against possible air attack from the East.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 27, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — About this time of year we are inclined to indulge in Spring fancies. That feeling is healthy, a tonic for mind and body, if we don't let it lead us astray. Show your practical side, too.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Your intrepid spirit can help you to make headway in practical objectives and the fulfillment of personal desires now. Analyze those wishes and inclinations, however.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Today you may have a desire to do the different, the unusual. Study situations well before going ahead, however; there may be an easier, better way than you have planned.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Aspects are better now for advancing your particular work and activities. If genial, tactful, you should be able to accomplish much before sundown — and without strain.

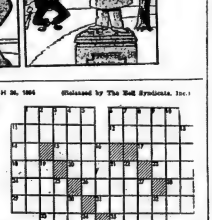
July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — About the same indications as Gemini now. Your own personality, in good form, should put you well on the way to fine achievements. Self-control and patience needed, of course.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—The steady worker will catch the spirit of one and pass him! You are at the controls. Some excellent influences now. No good deed will go unrewarded.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Your chart advises against useless risk or ventures, or making needless sudden changes in career.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Conditions now could foster exuberance, but use care in forestall errors, prevent misunderstandings. Think!

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Influences indicate a better-wait-and-see policy until possible from like effort. Private matters, family, finances should be studied. A tendency toward the artistic is prevalent.



December 23 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Start the day with high hope and continue with it. Stars help the energetic, careful thinker. Domestic and general progress favored.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Cultivate your innate ambitiousness and you can achieve fine results. System and accuracy are needed, however. Avoid overdoing; allot certain times between chores to relax.

YOU BORN TODAY are a keen student but, if you allow yourself to drift, can lose purpose. Concentrate your selection; specialize. You are visionary, idealistic, sometimes impatient if plans fail, find fault with others' lack of vision. You set your standards of right and wrong, can infatuate them and courageously face opposition. Religion, education will lead you to high achievement. Avoid impetuousness. You may be extravagant. Cultivate self-control and be happy.

MARMORA

H-S Association Enjoys European Travelogue

MARMORA — Marmora Home and School Association held its March meeting on Wednesday evening in the public school. Mrs. R. Frost presided and there was a good attendance of parents and those interested in child welfare.

The financial statement given by Mrs. L. McGinnis showed the funds to be in good shape. The president briefly reported on two projects—swings for the school grounds and an exhibition of pictures by Canadian artists in May.

The attendance of parents and grandparents, taken by E. C. Prentice, principal, showed honors as going to Mrs. R. Manchee's room. The president welcomed visitors.

Mrs. N. Fearon consented to be delegate to the annual meeting of the Home and School Association to be held in Toronto, April 20 and 21. An invitation was received from the Home and School Association at Madoc to attend their meeting on April 7 when Dr. S. R. Laycock is to be the guest speaker. The next meeting will be held on April 26.

Mrs. F. Bobyk reported that the pupils of her school produced would be giving a program on May 14 with part of the proceeds for the Red Cross.

The program of the meeting followed. Mrs. Bert Meyers furnished an interesting talk on her trip to Europe last summer, in which she was accompanied by Mrs. A. Deans and Miss H. Henderson. # Lady Churchill Urging Husband To Retire

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Friends of Sir Winston Churchill said today he is being strongly pressed to give up as prime minister by the one person who has any real control over him—his wife, Clementine.

They said that Lady Churchill, more than anyone else, is likely to influence the great decision, which the 79-year-old statesman shows no personal inclination to make.

No one takes greater pride than she in his ability, at his age, to continue grappling with all the complexities of his job. But she naturally wants her husband to resign while he still has the prospect of being able to enjoy retirement unhampered by bad health.

MIND HER ALLIES

Throughout the prime minister's career she has played a self-effacing role, recognizing that a wife has always to take second place to the demands of a politician's work. But there is no doubt that his illness last summer frightened her, as it worried his doctors. They are her allies in efforts to get the prime minister to slow down his pace—now almost as fast as it was before his illness—and to lay down his official burdens.

In recent months Churchill appears to have recaptured all his old mental sparkle, though he has slowed up physically in the past year or so.

By general consent, he is still "stalling" on any retirement date. His friends think he considers himself fit at the moment, and is not looking too far ahead.

French Ask More U.S. War Supplies

Gen. Paul Ely, French army chief of staff, is shown as he called on President Eisenhower in the White House to discuss the military situation in embattled Indo-China. Gen. Ely has reportedly asked for another twenty-five B-26 bombers to help clean out Communist artillery pockets. The talks have also included the conditions under which the United States might possibly intervene directly in the war. — Central Press Canadian.

Proposes All Share Cost of Improvements

TORONTO (CP) —An auditor who conducted an investigation into the finances of the nearby town of Oakville proposes that all town taxpayers share the payment of $460,000 for unpaid local improvements instead of just those who benefited from the improvements.

John S. Entwistle said Thursday in a report to Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar that the plan would add one-third of a mill to the general tax rate.

Mr. Entwistle undertook the investigation after it was discovered the projects were carried out since 1949 without Ontario municipal board approval and paid for by unauthorized bank borrowings.

Believe 34 Died As Spanish Ship Sinks in Tempest

ALGECIRAS, Spain (CP) Thirty-four persons were reported today to have perished in the sinking of the Spanish minelayer Guadalete during a Mediterranean tempest Thursday.

Spanish naval authorities declined to confirm this figure but said 43 men, including the son of Spain's navy minister, Admiral Salvador Moreno, had been saved by the Italian freighter Podesta.

The Podesta brought the survivors and one dead petty officer to Gibraltar Thursday night. They were transferred here today but naval authorities kept reporters from talking to them.

Would Cut Speed Limit In Vicinity of Schools

BRANTFORD (CP)—An inquest Jury investigating a road fatality which took the life of Douglas Bragg, 6, at Burtch, seven miles south of here, attached no blame to anyone, but recommended legislation to lower the legal speed limit in the vicinity of schools.

Evidence was that the boy was killed by a truck driven by Peter Hurnacki of R R 2, Waterford, while playing in front of the Burtch public school.

The school is in a 50-mile speed-limit zone. Roadside signs warn motorists that there is a school in the area.

Recently, Mr. McFarland purchased Royal Street plant. He plans to fully modernize both plants and will use the latest methods in the manufacture of cheese. Instead of the old-fashioned 20-pound, round cheese he will manufacture 50-pound blocks and cheese will be marketed in various types of containers and in various ages. Both factory purchases included land, house, factory and equipment.

Royal Tan Wins Grand National Over Tudor Line

Second Successive Victory For Owner and Jockey

Irish Lizard, the favorite at 11 to 2, was third by 10 lengths.

Royal Tan, 9 to 1 second favorite, had failed twice in this race in previous years. The jockey, Ryan Marshall, won last year's Grand National for owner Griffin aboard Early Mist.

4½-MILE RACE

Tudor Line, which finished second, started at 10 to 1 in the 4½-mile contest.

Holders of tickets on Royal Tan in the Irish Sweepstakes win £50,000 ($140,000). Holders of tickets on Tudor Line get £20,000 ($56,000) and those on Irish Lizard fetch £10,000 ($28,000).

A great crowd of 250,000 turned out for this 108th running of the world's toughest jumping race over 30 stiff barriers. The skies were sunny today but turned overcast shortly before the race began at 10:31 a.m.

SLOW TIME

The winning time was 9:32.8 compared with the record of 9:20.4 set by Miss Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller in 1934.

Royal Tan carried top weight, 161 pounds. Tudor Line carried 157 and Irish Lizard, 145. Irish Lizard was third in last year's race, also.

Premier Frost Pays Tribute To Auditor

TORONTO (CP) — A consolidation of income tax laws and industry during the last year was called for Friday by Labor Minister Daley.

Speaking during consideration of his department's estimates in the Ontario legislature, Mr. Daley said the groups must hold the position gained. "We must mark time until the dawn comes so we can see the picture more clearly."

The labor minister said the current unemployment situation was due to the resistance of the buying public to employers.

The House approved the department's estimates of $1,702,000 for ordinary expenditures and $10,500,000 in capital payments of claims for vacation-with-pay stamps.

Approval was also given to the provincial auditor's department estimates totalling $285,000.

ADVANCE POLL LAW

Premier Frost paid tribute to Provincial Auditor H. A. Cotnam, whose appointment has been underlined recently by Albert Wren (Lib-Kenora) for the handling of his investigation into alleged irregularities in the highways department. Mr. Wren charged that the auditor's staff was "brain-washing" highway engineers.

"No auditor in any province or any government of Canada could surpass him (Mr. Cotnam)," said the premier. "Indeed he is the best provincial auditor."

Attorney-General Porter introduced a bill amending the Election Laws Act which would allow persons planning to be away on election day to be eligible to vote at the advance poll.

A bill moving the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto under direct control of the University of Toronto was introduced by Education Minister Dunlop.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Clear, cool weather will prevail over most of Ontario this morning, although a band of snow associated with a weak disturbance over Minnesota edged into northern sections of the province during the night. This disturbance will pass over the Great Lakes and southern Ontario tonight and Sunday giving occasional snow to northern and central regions and showers or snowflurries to southern sections. Northwesterly winds will continue strong and gusty throughout the province Sunday.

DREW REGARDS RED RECOGNITION AS APPEASEMENT

Wants No Compromise 'With The Devil'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada would be following a policy of appeasement if it recognized the Chinese Communist government, says Opposition Leader Drew.

And it should be remembered, he added, that appeasement does not bring peace but is the one sure way of inviting a tyrant to start a war.

"We want no compromise with the devil," he told Progressive Conservative leader said Friday in a two-hour speech on Canada's "continuous external affairs debate which was adjourned until some time later.

Recognition has been a topic since Prime Minister St. Laurent said in the Far East near the end of last year that Canada sooner or later is bound to recognize Red China because solutions to Asian problems can be achieved only by agreements reached with Peking.

MIGHT IN FUTURE

The prime minister said Thursday in the Commons that government isn't contemplating recognition now but it might in the future if conditions changed.

Liberals: No recognition today. CCF: Recognition now.

Progressive Conservatives: No "early recognition.

Social Credit: Recognition now.

Mr. Drew developed his argument mostly around statements attributed to External Affairs Minister Pearson that Canada might consider recognition if the Chinese Communists show a "conciliatory attitude at the April Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China.

Mr. Pearson, in an exchange later with Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) said he will not "acquiesce to any pressure at Geneva for recognition of Red China."

Mr. Drew said Communists everywhere, including Communist agents in Canada, were ordered by Moscow to work for recognition of China.

CHALLENGED LEADER

Earlier, Mr. Drew accused Colin Cameron (CCF — Nanaimo) of speaking in terms which, he said, "could have come from Communists since the departure of Fred Rose. Rose, former Labor-Progressive (Communist) member for Montreal Cartier, was one of 19 persons charged in 1946 after a Russian spy ring was uncovered in Ottawa.

Mr. Cameron had said West Germany should not be allowed to make a rearmament was the main stumbling block to an agreement between the East and West.

Mr. Hansell challenged CCF leader Hazen Argue to disassociate Mr. Cameron's speech "in a pronouncement of CCF policy."

Mr. Argue said was not in the chamber at the time but later, outside the House, he (Mr. Argue of the Coldwell) speaks for the CCF.

"I do not think any member of the party do quite often is express their personal opinions. . . ." he added.

CHANCELLOR RESIGNS,

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Judge G. W. Morley of Owen Sound has resigned as chancellor of the Anglican diocese of Huron, it was announced Friday at the diocesan synod meeting. He was appointed chancellor in 1947 succeeding Col. E. S. Wigle of Windsor.

Boat 780 Miles From Bikini Shows Effects of Radiation

By GEORGE McARTHUR

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese reaction to American hydrogen bomb tests mounted a new today after two more fishing boats returned from the Marshall Island area showing radiation effects.

The Japanese government officially informed the United States that the first boat to be affected, the Lucky Dragon, was 40 miles outside the prescribed last danger zone when it was showered with atomic ash March 1.

The two latest fishing boats showing radiation have been quarantined. However, they apparently escaped serious harm and no fears for the crew have been expressed by Japanese officials.

One had been operating some 780 miles from the Bikini test site and the other was about 200 miles away.

Japanese fishery circles are concerned that the latest incidents might further harm the fish market.

U.S. Ambassador John Allison released a statement today aimed at easing concern over Japan's exports. Allison said he asked if the U.S. food and drug administration had tested any radioactive Japanese fish entering the U.S. and received a reply which said:

"Our inspectors found no indication of radioactivity in any shipments of fish from Pacific waters . . . There is no occasion here for public apprehension about this type of contamination."

ELECTION CALL ADDS TO TURMOIL ON WATERFRONT

Hearing on Motion To Be Held Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP)—The prospect of a second bargaining election and a new series of legal actions hung over New York's turbulent, strike-ridden waterfront today.

One legal step planned by the New York Shipping Association would knock out support from the harbor's 4,000 tugboat men who threw their weight behind the outlaw strike Friday.

Aid from tugboat crews came to striking members of the Independent International Longshoremen's Association at the same time as their cause suffered a blow in a report by a National Labor Relations Board examiner, Arthur Leff.

Leff recommended that last December's waterfront bargaining election, apparently won by the ILA, be set aside because of violence and threats against voters.

The ILA rival, an AFL dock union, said there were 4,000 votes, enough to place the outcome in question. The valid votes count gave the ILA a margin of 1,492.

Leff called for a new election as soon as possible. A hearing on his recommendation is scheduled for April 6 in Washington Tuesday, and the full board is expected to make a report several days after that.

ANOTHER CHANCE SEEN

A new election would give the AFL another chance to win control of waterfront jobs from the old ILA, which was ousted from the AFL last September for failing to purge itself of racketeers. The AFL quickly formed the new union and their rivalry has kept the background of waterfront turmoil here for six months.

The ILA says the vote count is confused and that showed only a slight increase over the election before.

The strike continues in defiance of no-strike injunction issued against the ILA March 4. The AFL order had been obtained to end picketing against AFL workers on six piers.

ILA members, irritated because the AFL was not included in the injunction, immediately resumed their strike to include the whole port. The ILA has accused the AFL of contempt and demanded a fine of at least $100,000.

Five-Zone Plan For Industry Is Proposed

PETROLIA (CP) — Dr. E. G. Faludi, planning consultant for the Ontario water resources commission, said Friday the "eternal scrambling" for new industries in cities for new industries may be ended within five years when a proposed five-zone plan for the province becomes law.

"We must think in terms of regions rather than individual municipalities," he told the annual meeting of the Lambton County Municipal Association.

Dr. Faludi would divide Ontario into five development areas, he said, and would aim to locate industry to make the best use of land, labor, raw materials and markets. Two municipalities in the same zone would not vie for a new industry. They would decide the most suitable site.

Navy Pilot Uses Wing Contact To Steer Pilotless Runaway Jet

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A Navy pilot used the wing tip of his pilot who wing-waved a runaway jet out to sea to avoid possible disaster and crashed his own jet without actual contact.

Lt. (j.g.) Vandenberg, 25, flying at 300 miles an hour in his Cougar fighter, turned the other plane away from its beeline for the populated coast after its pilot bailed out at 40,000 feet over the ocean.

The manoeuvred his wingtip under the runaway, which had righted itself out of a spin 80 miles from here, and managed to swing it around 180 degrees. It crashed at sea.

"The air flowing over the wing of my plane," Vandenberg said, "was enough to tilt the other plane's wing and tip it around. "I didn't touch wings with the other plane, but even if I had, it was flying steadily enough so that there would have been little danger."

Vandenberg's manoeuvre is believed to have been the first of its kind involving jet aircraft. However, during the Second World War British and Canadian pilots often used this method to tip over German V-1 buzz bombs over England, causing the pilotless craft to crash harmlessly away from built-up areas.

Lt. (j.g.) R. Maccoun, 25, son of a retired U.S. coast guard admiral bailed out with ejector apparatus after his jet went into a spin at 22,000 feet.

The plane unaccountably righted itself at 4,000 feet, rose to 8,000 and headed for San Diego.

Moslem Leader Calls For Jihad Against British

Just Released From Prison, Egyptian Demands Holy War

By GILBERT SEDDON

CAIRO (Reuters) — Dr. Hassan Hodeiby, "supreme guide" of the militant Moslem Brotherhood who was released from prison two days ago, called today for a holy war to drive British troops out of the Suez Canal zone.

He addressed a mass meeting of the brotherhood here in his first major address since President Mohammed Naguib announced Thursday that his ruling military junta would be dissolved and the Egyptian government returned to politicians July 24.

Hodeiby, chief of the once-outlawed brotherhood, condemned all efforts at negotiation with British for the evacuation of 80,000 British troops from the Suez. Negotiations broke down last October and Britain said this week that they cannot be resumed until indications appear against British troops in the zone soon.

About 220 more political prisoners were freed today, bringing the total to 600.

Hodeiby opposed Naguib's reconstruction of the pre-existing government of political parties which were banned by the junta on January, 1953.

"I urge everyone to join the Moslem Brotherhood," Hodeiby told the rally. He denies the brotherhood is a political party, though it plays a large role in political life.

French Fill In Rebels' Trenches Around Fortress

SAIGON, Indo-China (Reuters) French troops charged from their defence barricades at Dien Bien Phu and filled in trenches dug by Communist rebels only 200 yards from the valley fortress, the French high command announced today.

It said separate charges took place northeast, northwest and southeast of the rebel-surrounded fortress. The attacks "put an end to resistance before being" pushed back. The high command said 40 rebels were killed in the mortar seized during the operation.

Authorities said the rebels penetrated to the main air strip of Dien Bien Phu in a night raid. The hard-pressed fortress is supplied entirely by air. Supply drops are reported infiltrating within grenade-throwing distance of the strip every night.

The rebels usually shell the drop zone when supplies are being parachuted.

Fearing Polio, Crowd Disperses On 30-Mile Route

PERTH, Australia (CP)—Queen Elizabeth were gloves today as a precaution against polio when she was handed a wreath-in-place at a Perth war memorial.

It was understood the gloves were destroyed after the ceremony.

The wreath was handed to the Queen by an official — though under the precautions announced by the Australian government no one was supposed to come closer to her than six feet. Cmdr. Derek Steele-Perkins, the Queen's personal adviser, was said to have decided that the risk of infection was acceptable under the circumstances. But the incident will not be repeated during the remainder of her tour of west Australia, where she was received by the junta.

SPECTATORS LINE ROUTE

Stands in the city were half empty when the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh drove by for a civic reception. Because of the polio epidemic generally raging and booming in the city. They spread out instead along the 30-mile route from Fremantle where the royal couple spent the night at the governor's bothie. Their cheers were heard along the entire distance.

The beginning of the Queen's speech to the civic reception here was drowned by shouts from portions of the crowd.

When she stood up to speak, some people sitting in the front rows of the stands also rose, spectators further back shouted "sit down in front." There were soundings of "Let her have a go" — some from official guests.

The noise died away after a few seconds, but the interruption was brief.

DEPRECATE SERIOUSNESS

The state health department meanwhile issued a statement on the polio outbreak, explaining that it is not as serious as earlier outbreaks.

Although the incidence of poliomyelitis in western Australia at present is the highest on record, the outbreak has not revealed the disease as being of unusual power as previous epidemics," it said.

The present epidemic, it says, has affected less than 1,000 cases, of which one-third have been associated with paralysis, and the paralysis in most of these cases has been mild. There have been three deaths.

Bank is Robbed At Forest Hill By Young Gunman

TORONTO (CP)—A young gunman in a grey topcoat Friday robbed the Forest Hill branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce of $1,400 in small-denomination bills.

Police said the man, handed teller May Jordan, 21, a note saying: "This is a holdup."

Miss Jordan said later:

"When I saw he had a small black pistol, I knew he meant business, so I handed the money over to him."

Five Die in Fire In Adirondacks

BAKER'S MILLS, N.Y. (AP)

Flames roaring through an Adirondack lumberman's isolated dwelling home today wiped out a family of five. Three relatives escaped.

The dead were identified as Samuel Nullinger, 53, his wife, Louise, 39, an expectant mother, and their three children.

Mrs. Nullington's father, Emery Bruno, 68, who lived nearby, and two grandchildren as George and Eleanor Morehead, fled to safety.

Harry Southam Dies Suddenly

OTTAWA (CP) — Harry S. Southam, CMG, distinguished Canadian newspaper publisher, art patron and sportsman, died today at the age of 78. He had been ill for several months.

Until his retirement a year ago, Mr. Southam was president of the Ottawa Citizen for more than a half-century, building the newspaper from a daily circulation of 1,800 in 1897 to a current circulation of about 40,000.

Science on Trail of New Cures For Those Morning-After Blues

NEW YORK (AP) — Hang on tight, you morning-after moaners—science is on the trail of new remedies to chase away those hangovers.

Take the word of Dr. Selden D. Bacon, director of the Yale Center for Alcohol Studies, a new project is under way to evaluate medicines that make people happy or sad? Is it good or bad for them?"

Bacon told the annual meeting of the National Committee on Alcoholism Friday that, besides looking for antidotes, the project hoped to come up with a "measurable definition" of the hangover.

Practically hitting the nail on the big head, he described one as "how a fellow reports he feels after he's had too much to drink and is trying to get over it."

The doctor took a dim view of present antidotes, including a couple of quick ones at breakfast time: raw eggs, tomato juice, oysters, or slapping yourself on that throbbing noggin.

Discussing the effects of even light drinking, Bacon said:

"How would like to know what is the function of small amounts of alcohol in the body? Does alcohol make it make people happy or sad? Is it good or bad for them?"

Bacon said the answer could help clear the relationship, if any, of alcohol and crime, and what takes place when tipplers turn into alcoholics.

Bacon estimated that of the 65,000,000 Americans who take drinks, 4,000,000 are suffering from alcoholism, and added:

"We do not believe that alcoholism is ever going to be cured by a pill or a law."

Dead Port Arthur Child, Age 2, Had 40 Bruises on Its Body

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A two-year-old babe that died here Tuesday had 40 bruises on its body, head and limbs, an inquest jury was told here Friday night.

Gordon Brian Sutherland died shortly after being taken to hospital.

Dr. D. Brunford, a child specialist, testified that the child years ago he treated the child for malnutrition.

Mrs. Gordon Sutherland, the child's mother, said that several days before the death she had dropped the child and it had hit its head.

A. E. Allen, provincial pathologist who performed an autopsy, said there were 40 bruises on the child's body. The skull fracture was a wound six inches long, he said. The child could have fallen from an "unusual height" to suffer that.

Mrs. Sutherland, who said the child was her foster child, testified she said he was backward and never learned to walk properly.

7 New Ridings Proposed By Select Committee

TORONTO (CP) — Seven new provincial ridings were proposed Friday by the Ontario legislature's select committee on redistribution.

But the committee could not agree on an eighth in the Oshawa area.

Recommended for the first time as seats for metropolitan Toronto and one each for London, Ottawa, Hamilton and Windsor, the committee decided to meet again Monday to consider the Oshawa area riding after Attorney-General Porter objected to the size of the Muskoka-Ontario riding. Boundaries of ings would be reduced to after representation by population.

Should the eight seats be approved it would increase the number of seat in the legislature from 90 to 98. It would be the first redistribution of the House since 1933 when the number was cut from 112 to 90.

The new London riding would be created by slicing off a piece of Middlesex which now represented in the House by Progressive Conservative Leslie Saunders and splitting the present London riding. It would be renamed Progressive Conservative J. P. Robarts into London North and London South.

The Metro district would be given an additional riding. Lands and Forests Minister Cromwell represents Sudbury in the House. Out of his riding would be created a new riding to include the four urban centres of Sudbury and Copper Cliff on the north shore, as Nickle Belt, would be created by slicing off sections of Algoma Manitoulin and Nipissing which would extend northwest of Chapleau.

RECOMMEND CHANGE

Algoma - Manitoulin is represented by Progressive Conservative Liberal Farquhar Oliver.

The committee recommended changing the name of Wellington North riding, represented by Progressive Conservative John Root, to Wellington-Dufferin.

The Muskoka-Ontario riding would take the urban centres of Orillia, Gravenhurst and Bracebridge in the Ontario riding currently represented by Progressive Conservative Minister of the Muskoka-Ontario riding, represented by Provincial Secretary Welsh would be incorporated into Ontario and Muskoka-Ontario would be known as Muskoka.

The division would reduce the Muskoka-Ontario voting population from 23,000 to 12,055 and the Ontario riding from 42,945 to 11,948.

Supports Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Friday he wholeheartedly supports the Canadian Cancer Society's appeal for $500,000 in Ontario.

"The society is doing magnificent work," the premier told the Ontario legislature."

Frost to Open New Subway On Tuesday

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's first subway opens here next Tuesday.

That's when Premier Leslie Frost of Ontario will push a control level that will give the green light to the sleek new rapid-transit system running north and south from the heart of the business district of central Toronto.

The $30,500,000 subway, first proposed in 1911 and at that time scoffed at as a visionary's dream, has taken five years to build. It entailed ripping up the pavement of the city's main holes in the main business district.

Not all the system is underground. The northern section is "open cut," running through a big, endless trench.

With an initial adult fare of three tokens for 25 cents, the tokens resemble dimes and can be obtained from vending machines in the stations. The British-made subway trains will make the north-south trip in 10 minutes over the entire weather, compared with the present street-car time of 30 minutes. The eight-car, eight-section subway train will carry 1,500 passengers, as against the 300 now carried by one street-car plus trailer.

Planning Meet To Be Held In East Ontario

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Planning Minister Warrender of Ontario said Friday plans for a regional planning meeting will be held in eastern Ontario early in May.

The meeting would discuss in the eastern region where many cities, towns and villages have production or suspend operations entirely prompted the department to ask the minister to that area first. Mr. Warrender said,

Where the meeting would be held was not disclosed, but representatives of the Chamber of Kingston and Pembroke would be asked to attend.

Security Forces Raid Red Offices

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Police announced Friday security forces raided offices of a group which is believed to be the Kingston headquarters of Chinese Communists on the island.

Names of Chinese — many of them British citizens — will be carefully checked for links with known Communist organizations, authorities said.

The majority of Jamaica's Chinese are known as supporters of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime in Formosa and a growing number are said to favor the Communist government at Peiping.

Citizenship Day On Friday May 21

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Harris announced Friday that citizenship day will be held this year on Friday, May 21.

Mr. Harris said citizenship day ceremonies will be held in many communities and as usual a number of essay contests are being arranged on the citizenship theme for school children.

Outstanding Year Reported By Governors of Hospital

The Belleville General Hospital had an outstanding year in 1953, it was revealed last night when the hospital board of governors presented their annual report at an open meeting in the Ritchie and Nurses' Residence.

The busiest 12 months in the hospital's history showed an increase in the number of patients cared for, an increase in the number of patient days of care administered, additions to the hospital's services, additions to the medical staff, a strengthened financial position with the smallest deficit reported in many years, and the successful completion of a fund raising campaign to build a new 100-bed extension.

Mr. F. Domenico, chairman of the finance committee, was the chairman of last evening's meeting in the absence of H. M. Yanover, board chairman.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REPORT

Highlights from the various committee reports are synopsized now.

The report of J. N. Yanover, 2nd chairman, noted that 1953 as the busiest year in the hospital's history with all departments operating on a greater, part of the time at near capacity.

Implying student nurses the ratio of staff per patient was 1.85, comparing favorably with the provincial average rate. The payroll increased nearly $50,000 from 1952 to an all-time high of $483,482.22. Despite this the cost of operation of some departments was lowered with a greater, part of the patient.

Mr. Yanover's report paid special tribute to Mr. A. M. Haig, general chairman of the building committee and members of the committee for "the very excellent and tremendous service they have rendered our building project."

"The campaign has been successful and the new addition is assured Plans are being finalized now, and we hope to call for tenders for our new addition in the very near future," the report stated.

MEDICAL STAFF

Dr. R. T. Potter, president of the hospital's medical staff, reported considerable improvement with regards to medical records and services.

"This improvement has been shown in the reports of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals", his report stated.

Five new doctors were welcomed to the staff during the year, Dr. Peter Loder, radiologist; Dr. Robert Allore, Dr. Edith Peterkin, Dr. Arthur M'Conkie and Dr. Jack Stock.

The contributions of the medical staff to the building fund were reported as better per capita than that for any other hospital campaign in Ontario to date.

FINANCIAL REPORT

D. F. Domenico, stated that financial operation for 1953 was better than it has been for a number of years despite an increase in the payroll of some $50,000 over the previous year. Increase in the hospital schedule effective January 1st, 1953, additional technical staff and nursing staff were given as reasons for the increased total payroll.

Net earnings from patient services increased by $80,981.04 over 1952. The length of day's stay of patients decreased from 8.2 in 1952 to 7.6 in 1953. The shortened stay enabled the hospital to care for nearly 400 more patients in 1953 over 1952.

After charging $40.000 depreciation and paying $19.750 debenture principal and $12.000 debenture interest, the hospital operated with a deficit of only $1,681.

This report thanked the city of Belleville for paying full rate for the indigent patients and expressed the hope that other municipalities will follow this example.

The report noted that with an anticipated payroll increase of $30,000 in 1954, the budget is practically reaching on income, the Board of Governors would likely have to scrutinize every expenditure to keep expenses at the lowest possible level, pointing to fixing obligations to the pavilings.

A statement of revenue revealed gross earnings from patient services, $1,000,811.09 compared with $907,659.03 in 1953. Rebates, free services and bad debts no doubtful accounts reduced this to net earnings of $960,811.09 compared with $721,330.65 in 1952. Provincial grants for maintenance and training totalled $341,330.63 and non-operating revenues were $3,208.16, making a total revenue of $858,968.50 compared with $777,603.38 in 1953.

Expenditures totalled $864,300.24 compared with $791,823.04 in 1952, leaving a deficit for 1953 was $5,331.74 in 1953 compared with $14,221.28 in 1952.

Of the expenditures operating costs were $825,345.70 and depreciation $38,954.54.

SUPPLIES REPORT

The supplies report submitted by R. Belleville and read by Arthur Whitehead noted that the following items had been purchased for the hospital during the past year: X-ray view box, pelvimeter, audograph transcriber, two incubators, sickler aspirating machine, two suction machines blood bank refrigerator, sleeve photometer, incubator, stryker plaster saw, infra-reflectator and galvanic stimulator.

The report stated that the area and location of the phone department at present is not satisfactory and request was made that consideration be given to providing more suitable accommodation when the new wing is built.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

The public relations and personnel committee report, submitted by H. F. Cane and read by Jack Bradford, stated that considerable progress had been made in public relations during the year.

Part of the public relations effort was a program on Hospital Day that attracted nearly 300 visitors to the hospital. These guests were taken on a tour of all departments and were served tea in the nurses' residence after their visits.

Poster contests on Hospital Day were conducted in the public and high schools. The committee entered a float in the Coronation Day parade and the following pamphlets were printed and distributed: The Belleville General Hospital Blood Bank and How It Operates; The Belleville General Hospital Interne Program, and the Parents' Handbook on Personnel Policies.

The committee also expressed its appreciation to the Ontario Intelligencer and to radio station CJBQ for their co-operation during the year in publishing the work of the hospital.

PROPERTY REPORT

The property committee report, submitted by the chairman, J. E. Buchan, revealed extensive re-decoration and re-fitting of wards and corridors and water, steam and electrical power lines in various portions of the hospital and the nurses' residence.

The arrangements included additional bathroom facilities in the Mary Ritchie residence and the building of a coffee shop in the out-patient department area on the hospital. The work was executed by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary under the name of "Coffee Snack."

A maintenance workshop was provided behind the boiler house, a new formula room was constructed on the third floor south and an old house east of the hospital was renovated to serve as a residence for interns.

General changes included the institution of a comprehensive and well organized program for the protection of patients in case of fire.

Fire plans were drawn up and placed in each department and nursing station and a "Fire Instruction" booklet was published for all employees. Monthly fire drills were inaugurated.

The new wing addition were let to the firm of Govan, Ferguson, Brown and Associates, and the property committee took part in the numerous meetings held with architects for the purpose of revising original plans.

AUXILIARY REPORT

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary report, read by Mrs. J. E. Buchan, revealed a year of outstanding progress.

Could Peek at Ballots Through Windows in Booths

Voting at two of the polling booths during the beer vote at Monday, November was done in voting compartments with outside windows, two witnesses told the court Friday at a hearing of an application to have the vote set aside.

R. J. Courneyea, Tweed hotel proprietor, is asking to have the vote set aside, claiming irregularities in voting. All three questions — lounge licence, and men's and women's beverage rooms were defeated in a very close vote.

Yesterday at the resumption of the hearing before Hastings County Judge J. C. Anderson, which was started January 19th, two witnesses, Thomas Breen, poll clerk, and Lorne Geen, scrutineer, said that persons outside the polling booths could have had access to the ballots if they were held up to the windows.

THOUGHT REQUIREMENTS

Under cross examination by H. D. Arnott, Mr. Breen said, he thought the requirements of secrecy were being met at the poll "except that he thought the way the ballots should not have been under the window."

Harold Moriarty, village clerk and returning officer for the November vote, also cross-examined by Mr. Arnott. Witness admitted that the ballot box had been properly viewed by poll officials and had not been touched by outsiders during the vote.

"In his evidence in chief, Mr. Breen claimed the ballot box had not been properly examined, either before or after the vote.

"Under cross examination he could not remember whether he had been sworn, although earlier in the hearing he did not been sworn.

VOTERS IDENTIFIED

Photographs of windows at two polling booths were identified by Frank McCormick, Belleville photographer.

Lorne Geen, scrutineer, claimed that the ballots in question were not on the voters' list and also stated to oath of allegiance had been administered to the poll workers.

He read the names of a number of persons who he said were not on the printed voters' list but who had voted after being sworn.

Questioned regarding the window at the township hall, witness said it would have been possible for voters to hold marked ballots up to the window to be viewed by any person on the outside.

In an experiment he said he had been able to read with the aid of field glasses from a distance of 120 feet, a marked ballot placed against the inside of the window.

CAN'T SEE SIGNIFICANCE

"But unless counsel is prepared to show that some one actually did look through the window and see a marked ballot, I can't see the significance of this evidence," pointed out Judge Anderson. "If Mr. Rose [the lawyer for the petitioner] had field glasses, I would take a serious view of this."

Witness said that counterfoils from off ballots were not destroyed or defaced.

Upwards of a dozen witnesses, including deputy returning officers, poll clerks and scrutineers are expected to be heard during the hearing which continued today.

Council Sets 53-Mill Rate, Surplus of $37,000 Shown

TRENTON. (Special)—Trenton's 1954 council brought down the budget last night. The tax rate was set at 53 mills.

A spokesman commenting on the new rate and the town's financial position indicated that there was an opportunity for this year's council to do a lot of work. The auditor's report showed a surplus of $37,000. An increase in different grants amounts to $2,000. These sums of money are separate from anticipated revenue it was pointed out.

During the course of discussion chairman of finance, Gerald Weaver, indicated that a $1,000 may be granted to the Trenton Chamber of Commerce. He divulged that the Public Works Department had been allotted $80,000 and this sum may be adjusted to provide needed funds for the struggling chamber.

DEPARTMENTAL INCREASES

Finance chairman noted departmental increases. Cost of administration went up $900; hiring of an assistant assessor raised assessment costs $2,200; an "increase in solicitor's charges amounted to $600; renovating the municipal office was shown as an additional cost of $1,000. Mr. Weaver also indicated that the cost of police protection would be higher this year. Cause of the increase he said was principally due to the department's plan to acquire a radio equipped motorcycle and a radar speed timing device. Mr. Weaver explained the decrease in the operation of the fire department of $1,300 was due to a reduction in the cost of maintenance to the fire hall repaired and renovated last year. A net increase of $3,500 was listed as adding to street lighting and extra lighting.

IN HEALTHY CONDITION

Actually the town's financial structure is in a healthy position. The new budget called for $1,000 less than it cost to operate the town last year. Last year the tax rate was 65 mills on last December.

A Lift for Living

Taking Stock of Ourselves

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

We do not appreciate many of our possessions until we lose them or are threatened with their loss.

We take good health for granted until it is taken away. Then we see its value. We often accept the affections of loved ones as a matter of course until we are deprived of their devotion when they pass from us. We fail to prize liberty until our freedom is threatened or lost.

So it is with life itself. When our lives are endangered, we take stock of ourselves.

We have been told that our recent wars have been fought to preserve our American way of life. If that be true, then every thoughtful American should ask, is our way of living worth the cost we have paid in blood and tears? What is worth dying for? What is worth living for?

Jesus did not talk much about death. He preached no gloomy gospel. He did ask His disciples to face up to the question of just what life is worth.

SEARCHING QUESTIONS

He put to His followers these two searching questions: "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

In this Lenten season let us take stock of ourselves by asking first, what value do we put on our souls?

I very well remember a sermon I heard in my boyhood on this text. It ran something like this: How much of your life would you give for a million dollars?

In those days a million dollars was taken as about the highest monetary symbol that ordinary folk could comprehend. Of course, in these days of scores of billions in governmental budgets, a million dollars is hardly pocket change. But to a minister it is still a tidy little sum!

The old preacher began by asking, "Would you give up a hand for a million dollars?" Yes, I thought I could get along pretty well with one hand a million dollars. Then he asked, "Would you give up a leg also?" That made me think a little more carefully.

Then he stepped up the exchange still further. He asked, "Would you give up your eyesight for a million dollars?" I hesitated at that.

Then came this question: "If you were in a lifeboat with a million dollars in gold and the gold was causing the boat to sink, would you throw the gold overboard to save your life?" And I thought to myself, of course I would.

Then the preacher pressed his query home. He told us that our physical lives are but a small consideration compared to our immortal souls. Think, he said, about eternity. Then he used a graphic figure to describe the extent of eternity. He said, if a bird were to come from another planet to our earth just once in a million years, as we were to carry away just one grain of sand at a time, when that bird had carried away the entire earth, eternity would just be begun.

That figure of speech has haunted my mind ever since. When a man thinks of his soul's welfare throughout all eternity he says, "Why, I would not be profited if I were to gain the whole world and lose that."

SEARCH THE SOUL

There are some things you do not have to give up in exchange for your souls. You can use them to enrich the soul. And then "you can take it with you."

Our bodies, for instance. I recall an athletic coach in college. He built character on the athletic field. The bodies he trained are still strong as they once were. Some have disappeared. The coach has now left this earth's playing field. But the characters he developed will survive death.

Or consider money. I think of a man who is steadily transferring his wealth into eternal values. He is putting money into bettering the lives of boys. He is helping to purchase hope in darkened lives in India and elsewhere. His life is getting richer. And it will go on.

The Master bade us "lay up treasures in heaven where thieves do not break through and steal." He was talking about life here. This can be done now.

TO TREAT BURNS

What's your favorite method of treating burns? Do you immediately slap on some greasy substance—butter, vaseline, burn ointment or something similar?

Wrong, says St. John Ambulance. These old-fashioned remedies don't help to any extent in reducing pain—and they greatly complicate the medical treatment of the burned area. There is no effective way of relieving the agonizing pain of a burn except by morphine or some other hypodermic sedative.

Treatment of burns depends on the type, but generally speaking, if it's a trivial burn—something you get on the stove or iron — wash it off with an alkaline solution (two teaspoonfuls of baking soda to one pint of sterile water at body temperature), apply a clean dressing and bandage firmly.

SERIOUS BURNS

If it's a serious burn, first remove or cut away clothing over the burned area but do not attempt to pull off clothing which is stuck. Cover the burned area with a clean dressing and bandage or fasten it securely. Encourage the injured person to drink large quantities of warm fluids such as water or sweet tea. Place him on a stretcher and get him to a hospital as quickly as possible.

The main objectives of first aid for burns are to prevent infection and to replace the body fluids which are quickly lost from the burned tissue.

Often tied in with the treatment of burns is the problem of rescuing someone from a fire. If you have to enter a burning building, here are some useful tips: cover your nose and mouth with a wet cloth to keep out the superheated air which might burn your lungs; move about on your hands and knees—the coolest and purest air will always be near the floor; always feel a door before opening it—if it is hot, open very cautiously to avoid being caught in a blast of flame and hot air.

BIG FISH

Learning To Read

"Mummy, I can read!" with what pride a child announces this!

How quickly children today learn to read. When mother and dad went to school, possibly there was no kindergarten and no talk of "reading readiness." Perhaps they struggled for days with the old-fashioned phonetic system of learning sounds for each letter or certain combinations of letters of the alphabet. Today's methods of teaching reading are certainly different—easier and better than those of a generation ago. Now a pupil learns to recognize a whole word rather than the letters which make it.

It is usually confusing for a child if parents try to teach him to read before he starts to school. It is very likely that their way and the teacher's techniques are not at all alike. Instead of the child having an advantage over his classmates, he may be all "mixed-up" when the teacher attempts to teach him to read.

Grown-ups often forget that learning to read requires a certain maturity and quite a number of skills. A child must be able to focus both eyes on one object. Then, too, he has to follow a line of print across a page, then swing back to the next line, without losing the place or sense of the sentence. It is indeed a High Occasion when a child suddenly begins to associate the symbol on a page with a word in his vocabulary!

It isn't always easy for a sociable youngster to work all by himself and concentrate on the book in front of him for a period of time, without another child's or an adult's assistance. It is unlikely that the average youngster below six years is really ready to learn to read, in the opinion of most educational authorities.

This does not mean that the home has no vital part in learning to read. The desirability of reading is demonstrated each day by parents who quite evidently enjoy reading themselves. Newspapers, magazines and books have a share in the family budget of folks who believe like Sir William Osler that money invested in library gives much better returns than mining stock.

The child's own attractive picture books with colored illustrations are kept in a convenient place. Perhaps mother has sewn white cotton or cardboard squares together to make a sturdy picture scrapbook. There is a shelf too, for story books, the old favorites and mother goose rhymes and fairy tales. Reading aloud in a story book is one of the most enjoyable events in a child's day.

Where is there a more appreciative audience than the small boy or girl who begs, "Read me a story!"? Parents grow a bit tired of "The Three Little Pigs" and other favorites, but what child wearies of these characters, or is not excited by their adventures.

Mothers and fathers might pick up some tips on how to read a child's story aloud from one of the several excellent radio children's story tellers as CBC's Mary Cranan. Imitate the sound of the voices of the different characters and vary the pitch and rate of reading. Then when you finish, sometimes suggest to your child that he recall the story in his own words. Another good plan is to read two-thirds of a well-known story and let him finish it.

Words are tools, and this interest in the printed word will ease in expressing himself, all help to prepare a child to learn to read. When he goes shopping with Mother to buy groceries, let him spell out the words on the labels of the cans. If he notices a bill-board, and asks "What does it say?" tell him and then let him repeat the sentence. When a letter arrives from grandmother, read aloud bits of it which will interest him. All this is ordinary experience in connotations.

Tribute to his store of words with Radio—and even TV can never replace reading as an essential part in our civilization. Learning to read is a most important step in your child's education! So all you can to awaken the interest of your preschool child in the printed word, but do not attempt to do the work of his school teacher in the future. Parents and teachers each have their own distinctive role to play in developing skill in reading. May your own son or daughter have Happy Sailing on the Sea of Literature!

BIRZ OBSERVES BIRTHDAY

SEOUL (AP)—President Syngman Rhee shook hands with more than 1,000 persons who crowded the presidential mansion grounds today to congratulate him on his 79th birthday. He said: "All my life I have had only one objective —Korean unification and freedom. I sincerely wish to see a free and united Korea before I die."

TAX ON VESSELS

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP)—Fishing boats registered at this historic port are liable to town property tax, and town clerk L. J. Collier told an assessment appeal court that several vessels have been transferred to Saint John, N.B., to escape the tax. Vessel property is not assessable at Saint John.

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY DROPS

Frogs and snails and puppydogs' tails, that's what little boys are made of.

Seems that Mother Goose was right, too. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics agrees with her. And little girls, of course, are made of sugar and spice and all things nice.

That is if the Bureau's statistics on juvenile delinquency can be taken as an accurate standard for judgment on a question of this nature. In 1952 bad boys in Canada outnumbered bad girls nine to one.

This ratio had remained practically unchanged during the preceding decade. What had changed was the number of delinquents. It was down. Yes, down! The 1,068 boys and girls found delinquent by courts in 1952 represented a drop of 6.5 per cent from the 1947 mark.

With present-day stress on the problem of juvenile delinquency, these figures are worthy of careful note. Not only was the 1952 total away below the figure for 1942, but the downward trend was still continuing. The 1952 total was 7 per cent lower than in 1951.

There are many other figures which mean an interesting, for instance, separated parents, divorce and death formed the background in the homes from which came 19 per cent of the delinquents. That ugly statistic one as important, but it should be noted, too, that 81 per cent of the problem children came from homes where these problems did not exist.

How much the decline in juvenile delinquency is the result of changed home conditions during the decade is a question which may occur to some. In 1941 we were at war; many fathers were in uniform; many mothers were working. Or it may be that the reduction in the number of delinquents is the result of a change in the disposition which courts are making of such cases, the trend being away from strappings, indefinite detention, fines, restitution and suspended sentences and towards probation and training schools.

Ontario had the unenviable distinction of leading all provinces in the number of delinquents. With our population that was to be expected. But Quebec had only 1,089 delinquents in 1952 to Ontario's 2,589. That ought to give us pause the next time we feel an urge to regard ourselves as vastly superior to the habitant.

D-DAY FOR SAUCER-MEN

If a spaceman pops in your bedroom window next thursday morning, do not be too sure it is an April Fool joke.

One of the more intriguing explanations for flying saucers is that they have been dispatched from outer space to keep a weather eye on our atom-splitting activities.

The theory is that these spacemen have no desire to our blood on the moon—or to watch our dust obscuring sun.

They are in the role of the cautious father who, when a daughter that junior has purchased a chemistry set, p-toes to the head of the cellar stairs every half hour just keep tabs on the type of experiment which is in progress.

If investigation reveals that Junior appears likely to ecover some method of making nitroglycerine, father ets.

If the saucer-men have been keeping an accurate tab what is brewing, they may decide that April 1 is the ate on which they should imitate dad and rush down e cellar steps to confiscate the chemistry set.

For April Fool's Day is the first day of the month in hich the United States has decided to ascertain how ealthy the April 2-bomb has been growing up under bottle-eding by expert scientists.

The spacemen may decide we have been using the rong formula.

CAUSE OR EFFECT?

"Recently in Chicago," says the Vancouver Sun, "when 0 U.S. educators attended the National Conference on ligher Education, only seven found willing to sit down a panel discussion on academic freedom of the kind now ommon."

The Sun adds that "even those 29 were found to be ssentially very candid about what is actually happening to freedom of expression in this era of McCarthyism."

The Sun regards this as a deplorable situation. It is. But it strikes us it would be more accurate to regard it as a deplorable effect rather than an effect, of what in chooses to term "McCarthyism."

If the universities and colleges of the United States ave a tradition of timidly tolerating but encouraging on-conformity, we should not find that a "subtle creeping paralysis of freedom of thought and speech" had progressed to the point where only 8 per cent of the educators assessed sufficient courage to voice their views.

The healthy organism is highly resistant to paralysis.

But many U.S. institutions of so-called higher learning are nothing more than trade schools. Long before cCarthy became a senator they had abandoned that tolerant tradition for heresy, (scientific, religious, economic, political scientific), which has long been the pride of many Old orld universities.

WEALTH

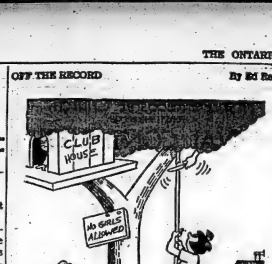
a rich man and I boast it!
Rich in friendship tried and true,
d a king's lot would be happier
If such friends as mine he knew.



a rich man and I know it;
Rich in brightest and in mirth,
d I wouldn't trade that treasure for the greatest bank on earth.

a rich man and I shout it!
Who in all this world can see re of sky and hill and valley than the Lord permits to me?

When the summer birds are pouring out their music to the sky,
Can the man whose purse is fatter hear more melody than I?

Can a hundred million dollars buy more perfume from a rose
Or get more of rain and sunshine than my little garden knows?

Let who will count wealth in figures, pages wide and columns long,
I'll count mine in lasting friendships and in hours of mirth and song.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

MARCH 27, 1934

Mayor George O. Tice and the municipal committee have made arrangements for relief work to be resumed on Zwick's Island and for an indefinite period of about 200 men placed on tools again on Monday morning. Those who will be given work called by the relief clerk at the city hall to replace men whose time has expired on that particular shift when work was stopped last Wednesday. The mayor cannot say how long the city will be able to carry on this relief work but hopes for the best.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kerr have returned to the city after spending the winter in Stirling.

Miss Jean Burgess, Reg.N. is visiting for a month at Mr. and Mrs. M. Burgess in this city.

Miss Mary McLellan has returned home from London, Ontario, where she spent two months with her sister, Mrs. J. Hudon.

Mrs. Walter Aselstine, Grove Street, entertained the members of Mrs. B. Colden's group of Christ Church Guild, at a most enjoyable euchre party on Thursday evening. The first prize was won by Mrs. Redfern.

The surprise party was held in honor of Mrs. L. W. Colgier, Madoc Road, to mark the occasion of her birthday on Saturday evening. About fifteen friends were present and the evening was passed in an enjoyable manner. Mrs. Colgier received numerous gifts.

30 YEARS AGO

MARCH 27, 1924

Here is an interesting item from our file copy at this time in May, which will be of interest to some older citizens who were boys and girls at the time. The Daisy Girls' Code Call was a weekly rehearsal of "The Cadets Picnic" last evening. The one thing is favorable to a first class presentation of this operetta on the evening of April 16th in the opera house. The committee in charge are very anxious that a large audience be present and even a capacity house would be welcome. C. Mikel, K.C. and Lieut.-Col. Ponton, K.C. will represent the Ontario Bar Association.

The first muster parade of the 15th Regiment for this season was held in the armouries last night and was in every way most encouraging. There were 79 men on parade, this being the largest number at the muster parade in years. Lieut.-Col. Lorne W. Marsh was in command.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

North of Lake Superior last week, from the transcontinental train window, we saw a stretch of country about ten miles long that had been subjected to a severe fire or sleet storm. And a more beautiful but destructive effect could hardly be imagined. It must have been a freak atmospheric explosion of some sort, for the country both before and after the ten mile run through the weird ice paradise, was deep in normal snow.

Every birch tree, except the stout aged ones, was bent in a complete half hoop, its tip laid to the ground and anchored there. Tens of thousands of slender birches, up to thirty feet in height, were formed by their branches into these strange hoops. The smallest weird wild had been blowing, and they were all bent in the same direction, making fantastic pattems, alleys, bowers of white and silver as far as the eye could penetrate into the forests.

The poplars had simply snapped off, hundreds of them, anywhere from three to ten feet from the ground, too brittle to bend with the ice. Their new jagged breasts stuck up through the silver tangle. The larger trees, birch and poplar were standing unbelt, their limbs held at abject angles.

But the evergreens, the spruce, jackpines and balsams, were the weirdest sight of all. The ice had laden their boughs without conceal ing the dark sombre color. Ah the logs were bowed over, like monks at prayer. The lower branches were hanging like shrouded arms giving the effect of reverence and subjection to the cowled trees.

All, of course, was glitter in the morning sunlight, and with the evergreens breaking the white silvery festoon of the birches, it was like the setting of a ballet.

But what of the dancers? What could have happened to the snowshoe hares that inhabit these woods, when the sudden ice flowed from the sky? Would they be trapped in their snowy forms? How about the grouse, the finches, chickadees that love?

For the ice was hard and thick, and a prison as strong as prison bars. As far as I saw in that ten mile run through the ice ballet, not a living thing moved.

Move While Sleeping

(Saskatoon Star-Phoenix)

A sleeping person is said to move about every 20 minutes. If you snore, move just once—to another room.

Prehistoric Marimba

(New York Times)

If we start with F sharp on the piano and run up five black keys we are playing a scale familiar the world over and played many ancient times. Our own Indian tribes had it, and so did—or do—the people of Java, Greece and Peru. Musicians speak of it, from its five tones, as pentatonic.

Now comes George Condominas, a French anthropologist who is exploring in Vietnam, no doubt between bits or in uncontested territory, M. Condominas found what our dispatch from Paris calls "a huge marimba made of rock," which may be four or five thousands years old. The rock is "hypolithic" schist, carved by chipping or flaking until each piece, when tapped, gives out a musical tone. French scholars have arranged these stones and played tunes on them, ranging from Debussy to "Pop Goes the Weasel."

The Parisian experts think this marimba may be the oldest known musical apparatus. Maybe, but man and his subhuman ancestors have been banging rocks together elements countless centuries ago, and a perforated bone, last used used for whistling, may go back forty or fifty thousand years. Enlarged bone whistles are found when history begins and may have originated at an early time when first men found it convenient to stretch bongs—at first, no doubt, on other men's heads for purposes. What child does not remember drawing a pencil last and making "music" with it?

The sense of music and tone may be older than speech. Men may have "sung" before they talked. At any rate, we have only to turn the radio on, play a record, go to a dance or attend a concert and are in harmony in more ways than one with our remotest ancestors: all longings for the "primal" we could meet, would understand.

'Scalawag' Political Term

(Toledo Blade)

"Scalawags" were residents of the south who helped radical Republicans carry out reconstruction after the Civil War.

"Mugwumps" were Republicans who refused support to the candidacy of James G. Blaine, but declared for the policies of the party.

"Doughfaces" were members of congress who voted with the south on the Missouri compromise.

Ever hear of the "claybanks" and the "charcoals," who opposed each other in the Georgia primaries? "Bloody shirts"? "Locofocos"? "Hunkers"? "Barnburners"?

Each had its day as a term of political derision. Some have survived. Some have died with the issue that created them.

Like "scalawag," it was useful at first because nobody quite knows what they mean. Then that catch on—as "egghead" may be in the process of doing —gives a descriptive meaning of their own.

New Wealth At Meat Cove

(Sydney Post-Record)

Meat Cove, on Cape Breton Island's north coast has been discovered by a mineral exploration executive as the location of an important mining potential found to date in the province's mineral wealth on the island.

Reports have been of "intense sulphide mineralization" in the Meat Cove area.

On the way Meat Cove looks like a lonely and remote spot, located around a corner on the coast from Capstick on St. Lawrence Bay where the island's most northern road ends. However Meat Cove may have been named in the first place it is apparent the name will not be inappropriate and will take on a new significance if future mining activity follows the trail the operators bringing home the bacon.

Conservation Briefs

A series of little known facts about conservation, under the heading of "Conservation Briefs" will occupy this space weekly. These briefs are being written by the Moira River Conservation Authority to let you, the people, know what your Conservation Authority stands for. The first appears today.

Did you know that the Moira River Conservation Authority is made up of three representatives from the constituent municipalities of the Moira River Watershed? It is an organization not wholly by the elected representatives of the people. In other words, the progress and success of the Authority depends on the support given it by the people of this valley. Although the Government of Ontario contributes handsomely to the different programs which the Authority is undertaking it does not have any jurisdiction over the administration of the Authority. There is but one representative of the Ontario Government acting in the capacity of member of the Authority. This representative is more in the position of adviser than anything else. The smooth functioning of your Moira River Conservation Authority is a tribute to the men, who as your representatives, are serving on it.

Finn Customs Explained

(Ottawa Journal)

In a bright little publication called Finlandia Pictorial, which is published by the commercial attache of that land, we come upon some fascinating glimpses of life in that country.

The manners of the Finns stays the writer of the Finlandia piece "are shrouded in mystery"—but not any longer to readers of his article. The Finland one wants to do as the Finns do is shaken hands with frequency and enthusiasm. Introduced to a stranger one bows and mention his name, and when introduced to shake hands. "Please don't uncertain", we are told, but it could be for money or even for politics.

There are instructions about behavior at teams for men and ladies at formal dinners, about the use of names. If in Finland you go to a crayfish party the secret is exulted:

Always commence with the crustacean's left leg and don't forget to save the tail to be washed down last with a healthy swig of snaps!"

Seagull, it is explained, is colorless and looks harmless, and taken carelessly can blow the top of your head off. Finlandia tells us that having washed down the tail of the crayfish with snaps you wash down the snapsi with a large draught of cold beer. That is the end of the party.

And then in the matter of eggs, which are "ovum" in Finnish, and we quote again, (and in case anybody cares) "is one of the rare Europeans in which you can eat the egg-cup with the narrower end uppermost! And in Finland you can eat your egg with or without snapsi.

But, returning to that formal dinner, the snapsi consumed and the glasses ready for the toasts and speeches, which are "more or less the clipsoof on each person's left of the boss normally gives a speech of welcome, to which someone else is just to get things rolling and this person in his finish etiquette adds this instruction:

"Don't be afraid of making too long speeches. That is the main thing in Finland"

Now there we really have something! A country where there's no such thing as too long a speech! I really must go to Finland that some of our public-men (and indeed women) learned the tricks of the trade.

She May Have Double Vision

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

The wife of a padre in the United States forces in Germany is reported to see two corneas, one belonging to her husband and the other belonging to a sergeant, were successfully transplanted.

We hope that under this visual arrangement they will be able to see eye to eye. If the colonel and sergeant do not always see things the same way, when in the head of the padre's wife, will feel that it is only fair that it sees things that the husband's eye does not.

There was once a very clever comedy called "A Pair of Spectacles" in which it was said that there were actually two pairs of spectacles, one pair being worn by the other rose pink, and if the old gentleman put on the pair with the pink lens he saw everything rose around him, or thought he did, and if he wore the pair with the pink lenses he saw everything was rosy. It would be very awkward if the padre's wife saw everything as rosy with the colonel's eye and everything black with the sergeant's. If they both are in harmony she should be an ideal partner.

SOMETHING GOOD FOR POOR NERVES

A couple of decades ago the poor souls with "weak," "sensitive" or "highstrung" nerves, that is, people who craved exceptional consideration as privileged persons apart from the crass majority, were addicted to bromides and chloral or the analgesic drugs (pain relief-ing drugs) like fiasse deadening) drugs.

Dr. Brady

Today people who resort to nervous imposition are addicted to barbiturates — amytal, barbital, dial, ipral, neonal, nostal, or, phenobarbital, secunal etc., and/or the same old sense deadening analgesic drugs.

There are conditions or circumstances in which the physician should prescribe barbiturate, or analgesic drug. That is none of our business here. This is a health column, not a doctor book. It is my province to instruct and advise how to keep well.

In one way it is fortunate that my popularity with the profession is down to zero. I don't know what I think, without loss of popularity. So I advise you to have no truck with a doctor who prescribes or sanctions the use of any of the dopes mentioned, for your "nerves."

If it is your object to insure a regular supply of dope you will resent and reject my advice.

All diagnosis of weak, worn or exhausted nerves is no diagnosis at all. It is merely a convenient way for the doctor to avoid telling you honestly that he doesn't know what ails you. In my experience he knows he can get away with it, because you are an ignoramus or a Yankee Witzacre.

Now I must confess I don't know of any medicine which betumbs your senses as these analgesics do yet does no harm.

But I do recommend to every such addict something which can do no harm in any case and will almost certainly steady, tone and strengthen the nerves and every other individual cell of tissue of the body. That is better nutrition.

I recommend specifically an optimal daily ratios of calcium and D, and an optimal ration of vitamin B Complex. Remember, these are not medicines. They are foods which are essential for good nutrition and general functioning of living. Your regular, daily diet should supply adequate amounts of them but probably doesn't.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHAT OF THE FUTURE?

When Samuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, was a elderly man, a testimonial was given him in New York City. The Transatlantic Cable had been laid and it was possible for the first time to communicate with distant parts of the world.

When in the midst of this meeting the telegraph instrument installed on the stage began to click and messages rolled in from different parts of the world, people were almost as overwhelmed with wonder as if a divine apparition had suddenly appeared in the sky. In fact, many held that such momentous inventions were supernatural in character and depended upon powers above those of the physical world. What would these modern people have said if a radio set could have been turned on that night? They had heard the words, "Corne in, Tokyo!" Or what would they have thought of TV programs being transmitted by coaxial cable across the continent? Or, for that matter, what would they have thought of the idea of wireless telegraphy and the broadcasting of images over long distance through the air?

What can we expect of tomorrow? We have no idea; but of one thing we can be sure—if the spiritual life of humanity does not keep pace with its scientific and mechanical development, the race is doomed.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SINGING MIND

How many a time I have looked into the face of a person and imagined that a song was being sung in that mind, so vibrant and full of cheer it seemed to be. There was a lit of happiness that do not have signs on the outside, telling what sort of words or music they are carried on inside. It's the same with people. You have to get within a mind before you can tell what is going on.

This thing we know. If there are peace, good thoughts, and an abundance of faith, one cannot help but feel that kind of a person has gone far in the mastering of life. Worries and fears are banished in such a one, and all fears will be faced with confidence, for they can be overcome.

If you have a singing mind you will go to your bed at night assured of rest, relaxation, and pleasant dreams. I came across a fine little sentence in "The Sentimental Journey" by Laurence Sterne—a book written long, long ago, but which has lived. Sterne said: "A man who values a good night's rest will not lay down with indigestion in his bowels, can help it." When we go to bed happy, with no ill feelings toward anyone, with no fear of worry, with no other remedies to make us sleep, There will be a song in the mind!

The rules for a happy and successful life are not complex. But you will find them in the Psalms of David, and in "The Sermon on the Mount." But you will easily suspect thyng in the faces of those who have a song in their hearts! Little do we realize how we are influenced by others, and how happy we are made by lending a hand helping the other fellow up.

Vachel Lindsay treasured America, seeking to arouse whole communities to sing poetry, and he demonstrated it in his own singing. He had a singing mind and heart.

Actual People

Many philosophers have pointed out man is the only animal that laughs. Does this mean that those studio audiences that howl every time the comedian mentions the price of coffee are made up of actual people?

New Problems

(Hamilton Spectator) -

Just as we think we have all the world's problems lined up mentally we come across one we hadn't even known about—the unemployment of Siberian Union of Australia is complaining because the pockets on their summer shirts haven't flaps.

Student Personalities At Albert College

A weekly feature of interesting facts revealed in interviews with those young undergraduat s who hail from countries beyond the seas.

By GEORGE H. CARVER

A chance conversation in an immigration office in Hong Kong started the Canadian education of an intelligent young Chinese, now a first year student at Albert College.

He is nineteen-year-old Dan Chan, whose native name is Chan Yee Kuin, a son of Mr. Henry Chan (Chan Kem Hung), manager of shipping interests that operate the vessels running between Hong Kong and the famous Macao.

Mr. Chan happened to visit the Canadian Immigration offices in Hong Kong on a business matter. He chatted with the officials there, and during the course of the conversation, the matter of young Dan's education came up.

Mr. Chan said he wanted to send his son to the United States or Canada to further his education. One of the officials, unfortunately Dan did not know his name, but who, apparently came from or knew about this part of Canada, suggested Albert College.

Mr. Chan took his immigration friend at his word with the result Dan became a member of the college student body last year.

DAN CHAN

SPLENDID TYPE

Dan is another of the splendid types of students from foreign countries at the college. He speaks English fluently thanks to a year of private tutoring in his native Hong Kong. A foresighted father intent on giving his son a western education saw t ch that Dan had an outstanding command of the English language before embarking on his educational life here.

He attended a Chinese public school where naturally no English was spoken. Later Dan went to the Diocesan Boys School, one of the best educational institutions in Hong Kong, where English was taught.

"But" said Dan "the boys very rarely spoke the language outside of classes, so my father sent me to a private tutor for a year."

The young Chinese is spending his first year in Canada. He was surprised and "very much pleased" with his reception here and has formed a high opinion of Canada and Canadians, especially as represented in Belleville and Albert College.

But occasionally he gets a wave of nostalgia and would like to see his home, two brothers and a sister and his parents in the colorful environment of Hong Kong.

FLED BEFORE JAPS

Dan, with his family fled before the Japanese Red invaders during World War II and lived for some time in Chung King and Canton.

Dan's father would like to see his elder son a member of the legal fraternity, but he shook his head when asked if the life of a lawyer appealed to him.

"I do not know" Dan said in his precise English." It means a lot of study and work and I do not know if I am suited to the law".

Secretly, Dan has a strong trend towards the engineering profession. He is of a mechanical turn of mind, and thinks he would be happier as a mechanical engineer.

No matter what the ultimate decision may be, Dan will complete his education at a Canadian university.

He spends a lot of his spare time playing tennis, badminton and swimming. He hopes to return to Hong Kong for the summer vacation, but definitely will return to Albert College in the fall.

Guest speaker for the banquet was G. A. McMillan, Canadian sales manager for Massey Harris-Ferguson Ltd.

Over 400 Delegates Attend Belleville Presbyterial Meet

The annual meeting of the Belleville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church of Canada was held in Grace United Church, Napanee, on Wednesday, Mrs. C. D. McLellan, Napanee, presided throughout the day.

In her opening address she said as she came to the end of her term of office, she would like to leave with the delegates her creed, "I believe in the W.M.S." and she gave three points bearing out her "creed"; world-wide outreach; God cares for us; He wants us. He cares for every living soul on this earth. Mission—We have to tell others; we have to let them know there is a God who cares and loves them and wants them to live more abundant lives. Sacrifice—in any organization worth anything if it does not make demands upon its members?

BEST INFORMED

"Our W.M.S. gives us a sense of being a worth while job. It widens our knowledge. W.M.S. women are the best informed women on current events in the world." Mrs. McLellan threw out a challenge for the week ahead, to burn with zeal for the W.M.S. To believe in W.M.S."

Miss Dorothy Young, home organization executive secretary, was loaned to the Presbyterial by Dominion Board for the day. She gave a most interesting address on "The Christian Mission," the theme of the rally. She said "people have been trying to define the phrase 'Christian Mission,' and we urge such people to continue to think about it. The rally's definition is centred around racial sharing and unity. We need full time Christian Service representatives, people who are set apart to spend their lives in the service of the Christian Church—Evangelists. She mentioned numerous missionaries who have become convinced that they have now found a vocation where they can give of their very best and realize the unity of closer fellowship with Christians all over the world and of God our loving Father."

Mrs. Harry Coote Smith, secretary for India, and a short-time missionary nurse in that country, conducted a "buzz" and here the delegates were given an opportunity to present their problems and make all inquiries they wanted; here they were able to get their correct first hand information from leaders who know.

C.G.I.T. SEES FILM

The C.G.I.T. were invited to see the movie film, "People Without Fear," shown at the supper hour for the executive; this same film was shown again to the assembly. Mrs. Smith wore a lovely Indian sari made of the finest printed silk and a genuine cashmere shawl. This costume was most attractive, especially to the younger members.

During the evening session, Mrs. Smith showed colored pictures of that beautiful country, India, and of work among the Christians in hospitals and schools. She had been in India only three years but had learned to love the country and the people, she and her husband have many friends there and they await enthusiastic to present the needs of the Christians of this fascinating country.

The literature department of the W.M.S. has been booked for the study of India. Mrs. Pierce Jones, literature secretary, introduced books and exhibited many throughout the day.

WORSHIP SERVICE

The worship services of the day were taken by members of the conference branch executive; Mrs. Albert Empey, "The Individual in the Christian Mission"; Mrs. W. B. May, "Unity in the Christian Mission," and Mrs. T. S. Denyes, "Commitment to the Christian Mission."

Mrs. B. M. Black, Grace United Church organist, gave the fastidiful service at the organ all day most willingly and cheerfully. Mrs. Black, under the leadership of Mrs. R. N. Wightman, led in the evening service of praise and sang the beautiful anthem "Lovely Appear," by Gounod.

Mrs. S. W. Spafford, president of Conference Branch, conducted a most impressive "In Memoriam Service" for the 36 members of W.M.S. who have died during their service.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The installation of officers was conducted by Mrs. Harry Coote Smith. The solemn promises were made to study and work for the kingdom of God. # Theatre Guild Presentation In Final Rehearsals

The presentation of the Belleville Theatre Guild for April 7 and 8 at the Collegiate auditorium will be a hilarious comedy, "You Can't Take It With You". Rehearsals are nearing the final stages, and it is generally felt that this production should exceed, in entertainment value, all the previous plays done by the local group.

Under the direction of Syd. Rose, the cast have been working to make this event one that will long be remembered by the theatre goers of this city and district.

Bert Simpson has the role of Martin "Grandpa" Vanderhof, the merry old zany who rules the crackpot roost of this Sycamore family; Betty Sadler portrays Penny, an accidental playwright whose writing career began when a typewriter was delivered at her house by mistake; Lee Jouvard will be seen as Boris Kolenkov, the ballet master and Eazle, the crafty card-and-maker who has been Boris' pupil for a mere eight years, will be Janet Robertson.

Paul and Mrs. DePiana, who manufacture the fireworks in the basement will be played respectively by Joe McKay and Carson Elliott and Bill Kelly; Lee Jouvard will be the part of Ed, who is a printer when he isn't playing the xylophone.

Hazel Chalk and Murray Irwin will supply the love interest as Alice and Tony, while Tony's digitalem-up man, who wander into the mad Sycamore household for dinner on the wrong evening, will be played by Gladys Simpson and Ted Schwab.

Other important roles will be portrayed by Miriam Bishop, Betty Barrie, Albina Rad and Don Rose.

The tickets for the production go on sale at several downtown locations as well as all Guild members.

Holmes on behalf of the executive.

Mrs. C. A. Mooney, secretary of Mission Bands, gave two groups of Affiliated Explorers and 34 Bands. Mrs. P. Jones gave reading awards to six auxiliaries who had done the most reading.

Mrs. Charles Hyde read the report of the nominating committee, expressing deep appreciation and sincere thanks to the guest speakers, retiring officers, the Session and Official Board of Grace United Church and the caterers; also officials of Trinity Church for the loan of their room for the discussion period in the afternoon; the organist and choir, the hostesses who served most appetizing and plentiful meals and to all who had contributed in any way toward the wonderful success of the annual meeting.

It was, indeed, a day well spent. The church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers and the spacious auditorium was filled to capacity. Well over 400 delegates and visitors from 69 Afternoon Auxiliaries, 11 Evening Auxiliaries and 27 affiliated societies with a membership of 2,210 attended.

'Education, What Is It?' Fine Discourse Heard at W.I. Meeting

Pine Grove Women's Institute met for its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Finkle with the president, Mrs. H. Detlor, presiding, and 21 members in attendance.

It was decided to make donations to the Red Cross, the Sidney Township Citizens' Temperance Campaign, and also to the Canadian Friend's Service Committee as requested by the provincial president, Mrs. Gordon MacPhatter of Gwen Sound.

It was also decided to have films and a pie social on April 14 at Marsh Hill School.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

Mrs. E. Horton, convener of education, took charge of the program. Dealing with the topic "Education," the convener said "What Is Education? An educated person is a well-informed one, capable of clear reasoning, and able to form all conclusions which will be beneficial to himself and to the world. We live in an age which puts great store by education. It is not necessary for one to be a college or university graduate to be well educated. Some of the world's most famous men and women had no education except that derived from reading and travelling and listening to others.

"Adult reading habits are formed in childhood. Children should be encouraged to read worthwhile books at home and in the school. Education week is to encourage Canadians to examine their educational system and to help in its development. Your interest and ideas are vital to the improvement of education in Canada.

"We should encourage young people with teaching ability to consider teaching as a profession. Support should be given to school education in schools. More emphasis should be put on spelling. British Columbia is strong on vocational training for farm youth.

EDUCATIONAL MEETINGS

"Country folk can no longer spend the winter as a peaceful period of relaxation. There are too many educational meetings to which they must go: Farm Forum meetings; federation and board meetings; committee and school meetings, institute and mission-ary meetings and so on. This has its dangers too. The wonder is that those who attend all or most of these don't dig themselves a nice hole down beside the ground hog and beg him to move over. And small wonder that doctors prescribe a change for many patients to combat high blood pressure, nervous conditions and stomach ulcers the result of too much dashing about and too many afternoon and mid-night lunches. Thus education carried "too far can have its disadvantages as well as advantages."

LISTENING, AN ART

Mrs. F. Lindenfield read "Listening, an Art". "Many of the wisest people in life are those who listen the most and best. Listening is a fine art for it challenges the selective process of the mind, sensitizes all conceit, and enables the listener to learn while he nourishes his intellect. Many a person has lost a good friend by failing how to make it a habit to listen carefully to talk. Always keep your eye upon the listener. You are apt to hear great things about him later."

"University Selection Problem" was read by Mrs. Kuglin.

Mrs. C. Ross gave the Current Events, which Mrs. F. Finkle noted the highlights from the Empire and Country.

At the conclusion of the meeting, refreshments were served by the social sub-hour followed.

The annual meeting will be held the third Thursday in April at Mrs. E. Horton's home. The nominating committee, Mrs. F. Heasman, Mrs. F. Finkle and Mrs. H. Detlor will bring in the slate of officers for the new year and the members will pay their fees.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

One of our tea guests last Sunday was a young officer in the Indian Army who is in Canada on a military course under NATO. He was complimenting us on the taste of the tea we brewed and after discussing the subject in detail with him, we were ever so glad we had taken care to make it reasonably good that day. Our Indian acquaintance told us that in England tea usually has no flavor because English women make it with water which has been boiling for hours and hours on the stove. "In India," he said, "we always take fresh water and bring it to a brisk boil."

Then we measure the tea one teaspoonful for each cup and one for the pot. It is steeped not longer than three minutes for the best brew with the really fine flavor." Where, oh, where, we thought, tea does come from India, so the Indians should know how to make it.

Incidentally, this is a far cry from Arthur Godfrey's recipe of two teaspoonful per cup, one for the pot and steep-for five minutes. If your tea and coffee haven't had a full flavor recently, maybe you have been guilty of using water from the hot water tap or from a boiling kettle to save time.

GIFTS FOR GIRLS

If you have a little granddaughter aged two to 10, there's no gift she'd love more than some homemade doll clothes and miniature knitted garments to fit some of her own precious dolls. And we're sure you'll appreciate these gifts too, because dressing and undressing dolls keep little girls amused for hours and hours. It helps them to care for their own clothing too.

SAFETY

If you have a four door sedan and you're worried about the youngsters falling out the rear doors, you will want to know that you can buy a car-door safety device. These fasteners are not expensive and will save parents plenty of worry.

MEMORIES

We see that the Duchess of Windsor has completed the book on her life story. This should be a feature in the current book "Come With The Windsors" by Charles Murphy. Brody says her book is now in a vault for safe-keeping and it is arranged that it will not be released until 25 years after the death of the Duchess.

Uncle Frontenac says he heard a fella say that it used to be hard enough to keep body and soul together without have to keep body and fender together.

THREE TUNISIANS EXECUTED

TUNIS (AP) — Three Tunisians today were shot to death by a firing squad for the Jan. 23 slaying of three Moslem police agents at Mokmine. Four others who took part in the attack in which several terrorist were wounded had been sentenced to death, but their sentences were changed at the last moment to life imprisonment.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WHAT'S TO BE DONE WITH A LAZY, IRRESPONSIBLE WIFE?

"I'm a man of 27, and of the four years I have been married, two were spent in service and the last two trying to make a home with my wife.

"We have a little girl two years old, but my wife never wanted her. I was very happy when I knew we were to have a child, but she tried every way she could to get rid of it. Now, she is jealous of the child and uses her in every way she can to get me to leave.

"My wife is a very lazy woman, and she won't lift a hand to help either our small home properly or even to take proper care of the baby. Half the time I walk around for weeks with the same clothes on because my wife is too tired to wash or iron. The people where I'm employed are beginning to gossip about how dirty I am and about how dirty my wife and baby are when I see them in town. I've tried to reason with my wife about this but its no use. She just too lazy to get out of bed and work.

"At the place where I'm employed I met a girl who has been very good to my family, even giving us money to help us get started, and she not did our washing and ironing for nothing. I'm very much in love with this girl and think she loves me, too, but neither of us has said anything about this. She would make a man a wonderful wife.

"I've thought of leaving my wife many times, but she always tells me that if I leave her, she will teach me little and I'll be sorry, and I certainly don't want that. She takes me this and if I leave her she will bring this other girl into it. She just holds a club over my head, saying I'll be afraid to make a move because she knows I don't want any trouble.

"I would like to have some advice about all this because I'm getting to where I can't take much more. I'm getting run-down and nervous and I want to live and have a life like other married people do."

Now anyone who has been a regular reader of this column, knows, I'm sure, that I do not easily advise people to break up their marriages. At the same time, I certainly can see no reason why they should put up forever with a man who is too lazy, or too selfish, or too irresponsible, to make any contribution at all toward maintaining a normally happy home and a normally congenial marital relationship.

After all, a bargain is a bargain, whether it's business or in marriage. Every business deal is based upon two parties promising each other to deliver certain things, and every marriage is based upon two people promising each other to do the things necessary to create a successful marital partnership. If a promise is not kept in business, the deal is off, and if marital promises are not kept, I see no reason why the marriage should not be off also. Neither a business nor a marriage can be expected to go on where confidence has been lost. No one-sided deal in any field can endure indefinitely.

What, then, is this man to do? What is he to do, I'd seems to me, is to lay down the law to his wife once and for all, making it quite clear that he has reached the limit of his patience and endurance, and that unless she turns over a new leaf he will take steps to end the marriage. The most effective way to do this, of course, would be to keep anger and bitterness out of it; to say nothing in the heat of passion, but to be as calm about it as possible. The calmer he can be, the more she is likely to believe him.

Then he should give her a reasonable amount of time to demonstrate whether or not she intends to start carrying out her proper responsibilities toward himself, their child and their home. If she fails to do so, I think he should then consult a competent lawyer and find out just what he could about the child if he were to divorce his wife. It might easily be that since this woman has shown herself so shiftless, so oblivious to her natural role as wife and mother, the husband might win custody of the little girl. Certainly such a woman could possibly be considered a proper parent to have the child.

It seems to me it is high time this man asserted himself. Much of the trouble may be that he has failed to do so before, and so his wife feels she has the upper hand. For him to let her see that she hasn't may be the very thing needed to bring her into line.

Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE E. POWELL

Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour

Pass me not, O gentle Savior,
Hear my humble cry;
While on others thou art calling,
Do not pass me by.

Let me at a throne of mercy
Find a sweet relief;
Kneeling there in deep contrition,
Help my unbelief.

Trusting only in thy merit,
Would I seek thy face;
Heal my wounded, broken spirit,
Save me by thy grace.

Thou the Spring of all my comfort,
More than life to me,
Whom have I on earth beside thee?
Whom in heaven but thee?

It was William Howard Doane, the famous composer of gospel hymn tunes, who started Fanny Crosby off on these beautiful verses of prayer and consecration. He had jotted down the title line and liked it so well that he asked the blind hymnist to build a poem upon it.

Many of Fanny Crosby's hymn-poems began that way. Sometimes her inspiration came from Bible verses (she had memorized hundreds of them as a child when blindness kept her from some of the play and games which other children enjoyed), and sometimes from a new bit of music turned out by one of her composer friends.

When the new hymn was published it was hailed as one of the best in the Crosby list and Mr. Doane wrote the music to it. During the world. In 1874, less than half a dozen years after it was written, the hymn was being used day after day by Dwight and Ira Sankey in their soul-stirring revivals.

Mr. Sankey used to tell a touching story of how a man in one of his evangelistic audiences was led to become a Christian by the singing of "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Savior". The man himself supplied the testimony. He said;

"My conversion was all through that hymn. I was working on the canal at C—and there was a meeting being held at the Mariners' Chapel, nearby. The words floated out over the water and from the way I was working I could hear them plainly enough. When they sang the lines

Do not pass me by',

I thought of how terrible it would be if the Savior were to pass me by. Then and there, on the bank, I prayed aloud: 'O Lord, do not pass me by'. And He didn't pass me by. I am saved."

HOW TO ADDRESS FORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Please tell me exactly the correct way to address my formal wedding invitations, outer envelope and inside envelope.

(A friend of mine told me that the inside envelope should be addressed with the first names or names; for example, "Mary and John." Is this correct?)

2. When should these formal invitations be mailed?

Bride-to-be

1. The outside envelope of a formal wedding invitation is, of course, for mailing, therefore it carries the complete name and address. No abbreviations, except the "Mr." and "Mrs." The usual form is 4 lines: (1) name; (2) street-address; (3) city, with Zone Number; (4) state, spelled in full. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Brown
135 Fourth Avenue
Haven 7
New York

The inside envelope (the flap not gummed) is addressed with only the title and surname. Like this:

Mr. and Mrs. Brown

Occasionally, however, for very personal reasons, exceptions are made in this formal addressing of the inside envelope. For example, if very young children in the family are being invited to the wedding, their names may be written on the inside envelope, under the names of their parents. (This may be what your friend refers to, but it is an exception, not a rule.) Like this, for example:

Mr. and Mrs. Brown
Anne, Joan, Peter, and Thomas

Another personal exception is when the invitation is being sent to a relative very dear to the bride or to the groom. . . then on the inside envelope may be written "Aunt Katherine and Uncle Arthur," or "Grandmother and Grandfather". In generally speaking the formal name should be used.

Today formal wedding invitations are very often mailed four weeks before the date of the wedding. This is very practical particularly in the busy-with-weddings months, when the bride wants to make sure that the guests "save the date."

FORMAL WEDDING INVITATIONS SHOULD BE MAILED

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We have quite a few neighbors to whom we are particularly devoted, and naturally we are inviting them to our daughter's wedding in June. It seems to me that it would be a nice and very natural gesture to hand the invitations (they are formal, engraved invitations) to these neighbors, but my husband and our daughter, the bride-to-be, think they should be mailed. What is your advice?

Bride's Mother

I agree with the advice of your husband and the bride-to-be. It is by far the best form, the right and dignified form, to mail these formal invitations.

As Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

You are a very good friend of mine and if you don't know it I read up on you every day. . . I am trying to reduce and I often use skim milk powder (reconstituted) for cooking and often as I have made it I have never been able to get it to beat stiff. Is there any way or thing that I can add to it? I have tried adding some lemon juice and more powdered milk, but it still won't set up straight in peaks. How many calories are in one whole order of fish and chips. I don't eat the whole order, but half of it, and the old man eats the other half. . . I thought I would tell you what I do with a bunches of celery. . . first I take all the leaves off and wash them, and put them in a warm oven in a pie plate and let them dry out. I call it celery salt, because I crush them to a fine powder, and use in about everything I cook. It's wonderful. The outside stalks and centre are used in salad or soup, or in dressing, but not always for chicken or turkey. I have the dressing with roast pork, not in with it but in the frying pan and I use the drippings off the roast to fry the stuffing in the frying pan. It's delicious. I use breadcrumbs. I put the hard bread through the chopper. It makes lovely loose stuffing, not soft and gooey. I forgot to say I use the nice celery stalks for stuffed celery.—Mrs. E. B.

ANSWER:

Thank you Mrs. E. B. You are certainly efficient with every bit of celery. . . there are precious vitamins and minerals and you conserve them. Try again on the skim milk topping will you, following my suggestions below:

SKIM MILK WHIPPED TOPPING

One-half cup ice cold water, 1 tablespoon cold lemon juice are put in the chilled bowl. Then sprinkle 1-2 cup skim milk powder, and beat with rotary beater. Add 2 tablespoons sugar and 1-4 teaspoon vanilla. If desired, add 1 teaspoon gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water five minutes. Then pour over hot water to dissolve gelatin. Cool it to room temperature, but before it sets add it to the water and lemon juice in cold bowl before sprinkling milk powder on top. It will help thicken and support the whipped topping.

QUESTION:

First let me say that your column is definitely a-must...in our house . . . thank you so much for your big help in the cooking problems. Please take care of yourself as we are always looking forward to your wonderful column and can you tell me where I can get a book that will list calories of all foods correctly! I have two cook books which have some of the foods, but they differ, and I am a regular(no sugar) 50 calories. The other says 100. For bread one says for white bread 3 1-2 thin or 2 1-2 by 1-4 to 50 calories. The other says 100. Also I wondered about cookies. I make icebox cookies about three inches around with some chopped nuts in. How many? How many calories? Also peanut cookies. I do not want a reducing diet as I am not overweight but I would like to plan my meals, so I can stay as I am, or not more than a few lbs. more. I would like to eat a little cake and pie occasionally but would like to know just how much. I am a person 59 years of age, 5 ft. 3., and weigh about 120 lbs. How many calories per day would be sufficient to take. I do not work outside, but keep busy taking care of my home.—V. W.

ANSWER:

Smart gal, you, V. W., and thanks for the lilting note. I'm feeling fine and think I can carry on for another 20 years or so—and that, do? You could buy "Food Values of Portions Commonly Used" by Hughes & Church for $1.80 from Mrs. Bowles, 24 N.E. Corner, 7th and Delancy Sts. Philadelphia 6, Penn. Or write Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., Head Office, Ottawa, 4, for their free booklet "Overweight & Underweight". One-half medium-sized grapefruit has 60 calories. One slice of white bread, bought sliced, contains 75 calories. Since you are 5' 5" you can afford to go as high as 124 lbs. and still be slim. It's difficult to gauge what calorie content you can get here. Try Bran-Chat will allow you the little cake and pie you want. If you lose weight on that raise it to 1800 or higher until you hold your weight constantly at 120 or 122 lbs.

Noted Journalist To Speak Here On Bond Drive

DR. FRANK KINGDON

Dr. Frank Kingdon, noted radio commentator, journalist and author, will speak tonight, at the home of Kenneth Shouldice, chairman of the Belleville Israel Bond Committee. Dr. Kingdon will speak in behalf of the $500,000,000 State of Israel Bond Drive currently being conducted in the U.S. and Canada.

He is a noted radio commentator and in 1946 the Newspaper Guild gave him its Page One Award as the outstanding liberal commentator on the air. Dr. Kingdon is now a columnist for the New York Post. He recently wrote "The Architects of the Republic," a study of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt. Among his other books are "That Man in the White House," "When Half-Gods Go" and "Our Second War of Independence."

The new bond issue will enable the flourishing new democracy of the Middle East to launch a vast expansion of industry and agriculture during the next crucial three years. It will provide the necessary capital for the integration of 600,000 additional newcomers to Israel and enable them to be absorbed into a productive, self-sustaining economy built along the most modern lines. Israel's Independence Bond issue is designed to help the Jewish State to add economic independence to the political independence it has already achieved.

22 Institutions Approved As Mortgage Lenders

OTTAWA (CP) — A total of 22 institutions have been approved as mortgage lenders under the government's new housing laws, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation announced Friday.

The new legislation, which reduces down payments on new houses and raises the loans ceiling and interest rates, went into operation last Monday.

It allows chartered banks to enter the mortgage-lending field for the first time under a mortgage insurance scheme. Ten of Canada's 11 banks—all but the newest, the Mercantile Bank of Canada, which is just setting up operations—were included in the list of lenders.

SIX FLEE FIRE

MITCHELL (CP)—Six persons were driven from their farm home in nearby Fullarton township early Friday when fire from a defective chimney spread across the roof and gutted the upper storey. Ground floor rooms were damaged by water and falling debris. Mr. and Mrs. W. Cari White, Carl Jr., Ila and Diane, 13; and Mr. and Mrs. James White lost their home in the blaze.

RESCUES CHILDREN

TORONTO (CP) — A young mother broke into a smoke-filled bedroom Friday and carried two of her children to safety after telling two others downstairs to get out of the house. Fireman said Mrs. Robert Amos' quick thinking saved her four-year-old son, Joel and daughter, Jody, 2, after a fire started in a mattress in a bedroom, trapping the children.

AWARDED DAMAGES

OTTAWA (CP) — William Dunbar, 42, of Iroquois has been awarded $30,000 for loss of his right leg and other injuries when struck by an automobile here last September. He lost his leg below the knee and suffered concussion which probably caused severe brain damage, a doctor testified.

Sales of Easter Seals Give Crippled Children Joyful Holiday at Camp

This camp is owned by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, complete with cabins, dining hall, staff houses, recreation hall, arts and crafts shop, swimming pool, and games to no end. The Ontario Society for Crippled Children sees that a competent staff is organized and that the camp is operated at top efficiency—this year from June 16 to September 11.

In 1953, eight children from Belleville and this vicinity were taken to Merrywood camp for two or three week periods. Belleville Rotary paid expenses for some of these children and the society paid for the balance. All transportation expenses were borne by Belleville Rotary.

It might be supposed that at a camp for crippled children, there would not be much activity, but this supposition would be wrong. At these camps the emphasis is on participation of the campers, and from flag raising in the morning to taps in the evening, camp is a hive of activity.

Arts and crafts play an important part in the program. Favors are made for the banquet night, also gifts to take home to mother.

Swimming is the most popular of all activities. Imagine the thrill when a camper passes his Junior or Intermediate Red Cross test.

Dramatics and music give the campers the opportunity of self expression, so often lacking in the life of a crippled child.

Other activities include overnight camping trips, cook-outs, camp fires, baseball, archery, square dancing, etc. All of these activities are enjoyed by the campers. The children look forward from year to year to return to camp and meet their friends who have attended on previous occasions.

When a contribution is sent to the Easter Seal fund at the Royal Bank, Belleville, on-behalf of it goes to the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and the other half to the Crippled Children fund of the Belleville Rotary Club. All of it is used for Crippled Children work. If you haven't a pink envelope, use a white one, and mark it for the Easter Seal Fund, Royal Bank, Belleville.

SIDNEY TOWNSHIP WET or DRY?

For some forty years, the sale of alcoholic beverages has been forbidden in our Township.

WITH NO ONE IN THE TOWNSHIP, MORE THAN A 15 TO 20 MINUTE DRIVE TO THE NEAREST HOTEL OR LIQUOR OUTLET IN BELLEVILLE OR TRENTON, NO ONE COULD REALLY BELIEVE THAT SIDNEY TOWNSHIP HAS BEEN ACTUALLY DRY. YOU CAN EVEN GET SOME ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGES LEGALLY DELIVERED TO SOME PARTS OF THE TOWNSHIP.

The local option law has not stopped the citizens of the Township from legally purchasing all the alcoholic refreshment they wished, whenever they wished.

THE LOCA LOPTION LAW HAS PREVENTED, HOWEVER, THE TOWNSHIP FROM REALIZING FULLY, THE ENTIRE BENEFIT WHICH COULD BE HAD FROM THE TOURIST INDUSTRY. IT HAS ROBBED THE TOWNSHIP OF INCREASED TAX REVENUE AND INCREASED PURCHASING POWER.

The Dutch Mill Inn, which is interested in this vote, paid out last year, some $25,000.00 in wages, mostly to Township residents. It paid out over $30,000.00 in food, which included eggs, chickens, vegetables and other foodstuff grown locally. These sums and others were paid out of money received almost entirely from the travelling public, NOT FROM THE LOCAL AREA.

ON THE 21st. OF APRIL, YOU, AS A RESIDENT OF SIDNEY TOWNSHIP, WILL BE ASKED TO VOTE ON THE QUESTION OF WHETHER YOU ARE IN FAVOR OF PERMITTING LICENSED HOTELS, IN THE TOWNSHIP, TO SERVE ALCOHOLIC REFRESHMENTS WITH MEALS.

Let us understand this clearly. By voting yes to the two questions, licensed hotels in Sidney Township, (Which now forbids the sale of all alcoholic refreshment) will be permitted to sell WITH MEALS and ONLY WITH MEALS such alcoholic beverages as the customer may require, providing he is of legal age.

THERE IS ONLY ONE ESTABLISHMENT IN ENTIRE TOWNSHIP OF SIDNEY WHICH QUALIFIES FOR A LICENCE AS A HOTEL.

IT WILL NOT PERMIT ANY OF THE FOLLOWING:

1. TAVERNS or BEVERAGE ROOMS
2. COCKTAIL BARS or LOUNGES
3. ANY STORE FOR ANY ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE

BEFORE YOU VOTE

Remember:

1. BOOTLEGGERS ARE MUCH HAPPIER WHEN PEOPLE VOTE DRY.
2. THOSE INTERESTED IN A DRY VOTE, CAN ALWAYS COUNT ON THE WHOLEHEARTED SUPPORT OF THE BOOTLEGGERS.

Builds Boyhood Stamp Collection Into Enterprise Making Him One Of Canada's Top Stamp Dealers

By BRUCE HOGLE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — A former Saskatchewan school teacher, whose interest in stamps as a lad led to stick out its neck to get anywhere," has built his boyhood stamp collection into an enterprise that makes him one of Canada's top stamp dealers.

Kazimir Bileski, 45, recently returned from Cairo where he bought more than $40,000 worth of stamps from the collection of former king Farouk.

Mr. Bileski, known as "KB" to philatelists, is reluctant to talk about his business but his stock amounts to 100,000,000 stamps. He has a staff of seven to help operate his business which occasionally takes him on flights around the world in search of rare items.

WORKS LONG HOURS

He thinks nothing of working a 15-hour day in his business office—a five-room bungalow behind his two-storey home in suburban East Kildonan. An efficient filing system tells him at a glance the type of stamps his buyers prefer.

The b e s p e c t a c l e d, heavy-set stamp dealer, who left Saskatchewan 23 years ago vowing to become one of the world's foremost stamp dealers, has come a long way since he first began trading stamps in the age of 12 years. He started selling them at 15, and now has a stock of 100,000,000 in his big mail-order business. He has a staff of seven to operate his business which occasionally takes him on flights around the world in search of rare items.

Cairo. Mr. Bileski became interested in stamps at the age of 12 years. He started selling them at 15, and now has a stock of 100,000,000 in his big mail-order business. He has a staff of seven to operate his business which occasionally takes him on flights around the world in search of rare items.

Not content to be idle for a minute, Mr. Bileski now has launched an enterprise that may go on for years—gathering facts about world war Canada's earliest settlers. He has also started collecting rare maps and now prizes two maps made in 1775, eastern and western Canada.

He graduated from high school when 18 and after a special one-year course "taught school near Canora, Sask. Five years later, in 1931, he left for England to make stamps a full-time profession.

RETURNED TO CANADA

After seven years in England during which he bought British and European stamps and exported them for sale in North America, he returned to Canada in 1937 and set up a "mountain of the business" in Winnipeg.

The "continuation" prospered so that he rarely has time for his hobbies of bowling and golfing. Married, he has three children.

Mr. Bileski, who no longer keeps a personal collection, specializes in stamps of interest rather than value. He will attend any auction in the world where a stamp "with a story behind it" is on the block. But he does not sell any of his own stock by auction.

Mr. Bileski says every stamp in his business is for sale. He once paid $4,000 for one of the only two stamps in existence from the first Dominion of Canada issue of Queen Victoria's two-cent stamps in 1868.

EARLY HOUSE

He paid more than that for his current pride, an 1851 Canada Queen Victoria 3-penny, picked up in England a few weeks ago. There are about 100 of these in existence but demand keeps the price up, said Mr. Bileski.

Only 12 stamps of this issue were printed on "woven" paper—rare then but common now. In the paper, the texture is uniform and there is no discernible pattern except for whatever watermark may be added. Only one of the 12 has never been used and Mr. Bileski has that one, as well as one of the used stamps.

Mr. Bileski has an autographed picture of Adolph Hitler and several envelopes addressed to him. They do not relate directly to stamps but was through a philatelist acquaintance that he secured the collection. It is not for sale. Mr. Bileski said the frosty drew of Saskatoon, interested his neighbor in stamps when Kazimir was 12. Three years later he was in business and advertised his then meagre collection in U.S. stamp

Garden Notes

Annuals Are The Answer

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Our world is now sepia toned. It has only greys, browns and black with an occasional blue sky for a back drop.

But, soon the elms, willows and grass will take on shades of rose, yellow and green, and we will long for the splashes of red and yellow of the bulbs and flowering shrubs. Even though we have a good collection of perennials we shall find by the end of June that the garden lacks color.

Then, too, most of us want cut flowers from the garden all through the summer. Annuals are the answer to both of these problems. We might go on planting the six most popular annuals or buy the plants from the florist, or commercial growers. On the other hand we can choose something different, and we can grow them ourselves.

The six most used annuals are zinnias, marigolds, petunias, asters, cosmos and snaps. If you must keep the old favorites at least try a few of the others and watch for gardens which make use of new material to achieve pleasing effects.

STERILIZE SOIL

Sterilize some soil and sand, mix in some peat moss and plant the seeds in flats an inch or more apart. In six weeks, which is just the right time to set out tender annuals, these seedlings will be sturdy little plants. Planted too early, or too close together they grow spindly and soft. Cut the soil in the flats in squares like pieces of cake. Lift out each square peat with the plant in the centre, and set into the hole you have prepared for it. Give each plant two cups of weak fertilizer solution at the time of transplanting and most of them will show no sign of setback, or shock.

Dahlias, may be grown from seed, and make handsome bedding plants. There is a new type called Queen of the Moorland. This blooms early from seed sown indoors. Will provide compact double blooms on 18-inch plants from July to frost. Very dark foliage sets off the multi-colored flowers. Unwin's ideal are general favorites and these are often used in groups in the perennial border to fill in vacant spaces. Tahoka Daisy is another annual which will make a good filler for the perennial border, or plant a row for cutting. Fernleaf foliage and large lavender-blue blooms. June to frost.

CUTTING MATERIAL

Gypsophilia, or baby's breath (Covent Garden) statice, snow-on-the-mountain and ornamental grasses make attractive additions to the garden, and are good cutting material, adding fillers, and lightening arrangements of the larger flowers.

Linaria, blooms quickly, forms a solid bed of mixed color from June to frost. The blooms are like miniature snapdragons and are fine for cutting and for beds. Plants grow 15 inches tall.

Imperial larkspurs will supply cutting material all through the summer. The spikes of bloom are thickly set with varieties of pink, rose, crimson, lavender, white, purple and variegated shades. These do not transplant well, but will stand frosts. Sow the seed as early as ground can be worked. Russell lupines are considered as perennials, but will flower the first year from seed. They make a gorgeous display of color on two and one-half to three and one-half foot spikes.

Grow annual phlox in beds, or borders. They bloom early and long, providing sheets of brilliant color on almost any kind of soil. There are three types of annual phlox, gigantea have extra large flowers and grow 15 inches tall, this is sold in mixed colors. Nanscompacta, very dwarf, 6 to 8 inches tall fine for borders and low beds. Dwarf nasturtiums should be included in every cutting garden. They thrive in poor soil and make such pleasing arrangements. The colors are rich and there is a delicate perfume. Try the dwarf ivy mixed. The color combinations are exceptional.

OTHER SELECTIONS

Scabiosa or pincushion flower makes a very fine cut flower. The plants are not particularly attractive, but plant a row in the vegetable garden and cut the long stemmed beautiful flowers for arrangements which will last and last. Stocks make a good "morning as a bedder, or as cut flowers. They bloom early and last all summer. They last well in water and have a fine fragrance. The large flowered dwarf, or smooth types are good. Salpiglossis is another annual which is not as well known as it should be. These lovely trumpet-shaped blooms have a rich velvety texture. "The blooms are finely veined in contrasting colors, good for bedding and for cut flower material.

The All-American Selections picked Floradale Beauty as the finest petunia introduced. These make colorful carpets of bloom for beds, or borders. They, too, can be had in separate colors and have a long season of bloom, June to frost. The plants grow 12 inches high and have a spread of two to three feet.

Flowering sage or salvia flames into color in June and continues until late frosts put it off. The new extra early flowering types include Fireworks, St. John's Fire and Blaze of Fire. Also try Forinacea blue bedder, fine deep blue for bedding and cut flowers.

MARMORA

Floyd R. Loveless Heads District CC

MARMORA—Floyd R. Loveless was elected president of Marmora and district Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of directors held on Wednesday evening, following a dinner meeting held at Crawford Libby's restaurant at Marmora Heights.

Also elected were: vice president, Harold Olsen; secretary, Carl McCoy; treasurer, Jack Fraser. The names of the new directors were announced at the general meeting. Among their first duties is the selection of a regular date for the monthly meeting.

MANY TONGUES

More than 1,200 languages and dialects have been counted for North American Indians.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

COURTING PERFORMANCES

Male birds, like humans, want to dress up and put on a show when they go courting. Ducks choose their partners before leaving their winter quarters, so their love-making started long ago. The "ladies" lead the way, while the "gentlemen" follow close behind.

That is but the beginning of a duck's courtship demonstrations. Scoters (Sea ducks) with the speckled Drakes with no outstanding beauty are apt to make most contortions, though the American merganser, with so many points to bring before the eyes of his lady-love, seems to go through a great many to show off his lustrous green neck, vermilion bill, glossy black back, and pure white underparts with pale pink sides. Rearing right up out of the water, he exhibits his red feet.

A mutahch presents his sweetheart with choice seeds; a hummingbird demonstrates his affection by swinging through the air like a pendulum; a purple sandpiper repeatedly lifts his wings. Much preening of feathers, posturing, "bill-dipping" or carrying nesting material are other ways in which birds show their love.

AN ADVANTAGE

Song birds have an advantage over the others in the male purple Finch has this extra attraction; his love song is a sweet melodious warble. All the same, he does not trust merely to his voice, but dances about with upstanding crest, quivering wings, and spread tail. Even the feathers on his rump are raised to show that it is a vivid pink, the brightest of his plumage. Then off he flies to a nearby tree, there to repeat his performance.

The Woodcock is no song bird, yet his love call is one of nature's most mysterious sounds. It is made by air whistling through his wing feathers as he spirals up into the sky, then descends to continue his exhibition on the ground with drooping wings and upright, spread tail.

LOVE SONG

In our prairie provinces the spring love song of the prairie chicken may be heard in the early mornings. The resonant "boom" carries for miles. Not just a pair, but a group of males take part in the courting ritual of the males, and a female may, or may not, be a witness.

Standing almost in a circle as though playing a children's game, their feather tufts are raised like horns, wings droop, and tails are raised and spread. First one, then another steps forward, pauses, inflates a pair of orange-like sacs, and with a violent jerking makes that terrifying boom.

"I bought three reels by mail order, Dot . . . but I want you to put them in!"

Why "buy it installed" makes sense in plumbing or heating purchases

You wouldn't do as the man in the picture is doing. Neither would you buy a mail order suit and then have your own tailor fit the pieces where it fit my stick.

Products which require installing skill, or which must be mixing elements, are best bought locally and as a ready-to-use basis. Otherwise, you are likely to get an expensive disappointment.

Plumbing and heating contractors belong in this class. A water closet, or sink, or boiler or radiator is useless until connected of existing plumbing or heating system. Every detail of the installation should be directed in the light of precise dimensions, capacities or special characteristics of the system to which it is attached. Only in this way can you avoid disappointment.

When you "buy it installed," you not only buy a product but also the service that product gives—which, after all, is its only value to you.

In the long run, you, it's cheaper to "buy it installed."

Let us explain exactly why it's cheaper. And let us quote you our "installed price" on your next purchase of plumbing and heating products.

Colorful National Hockey League Action Shifts To Toronto And Boston

OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK CHIPS

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A CLASSIC!

It is Stirling's night to howl tonight, and howl it will when its gallant little, or is it little?, juvenile hockey team clashes with the slurry Kincardine team in the second and deciding game of the OMH Juvenile "C" championship.

And if their team wins, loyal burghers of the village will send their throaty roars echoing over the Oak Hills to ricochet off the ice-covered stretches of Oak Lake.

Stirling could well be termed the "Sweet Auburn" of Hastings County, since, we are informed, the kitties will be put out and the alarm clock set as early as six o'clock just before the funeral exodus starts for Belleville and Memorial arena.

The village was agog today in anticipation of the biggest sports event to rouse the enthusiasm of its residents since the 1949-50 season when this same Kincardine team dashed Stirling's championship hopes in a similar series.

Russ Fryer's band of plucky packhanding youngsters are ready and "rarin" for the fray. They are seeing confidence, but not to the point of cocksureness. They have tested the mettle of their opponents, and although they feel they can take their measure, are not selling them short by any stretch of the imagination.

The Kincardine team, so we are informed, is a big, hard-hitting squad that took the measure of the best teams of its classification in Western Ontario. They'realize they have a tough proposition on their hands and a goal margin can easily be overcome. They will be battling hard all night in what should be a classic in minor hockey playoffs.

All indications point to a packed arena greeting the teams. Over 600 reserved seats have been sold in Stirling alone, while it is reported not a few supporters from the home town of the visitors will be on hand to cheer their champions to another title.

Also viewing the struggle will be members of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association executive. At least four and possibly five, representatives of that august assemblage will be here with their ladies. Secretary Jack Christie of Toronto, will represent president "Mike" Weichel, of Elmira, who will be busy making trophy presentations in Western Ontario. Other members of the official party include Albert Watkins, Peterborough; Jim Amsden, Sheriffville; Jim Whitten, association registrar, Toronto; Doug Patterson, of Stirling, and quite probably Frank Doherty, of Thorold.

Mr. Christie will officiate at the presentation of the Jack Roxburgh trophy, emblematic of juvenile "C" supremacy, to the winners immediately following the game. Members, their wives and special guests will attend a dinner being held at the Queen's Hotel at seven o'clock.

COULD BE HIT

The Peterborough Petes, their backs against the wall-however wall, face elimination tonight in Kingston when they meet the Ontario Hockeyman in the fifth game of their best-of-seven Senior "B" group finals. The Petes have lost three in a row to the smooth-functioning Oshawans, and the series could be wrapped up tighter than a miser's purse before midnight. The teams played to a tie in their first clash in Kingston but in the next three games the battling Petes have bowed to the Trackmen by close scores. They lost the fourth finals 6-4 in Peterborough Thursday night. They face a superhuman task for they have to win four in a row to cop the championship laurels.

BASEBALL

The following from Cec Perdue's column in the Peterborough Examiner anent a Central Ontario Baseball League entry this season speaks for itself:

"Plans were made at a meeting at the public library last evening under recreation commissioner Ken Robinson to seek entry in the CORL for a senior ball club from here. A players' committee was set up of Dil Clayton, Pat Callaghan, Joe Lowery and Jack McNamara, and a finance committee of Max Swanston, Claud Sherwood, Curly Albertos, Louis Yeates, Ray Tanner and Ben Swarts. The meeting cleared the air of a lot of problems and officials are quite optimistic. The CORL will be asked to allow the Petes one more week to organize and the local club will then be set with a definite entry. An open meeting of public, players and officials will be held April 1 at 7.30 p.m. in the City Hall to wrap up final details. This is fine news for senior ball fans here.

FLYERS ONE UP!

Three quick goals in overtime dashed the hopes of Point Anne squad in their Trent Valley Hockey League section finals game last night with the Trenton RCAF Flyers. The teams battled to a seven-all tie in regulation time and the smooth-passing flyboys rattled the twine three times in the extra session to tuck away their second victory in the best-of-five series. The teams meet again in Memorial Arena Monday night and the Flyers could wrap it up.

The game was the best played in the series with both goalies turning in sensational efforts. The netmen kicked out enough rubber to insulate a battleship notwithstanding the fact seven pucks flashed past each in the regular three periods. Earle Anderson's Ox Pointers have their backs to the wall and elimination stares them in the face on Monday. With the series within their grasp the airmen will come up with an all-out effort and Monday's tilt should be one for the books.

Marmora defeated Havelock 8-3 last night to win the northern section finals four games to two. The Millionaires will meet the winners of the Point-Anne Flyers series for the league title.

Leafian Hopes Rest On Lumley In 3rd Game of Wings' Series; Canadiens to Change Line-Up

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Stanley Cup semi-finals shift to Toronto and Boston this week-end with the National Hockey League champion Detroit Red Wings visiting Toronto's Maple Leafs Saturday night in the third game of the seven-game series and Boston Bruins playing host to Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

For Toronto fans, goalie Harry Lumley is the man on the spot.

The big guy with the unpredictable eye has to show the hometown fans that when it comes to stopping up a fight, and the Stanley Cup fight is a toughie this season, he can stop the hot ones.

He did it in Detroit Thursday night when Leafs won 3-1, but only after King Clancy's boys seemed doomed to drop out of the picture with the Wings 5-0 shutout in the opening game in the motor city Tuesday night.

Leafs' managing director Conn Smythe said Friday that if Lumley's goaltending improved by 50 per cent over Thursday the Leafs may get into the finals.

"This club has to prove itself yet," said Sir Simcoe. "Since Christmas, we haven't been able to sweep a two-game home-and-home series.

CLANCY OPTIMISTIC

Clancy was more optimistic; he predicted a win.

"I didn't think we looked as bad in the that 5-0 game as everybody said we did. Detroit should have had maybe three goals at the most. We could have had three, too."

The Leafs will ice a full team tonight, with perhaps the exception of defenceman Jim Thomson who missed the second game with a sore shoulder.

On the line, Sid Smith has a bruised hand and Ted Kennedy a bruised errorice and knee.

The Wings spent the night in Hamilton and will return there to await Tuesday's game. They plan a workout session mornings at Hamilton Forum.

Wing coach Tommy Ivan had no excuses for his club's defeat Thursday.

"They just outplayed us, that's the best answer," he said. "Lumley is a terrific goalie."

The only injured Detroit player, defenceman Bob Goldham who suffered a crushed finger Thursday, will be on tonight's line-up.

MOVE FORUM?

Montreal's coach Dick Irvin would feel much safer if he could load the Montreal Forum on tonight's Boston trip.

Although two games up in the Stanley Cup semi-final with the Bruins, Canadiens leave the Forum with misgivings. The Bruins are glad to get out of the place.

They couldn't win a game there during the National Hockey League schedule, five losses and two ties, and have just absorbed 2-0 and 8-1 setbacks in the best-of-seven cup series.

The Bruins left Friday night for the homey atmosphere of the Boston Garden, facing tremendous odds but hopeful that the home-ice charms will prevail. During the regular season the Bruins won four games, tied twice and lost only once.

LINE-UP CHANGES

Irvin said Friday he plans two line-up changes for game Sunday. This means that defenceman Jim MacPherson, centre Elmer Lach and winger Calum MacKay will sit it out.

Obviously chagined at the sheltacking his players took Thursday, coach Patrick had them back on the ice Friday for a stiff workout. It lasted a solid hour with no letup.

For Sunday's game Boston fans will likely see a former line reunited, Fleming Mackell, Ed Sandford and Johnny Peirson, and two defencemen together again, Bob Armstrong and Warren Godfrey.

Two players missed the practice because of injuries. Veteran Milt Schmidt had a badly swollen right hand as the result of his slugfest with Canadiens' Tom Johnson. Gus Bodnar was laid up with torn muscles in his back.

New Arena Wanted

The Sports Editor,
The Ontario Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:

May we take this opportunity to express our appreciation for your splendid sports column editorial regarding present dilapidated and antiquated arena. We, as fans, have followed the trials and tribulations of hockey in this city as far back as the time when our Belleville hockey team was sponsored by the Cities Service Company, and we are certainly concerned about its future.

Since the days of the Cities Service hockey team, and that's a long time ago, we have noted no major improvements in our local arena, except for the construction of a broadcasting booth. It seems to command a lot of effort on the part of the arena officials to even hold paint (as the looks of the inside of the arena and the broadcasting booth will testify). Apparently our arena commissioners are for the most part "money" minded and not very "sports" minded. We note with disgust that the newly elected arena commission have formed a special sub-committee to investigate the removal of the steel posts in the arena and the rearrangement of the seats. Now near sighted can our arena commission get? Did Kingston try or are Peterborough trying to remodel an old rink? Are we to assume that the arena commission feels we are not in the market for our pourcas as these other cities? How will we reach the seating capacity of say the Kingston rink by rearranging the present "planks." Where is sufficient parking space available at our present arena? We have a small space available now only through the courtesy of Labaw.

Let's not spend the taxpayers' money foolishly in a second rate conversion job of an out of date arena. Let's have a new modern facility arena built with no posts, more seating capacity, parking area and facilities for use all through the year in the form of dances, stage shows, boxing, etc. If our present arena commission cannot see their way clear to consider and project, then let's have a ballot vote on it by the people of Belleville! We are positive that the majority of the people in our fair city would not approve of retaining our present antiquated structure and would welcome a new community arena with the facilities mentioned above.

There are several favorable locations in our city for a new arena where sufficient parking space is available. We believe the plot of land behind the new Canadian Tire fairgrounds to be very suitable and also the vacant lot directly beside the Northern Electric on Sidney Street, just to mention a couple.

Let's stop and think before we spend our money this time. Do we want a repaired, out-dated arena, or do we want to be proud of a new home. Let's not take a back seat to Kingston and Peterborough. We hear remarks that our city is "sports" dead and our city fathers asleep. Let's wake up!

Yours very truly,

A. F. Miller, R. Shettler, J. Cassidy, G. W. Cherry, E. W. Rolfe, C. Wicks, H. Carr, H. A. Armstrong, M. Kirkconnell, P. W. Hargis, R. E. Wood, J. P. Darlington.

Reduce or Increase Imports Choices of Football Union

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—The future of many Canadian football players with big-league aspirations hinges on decisions to be taken today on the highly-combustible subject of United States imports.

With the game growing to the point where these strike fears more treat to Vancouver spend a total of nearly $2,000,000 a year to field championship - contending teams, the Canadian Rugby Union at its annual meeting today has two choices.

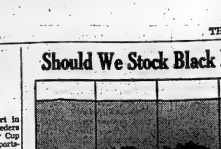
1. Cut down on the number of Americans lured by big bankrolls to give an increasing number of home-grown talent a chance to show their stuff in pro company.

2. Increase the number of imports allowed a club and stiffe the theorists of many Canadian leagues to shoot for the proffisional ranks.

The executive committee of the CRU spent most of Friday behind closed doors discussing the subject and it agreed on this proposal concerning imports:

Allow each team to carry 16 Americans, two more than at present, provided only five eight in any one game and permit three "Canadianized" Americans, players who automatically become Canadians for football purposes after four consecutive seasons in this country, for each team.

The Western conference, which helped build up an era of unprecedented interest in the sport in Canada when Calgary Stampeders came east with a high-priced gang in 1948, suggested the 10-imports-a-team quota at its annual meeting in Regina last January. It urged that only eight Americans be allowed to play in any one game and that a maximum of four "Canadianized-Americans" be permitted each club.



In addition, the West urged that prior to the third scheduled game of the season the teams should name 10 imports, not including those who have played seven or more seasons of Canadian football. The present deadline for declaring Americans is Oct. 1.

The Eastern teams, some of whom have been filling the West that they are "pricing themselves out of business" by signing "name" imports at fancy salaries, have recommended that the present eight-import limit be retained, but with three changes: Replacements be permitted for any reason of up to four imports until the last two weeks of the league schedule and that each team be limited to two Canadianized-Americans.

The other change was that each club get down to its import limit by Sept. 1.

The issue about the Grey Cup champions will be settled. What Vancouver admitted into the Western conference this season, is debatable the West may bid for the spectacle.

Should We Stock Black Bass?

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Salmar Fishes.)

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT.

In past years, shortly after the turn of the century, not a great deal was known about the intelligent management of our lakes and streams. If the fishing did not come up to expectations, the simple solution was to dump a batch of fish into the water and then stand back while nature took charge of matters.

Evidently no thought was given to the possibility that certain types of fish are not suitable for stocking in some waters. Little attention was paid to temperatures or food supply. They simply poured in the fish and let it go at that.

Of course, a great deal of damage was done. Fish were stocked which had no business being in our waters—the rainbow trout is an example, which has done so much damage in many of our bass rivers and lakes.

Today fish management has come to be a highly technical science. On the staffs of the conservation departments are widely-trained men, usually with Ph.D. degrees, whose job it is to take care of the fish in the waters of the states by which they are employed. At one night stand there probleems are many and varied. Consider, for instance, the matter of intelligent management of black bass.

REMEDY MATTERS

Some years ago I was invited to fish a bass lake which is on the property of a well-to-do Long Island fishing club. The fishing in this lake had not the opinion of some of the members, been what might be expected of a club of this kind so they stocked the lake with a goodly supply of small bass, approximately 5,000 of them.

Time went on and the bass multiplied. They ate all the available food in the lake and, most of them being in half-starved condition, they stopped growing entirely. The result was that when I fished this lake its waters were crowded with small, emaciated bass which had large heads and thin, undeveloped bodies. These little fish would take most anything you cared to feed them and there seemed to be no limit to the supply.

Realizing that they had made a mistake, the governors of the club decided that it would be fine if tank trucks and skilled labor in the attempt to put matters to rights once more. The fish were netted out and hauled away in the tanks to be placed in waters where they would find enough food to enable them to keep body and soul together. How much it cost to perform this task was done by ill-advised stocking, I am sure I don't know, but I imagine the bill was a high one.

Now the lake has a modest supply of bass which are healthy, husky fish and which have no trouble finding an adequate supply of food. Those fishing the lake do not take fish in large numbers, as they used to when the lake was overstocked, but the fish they do catch are well worth taking home.

In the public waters of the state, the number of fingerling bass or bass fry that the state can stock really is only a drop in the bucket. Compared to what can be done through the natural reproduction of the bass present in the lake waters, the number of bass that can be reared in a state hatchery and then stocked in the public waters is insignificant.

To illustrate, consider what one female large mouth bass can do toward stocking the water in which she lives. During the spawning season, the average female large-mouth bass will lay 20,000 eggs. A high percentage of these hatch out. Thus, from one bass the water is soon filled with little bass fry.

If there were no shrinkage in the numbers of bass during the years in three generations, assuming that all the little fry grew to maturity and raised families of their own, the total number of bass present in that water would be 8,000,000-000,000.

NOT ALL SURVIVE

Fortunately, not all of these little fish survive and there is a heavy shrinkage as the years go on. A study of bass fry stocked in Minnesota shows a survival of .0013 percent at the end of a four-year period. In Wisconsin 20,000 bass fry there is present in the water at the end of a four-year period of adult bass.

These figures are fairly representative of the situation in any matter where it is done. Thus, it is fairly evident that the stocking of fingerling bass by the conservation departments is impractical. After all, 20 to 2,000 is a long ratio to buck financially.

Now, when a lake of, say 150 to 200 acres is to be stocked with largemouth bass, there is a set procedure to be followed. Fingerlings, food supply and natural cover are provided if there are satisfactory, then a dozen or so pairs of adult breeders are introduced into the waters. That's all there is to it to have good fishing in a few years.

At the present time, the technical staff of the conservation department is concerning itself more with the improvement of habitat in our bass waters than with actual stocking.

After all, if the water is pure and of suitable temperature; if there is natural cover and food conditions; if there is an adequate food supply; then the bass will take over and establish themselves, even if only a few pairs of breeders are present at the time.

Trenton Flyers Defeat Point Anne To Take Game Edge in Valley Series

By GARRY ALEXANDER

In a game that could not be matched for thrills, passing plays and magnificent goaltending to spice the high score, the Trenton Flyers scored three goals in an overtime period to down Point Anne 10-7 after the Flyers had clicked for a trio of goals in the last three minutes of regulation play to cause the extra ten minutes.

The R.C.A.F. win gave them a two to one edge in games in the best of five Trent Valley Southern section finals with the fourth game scheduled for Monday night.

Both Duke DuPaul of Trenton and Don Bates for the Pointers stopped in the vicinity of fifty shots as both clubs tore into action at the first faceoff and never let up during the complete 70 minutes of play.

BOUCHER HERO

Frank Boucher, husky defenceman for the Flyers was the hero of the game, smashing goals in the extra session, the first coming after only 20 seconds had elapsed on a blue line shot that hit a skate and deflected by Bates. He got the winner 3:45 of the another long shot that Bates misjudged and fanned on with the puck rolling behind the net. At 9:29, Chris Bowman slapping in Rochon's rebound on a two man rush.

Trenton carried a 7-4 lead into the third period and for the first seven minutes of play had the situation well in hand. DuPaul kicking out a pass at a rate that would cause an adding machine to falter while his teammates passed the puck around as if it were on a string. They missed chance after chance to increase their lead with Bates running a close second to DuPaul but the three-goal edge looked mighty big until the Anderson-Williams crew bit pay dirt at 17:55. Billy Strahan sent his first comeback marker with Pat Gilmour setting up the play. Pat Gilmour's pass to Jack Judge blinked the red light again with Gilmour notching his one Strahan's pass.

The climax came at 19:49 when pulling coach Tim Williams pushed a loose puck from a scramble in front of the Trenton net to the side of the net to bring about the tie that three minutes earlier had looked impossible. Gilmour was credited with another assist as did Leo Coyer on his all-important play.

Gerry Goyer got the first goal of the game at 1.36 when he took a passout from behind the net from Williams. Bowman got that one back, blasting a screened drive that just inside the line, but it was that Bates had no chance on. Bowman made it 3-1 on a slap shot at 6.25 and banged home his second five minutes later.

Bob Hunter put the Cor Pointers back in the game when he tore down the right wing and let go a drive that got by DuPaul and then Sam Mulholland from Gerry Goyer knotted the score at 5-3 period ended.

Jack Stewart put the Commercial ahead for the first time in the game after only thirteen seconds of the middle session on a long shot that hit a defender's skate before bouncing into the net.

John Green went off for charging at 7:31 with the Flyers taking advantage of the Extra man to rap home a pair, Stewart getting the first on another screened shot. Racicot combined with Gingras for a 5-4 edge eight seconds before Green returned to the ice from his very costly sentence.

Billy Rochon got the next goal at 18.38 and before the crowd had settled back Bowman also dented the twine for a 7-4 lead at 19.05 to end the scoring.

Chris Bowman led his team with the hat trick as well as two assists, while Rochon scored once and had three helpers. Len Beatch notched a pair and one assist and Boucher had his two goals and one helper.

Kenora Thistles Win Over Japs

TOKYO (Reuters) — Canada's Kenora Thistles Friday defeated an all-Japan hockey team 4-3 in the toughest game they have had to play yet during a 10-game tour of Japan.

Period scores were 1-0, 2-2, 1-0.

It was their fourth victory in as many games.

The Japanese team, which lost 11-2 to the Canadian Thursday night, showed good fighting form in their second encounter. In the second period they played almost on even terms with the Canadians. More than 5,000 spectators watched the match. The Thistles play the same team Sunday in Kyoto.

Training Camp Notes

TAMPA, Fla. (CP) — Manager Paul Richards of Chicago White Sox said Friday Billy Pierce, Virgil Trucks, Sandy Consuegra, Harry Dorish, Mike Fornieles and Bob Keegan constitute his regular pitching staff.

Richards said four spots are still open but he will carry a 33-man staff, lopping off two to meet the May 15 limit of 25 players.

LAKELAND, Fla. (CP)—Veteran Jim Konstanty and rookie Paul Penson combined on a five-hitter Friday as Philadelphia Phillies defeated Detroit Tigers 6-2.

Hoodie Stan Jok, formerly with Ottawa and Baltimore in the International League, belled a homer for the winners.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (CP)—New York Yankees, bold hitters for nine straight innings by Don Newcombe during the exhibition season, got to him for a three-run fourth inning Friday and went on to beat the Dodger ace 8-4.

Gil McDougald, whose blast off Newcombe was the Yanks' first hit against the Dodger ace in two games, slugged the first of three Yankee homers. Yogi Berra and Gene Woodling got the others off Joe Black.

Sudbury Wolves Blank Abitibi 2-0 To Win Second Northern OHA Crown

TIMMINS (CP) — Sudbury Wolves won their second consecutive Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A championship when they defeated Iroquois Falls Abitibi Eskimos 2-0 here Friday night.

The win was the third consecutive playoff victory for the Wolves. NOHA league champ winning two and gave them the best-of-five series 3-1. They now advance into the all-Ontario final against Owen Sound Mercurys, Ontario Hockey Association Senior A champs.

Abitibi, NOHA Northern group winners, took the opening game of the series 1-0 in Sudbury. But as soon as the Wolves got off their home ice they went like wildfire, winning the second game 4-2 in North Bay and the third 6-3 in Timmins Thursday.

BOTH IN FIRST

Sudbury notched both markers in the first period Friday night. Glort Goegan and Pete Horeck were the marksmen.

Goegan, a freshman, fired the first and winning goal at 5:58 on a play with Nick Tomiuk and Bob Beaudry. Beaudry was also in on the insurance marker giving Horeck a pass for the second goal at the 15-minute mark.

Unlike the first three games of the series, which were full of tight-checking, fridgy night's contest was wide open and full of end-to-end rushes, especially in the second and third periods. Art Mousley, playing his first game of the finals for the Eskimos, was also brilliant in the last two periods to keep Sudbury from fattening the margin. He didn't have as much to do in the Sudbury nets because the over-anxious Eskimos were shooting erratically.

Referees Gus Plager of Kirkland Lake and Bill Holouka of New Liskeard called 15 penalties, 10 of them against the winners. Most of the penalties were for kneeing and elbowing. The Eskimos, however, couldn't take advantage of their extra manpower and Beaudry and Tomiuk were effective penalty-killers for Sudbury. The Eskimos had a two-man advantage near the end of the game but still couldn't get a clear shot on the Sudbury net.

While the Wolves got most from Horeck, Beaudry and Tomiuk, Gerry Labelle, Syl Ethier and Bernie Donovan were the Abitibi standouts.

German Boxer Wins 1st Fight

Gavilan Tries Whammy on Bobo

By TOM BRANAGAN

CHICAGO (AP)—Boxing insiders are wondering if Kid Gavilan tried to put the old evil eye on Bobo Olson at an ill-fated ceremony Friday in the Illinois athletic commission office.

Gavilan, the welterweight champ, and Olson got a physical going-over and instructions on fillisois boxing rules.

These were part of the formalities leading to their 15-round match in Chicago stadium next Friday in which Olson's middleweight title is at stake.

As the two men they were in the office, the Kid kept his eyes staring into Olson's. It apparently embarrassed Olson, who shifted his gaze several times.

A DIRTY LOOK

Angel Lopez, the Kid's manager, noticed the stare and earlier meeting in Chicago Olson had seemed to cold-shoulder Gavilan's attempt at conviviality.

"You know what the Kid says in that look?" asked Lopez, immediately answering the question himself. "He says this is a sample of how I look April 2—mean."

Gavilan later assured reporters he wasn't interested in working any sort of "Cuban voodoo" on Olson.

"He gave me a dirty look," said the Kid, "I give him a dirty look back."

FELL DOWN SHAFT

TORONTO (CP)—A 41-year-old night maintenance man on the staff of the King Edward hotel was found Friday crushed to death at the base of a service elevator in the building. AT THE MOVIES—Teamed together for the first time are Ruppert Alan Ladd and fet-tressed beauty Patricia Medina, in Paramount's Technicolor drama of the South Seas, "Botany Bay," playing at the Belleville Theatre. James Mason and Sir Cedric Hardwicke are co-starred with the pair.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, MARCH 25, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Some vigor, particularly if for righteous causes, religious needs, family and country, highly sponsored now by benefic Mars (the "aggressive" vibrations. Otherwise the day stresses moderation.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Keep temper and disposition cool and you will be the gainer. Wholesome and mentally stimulating activities are in order. Start day by going to church, then cheerfully follow schedule.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not an encouraging day for trying to pull in two directions at once. Self-control, a pleasant disposition most important. Don't neglect spiritual needs and family interests.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Much can be accomplished now by amenable co-operation and avoidance of bickering. However, household duties, wholesome fun advocated.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Just the day to share your sunny nature with family, friends, the needy and ill whom you can visit. It is part of everyone's duty to help others, to comfort and aid the less fortunate.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—If possible, get some needed rest and relaxation. All things may not please you but you can please by graciousness, kindly understanding. Religious services are always a need.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra)—Read Taurus and Leo today. Some days are more stimulating than others but we should know our own needs and act accordingly. Start day at church, then dispose of necessary tasks. Wholesome fun favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—The happiest and most efficient one now will be the one who remains calm, patient and attends to spiritual needs. In leisure hours cultivate a hobby, talent.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—The same indications for you now as for Scorpio and Cancer. No sense to worry or be irritable. If things seem to go slowly, it may be for your eventual good. Pray, rest, relax pleasantly.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—There's no sense in sticking to iron-bound formulas if times and situations indicate a change. Revise ideas, methods.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You may need some extra incentive today to get you up and doing the things you've postponed for some time. But don't forget this is Sunday and has its spiritual side, too. Refrain from overdoing.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Not favorable for unnecessary work but as always, essential tasks and duties should never be neglected. Enjoy children, good reading, a hobby. Watch health, too.

YOU BORN TODAY are unusually clever and talented, and can produce in an unobtrusive way. You are interesting, likeable if true to inherent characteristics. Many noted surgeons, chemists, physicians and dentists in your birth sector. In fact, you folks can achieve in many varied endeavors if you will only have faith in your ability and use your God-given gifts. Don't fear ridicule nor be too self-assertive. A modestly progressive attitude will achieve most. Develop your creative ability and artistic talents Birthdate: Pierre Simon, Marquis de Laplace, Fr. mathematician, astronomer.

'Tommy' Came to See Canada But He Wound Up in Korea

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—This is the story of a Tommy who built up a curiosity about Canada in some of the toughest spots in the Second World War and before he had much time to satisfy it found himself on the way to Korea with Lord Strathcona's Horse.

Jack Brayley

"I met Canadians overseas and heard them talk of their country," said Sgt. Victor Heath. "I wanted to see it but I didn't have much time because here I am out there."

The wounded Military Medal winner was born at West Hartlepool, Durham, Co., as his address.

The other day he picked up an old copy of an English magazine and saw himself in a picture with Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery. Heath had been in the 1940 retreat through France and the Low Countries. His outfit was cut off and captured by Rommel's Panzer formations. After the war the magazine had used German pictures of the PoW roundup to illustrate a story on Rommel's early successes. And Heath is in the picture, large as life, next to the German general who became known as the Desert Fox.

He was in the coils of Rommel's troops for a few days. So much was the confusion he escaped and joined a Canadian column, which had made a brief sortie into France before it was withdrawn. He went back to England with the Canadians and that was the first time he heard at first hand what a wonderful country we have."

A year later, as a commando, he was captured again by the Germans on the French coast. He had helped embark an old refinery but was made prisoner on his way back to the beach. This time the capture was for keeps. Before his liberation he met Canadian prisoners, first from the Dieppe raid and later from the Italian and Western fronts.

"By this time I knew I had to go to Canada and see it for myself," he said.

Having had some merchant marine experience, he shipped aboard a tramp and eventually reached Canada.

When the Korean war broke out he was ashore as a carpenter. He joined up but was first posted to the Royal Canadian Armored Corps training school.

Here he ran the physical training program, drilled new officer cadets and had an important hand in organizing a band. Finally he got to the Strathcona's and to Korea.

"I like Canada and the Canadians."

Egyptian Election Plans Cancelled In New Crisis

Mob Roams Cairo Streets Aiding Naguib's Opponents

CAIRO (AP)—Egypt's military government announced tonight that all previous decisions to conduct constituent assembly elections and abolish the ruling revolution council in July have been cancelled.

The announcement, which assured continuation of Egypt's military regime despite the opposition of President Mohamed Naguib, came after two days of bitter conflict in the cabinet and revolution council while Cairo surged with anti-Naguib demonstrations.

Instead of a constituent assembly previously promised by the revolution council, it was decided to appoint a "national advisory council" in which various organizations and professions would be represented.

TANKS GUARD STREETS

This development came shortly after the army rushed tanks and steel-helmeted troops into Cairo to disperse crowds of demonstrators attacked and beat Egypt's chief justice.

An army officer told newspaper men the justice, Abdel Razzak Sanhouri, was shot at with a pistol and killed two demonstrators, but a photographer said he was struck during the attack said two were wounded and he saw no shooting.

The outbreak came while Naguib, who collapsed earlier this morning, engaged in cloistered conversations with cabinet members and the opposition in the revolution council.

Tanks and troops took up guard stations at strategic squares in Cairo and around the British and American embassies by order of Maj.-Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, army commander-in-chief and member of the council.

JUDGE DEFENDS SELF

The army moved in after several hundred anti-Naguib demonstrators smashed their way into the council room of the supreme court (supreme court) and attacked Abdel Razzak Sanhouri, chairman of the state council and Egypt's top judge.

An army officer emerged from Naguib's house later and told newspapermen that Sanhouri fired with a revolver into the attacking crowd, killing two and wounding two others. Other reports said only two were wounded and no one killed.

(Reuters news agency reported that Sanhouri suffered serious knife wounds in the attack.)

The interior ministry issued an order banning demonstrations of any kind. Cairo was quiet except Demonstrators have kept Cairo in turmoil for the last three days. A general strike kept most shops closed and stopped all buses and trains.

NAGUIB ON SPOT

Naguib's fate remained in doubt as the struggle with cabinet and council members. The man who deposed King Farouk by the help of young colleagues on the council a month ago, then survived a coup attempt and popular pressure, faced the possibility of being kicked out a second time—now as a result of organized demonstrations against Naguib and the council's decision to put an end of the military regime by July 24.

Naguib collapsed and lost consciousness today at Almaza military hospital, but other sources said he was conscious and that his three hours later he was "weak but recovering."

Magistrate Says Youth Acted In Self Defence

NORTH BAY (CP) — A 15-year-old North Bay boy, Roger Croghan, was acquitted in juvenile court here Friday of killing his father with a 22-calibre rifle in the Croghan home Feb. 21.

Magistrate M. C. Gould said dismissed the charge on the grounds that the boy acted in self-defence when he found his father, Russel Croghan, 42-year-old railway train conductor, choking the mother.

The charge that the boy did "unlawfully kill Russel Croghan" was laid under the Juvenile Act and the case was heard in camera. But in dismissing the case Magistrate Gould took the unusual step of ordering the proceedings made available for publication.

IN PUBLIC INTEREST

"I believe it is in the interests both of the community and the boy that the facts of the case should be known," the magistrate said. "I am afraid the boy will, by many people, still be stigmatized by name as a murderer if the whole thing is kept quiet."

Testimony at the two-hour hearing, made available to the press, unfolded a story of family tension over a period of years, climaxed by the night of the shooting Feb. 21.

Mrs. Croghan testified that her husband grabbed her around the throat and she screamed for help. She said her son, who had been sleeping upstairs, dashed in upon the scene. He was partially dressed in one eye.

Mrs. Croghan said she did not know when the shot and only knew her son was there when she was upon around the table and her husband's grip on her throat and collapsed.

She said her boy then dropped the gun and said: "God, mother, what have I done?"

DID NOT MEAN IT

Later the boy told her he did not mean to kill his father and did not know there was a cartridge in the rifle.

Magistrate Gould said the evidence showed nearly that when the boy arrived on the scene, the father was choking the mother, who was frightened and nearly unconscious.

"It seems to me," said the magistrate, "if the boy, at the moment, pulled the trigger, it was still quite within the scope of self defence. On that basis I am granting the motion for dismissal."

THE WEATHER

Temperatures are expected to remain five to ten degrees below normal for this time of the year. As the centre of the cold air mass moves east of Ontario on Tuesday, occasional light snow will fall throughout Ontario and temperatures will moderate by evening. ## FOUR DIE, 1,500 SAVED AS BRITISH TROOPSHIP BURNS

One of Greatest Sea Rescues in History

ALGIERS (AP)—A first shipload of British soldiers, rescued from the burning troopship Empire Windrush, sailed for home today thankful to be alive after one of the most spectacular rescues in naval history.

Some 1,500 Britons, among them 277 women and children and 21 invalid soldiers, calmly abandoned the blazing ship Sunday morning 20 miles offshore in the Mediterranean and were rescued safely.

Four crew members of the 14,-631-ton troopship died when an engine-room explosion sent fire and choking smoke racing through the vessel.

London newspapers speculated the ship had been sabotaged but admiralty and transport ministry authorities refused to comment. The speculation was heightened because she had been through the Suez canal, where the Egyptians are waging a ceaseless campaign of harassment on the 80,000 British troops stationed there.

SAW FLAMES RISE

The burned-out bulk was reported still glowing today and the passengers and crew who were taken out of the sea lanes as soon as personnel could be safely aboard. It was under tow to be leaking.

Most of the persons aboard were British soldiers and their families on the way home from the Middle East to Britain.

The fire broke out while most of those aboard, except the crew members, were in their quarters.

"All our electric equipment went out," said the ship's captain, William Wilson. "The loud speakers would not work."

KEEP CALM

Nobody lost his head. The women and children were the first to be put aboard the lifeboats.

"After that we threw everything overboard which would float—tables, benches and planks. Then we began jumping overboard, all in perfect calm, because we knew rescue ships were at hand. We could see them steaming toward us."

Just within sight of the burning ship they had left, 200 soldiers sailed calmly aboard a British destroyer St. Kitts, bound for Malta. There they will be reembarked for home.

The others, including the husband-and-wife teams, were to sail later today aboard the British airplane carrier Triumph.

Capt. Wilson in London ordered a senior investigator, Col. W. Long, to fly to Algiers for an on-the-spot inquiry.

Opening Tuesday of Subway Expected to Bring Downtown Business Bonanza to Merchants

By TIM DICKSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's $50,000,000 subway opens Tuesday and already downtown merchants are hoping it will bring them a business bonanza.

The subway, Canada's first and North America's fifth, can carry 40,000 persons an hour from downtown Union station near the Lake Ontario waterfront, 4½ miles north to Eglinton avenue. Trolley buses then will carry northern passengers about two miles further to the city limits where it is expected many will have parked their own automobiles.

Using two to six subway cars at a time, the subway trains running 2½ minutes apart will make their entire run in 18 minutes during normal hours or 20 minutes at rush hours.

With the opening of the subway, street-cars are to be taken off north-south Yonge and Bay streets in central Toronto. Surface buses on Yonge street will handle shoppers and passengers and also will operate for about four hours in the early morning when the subway closes for cleaning.

SEE MORE SPENDING

The subway's hourly capacity of more than three times the combined rush-hour limit of 13,000 on the Bay and Yonge street-car lines will probably encourage construction of more and larger buildings in the downtown area, officials of the Toronto Transit Commission predict.

The reduced travelling time is expected to woo shoppers from outlying parts of the city. Some of the subway stations have entrances opening into downtown stores.

Many of the downtown merchants' difficulties during the five years the subway has been under construction have been caused directly by the project itself. Repeatedly the job entailed tearing up the roadway and part of the sidewalks, erection of plank walkways, and the creation of pits big enough to hold a block of houses. The din of jackhammers, clanking steamshovels, bulldozers and other heavy equipment pounded the eardrums of thousands of clerks, office workers and shoppers.

JOB FINISHED

Now the system is ready to serve the 1,500,000 persons in metropolitan Toronto.

The subway buses have revealed the subway, with its 104 English-built cars costing a total of 28,000,000, as a marvel of brightness and modern design.

The subway at subway Toronto joins the ranks of the other North American cities of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Boston.

U.S. Faces Problem of How To Keep Secrets From Russia

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is tangled in the problem of keeping its military secrets while it at the same time is letting Russia learn enough about U.S. armament to deter her from trying war.

This perplexity is involved in part in the recent discussions over how much should be revealed officially about the thermonuclear bomb tests.

The fundamental of military security is to prevent a foreign power from learning, by design or accident, information of value to that power in preparing its own offensive or defensive plans.

The fundamentals of the current rearmament program is to build a force so powerful that the enemy try will dare gamble on war. This deterrent power lies in almost every major military and diplomatic policy statement since 1950.

How do you convince the Soviet government and its military high command that war wouldn't pay off, without also telling too much detail about the nature and size of the force ready to hit them if they take the gamble?

Moscow officials are realistic, never ready to accept unofficial reports, demanding solid technical facts before they can be convinced. So far they have not—and unfortunately have been able in the past to get such information.

Knowing that helps the Russians make their own weapons in line with their gamble—given that they are, at a given time, too far behind to risk a showdown race, for war.

But if at any time or for any reason Soviet technicians decide they are even or ahead the determining factor may be weakness, though it is possible they still might be reluctant to undertake war.

French Sortie Kills Thousand Of Besiegers

HANOI, Indo-China (AP)—French Union forces broke out of their besieged mountain base near Bien Phu today and the high command said they killed 1,000 men of the Communistled Vietminh army in a counterattack outside the fortress' fringes.

French Army headquarters announced 20 tanks, artillery and infantry killed all Vietminh and encircling lines in the mountain area miles from the western line of the Dutty plain's defences.

It was the first major French counterattack since the Vietminh launched their great mass assault on the big northwest Indo-China outpost March 13.

During those days of infantry charges, French fire has killed an estimated 7,000 Vietminh troops and wounded another 9,000.

The Vietminh rushed back to regroup, presumably for more mass assaults.

'New Baghdad' Is Submerged

BAGHDAD (Reuters) — The surging Tigris river today totally submerged the ambassadors' suburb of Baghdad, capital of Iraq, with a population of 1,000,000 people.

Most inhabitants escaped to safer ground and Iraqi army teams worked feverishly to get out those who were left behind in the flood.

The army today took over control to save the city from the raging floodwaters.

Damage up to $10,000,000 has already been done in the "New Baghdad" suburb, it is estimated.

Mr. Gill will succeed T. W. L. MacDermot, 57, appointed Canadian ambassador to Greece March 10.

Mr. Ritchie will take up his post in Bonn in mid-July.

Mr. Davis is expected to replace Hon. Robert W. Mayhew, 73, as minister to Japan.

Mr. Mayhew probably will retire.

Still Seeking Counsel For McCarthy Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate investigation of charges buried by Senator Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.) and his small army officials was still stalled today by failure to obtain a satisfactory counsel for Senator Karl Mundt (Rep. S. D.) who temporarily has replaced McCarthy as chairman of the Senate investigations sub-committee while the Wisconsin senator is ill.

Mundt said he does not see how public hearings could get under way before April.

With senators John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) and Henry Jackson (Dem. Wash.), he has been sounding out various prospects for the counsel's job.

More Broiled Foods Would Improve Restaurant Meals Says Official

TORONTO (CP)—D. Leo Dolan, director of the government travel bureau at Ottawa, said today more broiling and less frying should be done in Canadian restaurants.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Canadian Restaurant Association's annual meeting, Mr. Dolan said food is a "prime requirement in the success of Canada's $300,000,000 tourist industry."

"Those motoring several hundred miles a day, as many tourists do, need lighter fare than in their every-day round of activities and heavy, fried foods are not conducive to travelling pleasure."

He commended the restaurant trade "on its good job" in improving the Canadian cuisine but suggested they use their "imagination" for further improvements.

He said the former advertising should be taken of "our tremendous variety of fresh, seasonal foods."

"It is not easy to order a shore dinner in the Province of Ontario from which the finest restaurants in New York obtain their sea food."

Mr. Dolan also suggested "a little more imagination" in naming Canadian restaurants. "Why should we have to borrow United States and European names when Canada's own history is rich with a myriad of such names as Champlain, Laurentian and Frontenac?"

REPORTED 16 ARAB SOLDIERS KILLED IN SNEAK ATTACK

Say Some Houses Also Demolished

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Jordan spokesman charged today that Israel had launched an organized attack at midnight on a Jordan village two miles west of Bethlehem. First reports said three Arab soldiers were killed and 16 wounded.

The spokesman, Maj. Mohammed Jahou, senior Jordan military delegate to the United Nations mixed armistice commission, said the Israeli attack demolished some houses then withdrew to Israel after an hour.

Israel said the attack was made on the village of Nahalin in the section of Palestine occupied by Jordan since the 1948 war with Israel.

ISRAEL RETALIATION

The reported attack raised the threat of sharp Arab retaliation against Israel. Representatives of the seven Arab states said in Damascus last night after a conference with U.S. State Secretary Dulles that an aggression by Israel against any one of the Arab States would be regarded as an attack against them all.

Relations between Israel and her Arab neighbors in the east have grown progressively worse since some 35 Arabs were killed in a clash with troops on the Jordan border village of Kibya last October.

The UN Security Council has assured Israel for the raid, which the Israelis say they regretted but blamed on a long series of alleged depredations by raiders in Israeli Jordan bases.

UN Observers To Probe Attack On Arab Village

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) — United Nations observers left today to investigate Jordan's charge that Israeli forces had killed three military defenders and wounded five in a midnight attack on Nahalin village.

Israeli officials refused to comment on the charge.

Jordan has lodged a protest with the mixed armistice commission, which has been meeting since yesterday.

Meanwhile, Israel newspapers carried an Arab radio statement that 10 men, including an Arab Legion colonel, had been killed in the raid.

The Arab radio report quoted by Israeli newspapers said the attackers mined the roads leading to the village, blowing up one Arab Legion vehicle and burning another.

Pope Celebrates Mass in Chapel For Second Time

VATICAN CITY (AP)—For the second consecutive day today concerning Pope Pius celebrated mass in the private chapel of his Vatican apartment.

Returning strength allowed the 78-year-old pontiff to celebrate the mass with his family to see Sunday after over two months of illness. Yesterday, the mass was read only by priests, either in the chapel or at the Pope's bedside.

Churchill Prepares His Statement On U.S. Hydrogen Bomb Explosions

LONDON (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill today prepared the text of his reply in Parliament Tuesday to an outburst of public alarm over fallout from the H-bomb tests.

The 79-year-old prime minister will answer the question himself personally from socialists, on whether he will intervene with President Eisenhower to end the U.S. monopoly talks with Russia on atomic disarmament.

Churchill Sunday called in Lord Cherwell, his veteran atomic adviser, for technical discussion of the American H-bomb explosion at Bikini March 1 which surpassed the expectations of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

Labor leader member of Parliament Maurice Edelman declared: "It is up to Britain to cry halt—in the name of sanity." He issued his appeal in the Labor newspaper, The Daily Herald, following Washington reports another H-bomb test will be held next month.

The executive Daily Sketch agreed "this awful experiment must be stopped."

It said a halt to the test could serve "as a springboard toward a new working agreement" with Russia on atomic disarmament.

"Let us tell the Russians that we will not explode another atomic bomb unless and until there is fresh evidence they are pressing on with their own atomic warfare experiments." The Sketch said.

"No need for an international atomic commission to work out a plan. No need for any formal agreement. Just a simple statement of intention."

"We will lay off if you lay off."

Magistrate Denies Defence Request For Closed Sessions

Witness Faints While Being Questioned by Crown

A request by defence counsel Ronald W. Cass that the remainder of preliminary hearing of evidence in the murder charge laid against Mary E. Bell be held in camera was denied this morning by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

The magistrate told Mr. Cass he had no right nor duty to instruct the press what it should write, but said he would warn reporters not to write from evidence offered. Later, the magistrate said he could not intend to introduce evidence which would affect the character of the accused.

A couple of excitement ran through the crowded courtroom when William Fotheргill, a witness, slumped to the floor in a dead faint while being questioned by the crown. He was taken to the magistrate's chambers and revived.

COURTROOM CROWDED

The fifth day of the hearing got under way at ten o'clock this morning with the courtroom filled again. According to jail officials the court was nearly filled at 8.30 with some twenty-five of the curious carrying lunch pails and boys waiting to get in as early as seven o'clock.

The hearing was abruptly adjourned at 12.30 Tuesday when defence counsel Ron Cass requested Magistrate T. Y. Wills to instruct the press to omit evidence pertaining to the "sex angle and prejudicial to my client."

Alex. Hall, Q.C., argued the ruling there would be more questions of this nature coming up next week." Magistrate Wills stated he was not the "newspaper editor" and had no control over what the press used.

Magistrate Wills said: "It is not my right, nor duty, to instruct the press what to do. However, I want to warn the press that no references should be drawn from evidence submitted."

Mr. Cass requested the court to hold the rest of the preliminary hearing in camera.

The bench said it would consider the request if sufficient authority was shown. However, Magistrate Wills said he did not intend to instruct the press what to do.

Mr. Hall said it was not his intention at any time to introduce evidence prejudicial to the character of the accused.

Thomas McWilliams, Metropolitan Toronto superintendent, was to the stand by the crown, said he had never seen Bell drink out of the plant, but had at other places.

CREMATION QUESTION

Some discussion on the part of both counsel regarding the relevancy of questioning the witness "state of mind" took place.

This is not directed at a state of mind, but I will say it leads to the question of cremation," Mr. Hall said. "It could be rail evidence which will reveal what Mr. Bell said to Mr. Cass in regard to cremation."

Mr. Cass argued that if the matter were discussed in camera it would not have much bearing.

"You are bringing up this publicity stunt. Everyone is going to hear anything more about it." Magistrate Wills said.

Mr. Cass went on to say that he submitted a state of mind was not a matter to be argued. "It is not an issue."

"I don't think I should rule out this evidence, and I will hear it subject to objection," said the bench.

Pearl Harbor Heroine Sees Film and Dies

BOSTON (AP) — A Japanese-American nurse who helped treat servicemen for the Americans during the attack on Pearl Harbor was found dead in her apartment Sunday, a few hours after she saw a movie depicting the Japanese attack.

Medical examiner Michael A. Lorenzo said Miss Gloria Y. Matsuuchi, 33, night supervisor at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, died of an overdose of sleeping pills.

Donald Bitz, 32, told police he is accompanied Miss Matsuuchi to see the movie "From Here to Eternity" Saturday night and that she seemed depressed after leaving.

One of the closing scenes in the movie depicts the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Friends of Miss Matsuuchi, a nurses' supervisor at Queen's Hospital in Honolulu when the Japanese attacked on Dec. 7, 1941, said she worked day and night directly under the care of wounded American servicemen and civilians.

Saudi Arabia Makes For Shootings

LONDON (Reuters) — Saudi Arabia today blamed Britain for the shooting of two civilians, killed in Saudi Arabia's Buraimi oasis, disputed oil-rich area on the Persian gulf.

The Saudi Arabian embassy in a press statement here today declared "continued British offensive acts against defenceless inhabitants of Buraimi."

Buraimi consists of eight villages claimed by Saudi Arabia, Britain and the Trucial Sheikdoms belong to the Sultan of Muscat and Oman, under British protection. One was killed, and the Sheikh of Abu Dhabi, under British protection, was shot in the wrist.

Britain is acting on behalf of the sultan and the sheikh.

Miami Convention Of Kiwanis Club Biggest Ever

Delegates of the Kiwanis Club of Belleville, Deseronto and the 39th annual convention of Kiwanis International at Miami, Florida, in May will meet with over 12,000 fellow Kiwanians from every section of the United States, Canada, Alaska and Hawaii, according to Clinton Jeffers in Kora and is now chairman of the American-Korean Foundation, the Honorable, Paul Martin, Q.C., who is minister of Health and Welfare for Canada, and Rev. W. R. Arthur, B.A., D.D., who is pastor of Grace Church, Richmond, B.C. Atlantis, Georgia, and writes a Sunday column for the Atlanta Journal-Constitution and Hon. H. Roe Bartle, who is president of the Missouri Valley Authority, a prominent humanitarian, will address the Kiwanis in Miami's huge Dinner Key Auditorium. Several other prominent leaders from the field of State and Canada have also been invited to speak.

Following the Miami gulf beaches of Florida with their glistening white sands and tall graceful palm trees will serve as a backdrop to many of the recreational features planned for the "convalescence," Club president Kells said. Cruises on the Atlantic ocean, Florida's gulf and inland waterways, park and tropical garden tours and aerial sight-seeing trips for the guests to visit all sections of this most attractive southern state.

The main feature entertainment in the Miami convention will be held on the Orange Bowl and the general public is invited, to attend. This spectacular production is expected to be one of the highlights of the convention.

When Kiwanian husbands are in convention sessions, their wives and junior guests will be entertained by a series of events especially designed for their enjoyment.

The social highlight of the convention is the President's reception and Ball, honoring the 1953-54 president of Kiwanis International, Dana Chandler Arneythe of Carthage, Illinois. This feature will be made one of the most interesting and attractive to Belleville's delegation by the fact that Kiwanians of divisions 6 and 8A are honoring President Forsythe at Arbor-ough on Thursday, April 8th.

Hundreds of Kiwanians will comprise the delegation from the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district of this international community service organization. The Kiwanis Club of Belleville is especially fortunate in that Club Kiwanian Wm. G. Slade, local manager for the National Grocers Co., and Lieutenant-Governor for Division 8A of Kiwanis International, OQM District, was the leader of the delegation that will be Miami-bound.

Y's Men Challenged By Int. Officer

"We have the tools to bring about peace on earth. I challenge this club and every person present, to use them," declared Mr. Rollo G. Smethers, past international president of the Y's Men's International, at the annual president's night meeting of the club.

"Every person living has the power to change the world for good or evil. Every Y's Men's Club like will make an impress on history. One life did change the course of our history," declared the speaker. "Christ was born in humiliation and all the world has benefited. He had an idea with potentialities unlimited."

"So too did George Williams, the founder of the Young Men's Christian Association," stated Mr. Smethers. "George Williams was born on a small farm in England and his idea became the Y.M.C.A. which today embraces over 8 million members in seventy countries.

"One more man with an idea of potentialities unlimited was born in quiet fashion without headline publicity. That idea the Y's Men's movement has 14,000 members in 30 countries. We believe that the Y.M.C.A. and the Y's Men's movement are the greatest allies of the church today. The Y.M.C.A. is one of the greatest character building organizations in existence and one of the most effective tools for breaking down international prejudice and racial intolerance.

"We have the tools to bring about world brotherhood. The challenge is tremendous. Are you for the good you do now; if you as sincere members use those tools."

Mr. Smethers was introduced by Mr. R. Lidstone and the speaker was thanked by Mr. R. Moorman.

RCAF Dakotas From Trenton On Rescue Trip

TRENTON (CP) — Two RCAF Dakotas carrying a para-rescue team took off from this air force base today to search the mountainous area northeast of Ottawa for a small plane missing with two persons aboard.

RCAF officials said the search planes carry a four-member rescue team headed by Nursing Sister Ruth Kelly of Trenton and three male assistants. The search for the missing plane is sighted and there is a sign of life.

The missing aircraft was identified as a Cessna owned by Laurentide Aviation Company at Carlsbury, Que. It was reported missing late Sunday on a flight from Que to Carlsbury. Names of those aboard were not known here.

The plane is believed down in the area of Simon lake, about 50 miles northeast of Ottawa. Air force officials here said reports had been received that a plane had been sighted in distress. Crews are about 7 p. m. EST Sunday.

The Trenton would ordinarily have made the Ottawa-Carleville flight in an hour. It had fuel for about three hours in the air.

Longshoremen Take Protests To Washington

NE WYORK (AP)—Hundreds of New York longshoremen set out this way to Washington today to protest government handling of the city's bitter dock strike, now in its 23th day.

The idea of picketing the White House and National Labor Relations Board headquarters is all a rank-and-file development, officials of the International Longshoremen's Association (independent) maintained as they watched busloads of dock workers leave for the capital.

ILA members have repeatedly threatened to march on Ike to certify their union as bargaining agent for the New York harbor's 34,000 longshoremen.

Last week an NLRB official recommended that the bargaining election of last December, apparently won by the ILA but decisioned by disputed ballots, be thrown out because of alleged ILA violence and coercion at the polls.

Rivalry between the ILA and the CIO Congress of workingmen's labor began last September after the CIO ousted the ILA for being racket-ridden and organized the new union of the same name.

Britain, France And U.S. Study Trade With East

LONDON (Reuters)—The United States, Britain and France began a two-day conference here today on ways to increase trade between big East-West trade, now severely restricted by the Iron Curtain, on exports of strategic goods to Communist states.

The private talks are considered by diplomatic quarters here to center on a current Anglo-American political difference. Britain, backed by France, favors an expansion of trade with Russia and other east European countries.

The United States is reluctant, feeling that nothing which could strengthen the Communist political bloc, could be earmarked, should be sold over the Iron Curtain to the Western countries.

Today's talks, at the Board of Trade, were led by Harold Stassen, United States director of foreign operations administration; Maurice Bokanowski, French minister of state for foreign affairs; and Peter Thorneycroft, British president of the Board of Trade.

The Western powers hope to have an agreed policy on exports before the Geneva conference with the Communist powers opens April 26.

File, 72, died shortly after being hit in collision with a truck driven by Harry D. Woods, 39, of Selby, on No. 7 Highway about a mile and a half north of here on Saturday.

Mrs. Agnes Lillian in the car driven by Miss File Mrs. Clara Anderson of R. No. 4, Napanee, was taken to Kingston General Hospital with undetermined injuries.

Judge Anderson Adjourns Hearing Till May 10th

Hearing of the application to have the Tweed beverage room vote of Nov. 19th set aside, was adjourned May 10th by Judge J. C. Anderson here on Saturday.

Original scheduled for January 22nd, the hearing was resumed on Friday after certain election papers were returned from Toronto to be used as exhibits.

Mr. R. J. Courtenay, Tweed hotel proprietor is asking that the beverage room vote be set aside and is claiming two polls took place in the voting compartment with exterior windows.

They said that marked ballots could have been seen by persons outside if the ballots had been held up to the windows. Witnesses also claimed that the oath of allegiance was not administered to poll workers.

Kenneth Ross, local solicitor, is appearing for Mr. Courtnay, while R. D. Arnott is appearing on behalf of "Grys." Also opposing the application to have the vote set aside is Garrett Morton, Tweed village clerk and returning officer.

Conservation Talk Given At Men's Club

The regular monthly meeting of Holloway Street United Church Men's club was held in the Sunday School rooms of the church.

The forty-odd members present, sat down to tables well-loaded with food and all thoroughly enjoyed the pot-luck supper.

Following the supper, a brief business session was held with the president Bill Hagar, in the chair. The various standing committees made their regular monthly reports. Harold Outingdyke reported on the progress of the work of remodelling the banquet tables and announced that any volunteers from the men of the church, who were willing to assist in this work, kindly contact him.

GUEST SPEAKER

Clifford Smith introduced the speaker of the evening, Harry Lumsden, from the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, Game and Fish Division of the Tweed district. Mr. Lumsden gave an interesting address on wildfire and, particularly, the deer, as found in his district. He stated that the deer conservation is not necessarily gaining by a closed or restricted season on hunting since the deer population is centralized to a far greater extent during conditions of vegetation and severity of winters. The figures represented, he said, was apparent that a larger number of deer could be taken by hunters during the last few years. Interesting details of the work of the department in such methods used in calculating the size of the deer herd, the age of the deer shot and the general health of the animal, were presented.

COLORED SLIDES

Mr. Lumsden illustrated, by means of colored slides, points he gained during his talk. The speaker also answered many questions asked by the members at the close of the address.

Mr. Fred Wilson thanked the speaker on behalf of the club. Dave Gourlie, student minister at Albert College, closed the meeting.

Legal Action Withdrawn

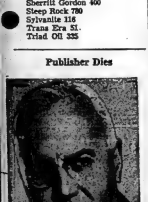
TORONTO (CP)—John Bassett, chairman and publisher of the Toronto Telegram, announced today the newspaper is withdrawing legal proceedings against two Toronto police officers following their apology for interfering with a Telegram photographer in the performance of his duty.



The incident occurred last week in a city hall corridor when Telegram photographer Alvin Hyatt was restrained after he took a picture of Sgt. Dan Priestly, appearing in court on an assault charge of which he was later acquitted.

Later Mr. Bassett said The Telegram had asked its lawyer to take action against Sgt. Priestly and inspector E. R. Walker of the police morality division, who was on the scene at the time.

Mr. Bassett said today that in view of an apology by the two officers and a reprimand given them by police chief John Chisholm, the newspaper will abandon legal action.

He said that the police chief had "promised to see that the rights of newsmen are safeguarded" and "in the light of this we consider the matter closed."

MAGISTRATE

"Did you ever discuss the matter of cremation with Mr. Bell?" the crown asked McWilliams.

The witness said he had shown Bell some advertising about bolders and said: "Here's where you go when you die."

Bell replied: "No damn fear. I am going to Riverside or Riverview."

He said to Bell's way of thinking cremation was inhuman.

"I don't stretch your imagination," said the defence.

McWilliams testified he had spoken with Bell regarding insurance and said other employees had also placed more insurance.

He testified he had loaned the Bells phonograph records, among them "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which went along the vein of an off-color story.

McWilliams stated he had suggested the mortgage insurance to Bell.

Bell had said his nerves were bad and he had started smoking again.

Witness had urged him to see a doctor.

FINANCIAL MATTERS

Harold Fenn, an employee of the Niagara Finance Corporation, said Mrs. Bell had phoned to ask if witnesses' company would take over a loan held by another company. He referred her to Mr. King, the manager, but as far as he knew she had not seen him.

Mrs. Bell had an account with his company, Fenn said, and he had placed a card record on King's desk.

Under cross-examination Fenn said he did not know Mrs. Bell nor would he recognize her voice. He admitted it could have been any woman who had called. He did not agree with defence counsel that the fact the Bells wanted to sell their car also indicated they were in financial difficulties. He said they insisted on the preferred arrangement with our company.

Before December, witness said to the crown, there was no insurance on loans, but after that there was.

R. H. Emmerson, Mead-Johnson employee, told the court that he saw Bell on December 3 at the home of Spencer Lloyd. He was helping carry furniture into the new house.

They had taken refreshments of hot tea and cookies. • Bell had drunk hot tea.

Plans had been arranged for a surprise party for Mr. Lloyd.

Mr. Cass objected to the question, but it was overruled.

The party, the idea of Bell, was arranged for the Saturday but witness did not know if it had been carried out.

He saw Bell the following Thursday and said he had never heard Bell complain about his health.

Bell went to a company picnic but Mrs. Bell did not return in the same car as Bell and the witness.

"There were possibly six or seven men and women on the bus, but were not all married men and their wives," Emmerson said.

Tea was the only beverage he had seen Bell drink, but Bell preferred it cooler than other people.

WAS ARRANGING PARTY

Lyle Hyatt, also an employee of Mead Johnson, said he last saw Bell at work on December 31, when the deceased was arranging a housewarming party for Spencer Lloyd for Saturday, January 2nd.

Bell appeared quite normal, the same as any day, Hyatt said.

Cross-examined, the witness said he had been associated with Bell in his work. He said the two men planned a week or two before Lloyd's moving. Bell had continued arrangements for the party after Lloyd's moving had been delayed.

William Fothergill, another fellow employee of Bell, said he had known the deceased for seven years. He had talked with Bell the day before New Year's Day about a party planned for New Year's night. Bell had invited him to the Lloyd housewarming party.

"Did you see Mrs. Bell at the funeral parlor after Bell's death?"

"Yes, she mentioned about Bell being so sick and could not understand it since he had such a good time New Year's Day."

"She said they had had some refreshments before going to bed, ginger ale or something."

Mr. Hall addressed the witness with a question regarding Mrs. Bell's room when he slumped in the witness box in a dead faint."

He was taken to the magistrate's chambers by court officials and a doctor called.

CORROBORATED EVIDENCE

Robert Lloyd, brother of Spencer Lloyd, corroborated former witnesses evidence that Perry Bell wanted to sell furniture into Lloyd's new home.

He said Bell suggested arranging a party for Friday night "bring wives and get a fiddler and have a square dance."

Bell said he would "call" the square dance.

"Would Mrs. Spencer Lloyd been able to square dance?" asked Mr. Cass.

Witness did not know anything about Mrs. Bell's physical condition.

Witness, Mr. Emmerson and Bell were the only people present when Bell suggested the party. Lloyd never heard anything about the party previously.

Bell said he would let Emmerson know the following day about the party. Friends of the Lloyd's were to be invited, some ten or twelve people.

DID NOT KNOW NUMBER

"How many people could the house accommodate for dancing?" asked the defence.

Lloyd did not know but admitted he square danced but never bothered counting the people.

Mrs. Bell evinced more interest than usual in the morning's witnesses. She looked closely at set to the witness continuously while occasionally she glanced at Chairman".

Spencer Lloyd, another Mead Johnson employee, said he went on a picnic with the Bells in 1952. Mrs. Bell had said she was fond of fishing last summer with Roscoe Jenners.

He was at the Bell's house at 4 p.m., with his wife on Sunday, December 27th.

Mrs. Bell told witness "Jenners had been lying on a davenport after Perry Bell's return home from a dance. He had made a grab at Mrs. Jenners and Bell had threatened to throw Jenners out."

Mrs. Bell said she had to jump in between them," Lloyd said.

SAW ACCUSED AT HOME

He saw Mrs. Bell at her home the day Bell died. She called witness at work o'clock and he went to her home. She wanted witness to drive Jenners and his mother; to Wooler, which he did. He and Jenners returned and went to the funeral parlor. Jenners did not go in at that time, but believed he did later.

Witness and Jenners and accused went to the Bell home. He let Mrs. Bell and Jenners out at the house.

Mrs. Bell talked about the will. She wanted to know if the will would be read at the graveside. Jenners said no. They talked about the insurance, how much, etc., but no amounts were named.

DID NOT KNOW.

Mrs. Bell asked witness how Mead Johnson would pay their insurance. Witness said he did not know.

Witness was at the house about 25 minutes, with 15 or 20 minutes used in conversation.

Witness said Mrs. Bell had told him and his wife, "Perry was jealous" when he asked her not to tell Lloyd about the skirt-grabbing incident. She said "I am going to tell it anyway."

The Lloyds visited the Bell home occasionally, Lloyd told defence counsel Cass. They seemed to be a normal couple.

He did not notice anything different about Bell's appearance last December. He could not say if Bell had nervous trouble.

COULD HAVE BEEN JOKING.

"Was Mrs. Bell sort of teasing her husband, when she related the incident?" asked Mr. Cass.

Witness admitted she could have been joking.

Lloyd testified tea was Bell's favorite beverage, and had never seen him drink cocoa. Nor had he seen any cocoa in the Bell home.

"I take it Jenners was being of considerable help and Mrs. Bell was leaning on him" said counsel. The witness agreed.

Lloyd agreed with counsel's suggestion that the conversation regarding insurance was a normal one.

Lloyd and his wife saw the Bells at a dance at the Club Commodore. There was a party.

"Did Mrs. Bell have anything to drink?"

"Yes."

Mr. Cass said it was not unusual for people who have had a drink to say they are going to wake up the neighborhood. This was pertaining to witness' statement to the crown that Mrs. Bell had said she was going to "wake up Rusty and drag him out of bed."

Re-examined by the crown, Lloyd said "I thought Bell meant it" when he said he would throw Jenners out.

Rightists Get Control Of Italian Seaport

CASTELLANMARE DI STABIA, Italy (AP)—A coalition of centre and rightist parties has captured administrative control of this southern Italian seaport from the Communists and fellow-travelling Socialists for the first time since the war.

The coalition of Christian Democrats, Liberals, Monarchists and Fascists managed to win by only a 459-vote margin over the extreme left wing. The vote was 15,060 to 14,601.

The election had been widely hailed as a weathervane for the national political situation which has been stirred up by scandals involving high political and social figures.

NEW FRENCH WEAPON

It's a cruel world.

John will probably go on loving Mary, but he may find public pronouncements of the fact, emblazoned on sidewalks and walls, have a habit of disappearing overnight.

There is nothing that John will be able to do about it. Down through the years a thousand Johns have chased three thousand Bills and Joes and Toms in feigned indignation immediately after the lettering of these junior grade engagement notices was completed. So the town's Johns can hardly stand guard over them and protect them from desecration by the latest foreign importation.

Tomorrow's Johns can blame their plight on the cold war and the Communists.

In France Communist sign painters have done a brisk business decorating Paris and its environs with Soviet propaganda. Trudging along after them have come the scrub-buckets of the law. The New York Times reports that in a year squads of three or four plain-clothesmen have made 582 arrests, covering nearly 80,000 miles in their clean-up missions. Specially trained acrobatic teams, armed with ropes, ladders and alpine equipment, made another 114 sorties.

All this has been changed. Some smart French scientist, instead of quietly splitting atoms or pushing hydrogen into steel cases, went to work on the problem of the "Pyrazilli," as the French call the belles-lettres written on bridges, railroad culverts and sidewalks. The result of his research was a detergent that whisks paint off stone walls in a jiffy, eliminating scrubbing and leaving no smears.

When the French Reds get tired of writing "Yankee Go Home," "Vietnam for the Vietnamese," "We Want Peace," "Not a Single Young Man for the Imperialist War" and such-like slogans, we predict that the French will enter the export market and "John Loves Mary" will fall a prey to the street-cleaning departments in Canadian towns.

SPORT FANS' DILEMMA

This is the time of year when every sports' fan needs at least another set of eyes, ears, hands and calculators. It is almost too difficult at any time for the confirmed enthusiast to keep abreast of his particular sport, but in the spring the spectator, armchair coach and newspaper strategist is swamped by his own desire for perfect knowledge.

For instance, what loyal hockey fan can abandon surviving N.H.L., Q.S.H.L., Allan and Memorial Cup contenders as they climax a long and difficult season? But even the most confirmed hockey fan cannot help but be stirred by cheats bulletins from baseball camps in the sunny south as creaky and arthritic sports writers start shedding their mufflers just-off-the-third base line.

Then there is football. The football fan can keep his attention completely fixed on hockey playoffs no matter how exciting, as his team and the opposition start cutting up touches in the football leagues? Nothing really matters in these games, he assures himself half-heartedly, knowing full well as he gnaws away on a new pencil, that the appalling number of football games played across the border often influences the team's getaway in May and its position in the pennant race in late September. Trades with other teams, drafting, signing veterans, a new coach, provide endless opportunities for juggling lineups and assessing the potential strength of this or that team before the ice melts completely on Lake Ontario.

A good band of basketball fans will undoubtedly break in at this point to remind us that the Canadian basketball championships are coming up shortly and that their head is swivelling back and forth. Basketballers will likely throw up a few cinders just to catch our eye.

Moreover, out of the west last week, trooped a spacecatching character who is coach of a new team called the Vancouver Mounties.

"Do the Lions play hockey or baseball?" you may ask. The answer is no. The Lions will be Vancouver's new entry in the Western Interprovincial Football League. Football does not begin until July, officially that is, but coaches know no season any more and to the real football fan the Lions' Annie Stuteck will be manoeuvring quietly on the coast for almost a year is most significant for football's future all across Canada. Not only are coaches tried and true signing of a new lineman, a quarterback, or a blocking half, commands as much attention from the sports' fan in mid-winter as the sale of a hockey player does in August.

Most Canadians can refer to a lot of conditions. It seems that it is appropriate in describing the state of mental balance of sports fans in the spring and summer when winter and summer meet head on and the fan has a hard time telling whether his true love is coming, going or calling from a distance.

"Unsettled conditions at this time of year are due to the equinox," states the almanac. Indeed they are, 'Equinoxes' on the budget from winter fuel bills and prospective summer vacations are enough to unsettle any conditions.

THE BOSS AND THE BOY

"What's wrong?" the boss inquired. The boy
Replied: "My task I don't enjoy.
I want a chance to show to you
The sort of work that I can do,
But this is tedious, dull and slow.
You'll never learn how much I know."

Nor just how clever I can be
By giving such a job to me.
"I have a notion, that I seek
Is not the bottom but the peak."

The boss replied: "Do you suggest
The task's not worthy of your best?
You slight it now because it seems
So distant from your youthful dreams?

What would you say if I should tell
You've never once performed it well
And had I greater tasks to do
I should not offer them to you?
To larger posts I'd never call
The men who'd failed me in the small."

"But," said the boy, "I cannot see
How such a task can prosper me.
It seems to me a dismal fate
To have to come to work it late.
I'm telling you I want a chance
To prove myself and to advance.
But I can see no future here."
The boss replied: "Now that is queer!
That's something that I didn't know
When I began there years ago."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The idea that prehistoric man was a goof, a thick-skulled, shambling, dim-witted half-monster part way down the family tree from Mr. Churchill, must surely be false. Prehistoric man must have been a pretty smart cookie. In the face of evidence, he had to survive conditions far more exacting than those we encounter today. Apart from the earthquakes, upheavals and other natural disasters that shook the world in his day, according to geological research, there were the fossil remains show, all manner of monstrous animals waddling about the earth as he had to survive in, dinosaurs, mammoths, vast flying reptiles far bigger than bombers, sabre toothed tigers and mink as big as grizzly bears and grizzly bears as big as elephants.

Yet our ancestor, whom we haughtily look down upon from the eminence of 1954, outsmarted them all and survived. The ice ages, which now seems sufficiently documented for all save the last-diehards, was a problem of survival that made our present social and political problems appear trivial. The prehistoric man figured it out, and survived.

How about you and me taking heart? How about us abandoning the notion that we are descended from a race of dim-witted cave men, and accepting the fairly obvious fact that we must be descended from a race of supermen. Who conceive logical to survive conditions that would unquestionably have wiped us, as scientists declayed state, right off the face of the earth? If we can accept this theory, we will take heart. We will remember that we come of a noble strain. The ancient courage, the sagacity and quick wit which characterized the species in its infancy days might be wakened in us again. As we sit here shuddering at the prospect of the atomic and hydrogen bomb, of looming wars and political and social upheavals, we must be sorry specific to the ghosts of our prehistoric ancestors, if any are around.

"Who would have dreamed that the ghosts of prehistoric man, that after all our struggles, descendants would turn out to be a tribe of monkeys!"

Spitting Fish Very Accurate

(Moody Monthly).

The archer fish, found in the coastal waters of southern and southeastern Asia and the islands from India to Polynesia, actually spits for its supper.

Insects seldom have a chance when this little striped fish adjusts its prey with unerring just before the surface of the water. With a bullet-like jet of water the fish scores a bull's-eye, downing its prey nearly every time.

The problems the fish has to overcome in striking its prey are most fantastic. First, the little creature must take into account the speed of its target, then the distance, the force needed to penetrate the water, and finally water refraction.

If you have ever tried to shoot a fish, you know that it is mathematically impossible, because refraction makes the fish appear where it is not. Antiaircraft gunmen use tons of equipment, radar and other complicated instruments to sight the enemy, record the distance and finally fire tons of munition. And then they often miss!

What is it in the head of this tiny creature that man has been unable to duplicate?

Jet-Age Meals

(By Peter Wyden, condensed from St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

I just ate some bread that was two years old. I nibbled on a pecan roll and yellow cake that hung around for more than six months. I drank some freshlike orange juice that had been quickly whipped up from a powder with tap water, right in front of my eyes. And then I had some cream of pea soup that was born swiftly from a package of a powder mixed with warm (but not boiling) water.

Elsewhere on the same building I talked to scientists at work on a liquid meal which may be "richer than soup" and pilots who are too pre-occupied to hold and chew a sandwich. I inspected bottles where samples of coffee or peanut butter are pushed through little slots in the wall at 3,000 guinea pigs who gravely taste and rate them. Then I lunched on a compressed chop suey in a dining room where table signs said: "No conversation—just concentration, please."

All the food I was fed was delicious; but that wasn't nearly as surprising as its source. The Quartermaster Food and Container Institute for the Armed Forces. On the fifth and bottom floor of the Chicago Quartermaster Depot, this assembly of 300 civilian and military scientists and administrators has set up a merry-go-round of tuberculosis-free guinea pigs, rats to the palate of the boy who's mouth we didn't raise him. It is the Pentagon Solicitude for the fighting man's gastric comfort has unleashed some staggering powers.

• • •

The institute has to bolster scientists with natural know-how. Joe Cryns, 6-year-old chief of baking research, started baking at the age of many 54 years ago and has been with the Institute for 7 years. It was most immediately he began working on canned white bread that would keep fresh for a long time. No such thing existed and some of the best bakers in the land canned pecan roll and fruit cake. I sampled all items and they were fine.

• • •

Another item that may soon reach grocers is an orange juice powder developed by the fruit and vegetable experts from a method pioneered by the United States department of agriculture. It's an orange-colored powder with the consistency of sugar. To simply mixed with water, one pound of powder making about three quarts of juice. It takes 4 to 5 pounds of juice to me, and while it won't be cheaper than the fresh stuff (a new packaging way can be devised to package the powder), it will be much cheaper than frozen juice. The power can be kept on the pantry shelf.

• • •

The orange juice team also got me to lunch on a cream of potato and cream of onion soup, which proved to be delicious. The onion soup looked like the potato soup (almost white), but each contained different flavored soup cubes. even had little pieces of toasted onions in it. They were delicious.

I saw that the experimenters whipped up the soup in a jiffy by mixing a bit of powder with warm water. After all, a G. I. in his foxhole usually doesn't have a stove to heat up water handy but he could warm some up and make his soup and that's the idea.

The fruit and vegetable boys are doing some fancy things with dehydrating and they hope to give the Government millions of dollars in savings. The dehydrating green beans and shipping them around the world in a moisture-proof can. Corn and lima beans should be next.

• • •

In the animal products division I saw how they substitute bacon bits for bacon. By removing certain acid fat, the bacon has been solidified into a fine-ounce can without losing its flavor. Nothing like it on the market.

I also tasted some fresh bacon cured by a process that takes 72 hours instead of the traditional two to three weeks. It's finished in a fine-ounce can without the acid fat spoiling the flavor. Nothing like it on the market.

Creations containing such revolutionary delicacies in small cans (for experimentation) as chop suey, meat balls and baked beans in tomato sauce, beef stew, beef with noodles, peas and red peppers.

None of this may sound spectacular but I think anyone who has ever had to live on C R I somewhat dangerous.

My idea? Nothing! There you go again. They're my teachings, and I didn't get them out of a pipe dream. I got them from many years of study of the respiratory infections, which directly and indirectly account for most of the everyday practice of physicians and surgeons.

The man says the bases his views on empiricism, experimentation and everyday experience.

Yah, that's what all the g— go on, go on.

He has observed a good many times that, at the end of a day working in the garden, shovelling snow etc., at all seasons of the year, he doesn't get a cold, but if he sits in a draft . . .

Heaven help me!

He insists you cannot trust children to use good sense about their feelings. He has yet to see a child having fun at play with companions leave this fun to put on more clothing. . . .

I warn you! Don't carry this too far!

And arbitrary denial of "resistence"—the man says no reasonable.

Meaning that I'm not reasonable, eh? Well, my reply is that the man is not reasonable. So there we are, right back where we started from.

The educated man evidently regards "resistance" as a state of immunity to respiratory infections. Thus if an individual runs down with any such illness or indisposition, he "resistance" must have been lowered. If he escapes infection it is obviously because his "resistance" was good, perhaps "built up" by proper food, plenty of fresh air, sufficient rest, keeping the feet dry, avoiding drafts yakety-yak-yak-yak.

It would be just as sensible to say it all depends on whether the individual does or does not keep his fingers crossed.

So far as we know that is, the educated man and I, immunity is a specific state—like diphtheria—to diphtheria has nothing to do with immunity to typhoid fever or immunity to measles. There is no scientific basis for this educated man's conception of colds—as there is a general immunity or even a degree of immunity to most common infections.

My advice to parents is, never mind about worrying that the children play out in the snow, the wet or the cold as long as they want to—that is, if your children are not idiots. They'll always know what good sense mother and dad had about it.

Wants Spawning Pickerel Protected

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In the very near future will be witnessed the annual spawning when the pickerel find their way up the shallow creeks and the streams running into the Bay of Quinte, each year, sees tons of these prize fish taken illegally. They are caught in the shallow waters at its height, taken by spear, dipnet, seine or any other devious methods. When a female fish is taken you have destroyed up to 100,000 unborn pickerel. The flesh is soft and flabby and is no good for eating. Pickerel must get enough to sustain body and soul without recourse to this unsportsmanlike method.

Our wildlife is a priceless heritage, ducks, geese, quail, ducks, partridge, deer, moose, elk, all native to this country. Conservation is the main plank in the platform of the Progressive Conservative party. (Yours to enjoy, Yours to protect.) Surely, our governments, federal, provincial, can follow the pattern of the buffalo, once in countless herds, driven to face extinction, before some common sense methods of conservation are applied and made workable.

Plan now to conserve our wildlife—tomorrow it may be too late.

New Plane Map Has A Memory

(British Aircraft Society)

British designers have developed a new navigational aid, which has a radio-controlled map with a memory. As long as the pilot is flying over the area shown on the map, his position is drawn in by a moving pen; when he goes "off" the map, the pen stops, but the memory goes on working, and when he flies back it begins again into the area covered by the map, and then starts again at the correct position.

This receiver in the aircraft picks up radio signals from the chain of radar stations on the ground which are normally only used by ships at sea, and so locates the position of the aircraft relative to them. The chain already covers most of Europe.

The device is mechanical, not electrical, and is fully automatic—the pilot does not have to touch it.

As soon as the pen tracing the aircraft's flight runs off the edge of the map anywhere it stores up the movements of the pen, and when it begins to make them again as soon as it comes back over the map, the pen plane flies back to the area covered by the map.

The memory goes on working for as long as the aircraft stay within coverage, and will start up for any number of time, including the time when the aircraft has landed at an airfield and the set is switched off. As soon as the plane takes off again, the memory takes appropriate action.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE POWER OF ENTHUSIASM

Walt Mason, the prose poet who brought so much joy and humor into life, once called the roses "the enthusiasm" "the welcomed man", whom everyone was glad to meet. He also called him the one who believes the goods.

The man of enthusiasm is the convincing one. His enthusiasm becomes contagious. He is the doer of the deadbeats and unbelievers from his path. Enthusiasm is the salesman's greatest asset. And when he gains an immediate sale or not, he has left behind him a trail of trust and confidence.

Nothing great has ever been accomplished without enthusiasm. If we do not believe, who is there who will believe? It is enthusiasm, the kind of faith that has been set afire! The valuable man is the one who thinks and knows, that he can. He counts no stibls. His faith is his capital. He walks right in on all failure. He does things that people about him say cannot be done.

I read in my newspaper of the enthusiasm of the young people that are rushing to hear the evangelist, Billy Graham, in London, Ont. Enthusiasm and enthusiasm in preaching about a better and happier way of life. Religion. People are fearful and confused, thus welcome any message that will give them hope and spiritual uplift. That is the secret of this young man's success.

A young man went to the office of Joseph Pulitzer, the great publisher and owner of the old New York World, and asked for a job. Pulitzer said, "I have a friend, the editor. Rising from his seat, and with enthusiasm, the chap said: "I don't exactly know—but I have ideas.", "Ideas!" exclaimed the publisher, "I can scarcely use ideas! I have a job at once for you."

Ideas are the forerunners of enthusiasm. Without them, enthusiasm has neither breath, blood, nor life. And it is, if we are to be successful, that we must have ideas, and enthusiasm becomes the greatest of these is enthusiasm!

At a midwest banquet a few years ago, an elderly woman was seated the honor guest at the head table. He called upon her for a few remarks, and she told the following story:

Her husband was president of a Mennonite college about seventy-five years ago. A bishop on tour of inspection rebuked this young president for the permissiveness in his curriculum which he gave to science. He assured the young president that the Lord was about to return, so why all this reaching after new knowledge? "We have discovered everything that ever will be discovered," he said. # 'Comet Flight to Paris' Takes Off April Fool's Day

April Fool's Day is no jokes to some 75 amateur actors and actresses from in and around Middleton Park.

On Thursday, April 1 at 8.30 p.m., the curtain will rise on "Comet Flight to Paris," the sixth annual benefit show sponsored by the RCAF Trenton Women's Auxiliary. The troupe of housewives, husbands, stenographers and other service personnel, has been rehearsing for two months for the two-day show, to be held in the RCAF Station Sports' Hangar.

Basketballs, volleyballs and shuttlecocks have been put away this week to enable the ambitious show production staff to carry out rehearsals of the entire cast on the Sports' Hangar stage. Singers, dancers, choral groups, comedians, actors and actresses have spent the past seven weeks working with their own groups in rooms in A/E/Sick Bay School, the Station Small Gym, and the Chapel Hall.

Some thirty hundred volunteer workers, under the convenorship of Mrs. R. E. Murray, will enable the Auxiliary to contribute to the needs of Greenfeer School, the Middleton Park Council, and the Trenton Memorial Hospital Nursery Fund.

In 1953, the proceeds of the "S.S. Quinte" Coronation Cruiser variety show enabled the auxiliary to purchase an obstetrical table, valued at $1,200, for the Trenton Memorial Hospital. Also, $800.00 was donated to the Greenfeer School for library books. Coinciding with the presentation of the latter cheque, was the appointment of Mrs. Murray in October, 1953, to convene "Comet Flight to Paris." The two nights in April will highlight another Auxiliary year, a year in which members, their families and friends have tried to improve conditions in and around Middleton Park.

STARTED WORK EARLY.

In November, Mrs. Murray reported to the Auxiliary that the thirty-five executive positions, and her staff, ranging from a producer-director, to a transportation coordinator, had been filled.

Careful selection of a script was made in November by Mrs. R. M. C. Fells, producer-director, and S/L. A. L. Hakett, executive. Major Fells, an exchange officer from the United States Air Force, has participated in USO shows in the South Pacific. The talented performance Major Fells will bring to the Sports Hangar stage were all unknown to him prior to the beginning of this year when the first auditions were held. Today, however, the producer-director and his staff are working together to bring to Trenton and Belleville audiences one of the most colorful productions ever known in the district.

Costumes, made by Mrs. T. P. O'Beyrne, Mrs. R. Swanson, Mrs. V. Hunter, Mrs. A. Quinn, Mrs. R. Ogilvie, Mrs. F. Blair, Mrs. V. Berg and Mrs. R. B. Murray, will brighten the stage. Spring shades will be worn by models directed by Mrs. Keith Ogilvie and Mrs. M. J. Smith. Mrs. A. L. Ashton, exhibits coordinator, has solicited the services of local merchants who will present the latest styles worn by some of Middleton Park's loveliest models.

DANCERS WELL TRAINED.

A trio of talented choreographers have their fellow-members and neighbors in addition, today, for the chorus line scenes. Mrs. D. G. Black, a former Arthur Murray teacher who was present at the opening of the school in Montreal; Sgt. G. Nellestein, dancer, model, and program director in Edmonton during the war; and Mrs. E. R. McDowell, formerly of England, who appeared before the late Queen Mary at a command performance, are choreography coordinators.

Musical members have been arranged by Mr. Prudens; lighting by F/S G. Simmons; sound by F/O J. A. Small; make-up by Mrs. A. J. Duchesne; properties by F/O John Harder; prompters by WO1 W. M. Thompson; and stage construction by WO2 W. M. Fleming.

Mrs. J. H. Robertson and F/O Keith Craig have collaborated on scenery design and layout. F/L. J. J. Campbell will direct the stage crew whose muscle and brawn will be the chief support on her way to Paris. Another important member of the production staff is Mrs. M. C. Fells, secretary to her busy husband.

The comfort of theatre-goers is the responsibility of F/L. J. F. Redcliffe, auditorium manager. Assisting in the audience services department are WO1 W. W. Collins, special services; Mrs. S. L. Chappelle, seating; Mrs. J. H. Muir, ushers; Mrs. R. C. Dimmond, transportation; Mrs. L. A. Dawes, refreshments; F/O A. L. Gunn, parking and security; Mrs. V. L. Berg, ladies' dressing room; and F/L. A. West, men's dressing room.

BAND WILL PLAY.

Eighteen pieces of the RCAF Training Command Band, under the direction of F/O C. O. Hunt will play for the "Comet's" cast, which includes many performers from the 1953 production, "S.S. Quinte" Coronation Cruise. Back on stage this year are Jack Wallace, harmonica virtuoso; Agnes Ward, singer and dancer; F/Sgt. Mrs. H. M. Lepard, dancing team; Mrs. W. G. Dewar, mezzo-soprano; F/O W. H. Ingram, "captain" of the "S.S. Quinte"; F/O Doug Jones, comedian; Mrs. R. Gourlay, soprano; Mrs. B. R. Powell, dancer and organizer; Mrs. E. Cook, model; Mrs. P. Gooniaux, Mrs. F. Herbert, Mrs. L. J. Hall, Mrs. T. D. Macauley and Mrs. R. L. Davis, chorus line members; and others.

Speaker Traces History of Work Through 8 Eras

The Quinte District Foremen's Club were happy to have the management personnel at the regular monthly supper meeting held in the YMCA.

The meeting marked the first annual management night of the club. Senior executives from over a dozen firms in Belleville and surrounding communities were on hand to hear Mr. A. H. Oak, manager of Industrial Relation, Bakelite Division of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company, Ltd., Toronto.

Mr. Oak, who was introduced by J. E. Hudson, vice-president of Bakelite Co. Canada, spoke on current Collective Bargaining problems.

In his introductory remarks the speaker traced the history of work and production through eight eras, from the era of savagery was a time when the strong man preyed on the weak in order to obtain goods to the era of today which followed by the age of slavery when the captured person was made to work for his captor. During the era of servitude the weaker individual was forced to do what he thought was good for the worker. The period of recognition was one in which the owner or manager paid a wage in proportion to how he valued the worker's efforts. In the era of trusteeship the management and workers have been in turn for the owners and to deal fairly with his employees. The last and newest era is that of incentive management and profit sharing where the principle is to develop the latent abilities of the workers and reward accordingly to the workers efforts. Industry in North America is in varying degrees in all of these eras.

The speaker then traced briefly the growth of organized labor during these eras and showed how many new problems arose.

In concluding, Mr. Oak emphasized that the success of any incentive enterprise system was the responsibility of both management and the unions.

Mr. Gilbert Scott, manager of the Ameliasburgh Co-op, thanked the speaker and club president, J. Dalgleish presented the club Oak with a travelling alarm clock on behalf of the club.

Retiring president H. G. Jones, presented the new president J. T. Dalgleish with a gavel as a symbol of office and wished the incoming executive a successful year.

In his response, Mr. Dalgleish congratulated the retiring executive upon the very successful year and job they had done in developing the club from its birth to a present position of 120 members representing firms. Mr. Dalgleish also expressed special gratitude to the YMCA for assistance given to the club.

Hastings County Farm Forum

About 92 members and visitors were present at March Hill School on March 22 for the spring "round-up" of farm forums. The five regular forums, Brookdale, Ivanhoe, Tweed, Melrose and River Valley were well represented. There was also representation from the new forum at Alnwick.

County chairman, Bernard Hollinger, called the meeting to order. After the preliminary business the roll call of the forum caused some interest. Hazzard Hall, Brookdale, 100% present, were well represented. A rousing singsong was enjoyed with Roy Treverton at the piano.

The highlight of the meeting was a report by Mrs. Basil Kuglin on county health units in some of the neighboring counties. She explained how one was formed, the personnel of each, what they did, how they operated and the estimated cost.

This caused a great deal of discussion, arguments both in favor and in opposition being voiced. The final decision of the meeting was that the members did not have enough information at present to commit themselves. A tentative committee was set up, with Bernard Hollinger as chairman.

One of Canada's Leading Home Economists to Help Yugoslavia

By CHRISTINE HIRONS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Estelle LeBlanc, one of Canada's leading home economists, leaves Thursday to apply her 31 years experience to help Yugoslavia's housewives.

Miss LeBlanc was chosen last week by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations to assist in the reorganization and development of a national program of nutrition, education and home economics in Yugoslavia.

The importance of her new job came as a surprise to Miss LeBlanc. Last July, after 31 years service with the agriculture departments of Quebec and New Brunswick, the fisheries department in Ottawa, and a term at l'Ecole des Sciences Menageres de Montreal, she had decided to take it easy for a while.

Idleness was foreign to her, however, so she offered her services to FAO and the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. After surveying her record, the FAO wasn't long taking her up.

Official announcement followed last week.

TEACHES HOUSEWIVES

Miss LeBlanc has devoted her career to teaching housewives the most efficient ways of going about their daily duties. She pulls no punches when something gets in the way of that objective.

Last year she started a French-language network radio program, counselling housewives on cooking, sewing, interior decorating and nutrition. The program was an immediate hit. Then Miss LeBlanc had a battle with her sponsors and quit.

"I wanted to help the housewife" she explains, "not further the publicity of some product."

She isn't sure where her new job will take her before it is completed. She expects to have her home office in Belgrade, but her work in conjunction with the Tito government and various women's organizations in the country probably will take her on tours to all the main centres in Communist Yugoslavia.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

WRONG; DOESN'T WANT TO PAY THE PRICE

Apparently, he takes to make an honorable character out of a husband who steps out on his wife is for him to let the "other woman" know that he's a married man.

That, at least, is the way a great many women seem to feel who have responded to the advances of married men.

Latest of those who appear to hold this remarkable theory is a young woman of 19 who writes:

"I am in love with a married man who has a wonderful wife and a two-year-old son. He is 29 and I am 19. I met him three months ago, and have been out with him ever since.

"He never hid from me the fact that he was married, and I know I should have stopped seeing him right then and there. But I continued to see and go out with him, and now I find myself in love with him.

"At first I thought he was also falling in love with me, but lately it seems he wants to ignore me. I love him very much and all I want is think about him and cry. Some people have told me that he goes out with other women, too. The reason is, I think, because he doesn't get enough love at home, although she is a wonderful person.

"How can I find out if he loves me?"

Now, as the old saying has it, "There's no so blind as those who won't see." If this young woman had any sense at all she cares nothing whatever for her, then she is definitely not in love. Her eyes to what is going on right in front of them.

"It seems," she says, "he wants to ignore me." Does she really imagine for one minute that a man who is interested in a girl is going to do such a thing? I can't believe she does. I think she knows very well that if this disloyal husband ever really had any interest in her at all, it is now gone, but she doesn't want to admit it to herself. So she turns to someone else in the hope that, through some miracle, some evidence may be found to the contrary.

All the evidence, however, is on the other side, and the sooner she makes up her mind to understand this the sooner she will begin to come to her senses—we hope.

Another thing she might better make up her mind to understand is that a man who can't get along with a wife who is "a wonderful person" is not only an inferior person himself, but one who will not get along with any other wife. Even supposing this man's interest in the girl were sincere, and he were to divorce his wife and marry her, she would, I am certain, find him reverting very quickly to his old pattern and giving her the chance to find out how it feels to have a faithless husband.

This girl was quite aware that she should have stopped seeing this man after he told her he was married. But she didn't do it. Now she wants to get out of paying the price of having done what she knew was wrong. Unless and until she is willing to realize and accept the fact that no one ever gets out of paying the price of folly and wrong-doing she will continue to be a most unhappy girl. And it is no one's fault but her own.

There's no need to urge her to have nothing more to do with this man, for he is obviously going to take care of that himself. What is left for her to do, if she ever expects to become the kind of woman who will be loved and happy, is to put an end to her self-pity, acknowledge that she brought her trouble on herself, and get busy filling her life with worthwhile friends, worthwhile work and worthwhile interests.

'Debs' Primping in Drawing Rooms For Social Season

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The "debs" are primping in Mayfair drawing rooms, baronial halls and country mansions for a social season. More than 400 are expected to come out.

It will probably be a season less glittering, understandably, than the brilliant social whirl which accompanied last year's coronation, but its tempo will quicken perceptibly May 15 when the Queen comes home from her Commonwealth tour.

Few of the British damsels can expect this year to meet the Queen. The presentation parties March 24-25 were presided over by the Queen Mother.

MANY ACTIVITIES

Other commitments will limit the girls' attendance at traditional social functions. Each daughter of a peer, and each Chamberlain's office: "Her Majesty (who will be 28 April 21) now is too old for debutantes to know her personally."

Others are moved by personal desire, the Queen is not expected to attend many personal coming-out parties—with one exception.

Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, will make her debut this season and it may be a royal affair, although not a splashy one. The princess now is attending school in Paris. At the same school is Diana Wilgress, daughter of Dana Wilgress, Canada's representative on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council.

For Commonwealth debutantes there's a better chance of meeting the Queen. Two garden parties are scheduled for this summer for their guests—they were invited last year to cope with Commonwealth coronation visitors—and selected Canadian and other Commonwealth girls will be presented in groups.

Debutante style has altered through the years, and presenting nowadays has the costly connotation but all once considered essential. Some skip it altogether, preferring to buy extra clothes. Many have full-time careers.

DANCES CRITICIZED

Lady Barbara Bevan thinks "these dances are a ridiculous expense." Her daughter Elizabeth, 17, sister of Princess Margaret's first lady-in-waiting, was presented in March to the Queen Mother.

Some society mothers estimate that it takes a minimum of £500 to successfully "bring out" a daughter. One mother who feels the expense is worth it is Mrs. Patrick Brunner whose daughter April, 17, is a God-child of the late Queen Mary. Mrs. Brunner and April will entertain 200 young friends at their London home.

"I regard my way of bringing young people together . . . and well worth the expense," says the mother.

Some debs share expenses at a multiple party.

Debutantes presented to the Queen Mother included Carol Carr, daughter by a previous marriage of Mrs. J. S. P. Armstrong, wife of Canada's agent-general in London. Mr. Armstrong's daughter Mollie, also by a previous marriage, will be presented in July at a garden party.

Jorie Moran rendered a beautiful solo "Wonderful Love". A reading was given by Mrs. Jean Chase and a reading by Mrs. Vera Montgomery. A St. Patrick's contest was won by Mrs. H. Slingerland.

Everyone retired to the kitchen for refreshments served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Smith Osterhout, Mrs. Rhoda Hannah, Mrs. Nancy McInally and Mrs. Helene Stickle.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A QUESTION OF TASTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Next month our Sorority is giving a Father-and-Daughter Banquet, to honor our fathers, I have a sister in the same Sorority, and she wishes to take my father to the banquet. I have no older brother or other male relative whom I could ask. However I would like to know if it would be in good taste for me to invite my boy-friend's father. I have been going with this boy for over three years, and during this time became well acquainted with his parents. What is your advice about my inviting his father? (—) Ann.

I think it would be in extremely bad taste, most inappropriate, for you to even consider inviting your boy-friend's father. I can't see that you are showing any thought or consideration for your father. I'm glad your sister is. The Banquet is to give the members of your Sorority the charming opportunity to honor their fathers, not the fathers of their boy-friends. If you invite your boy-friend's father you would put yourself in a very strange social position. . . if indeed your Sorority members even consider your inappropriate request. My advice is that you'd better not even speak to your boy-friend about it, also. Why not give double honor to your father by taking him as the guest of his two daughters, members of the Sorority? That's the right way!

APPRECIATION NOTES FOR MEMORIAL FLOWERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To whom does a mother send appreciation notes for floral tributes sent to the funeral of her daughter? A" says that these cards should be sent to the parents of the immediate family, and also to all friends who were not at the funeral. "B" maintains that a member of the immediate family, such as a son, is also a mourner, and should not be sent an appreciation card for the wreath sent to the funeral. Please tell me the proper procedure.—E.

The proper procedure is that everyone who sent a message of sympathy or a floral piece or who made any other thoughtful gesture should be properly thanked. Printed (or even engraved) thank-you cards are not in good taste. . . because they are an impersonal way of thanking for a personal bow of sympathy. Flowers sent by members of the family would naturally be paid for by the bereaved or by word of mouth, or by telephone. . . members of the family who live at a distance would undoubtedly be sent a note of thanks. Notes of appreciation should be written to all those relatives, friends or acquaintances, whether or not they attended the funeral) who sent messages or flowers. These notes may be short, only a sentence or two, and naturally they need not be prompt—written. But they should be personally-written, either by a member of the family, or by a kind relative or a close friend of the family, in the name of the family.

WANTS TWO FLOWER GIRLS, 5 AND 7

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our wedding party will be one couple, my matron of honor and the groom's best man: and a maid of honor. Would it be proper to have two flower girls, age 5 and 7? They are about the same size.

(2) If you say it is proper to have two flower girls, I would like them to wear short dresses instead of the usual long dresses. Proper?

(1) Entirely proper to have the two flower girls, 5 and 7. . . it is, I think, particularly effective and charming when they walk together, particularly when they are of about the same size. In the Procedional, they walk directly before the bride and her father. If they are to be in the Recessional (often such young children are not part of the Recessional), they walk together, directly after you and your bridegroom.

(2) Yes, short dresses are correct for flower girls, and often more becoming.

Beauty

By HELEN JAMIESON

GOOD LOOKS IN THE MAKING

There are many roads that lead to beauty that Plain Jane could hardly despair. Chances are she has hidden qualities of pulchritude that must be discovered and cultivated. If she has intelligence and good taste in dress her effort toward building charm and an attractive appearance will bring rich rewards.

There are numberless aids that will help Janie and beauty specialists will tell her how to use them to best advantage. A course of facial treatments, lessons in make-up and a conference with a hair stylist can do wonders for her. An excellent investment and the cost is not heavy.

Sometimes faint, colorless lashes and eyebrows are responsible for a tremendous contrast that seems to sit vapid. A touch of mascara applied to the lashes, the clever use of the crayon on the eyebrows will work magic. But these miniatures touches must be cleverly, situated using natural designs. Make-up is becoming more subtle all the time.

The most flattering shade of lipstick must be applied with care and discretion—never edging over on the white skin around the mouth to such heights that lips appear full and heavy.

Clothes that suit Janie's kind of money these days to be charmingly dressed, to have sartorial flair. Fashion designers have never displayed such flattering offerings. By a process of elimination we know the type—and how to wear her clothes with an air of splendor.

U.S. EXECUTIONS DROP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fewer persons were put to death for crimes in the United States last year than in any previous year. The federal prison bureau, which compiles the most accurate records back to 1930, said the 1953 total of 62 executions was the smallest. In 20 fewer than the previous low set in 1950.

Hot Cross Buns Are In Season

By Mary Moore

"Manna from heaven" Eleanor called them. Actually they were Hot Cross Buns which I was unloading on her.

I was late taking off for my violin lesson (yes, you daughters, I do take violin lessons—but that doesn't necessarily mean I have a voice), and I had another batch of buns on the rise. We had tasted three from the morning batch as I piled the remainder on a plate, covered them with a towel, opened Eleanor's back door just wide enough to reach through and put them on her counter, then drove off.

When I came home Pete was here by complete surprise and I forgot about Eleanor's until the telephone rang. I knew that I was at the back door unexpected callers was at the front door.

Later on she blithely went to the kitchen to make tea for them, found the "manna from heaven", served them just as if it had been her intention all along. It was a Friday and her groceries were low and she was going to serve fish and jelly to her guests. So evidently I unwittingly did a good deed.

It is high time we got practicing on this year's buns if we are to have them perfected for Good Friday morning. So let's go.

HOT CROSS BUNS (24)

In 1-2 cup lukewarm water measure 1 teaspoon sugar and sprinkle 1 envelope granulated yeast. (Please notice date on package. Two years ago a reader used out-dated yeast and wrote to me saying her hot cross buns gave a most unpalatable flavor they corroded the garbage can. Let's avoid that!) Into large mixing bowl measure 1-3 cup lukewarm milk, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt. As soon as yeast mixture has risen to top of measuring cup stir it, then add it to the mixing bowl. Add also 2 unbeaten eggs, 1-2 cup soft shortening, and 4 1-2 cups sifted bread or all-purpose flour, adding the flour in two portions, stirring until it is too stiff to stir, then kneading until dough is smooth and kneading is all you work 1-2 cup seedless raisins, 1-4 cup cut-up fresh mixed peel, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg which have all been mixed together. When the dough is smooth, shape it into a big ball, smooth the surface, put back in greased bowl, cover with damp cloth then with clean towel and let rise until doubled in bulk —about 1 1-2 to 2 hours in 80 F. heat. Punch down dough in bowl, bringing edges to the centre and turn dough over in bowl and let rise again until doubled. Divide dough into two parts and form into long rolls that are about 2 1-2 inches in diameter and cut into 12 even pieces each, giving you 24 pieces. Shape these into smooth balls and place 2 inches apart in greased baking sheet. Cover and let rise until doubled—nearly an hour. Just before baking cut a cross in the top of each bun using scissors or sharp knife dipped in flour. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 15 or 18 minutes. Let cool slightly then form a cross in the cut with thin glaze while icing.

TO GLAZE THE BUNS

About 1 minute before taking them from the oven, brush with milk or slightly beaten egg white and sprinkle sparingly with sugar, then return to oven to finish.

TO MAKE THE ICING

Sift a little icing sugar into a bowl and moisten with just enough cream or milk to make of spreading consistency.

Equipment and Drivers Best, Maintenance Tops in Service Corps, 25th Canadian Brigade

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP) — The service corps which rolls the ammunition, fuel, food and personnel of the 25th Canadian Brigade over Korean roads has a record of few accidents, no damage to freight and 100 - per - cent av a i lability, of equipment.

"It's because our drivers and equipment are the best a n d we mean best," Lieut.-Col. Gordon Leeder, Ont., and an intenance it terrific," a l d Maj. E. G. Hesion of London, Ont., and Saint John, N.B. His 5th Transport Company of the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps has the best record in the area for safety and maintenance.

Jack Brayley

Maj.-Gen. Horatius Murray, commander of the Commonwealth Division which the Canadian unit helps supply, says Canadians seem to have a native genius for mechanics and to be born "with the wheel of a truck in their hands."

DIRECT DELIVERY

Once in a 29-hour period without a break in fighting last May they carried 1,800 tons of ammunition to the front without losing a truck or its cargo. Some trucks actually delivered ammo direct to the mortar crews. It was one of the few occasions where service corps men literally passed the ammunition to the weapons which were firing it.

The unit's biggest peacetime job came last fall when the whole division was equipped for winter. At that time drivers and trucks worked 48 hours without a break carrying supplies from Inchon docks to units in the field. It took 375 truck loads to clear the supply ship and let it sail — ahead of schedule. For the big move the service corps had posted breakdown crews at strategic points along the route but they weren't needed.

The unit's big daily routine is the movement of 11 truck loads of rations for the Canadian brigade. Rations are picked up at the railway head at 7:30 a.m. and arrive at forward positions by noon.

A DAY AHEAD

Tomorrow's rations are drawn today. The food comes wrapped in cellophane or paper and the meat and perishables are frozen. The daily rations include everything from condiments to an issue of rat poison to ensure clean kitchens.

The company has rolled up millions of miles "and that means twice as many as shown on the speedometers because Korean miles are twice as tough on men and equipment," Maj. Hession said. "But the tough conditions have given us valuable experience and it's reflected in our small number of accidents."

Rotation has posed something of a problem for the service corps outfit. It has to move back to Canada in two sections because it must break in its relief No. 3 Company under Maj. J. N. Littlehales of Camp Borden. The relief company was recently stationed in Germany.

Before the unit rotates, however, the big trucks will take part in moving the 6,000 men involved in the general spring rotation of battalions and other formations of the Canadian brigade. The large-scale rotation will continue into late April.

Expects Nurses To Take Over Doctor's Duties

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Dr. Basil C. MacLean, noted Canadian-born hospital administrator, says he expects nurses eventually will take over many duties of physicians.

MacLean, who has announced his resignation as director of the Strong Memorial Hospital here to become New York city hospital commissioner later this year, said the shortage of doctors will force the step.

He said nurses will become hospital technicians, leaving some present nursing duties to nursing and hospital aides.

MacLean was born in Oshawa, and began his administrative career at the Montreal General Hospital.

ANCIENT STATUE FOUND

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A beautifully carved marble statue of Asclepius, the Roman god of medicine, has been unearthed near Famagusta, which was the ancient capital of Cyprus under Rome. The statue includes a coiled serpent and several draped female figures. Inscriptions found during the excavations, at the site of an ancient gymnasium, date back to 323 to 30 B. C.

Parking Lots To Be Built Under 5-Year Debenture

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario legislature's municipal law committee ran afoul of a cabinet minister and decided to hold off until Tuesday decision on a government bill to permit parking lots to be built on a five-year debenture issue.

The committee had passed an amendment to the bill raising the issue period to 20 years when deputy municipal affairs minister W. A. Orr asked the committee to withdraw the whole section.

He said Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar should not be asked to foster a bill with which he did not agree.

"What's the sense of sending the bill to committee if we can't change it?" asked Alfred Cowling (PC—Toronto High Park). "We're not sitting here for our health. . . . If the minister wants only five years, he can move it be changed when the bill is before the House."

Mr. Orr said that in a 20-year period a business district might disappear. What would then happen to the debentures which were being paid off on a local improvement basis on such a parking lot, he asked.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mr. Art Duncan, chairman of the local committee for Boy Scouts, was chairman for the evening. Mrs. Spears was formally introduced by Mrs. Moore. At the conclusion of her remarks, she was presented with a bouquet of flower by Mary Cranston, son of the youngest Brownies.

Mr. Edwards complimented the boys on their project of conservation and offered full assistance and co-operation of his department in bringing them into realization. He told a story of personal trail blazing in British Columbia into an area that has since become a great industrial site. When he had finished his fine address, he was presented with a Trent Valley casting reel by one of the younger Cub members.

EFFORTS PRAISED

Dr. Hertz spoke briefly praising the efforts of the boys and girls for their fine work and expressing the gratitude of the community to those who accepted the responsibility of leadership. The importance of these groups in fully recognized by the community and company and all stand ready to lend any assistance needed in furthering the work.

Plans were made for a Boy Scout waste paper drive in the district on Saturday and the date announced for the Trent Valley Camporee to be held in June.

It was a fine evening completely enjoyed by old and young.

Besieged Indo-China City Fights Off Reds

A barbed-wire fence looms symbolically at the edge of no man's land outside the besieged French fortress of Dien Bien Phu, Indo-China. Communist Viet-minh forces have buried attacks on the encircled stronghold for more than two weeks in a vain attempt to penetrate the defences. At bottom, a French marine and Vietnamese wounded to an American-supplied transport plane on one of Dien Bien Phu's two airstrips, for evacuation to Hanoi. Moments later the plane was disabled by Communist artillery fire. — Central Press Canadian.

Members of AA Meet at Toronto Over Week-End

TORONTO — Stating that his audience represented "at least 4,000 years of mental peace and useful life which Alcoholics Anonymous alone had given," Bill H., Chairman of the Toronto Central Committee of AA yesterday told 1,000 members of AA and their wives, and unconcealing about the movement were now rapidly diminishing, and that "there is a great public curiosity about AA people."

His address came at the close of the 5th Annual Ontario Regional AA Conference, which had taxed the dining-room and assembly facilities of Canada's largest hotel for two days.

"To outsiders," the speaker said, "the astonishing feature of our vast annual throng is that observers can discern no sign of those unhappy attributes which people generally link with alcoholism. They can only see a prosperous-looking concourse of men and women, who are marked instead by intelligence, cheerfulness, quiet self-confidence, and above all, by a strange serenity.

"That's because your 4,000 years of sobriety has meant 4,000 years of mental peace," he said. "That is a great resisting force, the ability of AA to aid alcoholics is clearly illustrated by this huge crowd of responsible and successful business and professional men, and intelligent women."

GROWING RAPIDLY.

The speaker told of the struggle of the founders of AA in the middle and late "thirties" to gain professional recognition and public confidence, and stated that AA now is growing rapidly. In 1939 150,000 members and 5,000 groups in 60 countries, with 450 groups in Canada. This growth was achieved by the alcoholics themselves, who have never asked for outside aid.

"Such statistics conjure very little of the real truth," he continued. "If you could count the thousands and thousands of AA mothers and wives, and tens of thousands of children, giving them their daily lives, with a sense of security and a future of bright promise, which they never expected to know again, you would perceive the real miracle that 150,000 members of AA really means.

"This mighty gathering," he concluded, "must clearly indicate to those who once scoffed, and to that diminishing few who still feel there is a stigma attached to membership in AA, that the fellowship which sees groups of alcoholics banded together to help each other, is not only here to stay, but is destined to be a greater and greater influence on the social history of Canada."

More than 600 AA members and their wives had attended the open meeting of the Ontario Conference on Saturday night, and the panels of AA members who were speakers, held during the day. Cities represented ranged from Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, and from Northern Ontario to Florida.

Special guest speakers were Lucy M. of New York City and Julian B. of Silver Springs, Maryland.

Some Indians 'Play it Dumb' Says Committee

TORONTO (CP)—Some Ontario Indians play it dumb when conversing with non-Indians, the legislature was told today.

The legislature's select committee on Indian affairs said that groups of Indians, particularly in the north among the older generations, will refuse to say anything but their own language in conversation with non-Indians, although there was evidence that they understood English perfectly.

Usually, Indians are realizing that their language must soon be relegated to the status of a hobby if their people are to merge with the rest of the population."

The committee found that a child away from his family for a period of years in Indian residential schools, often returns to find he has neither enough education to make a living nor enough knowledge of the woods to be useful in the Indian economy.

"He is suspect by his own people and his education has been a failure," the report said.

The committee stressed the importance of local schools in order to have the children brought up in the environment of their own home. It also stressed that wherever possible there should be co-education of Indian and non-Indian children.

Residents Urged To Beautify Municipalities

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Judge H. E. Fuller of Welland said Saturday Canadians by beautifying Ottawa are an example of the trend in municipal affairs.

He told a graduating class of the Niagara parks commission school of gardening in his earlier times people "were simply too busy to be considerate of the apparent luxuries as gardening, landscaping and the creation of beautiful things."

"Today we are more conscious of our community eyesore," he said.

Graduates included Ian Hamilton of Barrie, project award winner; John Secord, St. Catharines, landscape award winner; Ronald Graham, Sudbury, Louis Krohn, Toronto, and Stuart MacKenzie, Maidstone.

One of them is an American business man. Alexandrov said he would like Cooper to play the part "if he is willing."

Two Men, Wounded Early Sunday Morn

DUNDAS (CP)—Two men were shot and wounded here in early Sunday. Police said they are working on a theory of attempted murder and suicide.

The victims were in critical condition when taken to hospital in nearby Hamilton. Golden B. (Goldie) Gravelle, 44, was shot in the head. Bill Williamson, 30, was shot four times: in the chest, neck and thigh. Police said they are expected to live.

Officers said Williamson was shot during an argument in a shack where Gravelle lived. Gravelle was found wounded in the home of his estranged wife.

Police said Williamson had hopped after Gravelle met his wife and Williamson as they returned home from a dance shortly after midnight.

FORMER MAYOR DIES

STRATFORD (CP) — David R. Marshall, 93, a former mayor of Stratford, died in hospital Sunday. Born in England, he worked for many years as a Bell Telephone linesman in this area, retiring in 1913. He was mayor in 1926 and 1927.

Indians Have Long Memories, Still Distrust White Man, Legislature Members Find

TORONTO (CP) — The Indian still does not trust the non-Indian, the legislature was told today.

The legislature's select committee on Indian affairs, in presenting its report to the House, said it found throughout the provinces that the "unfortunate experience of generations had made the Indian wary of the non-Indian."

"He fears that if he takes the vote, he will lose much of his treaty rights. The Indian is most jealous of his treaty rights."

The committee in recommending that the Indian be given the right to vote in provincial elections, said the proposal was made after learning that the vast majority of both Indians and non - Indians interviewed favored equal voting rights for Indians. Only three Indian bands did not favor voting. Some evidence indicated that certain northern Indian bands were not yet ready for the vote.

WILL NOT AFFECT RIGHTS

"The committee has gone on record that the permitting of Indians to vote in provincial elections will in no way affect any of their treaty rights. If the legislature sees fit to adopt the committee's recommendation, we urge that an educational campaign be carried out among the Indians to make sure they know this, and the value of the vote."

At present, many Indians on each reserve have the right to vote and return for their war service but even in these cases it was found that a number stayed away from the polls because they were not certain that voting would not affect their treaty rights.

Dulles Expected To Repeat Stand On China Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. government's position on keeping Indo-China out of Communist hands and holding the door against seating of Red China in the United Nations is up for restatement tonight, reportedly in tough terms.

The statement is expected Secretary Dulles. He will talk to the Overseas Press Club in New York and to the U.S. people by radio and television.

The administration has been focussing emphasis on this speech, which Dulles and President Eisenhower went over together in a long White House conference. A whole series of declarations within the past few days, from administration sources of all hues, has led up to it.

The United States is interested in maintaining stiff resistance against any deals on Indo-China which Dulles and Reds might try to tempt the French, some of whom are visibly wearying of the seven-year war. The Reds would be in position to spring such offers at the April 26 Far East Conference in Geneva to be attended by representatives of the U.S., Britain, France, Russia and China.

CLARIFY POSITION

Another apparent objective is to take the question of recognition of China out of the conference bargaining by making the U.S. position unmistakable in advance.

Some members of Congress, especially, have expressed concern lest support build up for some proposal to arrange peace in Indo-China in return for giving a U.S. seat to the Chinese Communist regime.

ASK MORE PUBLIC WORKS

ST. THOMAS (CP)—The Ontario Municipal Association, Brotherhood of Masons and Plasterers International Union of America has passed a resolution petitioning the federal, Ontario and municipal government to proceed with all public works in the province this spring to cut down unemployment.

Defroster Needed

Lieut. R. E. Darby, of the U.S. navy, smilingly agrees that his moustache and whiskers could use a little defrosting on his return from a test of cold weather gear in the Arctic. He is one of a number of "guinea pigs" being used in experiments to test endurance in the event of war in "the top of the world." — Central Press Canadian.

Boxing Trainer Kills Himself

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Harry Gordon, 51, boxing trainer and former bantamweight fighter, shot and killed himself in his home Sunday, police reported.

Officers said his wife told them that he had kissed her, saying "Goodbye, I'm going away," then killed himself with an antique .22-calibre pistol.

Police believed he was despondent over a heart condition, a result of injuries suffered in an auto accident in 1952.

Scientists Fear H-Bomb Results

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Professor Harry Messel, Canadian-born physics professor at Sydney University, says that he would consider getting out of Australia fast if scientists ever exploded hydrogen bombs on the Australian mainland.

Messel, a native of Levine Siding Man., said in an interview that scientists at present are not certain of the long-term consequences of hydrogen bomb explosions.

Professor E. W. Titterton, professor of nuclear physics at the National University at Canberra, said Australia has "reason to be the 11th hour of human development if the deadly war against arms cement—or war—cannot be solved."

The professor spoke on a world affairs program of the Australian Broadcasting Commission.

PRICELESS STUFF

HAMILTON (CP)—Even police have trouble determining the value of coffee these days. Thieves broke into a snack bar Sunday and took some cigarets, $2-in pennies and 34 cans of coffee. The police report: "Stolen: Two cases of coffee. Value unknown at this time."

Indian Reserves Have Failed Legislature Committee Says

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature's select committee on Indian affairs said today the reserve system "has failed to achieve its original purpose."

The committee, in presenting its report to the legislature, said it was "absurd" trying to keep a race apart in these times.

No reserve the committee visited was supporting all members of its band. The younger men were away working. Residents of reserves near the international boundary were working in the United States. Indians had always been able to travel freely across the border.

All types of construction work, and particularly bridge and other high steel work provide outlets for the Indian's peculiar talents.

Although a young man could leave the reserve for 20, 30 or more years, he remained on the band list unless he became enfranchised. As long as he remained on the list, he had equal rights with the members of the band living on the reserve. While working off the reserve, the Indian had to pay all taxes, including income tax on income earned off the reserve. Yet he still qualified for treaty money of $4 or $5 a year, depending on the treaty which his band signed.

The enfranchised Indian had to leave the reserve. He gave up his treaty rights and paid full income tax.

Crucifix Stolen

TORONTO (CP) — John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, said Mc-Carthyism is an attempt to give political responsibility to the tar- and-feathers technique of older days.

Speaking at a gathering in Park Road Baptist church, he said the McCarthyist approach contains and strong deeds against communism. But it must not adopt evil techniques to defeat evil, he added.

Adoption of McCarthyism's techniques, he said, "would be adopting the cloak of the Communists in an attempt to defeat them."

It Is Mothballs For 'Mighty Mo'

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times said today the battleship Missouri will be ordered this summer to join the mothball fleet.

A Times story from Norfolk, Va., said the 45,000-ton "Mighty Mo," one of the world's deadliest ships, is scheduled to go to Puget sound naval shipyard at Bremerton, Wash., for a four-month process of mothballing, beginning in September.

The story said: "The navy is convinced that the aircraft carrier has become the backbone of the fighting fleet."

It is rumored in Norfolk that the Missouri will be followed to the mothball fleet by the three other battleships still in active commission—the Wisconsin, the Iowa and the New Jersey.

JOE CANCELS VISIT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep-Wis.) said Saturday he has been forced by "a combination of unforseen circumstances" to cancel a scheduled speaking appearance in Toronto April 30. He did not elaborate, but said he would try to make the appearance at a later date if a mutually satisfactory time can be found.

Montreal's Siamese Twins Are in Serious Condition

By ALEX DIMEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The condition of Siamese girls, born during the week-end to the 19-year-old wife of a Montreal jewellery salesman, was described today as "serious" by hospital authorities.

The babies, two of girl triplets, were Saturday to Mrs. Calixtrate Savage, are joined together at the lower chest and abdomen. The normal child is reported well.

The three infants were placed in incubators and are on a formula diet of sugar and water. The Siamese girls, Christiane, Diane and Janice, weighed about 4½ pounds each while the other baby weighed five pounds. They were a month premature.

Officials at the Catherine Booth Hospital, a Salvation Army maternity home, said the girls' condition began slipping late Sunday, a result of "general complication."

The triple birth was a "complete shock" to the 33-year-old father, James Savage, and the attending obstetrician. A multiple pregnancy was suspected but triplets were not thought of.

The obstetrician, who declined to name, said he believes the birth is without precedent in medical annals.

Specialists, including a neurosurgeon from the famed Montreal Neurological Institute, and leading Montreal pediatricians have seen the tots.

"If there is one brain between the twins, surgical separation is hopelessly impossible," one doctor said.

If the children remain alive, however and their condition improves, it is believed the neurological institute will investigate the possibility of surgical intervention. No x-rays have yet been taken.

Meanwhile, the Savages' home was in a state of turmoil as newspaper men and photographers clamored for information and pictures.

Until late Sunday afternoon a police cordon blocked off the street at the request of the parents. Hospital staff were under strict orders to release no information as to the parents' names or the condition of the children.

No pictures have yet been allowed. It was understood the couple had not seen the babies.

The Savages' already have three children, Donald, 9; Joy, 8; and Nancy, 7.

Two Escape When Car Skids Into Lake Erie

TURKEY POINT, Ont. (CP) — Two youths and two girls escaped from Friday night when their car skidded off a dock into Lake Erie.

Frank Reid and James Wilcox, both 19 and from Simcoe, Ollie Vanmaanen, 17, of Norwich, and Florence Gooding, 17, of Otterville, scrambled to safety. Reid had driven the car on to the dock from the village 30 miles south of Brantford and it skidded off 15 feet of water when he tried to turn.

The occupants jumped through the rear doors before the vehicle sank.

WOULD MODERNIZE DOCKS

KINGSTON, Jamaica (Reuters) Port authorities at Kingston, one of the finest natural harbors in the world, are seeking government aid to modernize the docks to prevent a boycott of the big, modern ships now moving in West Indian waters. One New Zealand shipping company already has threatened to stop using Kingston because of lack of adequate port facilities.

Newest Russian Book Reviews Accusations Against States

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW (CP)—The latest Soviet gospel on Korea, the newest book of the Great Soviet Encyclopedia, renews Russian accusations against the United States, gives the facts quite a slitting and, of course, views everything through the spectacles of "socialist realism."

Throughout the last 60 or more years, it seems, the "imperialist powers" have been bulking up for the events which began with the outbreak of the Korean war in 1950.

"The United States planted in Korea an extensive network of agents under the guise of 'protestant religious missions, and created in 1884, with the help of their agents, among whom was Syngman Rhee, a pro-American society, the so-called independence club," the encyclopedia says.

It accuses the "imperialists" again of being responsible for the division of Korea along the 38th parallel and charges that South Korea was turned into an "American bridgehead for launching aggressive wars in Asia."

SAYS ACTION ILLEGAL

The United States, tired of trying to reach agreement on Korea, turned the problem over to the United Nations in 1947 but the Russian book calls this action "illegal and hostile to the Korean people and the cause of general peace."

The encyclopedia accuses the U.S. of trying to fool the world by announcing in 1948 the withdrawal of its occupation forces from South Korea without doing so.

Actually the Americans retained in Korea military teams to advise on the training of the South Korean divisions that were formed.

The encyclopedia says the South Koreans attacked North Korea on the orders of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Dealing with restoration of the war-torn country, the encyclopedia mentions Russia's promise to aid the North Koreans with 1,000,000,000 rubles. It does not mention that China has promised a similar sum. Nor does it mention the assistance given by the United Nations Korean rehabilitation administration or the United States three-year $200,000,000 program.

Only Eight of Ten Imports To Dress For Any One Game; Non-Imports Will Be Reverted

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Canada's professional football teams, who have more than quadrupled their annual expenditures in the six years in a wild spending spree for imported talent, today embarked on a huge range program aimed at presenting annual financial statements in black. First effects may be felt this fall.

The cutback, adopted at the Canadian Rugby Union annual meeting here Saturday, was reflected by manoeuvring that allowed Big Four and Western Conference teams to increase their import list from eight to 10 this year but risers attached to the motion took away the benefits. They also made it possible for more Canadians to hit the line.

Only eight of the 10 imports permitted each team will dress for any one game and Americans previously classed as non-imports after playing four consecutive years in Canada will revert to their former status. Now, each team is allowed only three Canadian-Americans regardless of their length of service and they must be registered with the CRU before the third game of the league schedules with other imports.

The previous deadline for declaring imports was Oct. 1.

Delegates said the moves were a step in the right direction and these sentiments were echoed by other football officials. Walter Sprague, past president of the WIFU, said a "considerable weight the new ruling would "put a premium on Canadian-American players."

ROUGHRIDERS HAPPY

Dr. Beattie Martin, president of Saskatchewan Roughriders, said at Regina he was "pretty happy" about the moves.

The changes were made when club executives in the east and west became increasingly aware that they were pricing themselves out of business. Since the free-spending era started after Calgary's Grey Cup victory in 1948, annual budgets have increased from less than $60,000 to more than $300,000.

Ralph Misener of Winnipeg summed up delegates feelings when he told the meeting that "in a few years we would have 30 players considered C a n a d i a n-Americans on many teams and we would be able to field full teams of imports." Other officials said the early declaration date for Americans would mean a saving of 20 per cent on budgets in travelling salaries and other expenses.

East and west teams rang up heavy expenditures by carrying up to 34 or 35 imports from the July 15 training start to the Oct. 1 deadline.

Delegates were in accord on the one import rulings but trouble brewed when another motion, finally adopted, said that players born in Canada, but resident or trained in the United States, are classified imports for 1954 unless they were registered with the CRU before Oct. 1, 1953. The ban may blow up into a bitter battle between British Columbia Lions and other WIFU teams.

SAY DISCRIMINATION

Coach Annis Stukus and president Don McKenzie of the Lions declared this was aimed directly at their club and Canadian-born Arnie Weinmeister, signed by the Lions July 29, 1953, but who has not been registered with the CRU.

"We weren't in the WIFU at the time and we didn't anticipate the CRU would change the constitution on us," they said. McKenzie asked the meeting to reconsider the motion and Stukus asked for "mercy" but his plea was ruled out of order when Ken Montgomery of Edmonton said Stukus was not entitled to speak because he was not an official WIFU delegate.

Stukus said in an interview later that the CRU "ganged up" on the Lions. Weinmeister was born at Rhein, Sask., and left Canada when only two years old. Stukus and McKenzie said they would prove the former New York Giants lineman is a "bona-fide Canadian citizen" and that they would ask for a special ruling on the case.

In other business, the CRU approved a pre-season charity game for 1955 with proceeds to go to the Crippled Children's Society and the Shriners. The participating clubs may be the 1954 Grey Cup finalists or the second-place clubs in the WIFU and OHA.

NO TWO-GAME FINAL

The meeting turned down a proposal for a two-game Grey Cup final because it felt it would "ruin" the spectacle. It established a 14-game roster for all CRU affiliated teams and accepted an invitation from the WIFU to play a two-game total-point series between the Ontario Rugby Football Union and WIFU champions on the home grounds of the WIFU team.

The meeting also decided to freeze up the Nov. 27 cup final with half-time entertainment, set an arbitrary playoff limit of 28 on CRU play-off games such as the cup semi-final and final and adopted rule changes, the major one dealing with the safety touch.

A team now surrendering a safety, intentional or otherwise, must kick on first down from its 25-yard line if the safety is scored with less than five minutes remaining in the second and fourth quarters. Previously a team retained possession and scrimmaged from its 25.

Marmora Wins Trent Valley Northern Section

MARMORA—Marmora won the championship of the northern section of the Trent Valley League defeating Havelock by the narrow margin of 3-4 at Marmora on Friday evening before a crowd of approximately 1,500, the largest of the season. It was a fast and close encounter with the issue in doubt until the last second. With 38 seconds to go, Hornick pulled his goalie and only alarmed Millikan in the box. Hornick nets permitted the locals to hold their lead. Marmora now plays the winner of the Point Anne-Trenton RCAF series for the league title. In the first stanza the visitors appeared to have the edge. Kane scored early in the period and Floyd's goal, on assists from Doris and Wootton, made the score read 2-0 in Havelock's favor.

As in other games in the play-offs, Marmora staged a rally in the second but not before Kane scored Havelock's third goal on D. Mortimer's assist. Smith then beat Nicholls on a shot from Brooks Ramsbottom scored another for the homesters unassisted while Maslie tied the game on assists from Brogg and Darrah. In that period nine penalties were issued for infringements including four for fighting and roughing and a major for misconduct.

In the third, Marmora was more fortunate in the quest of goals. Jones netted two, the final on Maslie's assist and the second on Brooks' assist. Kane, unassisted, scored the goal of the game to bring Havelock within one goal of Marmora's total.

Marmora— Goal, Killian; defence, Leonard and Gray; centre, Mayore; wings, Lawlor and Ormston; alternates—Jones, Mantis, Brooks, Brown, Loveless, Darrah, Smith, Ramsbottom, E. Trumble. Spare goalie—Young.

Havelock—Goal, Nicholls; defence, D. Mortimer and Hannah; centre, Floyd; wings, Doris and Kane. Alternates—Mason, F. Mortimer, Vitarelli, Laing, Rutlan, Kelly and Wootton.

Dick Gamble was a standout for Montreal in Royals' 4-2 victory over Sherbrooke, s c o r i n g two goals. Ernie Roche and Skippy Burchell netted the other Montreal goals. Eddie Stankiewicz and Bob Hawpk scored for Sherbrooke.

Winnipeg Girls In Hoop Final

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg Dominoes advanced into the Canadian senior girls' basketball semi-finals Saturday despite a 67-62 loss to Toronto Tigniters. Dominoes carried a 20-point bulge into the final game of the two-game, total-point series.

Dominoes now meet Saskatoon Aces in the semi-finals.

Belleville Pee Wees Finish Second in Lindsay Tourney

The Belleville entry in the Central-Eastern Pewee hockey tournament held in Lindsay on Saturday lost a thrilling overtime battle to Port Perry, 4-3, after 28 minutes of extra hockey in the finals. The victory for Port Perry gave them the championship in the fourteen-team tournament.

At 9 a.m. the Belleville Bruins fourth game of the day and their third overtime battle, which showed the keen competition. They played their opening game at 1.00 p.m. against Ajax with a 4-2 victory in regulation time for the Bruins.

They received a rest period until 5.00 p.m. while other teams were playing and this time their opponents were a team from Burnt River. At the end of the third period both clubs had notched a trio of goals so overtime was played. It took 24 minutes for the Bay of Quinte lads to take the win with Gary Duggan getting the winner on a pass from B Gelsthorpe.

Their third game got under way at 9.00 p.m. with Cobourg hooking up against the Bruins and once more the score was tied at 3-3 when regulation time was over. Hurbert Peters gave Belleville's hopes of this one when he banged home the winner from Gerald Ethier at the 25 minute mark of the extra period.

Port Perry were awarded the championship cup for their undefeated effort while Belleville won a smaller trophy as the runners up to the champs.

Gerry Duggan, Whitey Hull and Gerald Ethier led the Belleville team with Duggan scoring four goals and one assist. Hull had three and two while Ethier had one goal and four helpers. Latimer was credited with a pair of markers as was Kellar while Pointer and J. Boulter each had one goal and one assist. B. Follwell claimed the other goal with one assist each for Brown, Sheridan, Gelsthorpe,

Petes Trounce Oshawa 5-2

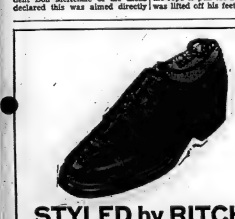
KINGSTON — Peterborough Petes clinched elimination from championship pursuits in the Ontario Hockey Association senior B series when they defeated Oshawa Truckmen, 5 to 2, here Saturday night.

It was the Oshawans' initial setback in five group final games. They won three and tied one. The attendance was 2,230.

Competition during the first two periods and for more than half of the third rated seasonal orchids but when the break-up came, the inspired Petes scored three goals in the space of two minutes and 33 seconds. The Oshawans, favored to win the group title and also the OHA crown, became so jittery after Bert Hill broke the deadlock that Rod Beslile and Chum Fryia notched the next two counters without assistance.



Hardwick, Valcamp and Hook.

M. Hunter, tending goal for the Bruins came up with an outstanding display and was by no means at fault on the winning Port Perry marker.

The team was accompanied by Coach Bill Brennan, Manager Harry Halley, coxswain Harry Rollins as well as E. Hunter and Jerry Mahoney.

TRUCK DRIVER HONORED

Canadiens Defeat Boston For Third Straight Win; Wings Clip Leafs 3-1

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A HEARTBREAKER!

A hard-hitting Stirling Legion squad that started their drive for glory and their first OMHA championship couldn't find their stride until it was too late in a spine-tingling Juvenile "C" battle here Saturday night. They bowed to a clever, hard-checking crew that were the colors of the Canadian Legion from Kincardine and they could not have been beaten by a better club. The starry young visitors played heads-up hockey all night and took advantage of every break that came their way.

Two costly penalties in the second period, that saw the Stirling ace, Ray Hermiston, and a team-mate go to the boooo-gow paved the way for the ultimate defeat of Russ Payne's crew. The fast-skating, tricky Kincardines paced by Roy Farrell, ripped home three goals in a little over a minute—and the damage was done.

Enemies on the ice, the players of both squads showed a fine spirit of sportsmanship after it was over. The Stirling kids rushed to their conquerors and the ice was a moving panorama of color as the kids back-slapped and shook hands with one another.

The game, its calibre and sportsmanship, and outstanding job of officiating done by Referees Ivan Locke and Dave Mitchell, both of Oshawa, was another feather added to the already heavily laden mythical cap of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association. The presence of kick-ranking officials such as Secretary Jack Christie, treasurer Dr. Leon Hipwell and executive members bespoke the marked interest taken in teams under their jurisdiction.

OMHA officials made no mistake when they appointed Manager Ossie Scott to the refereeing task. We have never seen these men in action before, and their efforts were such as deserved high praise. They had two high-strung teams, nerves taut with tension, on the ice, and the fact the game was a clean, though hard-hitting affair was largely due to the superb officiating.

BASEBALL!

With Peterborough now a definite entry in the Central Ontario Baseball League, baseball enthusiasts of the district are assured of a four-team senior loop, at least. At time of this writing no word has been received from the Watertown interests, but it is expected momentarily.

If no entry is received from the American city, the league will operate with teams from Belleville, Kingston, Oshawa and Peterborough—names that have been synonymous with the league since its inception decades ago.

Such a four-team set-up would mean reasonable transportation costs. All four clubs have lighted playing fields and that means the greater part of the schedule will be played under lights. That is not definite, merely conjecture on our part.

All four teams will likely swing into their own organizational action this week, and a meeting of the COBL executive likely will be held as soon as things are readied. Peterborough asked for an extension to April 1st to set matters straightened out. Permission has been given by the league executive.

GOOD YEAR!

The over-all attendance at the Kingston Community Centre during 1953 was close to 200,000, according to the financial report published recently. The Senior "B" hockey club accounted for the largest part of this, drawing a paid attendance of 107,262, while the junior brought out 8,674. Minor hockey drew 3,679 and exhibition games accounted for 3,562. The total revenue was $43,532.19, of which better than 46 per cent was made up from hockey games, practices, skating, programs, etc. The financial condition of the Centre was such that the trustees of the Centre were able to make a payment on its $25,000 debt to the city. The payment is the first made on the debt.

Hockey revenue was quoted as being $38,630.19, but this is the Centre's share of the receipts and does not include monies paid to clubs.

Bouchard, Habs' Rearguard, Sparks Team With Two Goals; Leswick Fires Wings' Winner

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins and Toronto Maple Leafs realize now that the lesser lights are the guys who can kill you.

The Bruins and Leafs have effectively throttled the ace lines of Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens in the current Stanley Cup semi-final series but the penalty-killers and defensive players are scoring the big goals. Take the week-end for instance:

At Toronto Saturday night, Tony Leswick, the pesky winger with the Wings who had scored only six goals in the 70-game National Hockey League schedule, broke up a 1-1 third-period tie to send the Wings ahead 3-1 in games in the series. Wings won the game 3-1.

At Boston Sunday night, big Butch Bouchard, Canadiens' solidly built defensive mainstay, scored two goals as the Habs edged the Bruins 4-3 to take a three-game lead in their series. Bouchard had scored only one goal during the season — at Montreal against the Bruins.

MEET AGAIN TUESDAY

The clubs get back into action Tuesday night at Toronto, not Boston.

Coach Dick Irvin and managing director Frank Selke of Canadiens weren't too optimistic they could wrap up the series in four straight.

"That's a pretty hard trick to accomplish," Irvin said after Sunday night's game.

Although Bouchard's scoring rush was a big factor in the Montreal victory, the hurrahs went to Dickie Moore, the leading scorer in the semi-final brackets, who fired a looping 30-foot shot past goalkeeper Jim Henry with only 90 seconds remaining to win the game.

After a scoreless first period Bouchard got his first goal 16 seconds after the start of the second on a 50-foot blast. Cal Gardner tied it 2:38 later and Bernie Geoffrion put the Canadiens ahead 2-1 at 10:07.

TAKE 3-1 LEAD

Bouchard made it 3-1 before the seven-minute mark. But the desperate Bruins, on the sharp-shooting of rookie Doug Mohns and captain Milt Schmidt, pulled into a 3-3 tie, setting the stage for Moore's shot.

A crowd of 13,909 saw the game at Boston.

It was a tight squeeze for the Wings in the third game of the series. Goalkeeper Harry Lumley was removed from the net with 96 seconds left, and the move paid off when the 16 seconds later as defenceman Marcel Pronovost drilled the puck 100 feet into the empty net.

Marlboros Take First From Hamilton Cubs

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Cubs had an eight-game winning streak broken Saturday when they were defeated 4-1 by Toronto Marlboros. But Jimmy Skinner wasn't worrying about the streak.

"What good is that now?" the Hamilton coach asked. He meant, of course, that the teams are playing for keeps now and the victory gave Marlboros a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals. The winner of the series will advance into the league final against either St. Catharines Teepees or Toronto St. Michael's College Majors. St. Michael's leads their best-of-five semi-final 3-1 with one game tied.

"The boys outplayed us, outbumped us and out-everythinged us," Skinner said after the game. The loss was the first for the Cubs in March. They previously had won 10 of twelve starts.

The victory was never in doubt although Hamilton tied the score 1-1 briefly in the second. Marlboros took a 1-0 lead in the first period and were ahead 3-1 going into the final session.

REARGUARDS SCORE

Defencemen accounted for—half the Marlboros goals. Duke Juck Blonda and Al MacNeil, both members of the Marlboros defence corps scored one goal each. Dave Reid and Wally Maxwell notched the others. Val Mitchell shot the Hamilton marker.

MacNeil scored the winner midway through the second period on a screened shot.

The Dukes were tagged with eight of the minor penalties handed out but the Cubs, especially outplayed in the first and third periods when most of the scoring took place, couldn't capitalize on their manpower advantage.

Dennis Rigsin again played fine goal for Hamilton, kicking out 38 shots. Johnny Bband had a busy day to make.

Second game of the series will be in Hamilton Wednesday.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Toronto St. Michael's College Majors are rapidly earning themselves a name as a "money" team in the playoffs.

The Majors, pre-series underdogs in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior A semi-finals with St. Catharines TeePees, now are within one point of entering the league final. They scored five goals in the third period here Saturday to defeat the TeePees 8-5.

The victory gave the Collegians a 3-1 lead in the best-seven series with one tie game. A tie in the next game at Toronto Wednesday night will send them into the final against either Toronto Marlboros or Hamilton Cubs.

The victory was the second of the series on St. Catharines ice for the Majors, who finished fourth in the regular schedule. St. Catharines finished first in the schedule.

HIGH-POWERED LINE

The Irish were led by their top line of Jack Caffery, Jim Logan and Paul Knox, who accounted for five goals. Logan scored twice and assisted on another four goals. Knox notched one and assisted on five and Caffery fired two and collected three assists. Defencemen Noel Price, Marc Reaume and rightwinger Dick Duff fired the other Toronto goals.

Brian Cullen and his brother Barry each shot a pair for St. Catharines, the other one going to Hank Clesla.

Although the TeePees were outscored they were not outshot.

Geezy McNamara had 38 saves to make in the Toronto nets, compared to the 21 drives turned aside by Marve Edwards in the other end. St. Catharines outshot the Irish in every period.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Holding an intelligent conversation with Walter Alston is a problem. One must listen to hear his answers, as the new manager of the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers has by this time become virtually inaudible.

He has had a trying time this spring. The "rush" pilot from Montreal Royals has been expected to discuss a club he saw play only on television last year.

A typical session with the big, pleasant fellow who was called in when his predecessor, Chuck Dressen, took to writing letters to the boss, goes like this:

"How's Jackie Robinson been looking? Are you only going to play him in the outfield?"

"Jackie stumbled off a step and strained his knee and I've been letting him take it easy, kind of set his own pace getting in shape. He'll be ready. Outfield will be his regular job, but I expect to use him around the infield when we need him. He's a good man to have around."

NEWCOMBE LOOKING GOOD

"Do you think you've added any strength?"

"We'll be the same club except that we've got two pitchers, Don Newcombe and Erv Palica, back from the army. Newcombe is throwing good and his weight is down where it belongs. Whether he will pick the way he did before he went into the army is something we'll have to wait and see.

"Well, if you've got the same club that won by 13 games last year, shouldn't you feel pretty confident of doing it again?"

AXL HAD BIG YEAR

"What you're overlooking is that every man on this team, outside the pitchers, had a big year last year. Furillo and Campanella especially had wonderful years. You can't be sure they'll all go that good again. Chances are they won't, and we could find ourselves in a race."

"What about this boy Don Hoak you had at Montreal last year? We've been hearing he might run Pee wee right off shortstop, the way he's been hitting."

"He's a third-baseman and a good one, but I still don't know whether he'll hit big-league pitching. I intend to keep him around until I find out. I think you can say that Reese will play shortstop."

Kincardine Defeats Stirling To Win OMHA Juvenile Title; Record Crowd Views Battle

By GEORGE H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Stirling Legions' gallant attempt to pull victory out of their early-game defeat came "too late and too little" here Saturday night when they went down fighting before a starry Kincardine Legionnaire team by a 5-4 score.

The Kincardine squad, sparked by the sensational efforts of its captain, Wilfred Burnside, won the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile "C" championship before a crowd of over 2060.

OMHA secretary Jack Christie presented the 1953-54 champions with the Jack Ketsburgh trophy to which the crowd cheered the new champions and paid tribute to the gallant crew of losers.

The game was a tripical example of a seasonal climax if you will, of what the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, and its coaches and managers are doing for the province's young hockey fry.

GOOD HOCKEY

Two teams of youngsters tuned with expectancy, and fired with a winning spirit went out there to battle for a silver bauble that represented their supremacy in their special field.

It was championship hockey in all its aspects. It saw a stunned Stirling crowd sit through a period and a half of hockey that produced a three-goal attack that in itself wrecked the championship hopes of their team.

But they roared, they stood on their feet and cheered as a fighting team came back with the type of hockey that carried them to the finals to rap home four goals to two in the second half of the game.

Led by their captain Ray Hermiston, a gallant youngster who played the entire game except for a costly two minutes when Kincardine slung home two goals, the Stirling kids seemed a trifle disorganized in the first period and half-way through the second.

They were down four goals in the game and five on the round when Ron Hadley whipped home the puck on a "break the ice" goal that sparked the Stirling kids and they held off all the smooth-passing efforts of Kincardine until within a few seconds when Milt McGee took Scotty Gerry's pass to score Stirling's second goal, and bring the score to 4-2 and 5-2 on the round.

Undaunted by an early third period goal that gave Kincardine a 6-2 edge in the game, the Stirling kids came back with the type of hockey that carried them through the finals. Again led by Ray Hermiston they fired home two markers in the latter half of the third period as nearly 2,000 people stood on their feet and howled encouragement.

But it was "too little and too late". The Stirlingites battled their opponents in the dying minutes of the game but Kincardine youngsters took the championship their's as the clock slowly ticked the seconds were not to be denied.

COSTLY PENALTIES

Costly penalties in the first period was part of the reason for the Stirling defeat. Ray Hermiston drew a tripping penalty midway through the first period, and the Kincardines, led by their ace Wilf Burnside flashed to the attack. With one minute and 22 seconds they slung home three goals. They added another after nine minutes of the second period and the Stirling cause looked lost.

Then came Stirling's best hockey of the night. They roared back with an offensive and in all fairness to them they were not benefited by that interglide sports thing called the "break". They hit the post twice when an open net yawned in front of them. They played desperation hockey, but as was said before it was "too little and too late."

Ray Hermiston and his opposition captain Wilf. Burnside were easily the stars of the game although neither appears on the scoring summaries. Both came up with fine efforts matching nearly by Bob Emmerton in the Kincardine nets. The youngster saw a lot of rubber in the dying minutes of the game, and he was mobbed and rightfully so, by his team mates after the battle was over.

The summary tells the scoring story.

The fine sportsmanship of minor hockey was shown in the real fraternization of the teams following the game. Naturally the Kincardies "mobbed" their goalie and rightfully so. The kids mingled in a colorful picture. It was a fitting climax of tribute paid to both winner and loser.

Ivan Locke and Dave Mitchell both of Oshawa, who refereed the game came up with one of the finest officiating performances seen in Memorial Arena this winter. They had the game well under control and everyone of the dozen penalties was warranted.

Doug Patterson. OMHA executive member from Stirling introduced the "break the ice" goal executive members. These included Albert Watkins, Peterborough; Ken Leon, Hipwell, association treasurer, Toronto and Jim Auslan, Stouffville.

In brief address Patterson paid tribute to both teams and to the Canadian Legion which sponsored the clubs for their interest taken in boys' sports. Mr. Christie also paid tribute to the victors and vanquished. The team captains, Hermiston and Burnside also spoke.

The teams:

Stirling — Parks, Kingston; Scott, Hermiston, Montgomery, M. McGee, G. McGee, Palmer, Hexman, McMurray, Woods, Anderson, McCrory, Brady.

SPORT IN BRIEF

LONDON (AP)—Two influential British organizations devoted to protecting animals seek changes in the Grand National Steeplechase to stop "the tragic carnage" of horses.

Three horses were killed in the 8th running of the classic steeplechase at Aintree Saturday. The scoring for the Modification of Steeplechasing and the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals went to work immediately.

Lord Amnon, president of the modification society, said that when his group has "all the facts," I shall probably put down a question in the House of Lords and the matter can be discussed.

"I do not want to interfere with the race, but we shall try to do something to prevent horses being killed."

Six inspectors from the RSPCA were stationed around the four-mile, 856 yard course. They watched the 29-horse field taking the world's toughest and highest steeplechase jumps and filed reports with the London headquarters.

Several inspectors are reported unofficially to have entered strong protests on the difficult fences.

Police Seize Three Rifles And Shotgun

STRATFORD (CP) — Police, armed with a search warrant, Sunday kicked in the door of a house, arrested a man on a charge of shooting at an officer and seized three rifles and a shotgun.

They charged John Allman, 25, with shooting at a police officer with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

Constables Frank Smart and Lorne Baulk said they stopped an auto after it went through a stop sign but during questioning the driver jumped back into his car and drove off. They followed to Allman's home in the south end of Stratford.

There, they said, the driver went into the house, came out with a rifle and fired two shots.

Police called for reinforcements but by the time they arrived, Allman had left the house. They returned later, arrested him and seized the guns and ammunition.

Colonist Hits Street in 3D

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP)—The Victoria Colonist hit the street Sunday in 3D.

A full-page color photograph and several advertisements in the morning newspaper's spring fashion supplement appeared in 3D. The colonist also published a five-column color photograph on page one in the new medium.

The newspaper supplied its readers with special glasses to view the photographs and advertisements. Made of cardboard, the glasses have one red lens and one green lens.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Women are very wonderful bridge players, insists Elva Tyme. Because, she says, men are the only people in the world who can beat them at the game.

A pair of husbands played east and west against their wives in the deal shown here:

NORTH
♠ A 5 4 3 2
♥ Q 9
♦ 9 8
♣ A Q 9

WEST EAST
♠ 10 ♠ 7
♥ 7 6 5 4 2 ♥ A K 10 8 3
♦ 6 5 4 ♦ A 5 4 2
♣ J 8 7 4 ♣ K 10 3

SOUTH
♠ K Q 9 8 6
♥ J
♦ Q J 10 7
♣ 6 5 2

East was dealer and the bidding went like this:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 H | 1 S | Pass | 4 S |
| Dbl | Pass | Pass | Pass |

The bidding by both sides was as correct as it could expect to be. The east hand certainly has enough for an opening bid of one heart and a little more if he could get a chance to show it.

The south hand has a count of five tricks. This is exactly what is promised by a simple overcall North has a count of six. With so good support he sees a technical count of 11 in the pair.

In defence, allowance is usually made for a trick off. But it still looks good for ten tricks. And if I were sitting north and believed my partner you might have heard a redouble out of me.

It happens that east and west can make four hearts when they must lose only a spade, a diamond, and a club. But they are unable to make five hearts with any decent defence against them.

If east thought south could make four spades he could have gone to five hearts and accepted a small sacrifice loss. But the penalty double of four spades looked good to east at the time.

However, when east saw dummy he began having doubts. He feared south might find a way of taking ten tricks. And it happens that south did see a way by establishing diamonds on which to sluff clubs.

But east found a defence that beat it. Can you see how?

interview without an audience. He is really quite ordinary and ill at ease.

"So it occurred to me that film actors make a mistake in not taking advantage of that wonderful stimulus—the live audience. That's why I am going back to the stage—that, and to sharpen up the tools of my profession."

I ventured that he was taking a financial loss in leaving behind the Hollywood gold.

"I've earned my money for the year," he smiled. It is reported he made over $200,000 on the Marathon "A Star is Born" with Judy Garland. Still, he added with a grin: "I consider myself grossly underpaid." • • •

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, MARCH 30, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Excellent planetary vibrations all day which present attractive and benefic prospects for you who are worthy, balance in effort. Nevertheless, be wisely careful; you could overshoot your mark.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This should be a productive and mostly pleasant period. You should be enthused, make truly solid progress in work, profession. Personal affairs can also have satisfying moments.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Heed astute advice and be not adverse to giving sound helpful cooperation. You can move forward in more than one way. A day for all who are alert and ready to work hard for what they want.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Intriguing in the early hours. Wait gains out patiently. After 12 noon you can take off brakes a bit, slacken the reins. Mental keenness and creative opportunity should help to expand your ideas, work.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Perhaps not just the aspects you wanted today but not too far off the line you expected to follow. Energy, astute action should see you through in manufacturing, general business, merchandising affairs.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You may have to put up with some things not to your liking, but this will eventually be in your favor. Do what is asked of you—and more. Don't try to figure

September 24 to October 23 (Pisces)—Mixed vibrations call for extra care, clever management of problems. Justice and honesty always play—even though you may have to wait a while. Have patience and win.

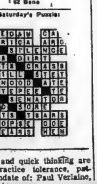
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Slightly reactionary circumstances in the a.m. may tend to upset, even detour you off the right road. A solid, sensible attitude and patience is the only solution. Tackle duties with a smile.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Calm tenacity will produce best results now. Strive after smoothness, harmony. Take advantage of excellent vibrations, use your capabilities well and follow a well-defined pattern.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Some irritating incidents may mar the early hours, but you can handle them. Details will bear close watching. Shoot straight, and, though you may lose momentarily, eventually you will gain more.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Benefic rays generally for personal affairs. Business and financial matters will need extra smart management. Be open to sound advice. That can make a big difference.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—If you have studied your problems and feel you know what to do at the right time you can profit by events now. Heart interests, private matters may influence decisions.



YOU BORN TODAY: Mars, your planet, represents great energy and a will to do. You are by nature enterprising and ambitious—qualities one needs to achieve success despite obstacles. Avoid impulsive fiery acts or words; they retard progress, offend those who would help you. You can excel where wit and quick thinking are factors. Practice tolerance, patience. Birthdate of: Paul Verlaine, French poet.

Jap Fishermen's Burns Are Healed

TOKYO (AP) — Doctors report burns and surface injuries have almost healed on 21 Japanese fishermen showered by the March 1 Bikini H-bomb explosion.

Radioactivity of skin and hair also has almost disappeared, the doctors "said Sunday.

Japanese doctors do not rule out the possibility that cumulative effects of radiation may affect the men seriously in five to 30 years.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

LEEDS, England (CP)—Addressing a dinner gathering, Lord Miller told the story of the efficiency expert who, when told by two workers that they were doing nothing, concluded: "Ah, duplication."

One of Thousands in South Korea

Parents: unknown. Age: unknown. Home: none. How does he live? Begging, stealing, foraging. The story of this waif is repeated thousands of times throughout South Korea, where homeless ones take as best they can on what they can forage. Thousands of the homeless have been taken into orphanages, but there is no accommodation for an even greater number. — Central Press Canadian.

Air From Arctic Ousts Spring From North U.S.

CHICAGO (AP)—A vast tide of arctic air spread eastward and southward today, rolling back spring in its northern United States, after dumping heavy snowfall and sub-zero temperatures on Montana Sunday.

The concentrated chill plummeted Montana temperatures Sunday to 19 degrees below zero at Cut Bank, to erase records of seven below at Great Falls and two above at Helena.

Born of and enveloped in the belated great wave of winter were such snowfalls as 10 inches at Billings, seven inches at Lewistown and six inches at Great Falls. There were lesser falls across the northern great plains into the Great Lakes region, and such spectacular temperature changes as southwestern Kansas' 15-degree drop in 15 minutes—from 76 to 61.

Kicked up at its leading edge, where the cold wave collided with warm currents from the Gulf of Mexico were a towering 7,000-foot-high dust storm in southwestern Kansas and southeastern Colorado and a small tornado that struck Anderson, Ind.

Lands in Bushes

DUNDAS (CP) — A 10-year-old girl plunged from the peak of Sydenham mountain Saturday and was saved from possible death when she landed in a clump of bushes 30 feet down.

Joyce Duckworth suffered a broken leg and bruises in the fall. She was reported in good condition in hospital.

The girl fell while hiking with two companions and a rock policeman and civilians nearly an hour to rescue her. She was placed on a stretcher and lowered down the mountainside, several hundred feet high.

Joyce was reaching over the cliff to reach a schoolbag when she fell.

The army said the children's condition was not yet critical but that they were subject to complications and it was considered advisable that their father go to them as quickly as possible.

Planes Locate Outlet Brothers, Missing in Storm

Arthur and Ivan Baverstock Found Off Nicholson's Is.

A widespread search for two brothers, Arthur Baverstock, 40, and Ivan Baverstock, 28, lost in a fishing boat off the south shore of Prince Edward County in Lake Ontario, during a heavy storm that raged all night was ended about eleven o'clock today. A Dakota plane, from Centralia, piloted by FO I. A. Stephenson, sighted the men off Nicholson's Island, about fifteen miles from where the men left port early on Monday. They were reported to be safe and alive, but their condition was not ascertained. The brothers are from the Outlet, 15 miles southwest of Picton.

A tug has been dispatched to Nicholson's Island to bring the men back to their homes. Shortly after the pilot of the Dakota spotted the boat an Otter plane from Trenton Station, bearing FO D. LeBlanc as pilot; Flt. Lieut. L. Schmirt as navigator, two provincial constables from Belleville; K. E. Williamson and G. A. Fullerton; two spotters, R. A. Eustis and Cpl. George Nimmons, and Elmer Bonter, reporter for Ontario Intelligencer, went down to 150 feet above the boat and Mr. Bonter stated that Ivan Baverstock was standing up waving his arms, while the other man was lying down in the boat. A couple of circles were made around the boat and then the plane set off for Trenton Station to report their findings.

The brothers apparently got lost in a snowstorm after going out into the lake to lift fishing nets.

When they failed to return last night a search party was organized. The search first went by land on the shore. At two o'clock this morning the search was called off for the night without any trace of the two missing men being sighted.

FAIL TO SIGHT BOAT.

This morning the search again got underway with planes joining in the search. Coastguards at Rochester assisted. Fishermen were alerted in case the men drifted across the lake. They called Picton this morning to say nothing had been sighted.

Ivan Baverstock is a married man while his older brother lost his wife about five years ago. Neither has any children.

Reports indicated the two fishermen left yesterday afternoon about 1.30 in an 18-foot boat powered by a 10 horsepower motor. Their nets were about four miles out in the lake.

The fact that the wind changed during the afternoon was believed to have been responsible for the men getting lost. The shoreline was obliterated by the snowstorm and it is thought the men may have driven out for shore in the wrong direction and then ran out of gasoline.

The boat was heavy and would be difficult to row against the wind. Toward night the wind was blowing offshore and would blow the boat out into the lake.

SEARCH FOR HOURS.

Sam Rankin, Outlet fisherman and Charles Fleischer of the Ontario Provincial Police, along with a Mr. Vandell of Salmon Point were out on the lake for hours last night but returned without sighting the missing boat.

Donald Arendell and William Thompson, both of Wellington, went out twice in their boat but could see nothing. The new fire siren on the Wellington firehall, which gave the alarm, was also set into operation in hopes that it might assist in finding the missing men ashore.

Bruce Martin, Outlet resort operator, and Earl Marvin, Wellington police chief, assisted in organizing the search.

THOUGHT SOUNDS HEARD.

Hopes that the two fishermen had been located were raised about 10 o'clock last night when watchers on the shore thought they heard sounds out in the lake. The sounds disappeared however and although the search was concentrated in that area nothing was spotted.

The search by water again got underway at daybreak and district fishermen and farmers joined in the hunt for the two missing men.

FOUR START

IPSDEN, England (CP)—Douglas Burnett was fined 50 shillings by driving a car at 40 miles a week ending in this Oxfordshire town with 14 passengers in his six-seater automobile.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Very cold Arctic air has advanced southeastward across southern Ontario bringing sunny skies to most regions. However, some cloudy intervals are expected during the afternoon today and Wednesday. Temperatures will continue about 10 degrees below seasonal values and little moderation is expected before Thursday.

'UNITED ACTION' IN INDO-CHINA URGED BY DULLES

Says Free World Should Check Reds in Asia

NEW YORK (AP)—State Secretary Dulles speaking with the advance approval of President Eisenhower, urged "united action" by the free world to prevent Communist domination of Indo-China and all southeast Asia.

Communist domination in that area of the world "would be a grave threat of the whole free community," Dulles said Monday night.

The United States feels that that possibility should be made "actively accepted, but should be met by united action.

This might have serious risks. But these risks are far less than would be in a few years from now, if we dare not be resolute today.

"Sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace, as it was at times necessary to take risks to win victory. The chances for peace are usually bettered by hitting a potential aggressor know in advance where his aggression could lead him."

CLEARED WITH IKE

Dulles' declaration on the Communist threat in the Far East was delivered in an address to the Overseas Press Club. He was learned in Washington that his call for "united action" had been specifically cleared with Eisenhower.

Dulles made clear that he meant action by the United States and its Allies, in contrast to previous statements which left room for possible American retaliation.

He did not spell out specific "united action" measures he had in mind to block Communist conquest of Southeast Asia. A state department aide said any moves would be discussed in detail with U.S. allies.

Dulles was interrupted 12 times by applause as he spoke to 1,000 persons at the dinner. The speech was broadcast nationally by radio and television, and the Voice of America sent Dulles an international audience.

Churchill Not Alarmed Over H-Bombs

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill today rejected Labor demands that Britain be permitted by United States to abandon further hydrogen bomb tests and said "we have no power to stop this."

Answering a barrage of questions about the H-bomb in a tensely hushed House of Commons, Churchill sought to minimize fears that the American test explosions might get out of hand and threaten mankind. He said:

"I can say from our own scientific knowledge that there is no foundation for the suggestion that these explosions can be localized in the sense that those making the tests are unable to set limits to the explosive power of the bomb or to calculate in advance what the results of the main effects will be."

Churchill said restrictions imposed by American law made it "impossible" to have further tests subject to international consultation.

"But even if this were not so, I should not myself be ready to propose it."

WON'T IMPEDE U. S.

"We should not wish to be doing a great disservice to the free world if we sought in any way to impede the progress of our American allies in building up their overwhelming strength in the weapon which provide the greatest possible deterrent against the outbreak of a third world war."

The prime minister said that when scientific experiments were conducted by the Russians he would welcome anyone suggesting that such representations should be made to the Soviet government.

MARAUDER ESCAPES

MARKHAM (CP) — An animal that utters weird screeches has killed five of Hugh Mitchell's chickens. Mitchell caught the animal in a trap but it got free and carried off another. He set a trap for it. Mitchell said he thought it was a wildcat.

'Lucky' Some Atoms Don't Die Off As Fast as Might Be Expected

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

RADIO CITY (AP) — The atomic age is rather a "lucky" fluke — man was almost prevented by nature from ever having the energy unlocked to make the A-bombs, or use atoms for tomorrow's power plants.

The "luck" is that some atoms don't die off as fast as they might be expected to die.

These are atoms of uranium-235, the rare form of ordinary uranium which spilt in a chain reaction to yield heat and power. This U-235 is the basis of the atomic age. It makes up only a fraction of one per cent of ordinary, non-splitting uranium.

Being radio-active, the U-235 starts to break down. But it has a half-life of 700,000,000 years. In that time, half of all the original U-235 disappears. In another 700,000,000 years, half of what was left is gone.

That means that there now exists only about 1-500th part of the original U-235. Scientists figure the universe and all the elements were created about 3,000,000,000 to 5,000,000,000 years ago.

It would be impossible to run a chain reaction with natural uranium, the atoms are too thoroughly "dead" it would be almost impossibly difficult.

The fluke is that U-235 has such a long half-life, Dr. I. Perlman, professor of chemistry at the University of California, explains. Dr. Perlman is attending the American Chemical Society's annual meeting.

In comparison with other heavy elements, U-235 would be expected to have a shorter half-life. But that it is said to be "hindered" in its decay or breakdown.

New Polio Vaccine Expected To Give Lifetime Protection

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — The next six months can spell the absolute end of polio, if all goes well.

The weapon is a polio vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk and associates of the university of Pittsburgh.

If present scientific evidence, it should protect children against the vicious polio virus. There is even reason to believe that a few shots of the vaccine can give lifetime protection.

At the moment, the vaccine is not like a new type of airplane. The engineers are pretty sure it will fly and perform as expected. But the acid test is to fly it.

So half a million to a million little children will step forward soon to take trial shots of the vaccine. After summer's end it can be learned whether the vaccine really defends them against polio and paralysis.

COULD ERASE POLIO

If the vaccine passes this critical test, then all children everywhere getting the vaccine next year, in a few years, no one would need be vulnerable to polio.

This vaccine could fail. If it does, there are prospects for still other vaccines perhaps better ones.

Dr. Salk's vaccine is made dead polio virus of three types of virus which can cause human paralysis.

It is safe, because dead cannot cause polio. But the dead virus can still create defences against live, dangerous virus.

KEY QUESTION REMAINS

The key question is, is the defence obtained this way really good enough?

The answer can only be found by giving the vaccine to hundreds of thousands of children, before the polio season begins. Local health services, and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are co-operating in the trials.

This summer many of these vaccinated children, along with unvaccinated youngsters, will be invaded by polio virus in natural exposures to polio.

Do most—or all—of the vaccinated children escape paralysis, as compared with the non-vaccinated?

If the answer is yes, the vaccine is a splendid polio. If it doesn't, the search must start afresh.

Second Hydrogen Explosion 'Successfully' Made on Friday

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has triggered its second hydrogen blast in less than a month — with waves of reaction from the March 1 explosion rolled through Congress here and in foreign capitals.

The Atomic Energy Commission disclosed the latest detonation in a bare announcement Monday night. It said "the second test of the present thermonuclear series was successfully carried out on Friday, March 26."

The AEC gave no hint of the intensity of this latest blast, touched off in super-secrecy at the U.S. government's testing ground in the mid-Pacific Marshall Islands.

Meanwhile, hit by bit, by bit, some power of the March 1 blast was being unveiled to the world.

The AEC did not indicate whether an actual H-bomb was exploded Friday, or whether the test involved tuna cating broadcast in another fishing boat that was 200 miles from the explosion. They still haven't made up their mind whether to condemn the 74,000 Japanese tuna as radio-active, showed signs of radiation; even though it was 760 miles away.

Israeli-Arab War Renewal Seen as Danger

By MAX HABBELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A key Western diplomat said today that Egypt's big new French armistice machinery may break down unless violence along the Jewish frontier is halted by the Israeli-Arab truce machinery.

Pressure increased for United Nations action to prevent bloodshed following an Israeli attack on the Jordan village of Nataliia Monday, in which nine Arabs were killed, and an Arab ambush March 17 in which 11 Israeli bus passengers were slain in the desert near the Jordan frontier.

The situation was complicated further Monday night by Russia's veto in the U.N. security council. Soviet delegate Andrei Vishinsky killed a resolution urging Egypt and Israel lift her restrictions on Israeli-bound Suez canal shipping.

The Western diplomat, expressing fears over the fate of the armistice machinery, asked not to be identified. He said the United States, Britain and France will do everything possible to avert a collapse of the procedures set up in eight years of tedious agreements to settle disputes.

Students in Cairo Threaten Armed Fight Against Junta

CAIRO (CP) — Thousands of pro-university students demonstrated today with noisy slogans and vows of an "armed struggle" against the revolutionary council's decision to end military rule of Egypt.

After hearing a speaker call for the "armed struggle," the students repeated after him in chorus: "We accept military dictatorship, restore parliamentary life, live in peace and quiet, but we are ready to die for the people and fight those who oppress them."

Then the students dispersed without violence.

The new seething political crisis took a swing in the opposite direction from the peaceful demonstration of Monday's organized demonstrators which were continued today by the council of young military officers and opposed President Mohammed Naguib's promise to return the country to civilian government.

OFFICERS RETAIN POWER

Vice-Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser and the hard core of officers supporting him in the revolution of last February 23 regard Naguib's promise of last week to turn the government over to a constituent assembly which he had scheduled for election next fall.

The council, which led the military revolt against ex-king Farouk, said it will remain in power until 1956.

Martial law and a state of siege remained in force but business was proceeding as usual and transport ran normally after members of the Egyptian transport workers union ended their strike aimed at bringing down Nasser to control.

Naguib was reported recuperating in his villa from his heart attack colleague. He is also outside the ports of president and premier, but his future as the country's biggest question mark today.

VETO SUNDAY SPORTS

SIMCOE (CP)—Voters of nearby Charlotteville township Monday turned down Sunday sports, including a stock car raceway. The final tally showed 353 against Sunday sports and 403 in favor. There were 18 spoiled ballots.

Australian Tour By Royal Couple Draws to Close

PERTH, Australia, (Reuters) — The royal tour of Australia drew to a close today as the Queen and Prince Philip boarded the first of the Cocos islands in the Indian Ocean, 1,900 miles away.

Today the royal couple flew to Cocos, Australia's last outpost, where drastically cut the numbers of children in the crowds. Only 200 out of a total of 700 schools were allowed to attend, and they were split into three separate age groups in sterilized buses and trains.

The polio epidemic appeared today to be tapering off. Only 13 fresh cases were reported to the public health department here during March, bringing the 1954 total for Western Australia state to 303.

HOUSE APPROVES FINAL AMOUNT OF GOVT. SPENDING

Plans to Increase Grants to Municipalities

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons has approved the final $100,000,000 of government spending for the fiscal year ending Wednesday.

Supplementary estimates for 1953-54 were passed Monday, together with a larger vote to carry the government into the first two months of the 1954-55 fiscal year starting April 1.

The supplementary estimates, totalling $98,214,350, are in addition to estimates of $4,433,486,000 in expenditure already approved by parliament. The 1953-54 government in 1953-54 spent about $300,000,000 in old age security payments, which are covered by special tax.

Consideration of the additional spending occupied most of the afternoon sitting. It took only 15 minutes, however, for approval of a cash advance of $330,945,824 which will permit the government to pay bills during the next two months.

The main amount required because Parliament has not yet voted the $4,491,751,000 in main estimates for the fiscal year 1954-55. Otherwise the government's spending authority would have expired at the end of the present year, Wednesday.

Supply bills for the two amounts will be considered by the senate and receive formal royal assent Wednesday.

PLANS GREAT INCREASE

Prime Minister Abbott, who piloted the estimates through the house, said the government plans to increase the grants it pays municipalities in place of local taxes.

He said he will introduce amendments at another time, perhaps next week which will make it somewhat more favorable. He gave no further details.

Grants have been paid on the basis of 15 per cent of the municipal tax rate in communities where federal property comprises four per cent or more of the municipality's total assessment.

The amendments announced by the value of Ile property and Mr. Abbott said it will continue to make its own valuations.

Kerosene Poured Over African, Then Set Afire

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Harry Harvey Hayward, 17-year-old Kenya police reserve officer, today was convicted on a charge of torturing to death a man he suspect who was severely burned while under interrogation.

Hayward was found not guilty of assault causing actual bodily harm to Kikuyu tribesman James Gathiogo, who testified he carried out orders by Hayward's dog to suspect's head with kerosene and set it afire, was convicted of that charge.

Both were remanded in custody for sentencing Wednesday.

Hayward was alleged to have ordered Gathiogo to urinate in a Mau suspect after kerosene had been poured over the man's head. Gathiogo testified he said the liquid was water labelled kerosene.

Toronto Reporter Admits Destroying Original Notes

John McLean of Telegram Testifies at Bell Hearing

A newspaper reporter admitted under cross-examination at the preliminary hearing of Mrs. Mary Bell, charged with the murder of her husband, Percy Bell, on January 2, that he had destroyed original notes of interviews and relied on "present recollections" for evidence.

John McLean, of the Toronto Telegram, who testified yesterday, admitted he had taken a bottle of whisky to the home of the accused and it was possible for him to get "soused" occasionally.

He also admitted apologizing to the accused on Jan. 11 for having had a drink. The apology was given when interviewing her. McLean has admitted he interviewed Mrs. Bell 19 times.

Consideration of the additional spending occupied most of the afternoon sitting. It took only 15 minutes, however, for approval of a cash advance of $330,945,824 which will permit the government to pay bills during the next two months.

The main amount required because Parliament has not yet voted the $4,491,751,000 in main estimates for the fiscal year 1954-55. Otherwise the government's spending authority would have expired at the end of the present year, Wednesday.

REPORTS RECALLED

John McLean, of the Toronto Telegram, recalled to the stand, said he had not related notes of interviews on the conversations he had with Mrs. Bell.

Under cross-examination, McLean told Mr. Case he was relying to a great extent on his notes but does have present recollections of certain evidence.

He said he spent some length on the subject of notes taken by Mr. Wallace at various times. Mr. McLean admitted he had destroyed some original notes after writing a story but not his notebook.

"So that in some of your evidence you have just relied on your original notes?"

"That is right," replied Mr. McLean.

QUESTION OF QUOTATION

"So that when you used quotes you are paraphrasing her statements?"

The crown objected. Magistrate Wills waived aside the objection and said: "I'll see what he means go on. He is a newspaperman and knows his English."

Troopship Sinks While in Tow Of Destroyer

GIBRALTAR (Reuters) — The battered British troopship Empire Windrush, swept by flame after an engine room explosion off Algiers Sunday, sank early today while being towed here by a British destroyer.

As soon as she started to go down the towing destroyer Saintes slipped the tow line.

Officials decided that she had put a line aboard Monday and headed for here with the troopship still smouldering and issuing smoke and steam.

During the night new flames spouted along the length of the hulk. About midnight the Empire Windrush took a sharp list.

"The bows suddenly rose high out of the water and the whole list of our searchlights we saw her slip beneath the waves," the destroyer radioed.

Cool disciplines had enabled the ship to be abandoned Sunday without loss of life aside from the four men of the engine room crew killed in the initial explosion.

Albert College Students Heard At Rotary Club

Two young men, one 22, the other 23, one from Hong Kong, China, the other from the Virgin Islands addressed the members of the Rotary Club in the Hotel Quinte on Monday. Clarence Lee and William McIntosh are students at Albert College. Each boy spoke briefly outlining life in his home country and telling a few facts about himself.

Mr. Lee discussed the crowded conditions in Hong Kong. He said that the city had three major problems, all due to over population, lack of housing, lack of facilities for drinking water and lack of employment.

The other speaker, Mr. McIntosh, told of the three main islands which go to make up the Virgin Islands. He recalled the tropical climate and noted the islanders live almost entirely on what produce. He also revealed that the tourist trade is a big business on the islands.

Both young men agreed that Canadians are friendly people. Mr. Lee plans to study medicine and Mr. McIntosh will enter the faculty of chemical engineering.

They were introduced by the principal of Albert College, the Rev. Andrew MacKenzie. Mr. MacKenzie is also chairman of the Rotary club's international relations committee. The expression of appreciation was extended by the Rev. Duncan McTavish.

Request Referred To Finance Com.

Licensing of all persons engaged in erecting television antennas with inspections to assure that the installations be properly made and to see that standard materials are used, is being sought by Belleville television dealers.

This was made known to city council last night through a letter from local TV dealers which pointed out the danger of improper antenna installations. The letter recommended that a by-law similar to ones effective in Toronto and Hamilton be passed by city council. A proposed license fee of $100 for each installer of antennas was suggested.

The matter was referred to the city finance committee for investigation and report.

Letter was written Argue forwarded on the city taking any part in ruling who might or might not install TV antennas.

"I agree that a certain standard should be adhered to, but the city should not say who can set up antennas," he said. "It is a free country and it is no business of the city."

"That is just why I am recommending that the matter be referred to a committee for investigation," returned Alderman Duffy.

City Hall Staff Members Put on Straight 5-Day Week

City hall staff members will go on a straight five-day week with a Saturday morning skeleton staff to be on duty only during July, August and September.

Alderman Wilbur Countryman made the announcement at the committee meeting, last night told council that the five-day week had been in effect theoretically at city hall for the past year, but employees were required to work Saturday mornings when time off on Friday afternoon.

This has proven not to be satisfactory as office efficiency was affected, he said.

Council approved of the straight five-day week on the understanding that staff members working Saturday morning during the summer months will not receive extra pay.

The matter of council meeting was one of the quietest this year and although there were a dozen or so people in the audience no deputations were heard and the business committee was completed by-nine-thirty.

NOT AVAILABLE TO PUBLIC

Approval was given to the payment out of a soft drink vending machine at city hall with the understanding that it will be available to the public. James Mattinson, city market and weights scales attendant, was given leave of absence for a week without pay to attend the annual Boy-Scout-D-Day anniversary celebrations in England.

The Lightfoot Construction Co. tender for excavation and installation of sewers and water in the new housing sub-division at the east of Queen Street was approved. Council is letting the contract with all costs to be paid by the owner, Mr. Smith, sub-division owners.

Contrary to a verbal understanding given council earlier, the city will not assume any cost of the compensation insurance with the compensation board. This was made known to council in a letter from the compensation board which was filed.

Alderman Countryman moved the letter be filed saying, "I just don't see why we should let council get into."

The speed of Dunbar, minister of municipal affairs, has advised council that a letter of intention to proceed with the direction of city council there would have been "little or no hocker in the arena last winter," he said.

Mayor Reid said the commission was giving consideration to complete remodelling of the arena with the special sub-committee having been set up to consider this. He said it was his understanding that the committee was to consider complete renovation of the arena with the removal of posts and installation of proper seats.

The report of the committee would be handed on for what action future commission members might deem fit.

ANSWERS CHARGE

Answering a charge that few improvements had been made at the arena, Mr. Hyde noted that since the arena was purchased by the city over $82,000 in capital improvements had been put in, including an artificial ice surface and concrete floor. Original cost of the arena to the city was $35,000.

All this had been done out of profits and although there was still a deficit account of $6,000, he said, next this the commission had cash in the city bank of $12,000.

He said that a complete financial statement would be given the public when the books of the season was completed."

Alderman Smith as chairman of last year's arena commission said that because of council's action in sponsoring a team local fans saw good hockey last season, and also the Belleville Bees hockey on Thursdays and Saturdays at no cost to themselves.

Alderman Countryman said that contrary to rumors no member of council was connected with the rental housing was referred to a special committee.

Mayor Both said the act had been changed so some could for those under 21 who had been "the sneaker they are sold the better," he said. "As it is these boxers are costing the city several thousand dollars each year in loss in taxes."

INQUIRIES INVITED

Under inquiries Alderman Temple wanted to know if the public health department was again going to grade and oil the parking areas at the rear of front street stores. He also asked the mayor to ascertain if assessment on government buildings in the city amounted to over two per cent of the total assessment. If not they would be eligible to pay full taxes, he noted.

Alderman Argue wished to know when motorcycle traffic patrols would be commenced. He also asked if the bikes would be put on the streets as soon as the weather dried up.

Alderman Countryman inquired if more than one offer for industrial land recently had been turned down by the city. He was told by Alderman Argue the only offer declined was that of Hugh Murray.

The question of annexation was brought up by Alderman Duffy who asked what action was being taken to carry out plans for taking more land into the city. Alderman Keegan said preliminary work would continue as soon as staff at city hall had more free time.

BOARD STANDING PAT

Plans for introducing fluoridation of city water are being laid up by the board of health, according to Mayor Both. Alderman Hyde asked what the feeling of this year's board of health on the matter was and was told by the mayor that it was "standing pat."

The mayor said that the Ontario government was remaining neutral on the matter.

"I have my own personal opinion, for is that the opinion of the majority of the board?" asked Alderman Hyde.

"It is my opinion, let you might check with the medical officer of health," was the reply.

Resolution to raise $126,000 for the construction of the addition to Prince Edward Public School, offered at an interest rate of 4½ per cent instead of the 4¼ per cent as was originally intended. Alderman Countryman said that the higher interest rate would raise more money than was required. "The lower rate would set the bonds closer to par," he said.

Arena Chairman Takes Exception To Public Letter

Strong exception to a letter to the editor appearing in the Ontario Intelligencer, which was said to have criticized the Belleville Arena Commission for being "more money-minded than sports-minded" was heard by council last night at a meeting.

Alderman Gerald D. Hyde as 1954 chairman of the arena commission assured that the commission is not money-minded because they are also elected representatives of the city, they must also be money minded.

"In fact if it had not been for last year's arena commission acting with the direction of city council there would have been little or no hocker in the arena last winter," he said.

Mayor Reid said the commission was giving consideration to complete remodelling of the arena with the special sub-committee having been set up to consider this. He said it was his understanding that the committee was to consider complete renovation of the arena with the removal of posts and installation of proper seats.

Grandstand Cost $10,000 More Than Expected

The new grandstand at the Belleville Fair Grounds is costing city taxpayers approximately $10,000 more than was expected members of the council were told Monday evening.

Total cost of the grandstand is now estimated at $40,000 financial and federal governments paying one-third each to an approved cost of $30,000. Total cost to the parks board will be approximately $40,000.

Some weeks ago a special committee was set up to inquire into the reason for the additional cost of the grandstand to the city. Last night the committee report was given by Alderman Wilbur Countryman.

Alderman Countryman said the agricultural society had entered in agreement with Ottawa before which the federal government would pay one-third of the cost, the provincial government a sum matched this amount.

However, the agricultural society had asked for grant only on the basis of contract plans and was $62,000. To this amount was added the cost of the steel, architect's fees and contract plans which were not paid on baseball dugouts, totalling another $3,000.

"It was unfortunate that grants on only $60,000 were asked instead of about $70,000," Mayor Both noted. "It was an oversight on the part of the agricultural committee."

Can Aid Crippled By Purchases Of Easter Seals

When you look with affection upon your children or grandchildren at play, or perhaps a crowd of youngsters romping in the games in the school yard at recess, you feel a deep pride in these sturdy bodies and in their active bodies, full of the abundant energy that is the birthright of all the forters. As one drives slowly past a crowded school ground during the hours of fun and play, one thinks the healthy result of the excellent physical training and programs which our Belleville young enjoy. And perhaps you will see, standing by the gate of the children's play, a boy with his leg in a cast—or a little girl with a brace on her leg—or perhaps there is a lame one who needs a brace but has none because the family cannot afford or cannot buy him one. Your heart goes out to the crippled children with pity, and a longing to help them so they too can join in the fun and play. And you can help. The Easter seals which are now on sale in the neighborhood or office are sent by a group in Belleville which are trying to raise a sum of money to help crippled children to recain use of their damaged little limbs.

The Rotary Club of Belleville has a list of crippled children who are objective. Here is the story of one child it has helped. The little boy's feet were abnormal and turned shortly before his fifth birthday, when, suddenly he fell down in his bed, encouraged by his small friends, and using the shelves in the refrigerator to help him. He fell and went wrong. The refrigerator fell forward, and one of his small legs was caught between the refrigerator and the door and was badly crushed. Local facilities were not sufficient to effect a good repair job on the leg. It was noticed also that he was walking only on his toes, and it had a nasty running sore. It was a grim prospect for the little boy and his grandmother came to the Rotary Club if anything could be done to save his leg. Since he required special treatment, arrangements were made at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto for his care. For the next three months he spent half his time in the hospital, and the balance at home with his leg in a cast. Treatment was successful and he is now able to join in the play with other children. Buying Easter Seals helped to make this possible.

The Rotary Club of Belleville has hundreds of similar examples for funds to care for crippled children who have parents unable to afford the cost of treatment and special services to make that child a useful citizen. Remember on the Easter Seal is drawing upon his crutches. Your contribution will make this joyous gift possible to other crippled children.

$5,000 Indians, giving to them for the first time full civil rights and liberties, while preserving fully their treaty rights.

"We shall give them the vote. Thus in Ontario we shall no longer have, bond and free, but all of our citizens without regard to race, color and creed will be able to enjoy the full status and privilege of citizenship as becomes free men in a great province such as ours."

Fair Practices Act Introduced In Legislature

TORONTO (CP)—An act providing against discrimination on grounds of race, creed and creed in places where the public is customarily admitted, was introduced in the legislature Monday.

Under the Fair Accommodation Practices Act, an individual would be eligible to a maximum fine of $50 and a corporation $100 for breaches of the act.

The new legislation repeals the racial discrimination act of 1944 and its provisions be embodied in the new act.

"Systematic and deliberate denials of human rights lie at the root of most of the world's troubles," said Premier Frost in introducing the legislation.

"In Ontario where we have accepted the universal declaration of human rights, we can do our part not only in upholding the principles upon which our country was founded and which have formed part of our life in bringing the international declaration which we have adopted by the full recognition that the inherent dignity and the equal and inalienable rights of all members of the human family are the foundations of freedom, justice and peace in the world."

Council Rejects Mayor's View City, Not Hospital Board, Should Issue Tender Call

A recommendation which would have taken away from the hospital board of governors the authority to call for tenders for the proposed addition at the Belleville General Hospital met with little approval last night on the part of council as a whole.

The recommendation tabled by Mayor Both from the board for the hospital board of governors to forward to council the plans for the proposed additions and, following council approval of the plans, that the city call for tenders.

The mayor claimed this was the procedure called for in the private bill turning the hospital over to the city.

DEFEATS MOTION

Alderman Thomas objected to the motion, citing as his reason that the city was putting up only a small percentage of the estimated cost of the addition.

"It would be all very well if the city were putting up all the money," he said. "But Belleville is making a donation of only $100,000."

He noted that it was quite in order for council to ask to see the plans but could not go along the recommendation would show that the city was handing over to the hospital board of governors.

The city has no more right to call for tenders for the hospital addition than has the county of Hastings, he said.

Alderman Duffy was also opposed to the recommendation saying that hospital affairs had been satisfactorily handled by the board.

CONSIDERED SLAP IN FACE

Alderman Bradford as council representative on the hospital, also spoke strongly against the recommendation.

"I fail to see why a recommendation such as this be necessary," he said. "The hospital last year finished the best year of its history with a small deficit of only about $5,000.

"Why should council want to take away the hospital board's power to call tenders?" he asked.

"It would be entirely without thought to even consider the recommendation and for myself I would consider it a slap in the face."

Mayor Both could see no reason for anyone to get mad. "It is merely council's responsibility," he said.

Clerk-Comptroller Harold Bateman read clauses from the private bill which indicated that the board had authority over hospital operations and any additions or extensions and also to make purchases when the necessary money had been supplied.

Alderman Temple said it was a case of property interpreting responsibility, noting that the board of governors had raised over a million dollars for the proposed wing outside of the city's contribution.

COULD SEE PLANS

He suggested that city council demanding what might seem its rights, that the mayor draw up a letter to the board of governors asking that the plans be submitted and if objected to, that the matter be settled by the board.

Alderman Temple said it was a case of property interpreting responsibility, noting that the board of governors had raised over a million dollars for the proposed wing outside of the city's contribution.

COULD SEE PLANS

He suggested that city council demanding what might seem its rights, that the mayor draw up a letter to the board of governors asking that the plans be submitted and if objected to, that the matter be settled by the board.

Alderman Countryman wanted to know if a motion could be required to authorize the hospital board's to call tenders if the mayor's recommendation failed to pass.

City solicitor R. A. Pringle noted that council would have to abide by the act regardless of any recommendation that should be passed. He observed there was no law in passing the recommendation.

The recommendation was accordingly withdrawn.

No Legal Action to Be Taken By Council Over Drainage

Belleville city council does not want to take any legal or other action with respect to water drainage, especially so when no city property is involved in the dispute.

This was made clear Monday night when council turned down a recommendation directing the city solicitor to take action against the McFarland Construction Company with respect to the alleged damage to the property of Mrs. Stagrave, archdeacon of Wentworth.

'53 Assessment Gives Lower Tax Notices

TRENTON (Special) — Council's decision to set the tax rate at 53 mills has much to say for it, the Trenton members of the Provincial Manual. In the readjustment of values many property owners enjoyed lower tax notices. Now they have double the reason for rejoicing with the rate slashed 12 points below the 65 mill rate of 1953.

And those property owners who complained about higher assessments are going to fare better than they thought. In general their tax payments will be no higher.

In odd cases, however, commerce and industry found fault with the assessor's figures. On the other hand the Court of Revision reviewing the protests considered the increase fair and appropriate. The court dealt with appeals on the basis that the government guide provided an equitable means of valuating.

SAME GRANT GIVEN

At the most recent meeting of council Chairman of Finance Gerald Weaver announced that the town grant to the Trenton Memorial Hospital will be the same this year as it was last. The 1953 council provided a grant of $5,000 for the hospital board.

REPORTER

"Quotations mean an exact statement," the magistrate said.

"That is right," McLean said.

Referring to Mrs. Bell's statement regarding the possibility her husband had taken strychnine pills from a doctor for his heart, McLean said his notes were a gist of her remarks.

Mr. Cass produced a Telegram headline that stated Bell's body had contained strychnine, suggesting the theory was there.

The defence counsel also suggested that McLean was relying more on his notes than original recollection. The witness agreed.

McLean, under questioning, said Mrs. Bell had used the word "Gestapo" before he did. He told counsel he had added 'times' in original notes after he had been advised he would be a witness at this hearing.

Was Mrs. Bell trying to give you a story when she told you about her husband giving her a fur coat and she asking him to take it back?" asked Mr. Cass. "I think she was."

"Aren't you usually wary about people trying to give you stories?"

"Not always."

McLean recalled Mrs. Bell saying her lawyer had advised her not to give information for stories on January 13th.

"Then she went ahead and gave three stories?"

"Yes."

IN "QUOTATION MARKS"

Referring to a note that Mrs. Bell said her dictionary had asked her to get three ounces of strychnine, counsel said the note was in "quotation marks."

McLean said his notes in quotations were not always the exact statement made by Mrs. Bell.

"Then you were paraphrasing," said counsel.

Witness said he would like to consult a dictionary before replying.

"Then I suggest your vocabulary exceeds that of Mrs. Bell's?" said Mr. Cass.

"It might be a little better," said McLean.

Counsel suggested witness sometimes drank to excess. He admitted it could be possible.

McLean admitted he had gone to the Bell home with a bottle nearly full. He had one drink in the Bell home. Nobody else had a drink out of it.

Counsel named a certain brand and suggested it was the bottle found in the Bell home with one drink out of it.

Magistrate Wills injected the remark that the witness knew nothing of whether it was the bottle found in the home.

McLean said he had apologized to Mrs. Bell on January 11 but could not recall whether it was for being "high, intoxicated or having addiction."

McLean admitted he was asked by the police to keep a record of his interview with Mrs. Bell.

"Notwithstanding this, you deliberately some of the original notes?" asked Mr. Cass.

"Yes, but I did do so to conceal anything," replied McLean.

"Did Inspector Kelly tell you to publish the story about the strychnine?"

"I had not time, but felt I should not publish it in respect for Mrs. Bell."

"You published it the next day because you felt she had died it."

"Mrs. Bell had told me the secret was out."

"Would you have published the story if Inspector Kelly had asked you?"

"Honestly, I cannot say," said the witness.

Mr. Cass asked the witness to relate his past assignments, and when hesitating, suggested his knowledge of the assignments was like the Bell interviews, without the notes.

Reexamined by the crown McLean agreed anybody searching the files of the Telegram would get records only from bylined stories.

"When you found out about the strychnine, did the police know it?"

"I don't know."

McLean said the story was published after he knew the police knew it.

The witness reiterated that he told Mrs. Bell's lawyer had told her not to give any information for stories, and that she subsequently did so.

LEARNED OF EXHUMATION

Roy Peacock, Ontario Intelligencer reporter said Mrs. Bell told him she had learned from the Star by phone about a Tely story about the exhumation.

"She said she could not understand it. She appeared put out with the police and said they should have asked her permission. She called local police and later said, 'If there was evidence to it, he must have done it himself.'"

Peacock related how witness said, "and he asked her if there was any poison in the house."

She said, "I was fishing in a fishing box." She told witness how happy she had been. She volunteered information about a mortgage on the house and said, "we owed payments on a TV and car."

Witness related the story of New Year's eve and its activities. She said Bell complained about being sick at 2 a.m. Jan. 2 but offered no details.

Peacock stated he went specifically for pictures and not an interview.

He revealed under crown questioning the words used by Mrs. Bell, "If there is anything in it, he must have done it himself."

Cross-examined, witness said he had taken no notes but later had written "a few paragraphs" in his newspaper.

Counsel produced Tely headlines which used the word "poison." "This must suggest someone" he used the word "poison" to her before you came.

Peacock repeated he did not go for an interview, but for pictures. He did not encourage her to talk, but admitted most reporters would.

SAW MRS. BELL

Boyd Upper, another Ontario Intelligencer reporter, testified he saw Mrs. Bell, Sunday, January 10, at the home of Mrs. Jenners in Trenton. Mrs. Bell, "Rusty" Jenners, Mrs. Jenners and John McLean were there.

He did not get any information from Mrs. Bell but he talked with Jenners and while talking Mrs. Bell came into the room and said he shouldn't talk with the witness.

Upper said he tried to get an interview for his paper but was told by the accused if he wanted a story he must wait until the Telegram came out. She felt the Tely had the true story and did not want to repeat it.

Mack Parliament, Toronto Star reporter, said Mrs. admitted him to the Bell residence at 10 p.m. Saturday, January 9. He repeated other witness' evidence regarding Mrs. Bell's statement regarding exhumation.

She added she wanted to give her husband a decent burial with an ice casket and a marble stone. She was greatly disturbed over the exhumation and appeared put out over the action of the authorities.

Mrs. Bell stated her husband had complained earlier in the day of January 1st of a pain in the back of the neck. She said an employee friend of his had mentioned the same thing on the day of the funeral. Her husband's skin had a yellowish tinge which may have been caused by a liver condition, she told Parliament.

Police witness recalled Mrs. Bell saying she would have had additional distress if her husband had to be buried later on. This was construed by counsel as being because of strychnine.

USED WORD "GESTAPO"

He said Mrs. Bell used the word "Gestapo" during a conversation.

Mr. Cass objected to the crown showing witness a copy of The Star showing his story, but the objection was overruled.

He quoted: "She also discounted Sir, reason why he should do away with himself."

Again Mr. Cass objected, and again he was overruled.

James Lynch, Toronto photographer, who accompanied the Parliament and "we tried to get material for a story."

He admitted much of the conversation had slipped his mind. He did help reporters by his notes to help them with their stories.

He asked Mrs. Bell if she thought Bell was poisoned with arsenic?"

She replied: "If it was poison, it was by his own hand. I did not think anyone else would want to kill him."

Mrs. Bell, stated the witness, told them it was not her wish to enter-in-law, but her sister in Seeley's Bay, when questioned who started the investigation.

"We asked why her sister, the Coroner's physician, and she replied she did not get along with her and she might have done it for revenge."

"She said her daughter Judy, her fourteen year old girl, that's all she was, and when he died he was all the love of his heart with him.

"She said Bell liked candies and sometimes, when he got up he would be sick. She used to told him about being pregnant," said Lynch.

YMCA Solves Language Problem With Ten Portuguese Immigrants

Y.M.C.A. general secretary Lloyd Skeaf had his problems on Monday. Early yesterday morning an immigration officer brought 10 young men to the "Y" building for rooms. The men were from Portugal and had come to this country in search of work. The problem was: Mr. Skeaf does not speak Portuguese and the new arrivals do not speak English. While the secretary busied himself phoning throughout the city in an effort to locate someone who did speak English and Portuguese, the immigration official went in search of farm employment for the immigrants. In the meantime, 10 confused young men wondered at the immensity of the "immigration" building, its swimming pool, gym facilities and friendly, smiling official who was doing his best to make them understand.

After calling the Collegiate, newspaper, radio station and city residents who might speak the language, Mr. Skeaf finally contacted a Frenchwoman who spoke two languages, French and Spanish, but no English. Spanish is not the same as Portuguese, but similar. Then Mr. Skeaf called in Paul Mercier who speaks French, Spanish and Italian. Mr. Skeaf asked Mr. Mercier questions in English. Mr. Mercier transcribed them to the woman in French and she in turn spoke to the 10 young men in Spanish. In this manner, some communication between Mr. Skeaf and his charges was arranged.

Later, in response to a radio appeal, a Mr. Dubsen who was able to understand Portuguese but did not speak it, arrived on the scene. Through this gentleman, further contact with the young men was continued.

At three yesterday afternoon, a Canadian, Vernon Ashton, who had attended school in Brazil and spoke Brazilian Portuguese solved the problem for Mr. Skeaff. He spoke to the new arrivals for 45 minutes and explained to them arrangements being made for them and answered any questions they had to ask. Employment was found for four of the immigrants by the end of the day.

Canada's First Subway Opens

TORONTO (CP)—The screaming air whistles of 100 subway trains today signalled the opening of Canada's first subway, a $58,500,000 project that brings modern transportation to traffic-clogged Toronto.

Premier Frost invited Mayor Alan Lamport to "place your hand on the throttle" to pull the switch giving the green light for the subway to officially roll. Thus the premier smoothed civic feelings somewhat over the Toronto-Metro city, which guided the building of the subway through stormy Metro Council years, had not been given a bigger place in opening ceremonies.

The opening ceremonies at Davisville station, one of 32 along the 41-mile route from Union Station near Lake Ontario northward to Eglinton avenue, was a big-talked affair. Starting at 11 a. m. the official party, headed by the premier, mayor and official trains for a ride along the length of the new underground.

PIPERS GREET VIPs

Pipers greeted the VIPs at Union Station and two subway workers in Canada's first subway stood by while the premier unveiled a commemorative plaque.

Two hours later the subway was opened to the public at stations simultaneously. Thousands flocked through the token-taking turnstiles.

MOSCOW STORY WITH A MORAL

Spring will soon be here.

Gardeners will be lovingly crumbling the good warm earth between their fingers. Grubbing in the dirt.

Fishermen will thrill to the leap of trout or the trolling drive of a muskie. Dangling a worm or a spoon or a minnow.

Lovers will be strolling in moonlit glades. Smooching.

Golfers will be flexing their muscles and getting their swing in shape. Banging a little ball around a hayfield.

Two views on every question. Perhaps the best example is that contained in an article by William L. Shirer in "The AP World." Mr. Ryan has just returned from Russia. He described a taxi ride, as follows:—

"I usually rode in the front seat with the driver. But one of children with the driver about this and that. One them left me reeling a bit with this exchange:

"He saw me opening a package of cigarettes.

"'American cigarettes?' he asked. 'Give me one.'

"I gave him one. He tucked it behind his ear.

"'Give me another,' he said.

"I gave him another. He put it in his mouth and I lit it for him. He took it from his mouth and looked it critically.

"Too strong,' he grunted.

"'Too strong?' I replied. 'I think papyrossi (Russian cigarets which have more cardboard holder than tobacco) very strong.'

"'I know,' he said, without batting an eyelash. 'But don't smoke'."

That sounded absurd to Ryan. It sounds absurd to us, too. There are lots of people who will tell you that gardeners and fishermen and golfers and even lovers are unqualified to sit in judgment on their own addictions, on the ground of permanent insanity. So perhaps the Russian taxi-driver was right and the only unbiased judge is a person who knows nothing whatever about the point at issue.

Come to think of it, that still leaves us with an ample supply of judges on almost every problem.

THEY BOWED DOWN TO BAAL

The New York Times reports that 34 per cent of the members of the West German diplomatic corps once belonged to the Nazi party.

It is explained that in 1949, when the West German Government was authorized to have limited representation abroad, there was almost no one available for diplomatic posts. Only those who had served under the Hitler government "were not politically acceptable." Others had been killed in the Nazi purge after the attempt to assassinate Hitler in July of 1944. During the war there had been no regular entry of young men into the diplomatic service. Between the end of the war and the establishment of the Bonn government in 1949 there had been no diplomatic service for anybody to enter.

The Bonn Government was faced with a shortage of manpower. There was no question of "quality" at the start. "The only requirement was that applicants had been whether those under consideration had to avoid formal membership in the party had been accepted." In 1949 the Government decided against taking them. "To the extent that the services were available at a complete Foreign Office could not be set up. "In 51 it was decided to fill out the ranks of the service by hiring very carefully chosen former members of the Nazi party.

Some may find it frightening to realize that the diplomatic service of our allies is in the fight against communism is a one-third ex-Nazi. Others may obtain comfort from the fact that these ex-Nazis were only "nominal" party members, men who were "unable to avoid formal membership in the party." Still others will find this latter phrase the most frightening fact of all, that the face of so great an evil as Hitlerism can so quickly be the courage to refrain from enjoying the material benefits of "formal membership."

Of course, it is not true to suggest that this is a state of affairs that is being revealed for the first time. That set Germans were prepared to accept the evils of the nazi regime was evident during the war and, indeed, in the pre-war years. We are apt to forget this fact. And we find it difficult to realize that, in this acceptance, the Germans probably did not act differently from the manner in which citizens of other countries have reacted to a similar situation. This is frightening, because tyranny is not built so much on the deeds of many ill men as on the complacency of the many in the face the evil of the few.

THE LATEST IN MOVIE GUIDES

A little girl was leading her little brother, blindfolded to the movies. A policeman was puzzled and asked anything was the matter.

"No, no," answered the girl. "He's not blind. He isn't shy. He keeps his eyes shut until we get to the movies, and then when we get in, he opens his eyes and finds seats for us in the dark" (Wall Street Journal).

THE GOOD PROVIDER

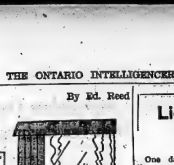
He was a good provider. You have heard the term before. He put his wife in charge of accounts at every sort of store. He gratified her every wish, whene'er she made it known, for that he believed that he should go his way alone.

He kept his business to himself and shared no confidence. In conversation always bore the stamp of common sense. His children were the best of clothes and ate the best of fare. They had seldom known their dad to take them anywhere.



He was severely just and wise. He had no time for play. He stood upon his dignity each minute of the day.

If money could have made them glad, then happy they'd have been, but they'd a need for something more this man had never seen.

This good provider didn't know what should be known by men: That every woman wants to be made love to now and then, And he who does not give himself to them who share his name May be a good provider, but he's selfish just the same.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Mr. Melion Bateman of Oshawa is visiting his mother, Mrs. James Bateman, North Front Street.

Mr. Walter J. Handley is home from Toronto to spend Easter with his parents, Mrs. William J. Handley, Octavia Street.

At a well attended meeting of the Grand Trunk Railway Council the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: hon. president, A. D. MacMillan and Mayor W. C. Mikel; president, Mayor Gerow; first vice-president, H. Nash; second vice-president, Jas. Kerr; third vice president, R. D. Ponton; secretary-treasurer, Thomas Cooper; passenger manager, Walter Gerow; executive committee, G. V. Sawyer and Stan Hagerman.

Mr. Reg. Abrams spent the week-end in Toronto.

Mr. W. Wager is spending a few days in Toronto.

40 YEARS AGO

MARCH 30, 1914.

All further trouble from the ice jam appears to be averted. Yesterday the ice which was piled against the C.N.R. bridge moved out for some distance and immediately the water lowered to a considerable extent. While there is at present a vast volume of water flowing down the river it is a few feet below the banks and, will not rise again this season.

Mr. R. H. Mowry, former manager of Stroud's Store here, who is leaving shortly to reside in Edmonton, was presented recently with a handsome gold locket by the members of the Yorkfellows' Bible Class in the Baptist Church Sunday School.

Mr. J. J. Kelso, Superintendent of the Neglected Children's Department, Toronto, is spending a few days in town.

50 YEARS AGO

MARCH 20, 1904.

About two o'clock this morning the immense body of ice in the river took another shove with the result that today we are experiencing a real flood. The residents along the lower part of Coleman Street were suddenly aroused from their sleep by water rushing through their houses. In a few minutes at the junction of Coleman and Bridge Streets over the water was rushing over the roadway like a miniature river. It flowed over what is known as the flats and in a short time James, Brock, Mary, Kright, Coleman and streets were flooded with water to the depth of from one to two feet. Even at that early hour in the morning many families were called their houses, fearing that the worst was yet to come. In many houses the fires were put out. The loss in many homes will be considerable. Boats were brought into commission on Bridge Street and on a portion of Coleman and Everett Streets and-in this way the inmates of some of the houses were transferred to places of comfort. Some blasting was done in the channel between the park and the western shore and some time ago, even but commenced to move. The water soon lowered and in a short time the flooded alleys and streets were drained. It is now thought that the flood is over for this year.

Starlings Scare Selves

(Gall Evening Reporter).

The town of State College, Pa., plagued by thousands of starlings, has been just about cleared of the pests. The Pittsburgh Press-Post was turned against them in terrorizing, unpitied fashion.

How the starlings were startled out of their wits and their roosts was revealed recently by the American Association for the Advancement of Science, according to an American writer who describes what happened as follows:

Dr. Robert Frings and Dr. Joseph Sumber of the Pennsylvania State university department of zoology and entomology, which is located in the Pennsylvania town, described their terror campaign in Science, official journal of the association:

They estimated that between 10,000 and 20,000 starlings had taken up residence in the three square miles of State College.

They roosted on buildings of the business district and in trees of the residential areas.

Nothing was effective, against them, including fireworks, but make owls and all manner of sharp metal contraptions.

Then Dr. Frings and Dr. Sumber stepped in. The first thing to do was catch a starling. This they did — by what means is not stated. Having caught it, they held the sample starling by its legs and shook it.

The starling didn't like this at all. It protested with a chirp that the scientists interpreted as a distress call, as a cry of alarm.

Twenty seconds of this chirp, call, was recorded. A continuous hour long tape recording was then pieced together. The recording was amplified on a sound truck up to a level of 120 decibels, which is a lot of noise, and then, even louder than most airplane engines.

The scientists found a tree that was heavy laden with starlings. They aimed the amplifier into the flock and turned on the chirp.

The flock fled.

At the end of the third night the starling population of State College had dropped to a mere 200.

Dr. Frings and Dr. Sumber had given nearly 12,000 starlings the bird.

The terror treatment was applied last summer and the scientists reported the area was free of starlings until October, the time of migration when the birds normally would have left anyway.

Dr. Frings and Dr. Sumber said the distress call is "species specific". That is, starlings are frightened but robins, and other birds are not.

Layoffs There, Too

Lichen's Lesson on H-Bomb

(Montreal Gazette).

One day, back in Victorian times, a group of scientists in Montreal had gathered in the old Natural History Society's museum on University street. They were to undertake a very interesting scientific examination. Mr. Saul Ferres, a wealthy Montreal businessman, had donated a number of Egyptian antiquities to the museum's collections. Among these were several Egyptian mummies. These scientists had decided that they would determine how this miracle of preservation had been possible.

They unrolled the ancient bandages. And they found that quantities of linen had been wrapped around the body to preserve the odor of the spices.

The lichen was examined by one of the scientists present, Sir William Dawson, the Principal of McGill University. He identified it as "Evernia furfuracea."

Then Sir William made a striking comment. A distinguished scientist, he recognized that this lichen was a type found on the hills of Judea. This meant the Egyptians had imported it from Lebanon for their purposes. But he went on to point out that it was also identical with the lichen to be found on the White Hills of the State of Maine.

• • •

Nor did he believe that the two facts were unrelated. "The ancients," he said, "knew that the 'float higher than the lightest down in the air, and may be wafted over land and sea from one country anywhere to grow where conditions are favorable." It was most likely the spores of the "Evernia furfuracea" on the White Hills of Maine had been used in the mysterious burial rites of ancient Egypt. "Thus," he concluded, "the world, on the upper atmosphere, and subsequently thereabouts on Maine's White Hills.

No doubt the group of scientists in the old Natural History Society's museum were impressed at so strange a fact. To-day Egypt and Maine seem oddly close. Yet they like no two countries could be farther apart. Nor so different as they seem.

• • •

The hydrogen bomb that was exploded on the first day of this month demonstrated, as never before, the unity of the world's atmosphere. The explosion astounded even the scientists who were conducting it. One observer says that it seemed to threaten "never to be out of control.

But the tremendous fact is not the explosion itself. It is rather the so-called "secondary radiation." This is the result of debris carried for some 800 miles. Hours later, in Japan, far from the scene of the actual explosion.

The question is how far-reaching these and bigger atomic experiments are feasible. The fact that all can be used for tremendous distances is not new. Within recent years certain scientist colleagues that "the volcanic dust, consisting of shreds of pumice, etc., thrown up by the eruption of Krakatoa, in 1883, was carried by trade winds round the globe, and remained suspended for months in the atmosphere." So as yet the dust carried from a hydrogen explosion loses its harmful effects. Nobody can say for sure. But the harmful area is enlarging alarmingly. Year after year, the dust may displace the explosion in importance.

• • •

What can be done now? Perhaps the best advice has been given by Representative Carl Dunham, a member of the Congressional Joint Atomic Energy Commission. As he says, the bomb "is not a toy." The public has a best to tell the world quickly the extent of the property damage and the loss of life that can be expected from this type of weapon."

And it is best. For, in a strangely grim way, the growth of the horror may also mean the growth of the hope. This is Sir Winston Churchill's view.

"Sometimes," he says, "I have awed thought that the very terrifying character of these agencies may bring an utterly unforeseen and unintended security . . . It may be that . . . when the advances of destructive weapons enables everyone to kill everybody else, nobody will want to kill anybody at all."

• • •

When the atmosphere itself becomes an instrument of war, war itself may have become an instrument of self-destruction. For as far as the atmosphere itself is concerned this is certainly not so.

Sir William Dawson in Montreal knew that back in the 1880's. Though he, in his more sheltered age, had only to note that the volcanic dust from Krakatoa had been wafted round the globe, or that from the hills of Lebanon and the White Hills of Maine may have floated the spores of the lichen.

Moonshine From Moscow

(New York Times).

The Moscow radio has exhorted Soviet youth to make sure that the first man to reach the moon is Russian. The voice on the Soviet radio was that of the Russian scientist A. Abrahamov of the Academy system awaits a Soviet Columbus."

That is interesting, but it may get Mr. Obruchev into trouble with his colleagues when they learn that Columbus was not the first man to discover America. As is well known, he was the last man to discover America was a Russian who sailed from Asia to Alaska centuries before another Russian discovered Genoa. As is well known, the Russian not only discovered America; he was also the first to explore the overland journey from the Atlantic, since the Panama Canal, and to discover the Pacific. Columbus was not even in existence. On his voyage to Cathay Peter had blueprints for the construction of the Eli Whitney "cotton gin, the Eli Whitney "cotton gin, the Eli Whitney "cotton gin,

'Not Criminally Involved' Accused Tells News Reporter

A newspaper reporter testified Monday afternoon that Mrs. Mary Bell, charged with the strychnine murder of Percy W. Bell, her 33-year-old husband, told him in an interview that she was not criminally involved.

John McLean, of the Toronto Telegram, told the court Mrs. Bell said: "I know nothing about this whole mess as far as crime goes. My friends will know because we led a happy, carefree life. The scandal of this story is the most terrible thing that ever happened to me. I can only hope the person responsible can live with his conscience."

McLean heads a lengthy list of newspapermen who have been subpoenaed by the crown. Bob McCormick, Belleville photographer, also testified yesterday.

The Toronto newsman told the court that Mrs. Bell had referred him a drink at one time, stating she never took one because "my husband would turn over in his grave if he ever knew I took one."

Heinz Wolf, a German immigrant, told the court he lived in the home for nine months with Jerry Brauers, a compatriot, told the court Mrs. Bell had referred to Roscoe "Rusty" Jenners, a boarder in the Bell house, was her brother.

Evidence revealed that the accused woman told a newspaperman after being told of the finding of strychnine in the victim's stomach: "I don't know anything more about it than you do."

Witnesses called yesterday also included several fellow workers of Percy Bell's rooomate Fred Bell home, and Mrs. Mabel Jenners, mother of Roscoe Jenners. In all thirteen witnesses have been called out of 45 subpoenaed.

Kwart Hill, Mead Johnson foreman, first witness called, said the only time Percy Bell had been absent was only for five hours in two years, due to a slight back injury.

Bell drank coffee. "We treated him as a good friend. He was a good workers, none better."

The witness recalled Bell came in late in the fall last year with a blackish mark on his face."

"Mrs. Bell was not with her husband at the plant picnic last year," Hill said .

The defence objected to the crown question of Bell's outlook on life. Hill said: "He was a very fine man, always talking about fishing trips."

Under cross-examination Hill said the "treating" was one way, as it was likely Bell did not have the money.

Mrs. Mabel Jenners, Wooler, mother of Roscoe Jenners, said he came home every Tuesday and Thursday nights. She admitted she knew her son and Bell were separated. The Bell used to visit her house. They usually came alone.

They were at witness's home on New Year's Day for dinner, arriving at 11 o'clock. They had a roast turkey dinner and "everything that goes with it," They all enjoyed it.

They played euchre, sang and had another meal shortly after six, "the leftovers from dinner: cold turkey, and again they ate well. They had fruit, nuts, cake, cheese, cake, nuts, candies, etc. The candies were chocolates.

GREAT MAN FOR CANDIES

"I noticed Mr. Bell was a great man for candies."

Mrs. Jenners said the Bells and her son left together at the same time that night.

She had seen Mrs. Bell once since Bell's death, on the Sunday after the funeral, January 10th. She was at the funeral, and saw Mrs. Bell. The only conversation was of a sympathetic nature.

The witness had not seen Mrs. Bell since the funeral, until the accused came to her home saying "she was lonely."

PERFECTLY INNOCENT

The witness said "Mrs. Bell stated she was surprised at what she heard." She said "I am perfectly innocent of anything." She did not mention anything about a will.

Mrs. Jenners said on January 10 she did not have any chance to say anything to Mrs. Bell because "we were too busy shutting the door on reporters."

The witness said she had been in the Bell home on January 3 from 10 o'clock to noon, after she went to the cemetery, "Her daughter was there, so was my son."

The witness identified letters she wrote to Mrs. Bell on November 5 and 15, and also another with no date. Those were delivered by her son to Mrs. Bell.

The crown said it had no intention of reading the letters at the present time. They were entered as exhibits.

DAUGHTER NOT PRESENT

Mrs. Bell gave Percy Christmas gifts of shoes, shirts, etc. She received gifts from him, the witness said. Mrs. Bell's daughter was not there for Christmas.

"Did your son give Mrs. Bell a Christmas gift?"

"We all exchanged gifts."

Cross-examined, Mrs. Jenners said she had told all the truth and had held nothing back.

Defence counsel said: "I take it you know nothing of any guilt of your son?"

"No. I know nothing of that nature."

I wish the witness would not say "yes," before the question is asked," interrupted the crown.

Mrs. Jenners said she had found after Bell in an upset condition after her husbands death.

APPEARED TIRED

"Would you say Mrs. Bell was acting normally?"

"She appeared tired." Mrs. Jenners said she had heard about the exhumation of Mr. Bell's body but had not discussed it with Mrs. Bell.

G. W. Woolford, assistant manager of the Bank of Montreal testified the branch held a joint account of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bell. He produced certified copies of the account which were entered as exhibits.

He produced cheques drawn on the account. Most of the cheques were signed "Mrs. Marie E. Bell" the crown said, but said one for 12 and some cents was signed "Mrs. Marie E. Bell, per Percy Bell." The witness said the signature was correct.

COULD DRAW CHEQUES

"There was nothing to prevent Mr. Bell from drawing cheques?" asked the defence.

"Nothing," said the witness.

Heinz Wolf, a German, said he knew Mrs. Bell through coming at the Bell home with a friend in 1952. A Mr. Jenners was boarding there.

Mrs. Bell told witness Jenners was her brother, Wolf testified He identified a painting as one done by Jenners because Mrs. Bell said her "brother painted it."

From his room upstairs, the witness said he could hear anyone if they called from downstairs.

Wolf said he had met his roommate Jerry Brauers in Quebec. The defence counsel warned the witness he was under oath. Wolf stated he had lived at the Bell home for nine months.

"Exactly English was worse than mine at the time," said the witness.

HAD DIFFICULTY WITH ENGLISH

Mr. Cass said the German word for brother was "bruder." He suggested it resembled the word "boarder," and could be mistaken, for, it. Jenners never referred to as the boarder.

"Are you swearing on your oath the word was 'brother' and not boarder'?"

"Yes."

The witness admitted he and Jenners had had difficulty with the English language and sometimes misunderstood. He said Mrs. Bell showed them a picture at one time, when she called him "brother." He repeated he had never heard Jenners referred to as the boarder.

NEVER WENT OUT ALONE

The witness said Mrs. Bell told him near the end of 1952 she was going to a birthday party in Trenton. She was upstairs at the time. Bell was downstairs.

"Do you swear that Bell never went out unless Mrs. Bell was with him?"

"Yes."

The crown asked Wolf if he had heard Bell call to his wife downstairs on more than one occasion.

Wolf said he could have been a couple or more times.

Robert McCormick, photographer - reporter, told the crown he had been asked to check the activities of Inspector Kelly.

McCormick went to the Bell home to get pictures of Mr. Bell Admitted by Mrs. Bell, the witness had asked her for pictures. She started going through a family album.

WENT TO DANCE

Mrs. Bell told witness she and her husband had gone to a Trenton dance came home and the next day went to dinner with friends.

She said during a television program New Year's night, Bell had complained of a pain in the back. A boarder "Rusty" offered to get him a liver pill. He got them. Some upstairs. A couple of hours later her husband said he had a headache. She called the boarder "Rusty". Bell was in great pain when they returned. Finally he had to hold him down. She said she called Dr. Anderson. He gave her husband a hypo or sedative and also gave her one.

ANNOYED AT POLICE

McCormick said he saw Mrs. Bell later and she seemed annoyed at the police. Her husband had no enemies, he said. Several times witness a number of sympathy cards.

"She knew her husband's body had been exhumed and was annoyed with the authorities for not notifying her," he said.

McCormick recalled that Mrs. Bell said her husband wanted to have his body cremated.

Mrs. Bell referred to Jenners as "Rusty" and when asked who he was she said he was a "boarder."

He gathered from the conversation that Jenners had selected a single liver pill and came downstairs with it.

ALL AFFABEL GIFTS

Referring to the Christmas gifts everything Mr. Bell was wearing were gifts, was the impression the witness received.

The witness said he would swear to the fact Mrs. Bell said they had been to No. 6 R.D. and Trenton to a dance or party.

John McLean, Toronto Telegram reporter, told the court, he talked to Mrs. Bell on the phone connected with a sudden death. On receipt of information he sent a photographer to the Spanner funeral parlor. "Previously he had heard a lady had been exhumed in Napanee.

He had directed Bob McCormick to go to the Bell home for pictures of Bell. He phoned Mrs. Bell at 4:55 and apologized to her and told her he was under the impression she had known of the exhumation.

WENT TO BELL HOME.

He said: "If there was anything like that, it must have been by his own hand. I remember that distinctly for she told me to come over."

McLean said he went to the Bell home later.

"How many times did you talk with her?"

"I cannot remember exactly, but it was just 19 times either on the phone or personally" said the witness. He was given permission to refer to his notes.

Mrs. Bell told him with reference to the exhumation, the authorities had used Gestapo tactics and they had no right to dig him up." She had not slept for 66 hours, and her husband always wanted to be cremated. She added her husband wanted his ashes scattered over Big Island or Quinte. She said she would not do that to a dog.

HIGHLY RESPECTED.

Her husband was a highly respected man and was "no slouch" she said.

McLean said she told him she had received $1,000 insurance and said she was getting Bell's "holiday pay."

He saw Mrs. Bell again the following day, Jan. 10, at Wooler at the home of Mrs. Jenners. "She gave me a full story on my request. I made it and let her read it. She was satisfied with it," McLean said.

She mentioned Gestapo tactics again saying, "I cannot express in words how much I loved him. We always went hand in hand. I should mention the expense and trouble I went to to buy him respectably. I'll have the public know I was not after my husband's money. If they had come to me with any doubt in their mind to my husband's death, I would have helped them."

She described the New Year's Day activities in McLean, saying that "Rusty" was like Mr. Bell's own son. They were always together on Sunday fishing and at sports.

Mr. Bell had asked Rusty to play "Abide With Me" at the end of the New Year's activities in the Jenners' home in Wooler.

NO ONE KNOWS ANSWERS BUT GOD

The accused told McLean she had read tea-cups "but nobody knows the answers but the god upstairs." "Later she said nobody known the answers but God."

On January evening when there was a moon eclipse, the witness said something about the tea-cup reading to Mrs. Bell. She said, "I am not worried about anything because I read a four-leaf clover in my cup, with a big shaped tree that represents life."

He interviewed her the next day at her home. She said Rusty had been over that morning. She said she thought highly of him, for he did a lot for the family. She was glad Rusty was present when her husband died, for she did not know what she would have done without him.

She invited the witness and the photographer to come in that day. He had consulted Inspector Kelly at 4.55. "I decided myself not to use that information in the paper" said McLean.

NO SECRET.

She said: It was quite possible for her husband to get strychnine pills from a doctor. "He might have got just enough this last time to do it," McLean testified.

He said he called Mrs. Bell on Jan. 19 and she said "There's no secret about it. They haven't asked me so I didn't tell them." This was in reference to the purchase of strychnine, McLean said. He admitted Mrs. Bell called him several times. She had never seen her take a drink.

Club Activities

The Young People discussed the idea of having a display of hobbies in the fall. No decision was reached. Also the meeting for April 5, is cancelled and the Young People will be attending the play at the O.S.D.

The meeting was turned over to the two group leaders, Jean Campbell and Gloria Hawkins. The order of the worship service included a Scripture reading by Ann Campbell.

This week the total count of members was 30 with two visitors, Bryce Philpis, of Stirling, and John Bedford, of Belleville.

Following the roll call a lively sing-song led by Neil Smith, took place.

The project the Union decided upon was to have placed in the pews, Bibles for the use of the church congregation.

The Rev. Sidney E. Lerman gave a most interesting talk on "The History of the Church" and the many expressions used today which originated with the early Christians years ago.

A few games and refreshments closed an enjoyable evening.

ADMITS TAKING $250,000

NEW YORK (AP)—The district attorney's office announced early today that the accountant at Manhattan State Hospital has admitted embezzling more than $250,000. The accountant, Alexander P. Moran, 57, of Brooklyn, was booked on a charge of grand larceny. He was quoted as saying he lost all the money betting on horses.

TO DIE FOR RAPE-SLAYING

Mr., Mrs. H. Radcliffe Celebrate Fifty Years of Married Life

A happy occasion was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Radcliffe of Fuller, on the 18th day of March, this being the 50th wedding anniversary of this highly esteemed couple.

Their many children and relatives were present to wish them many happy returns.

Mrs. Patrick Bradley had charge of a splendid program. Harry Lovibond, of Ivanhoe, was chairman for the following program: the couple were called into their decorative chairs, and a sing-song of old familiar numbers relaxed the gathering.

The little McEvoy sisters rendered two attractive selections which were enjoyed by all.

Mr. McMurray also rendered two appropriate numbers, "I'll Take You Home Again Kathleen, and "Galway Bay."

Mr. Fred Smith rendered a fine solo accompanied by Miss Mary Thompson.

ANNIVERSARY ADDRESS

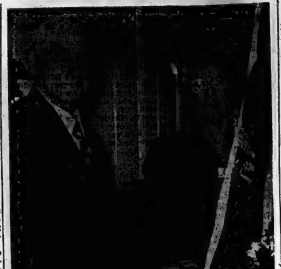
The address was read by Mr. Herb Burke and the couple was presented with a lovely tri-lite lamp and electric tea kettle.

Friends and relatives also gave them many lovely and useful gifts.



Mr. McMurray, Rev. Mr. Pointer, Mr. Sylvanus Mills, Mrs. David Thompson and Mr. Herb Burke voiced their appreciation of the honored couple.

Mr. Radcliffe has long been an elder in the Presbyterian church and Mrs. Radcliffe has always been a leader of strength in all church and community work in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Radcliffe was charming in a royal blue crepe dress and she and her husband voiced their appreciation in a few gracious words of thanks, after which the large gathering joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Bounteous refreshments were served with Mr. and Mrs. Radcliffe cutting the beautifully decorated cake. Pictures were also taken to commemorate this occasion.

The community joins in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Radcliffe many more years of continued happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Radcliffe are shown cutting the anniversary wedding cake.

'Invisible Gateways' Topic at W.A. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of Bridge Street United Church, was held in the Sunday School rooms, Friday afternoon, with a large attendance.

Mrs. Everett Fairman, the president, opened the meeting with a few words of welcome.

A business meeting followed.

Mrs. Fairman thanked the Men's club and all others who had assisted the Shamrock Tea was a success.

The Rev. Miriam Collins spoke of the Bay of Quinte Conference which will be held in Belleville, June 7 to 11, and of the organization planning needed to make it a success. She asked for two ladies to help her; Miss Norma Clarke and Mrs. W. Finkle consented to act.

Mrs. Fairman had a request from Mr. McTavish that the ladies be asked to serve refreshments at a reception to be held April 9, for new members.

The program of the afternoon was in charge of Mrs. J. Parrott, Mrs. C. Scott and their group.

Mrs. Scott gave a reading from Luke 5, and Mrs. Parrott read the lesson from the W.A. booklet.

Mrs. Parrott introduced Mrs. Roy Eggleton, of Stirling, who sang "God Hath Not Promised."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. J. M. Wood introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Walter Elliott, president of the W.A., in Stirling, and on the Dominion Executive Board.

Mrs. Elliott gave a thoughtful address on "Invisible Gateways."

She said "there are gateways that we can see such as the "gateway to the Thousand Islands," at Gananoque, and the "gateway to the north," at North Bay, but the invisible gateways were to be found first in Genesis 3: "He placed a flaming sword to protect and guard the gateway of Eden." Then from the Matthew 7, "Enter ye in at the All who asked to stay for a cup Revelations 3, "Behold, I set before you an open door which no man can close." Through these gateways, into expanding experiences, new levels, and greater self-disciplines and accomplishments, we finally pass through the one each must go alone."

Mrs. George Campbell expressed the thanks of the ladies for Mrs. Elliott's thoughtful address, straight gate," and third, from of tea and a social half-hour.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE GIRL'S FATHER IS RIGHT

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My boy friend has been in the marines one month, and we had been going together three months before that. He has asked me to marry him, but I haven't given him any answer yet.

I am 15 years old, and my dad thinks I am too young for marriage, but my mother says that if I really love this boy, and am sure I know what I am doing, she will sign the papers for me. I do love this boy with all my heart, and feel that he is the only one I will ever love and that if I don't marry him I will be an old maid.

What I want to know is, must I have both my mother and dad sign the papers for me to get married, and if dad refuses to sign, would it be a disgrace to go to another state to get married?

If we have to break up, I will keep watching the paper for announcement of this boy's engagement to someone else, and the day of his wedding I will commit a great sin and kill myself.

Rachael E.

Dear Rachael:

Your father is entirely right when he says you are too young to marry, and I'm amazed that your mother thinks differently.

It's not just the fact that you are only 15, and that one 15-year-old in a thousand is ready for marriage. Nor is it only the fact that you have known this boy such a very short time that you could not possibly have any real idea whether you and he would be happy together or not. It's chiefly because you say about being an old maid if you don't marry this particular boy, and killing yourself if he marries anyone else, stamps you as a completely childish person, and, therefore, one who has a very long way to go before she can qualify as ready to marry.

I hope you will put all this nonsense out of your head, stop dramatizing yourself, and wait until you grow up a good deal before even thinking of marrying anyone.

Wheat Germ Boosts Nutrition

By Mary Moore

The wheat germ talk sure brought results. The manager of the store where I buy it said he had to double his order to beat Tuesday after I gave it a plug in this column last time.

All of you are such a satisfaction to me.

I have two wheat germ recipes for you that I have tried and found extra good. The muffins Marianne made one night when we arrived home late from an out-of-town business trip. I had the remains of a roast of beef to use up, so I made beef hash while Marianne made the muffins and Herbie set the table.

WHEAT GERM MUFFINS

Sift all-purpose flour and measure 1 1-2 cups and sift it again with 1-4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt. Then add 1-4 cup fresh wheat germ and cut into them with pastry blender 1-4 cup soft shortening, then quickly beat in 1 egg and 1 cup milk. Now add 1-4 cup fresh mixed peel cut up a little finer than it comes in the package or 1 cup fresh seedless raising, and 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg. Stir quickly, then turn into greased muffin tins, filling them 2-3 full. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes, or a little less—just until delicately browned. Serve hot with butter, and, if these are for a snack, jam or marmalade or honey. This amount makes 12 muffins.

WHEAT GERM TEA BREAD

(Baking powder)

Five tablespoons shortening, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 beaten eggs, 1-2 cup wheat germ, 1-3 cup chopped walnuts, 1-4 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup mashed bananas. Cream together the shortening and sugar, beat in the eggs, wheat germ and chopped walnuts. Sift dry ingredients together and add them alternately with the bananas. Bake 1 hour at 325 deg. Fahr. in greased baking powder tins if you have them; in one small loaf pan. This slices to best advantage when 24 hours old. It is perfect for carried lunches or simple teas. Sliced quite thinly it makes good white cream cheese sandwiches.

QUESTION:

I wonder if you have any recipes that don't have egg yolks in them.

I am not allowed to eat egg yolks any more, and I don't know what to do about cakes, candies, puddings or dishes that call for eggs. Would an extra egg white be the same—I mean two whites instead of one whole egg. —Lottie S.

ANSWER:

As a general rule, no, you cannot substitute an extra white for the yolk in an egg, but there are some recipes which call only for whites. I will give you an easy egg-white cake we are having a run on at present.

STREAM-LINED WHITE CAKE

(6 whites)

Sift cake flour and measure 2 1-4 cups and sift it into a mixing bowl with 1 1-3 cups sugar, 3 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon salt. Now add 1-2 cup soft but not melted shortening, and one-half cup of milk. Beat hard for two minutes until the batter is smooth, then add another 1-2 cup milk and 4 egg whites unbeaten (1-3 cup) and beat hard for another 2 minutes. Pour into 2 greased and floured 8 inch layer cake tins or 1 9-inch square pan. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 30 minutes for layers, 35 or 40 for square cake.

WHITE CUSTARD

Heat 1 cup milk in double boiler. Beat 2 egg whites slightly with 1-4 tablespoons sugar and 1-8 teaspoon salt. Slowly stir in the hot milk, and add 1-4 teaspoon vanilla or shake of nutmeg. Strain. Pour into custard cups. Stand cups in pan of hot water and bake in oven of 350 deg. Fahr. until firm. Do not overcook. Custard is done if when a silver knife is inserted it comes out clean.

I hope these ideas help you Lottie.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE GUEST OF HONOR AT BRIDAL SHOWER SHOULDN'T GRAB GAME-PRIZES TOO

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My question concerns game-prizes at bridal showers. So often at bridal showers games are played, and small prizes are given to the winners. But it seems to be the custom in some communities that the ones winning these prizes give them to the guest of honor of the shower. Is this correct, or is there any definite rule of the shower. Is this correct, or is there any definite rule governing this? Personally I think it is a nice gesture for the persons who win the games to keep the prize-gifts so that they too will have a "remembrance" of the shower. I have heard others express the same opinion. When bridal showers were given for me, I requested that the prize-gifts be kept by the winners. At one shower the guests did, but at another they were still very insistent that I take them. Please tell me which is really correct. —D.

Good old common sense should, I think, be the decision and procedure here. For it certainly makes sense that the person who wins a prize at a game should receive the reward and should keep the reward, the prize-gift. The fact that the game is played at a bridal shower does not, or should not make any difference. The guest of honor at a bridal shower gets enough presents. . she should not be willing to accept prize-presents that don't belong to her, just because the "feeling of generosity" is in the air! If the hostess wishes to have the guest of honor "reap" another present, she should give her a Guest-of-Honor Prize. . that should satisfy her.

DRESSES FOR THE BRIDAL ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be maid of honor for my cousin's wedding in June. I would like to know if it is proper for the bride-to-be to choose the dresses for her attendants without any consultation with them.

You see, when the bride-to-be chose the dresses, she invited the matron of honor and two of the bridesmaids to go with her. She made no mention of the shopping trip to me, the maid of honor, nor to one of the other bridesmaids. Is she justified in doing this?

Maid of honor

You have two questions here. The answer to the first one is that indeed it is proper. . and usually more sensible and practical. . for the bride-to-be to choose the dresses for her attendants without consulting with them, or certainly without too much consultation with them. It is important that the bride-to-be make her own definite plans about the dresses, and how they fit into the type of wedding and the color-scheme she has in mind.

However (as to your second question) I simply cannot figure out why you and one other attendant were not included in the shopping-arrangements. May it be possible that the bride was so sure that the dresses chosen would inevitably be right and becoming to you and the bridesmaid, and so no need for consultation with you? Anyway I urge you not to make an issue of it, and to cooperate as graciously (and silently) as possible.

Canada's First Subway Opens On Tuesday

TORONTO (CP) — A dream of years, a 4½-mile subway running under or beside nearly all of the main north-south thoroughfare of this city at a 1,250,000, becomes a reality today with the unveiling to the public of the $58,500,000 project.

It will be Canada's first subway and the fifth on this North American. It has taken 4½ years to build and now after one of the most complex construction jobs in the country's history, it stands ready for the public's approval.

The subway runs from Union Station at the southern end line to the northern terminus at Eglinton Avenue. Surface bus transportation is necessary to link the remaining 2½ miles to the city limits.

The Toronto Transit Commission, public body which administers public transport in the metropolitan area, will have 90 of its 104 trains in operation today. A half-hour after the first go into operation, a library will be cut off Yonge street and Avenue road and the last street-car will disappear from Yonge street by 3 p.m.

23,399 Phone Directories Mailed in District

New telephone directories are now being mailed to subscribers of The Bell Telephone Company, G. W. Proctor, Bell manager here, announced today. Enough of the green-covered books will be distributed in Belleville and vicinity that, placed end to end, they would form a path more than three and one-half miles long.

Unlike most publishers, the company asks its readers to discard previous editions of its books. Mr. Proctor said there are more than 2,000 new and changed listings in the new directory, and continued use of the old books would result in "wrong numbers". He advised subscribers to check their "Blue Book of Telephone Numbers" against the new directory and bring their personal lists up to date.

The miniature edition of the "Blue Book", which will fit into a man's vest pocket or a woman's purse, is now available at the Bell office, Mr. Proctor said. It is being issued to encourage telephone users to keep a record of local and out-of-town telephone numbers frequently called, so that subscribers will call by number when telephoning. Time, distance, and avoid unnecessary inquiries to "information". A local office Faster service is the objective of the plan.

Reflecting the steady growth of Belleville and the surrounding district during the past year is the increase in the number of copies of the directory to be delivered — 22,622 to 23,399. In Belleville alone the increase is from 9,800 to 10,900.

Boy, 6, Loses Eye

KITCHENER (CP) — A six-year-old boy had his left eye removed in hospital today as a result of a game of cowboys and Indians with a playmate.

In "fair" condition is Bruce Mees, son of Major R. B. Mees. Major Mees is western Ontario area recruiting officer for the Canadian army.

The boy was playing with Bobby Fisher, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fisher. According to police, the Fisher boy shot a steel-tipped arrow that struck his playmate in the left eye.

Members Suggest Talent Scouts Scour Reserves

TORONTO (CP)—Brian Cathcart (PC — Lambton West) suggests Canadian football clubs scout the Indian reserves for talent instead of importing United States players.

Speaking during the presentation of the report on the select committee on Indian affairs in the legislature, Mr. Cathcart said the Sarnia Indian reserve, within the city limits of Sarnia, contained a number of budding football players who could possibly make Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

"The Indians are natural athletes, and with a little coaching they will produce many great names in sport," he said. "In fact, I might go further and suggest the same method for our Toronto football teams and the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team."

The reason for believing the vaccine will work is easy—antibodies.

Antibodies are nature's policeman. They are tiny protein particles, circulating in the blood, which can combine with and disarm an invading germ or virus.

When some germ attacks you, your body starts making antibodies against it. If you make enough antibodies soon enough, you win the battle. If you don't you become ill—and sometimes die.

Once you have made antibodies, you usually keep them. You have your antibody factories all set up, ready to go to work at a moment's notice. The antibodies against one kind of germ or virus won't work against that specific disease agent.

It is now known that most of us by age 15 already have antibodies against the 3 types of infantile paralysis virus which can cause paralytic polio. We made them when we ate in part some of the virus invaded us. Most of us never knew we had the virus. Once the make antibodies against a virus, you apparently are protected for life against that type of virus.

The purpose of a vaccine is to make you set up antibody supplies by giving you dead or safe virus.

Dr. Salk has been testing his vaccine on children for a year and a half. Of nearly 5,000 children vaccinated so far, not one has become ill with any fever from the vaccine, or even had soreness in the arm receiving the shot.

CAN CREATE ANTIBODIES

Blood tests show the vaccinations can create antibodies against all three types of virus, even in children who had no polio antibodies at all before getting the vaccine. They kept these antibodies in what seems to be protective amounts, at least seven months after the last of one polio season.

Dr. Salk has just made a heartening new find. It seems that the first one or two shots of vaccine alter the body's antibody mechanism, make it more sensitive. When the third or booster shot is given some time later, antibody production soars. Some children even got more antibodies than they show after natural infection with polio.

And Dr. Salk has a little evidence that natural exposure to polio after one or two shots of vaccine may act like a booster shot of vaccine. The sensitized antibody mechanism may be triggered into quick, high production of antibodies against the virus which is making an invasion.

LIFELONG PROTECTION

These are reasons for thinking that a few shots of vaccine can give lifelong protection. Whenever live virus came along, the antibody policemen would appear in heavy force.

Well, you may ask, if the vaccine creates antibodies, why is there any doubt that it will protect the children?

There are two questions. One is whether there are enough antibodies to stop the virus. The other is whether the virus can attack nerves without going through the bloodstream before the antibodies are standing guard.

The evidence is that most of us get polio because the virus enters the intestinal tract, then gets into the bloodstream, and then moves on to attack the nerves.

CAN ESCAPE ATTACK

But there is evidence that sometimes it can by-pass the bloodstream, thus escaping attack by the antibodies.

The tests of thousands of children will help show how often the virus may attack in this manner rather than through the blood stream.

But there is a hopeful fact here, too: spaced shots of vaccine can create so many antibodies that some "spill over" from the blood-stream into peripheral nerves. They would thus be standing guard along nerve pathways against virus which did by-pass the bloodstream.

Maple Leafs, Boston Bruins Face Elimination In Stanley Cup Playoffs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Canver, Sports Editor

HAIL THE CHAMP!

The Palpitating Petes from Peterborough struck their colors in the Senior "B" group in the Lifflock City last night going down fighting with all colors flying before the Oshawa Truckmen by a 3-3 score to end the finals series four games to one.

But the Jim Ellis crew battled to the last ditch, carrying the schoolboy-working Ernie Dickens' puckchasers into overtime before bowing to hockey fate. The Truckmen, it is stated, now enter the OHA Senior "B" semi-finals and the good wishes of the Petes, not to mention Belleville, Kingston and Orillia, go with them in their quest for the championship.

The Oshawans are worthy champions of a Senior "B" group that was easily one of the best to sling rubber under an Eastern Ontario setup. They are a well-balanced club, that like the rest of the squads in the group had its off moments, but when the chips were down they proved, as they warned at the beginning of the season, that they were one of the best clubs in the group. None knows that better than the Petes.

But some of the honor, glory and kudos go to the Lifflock crew. They started off the season weakly and appeared to be one of the "one-and-done" series in the group. They gradually hit their stride as the season went by and near the end hit their peak to take over top spot at one time. Their season-end drive was no flash-in-the-pan and they proved this by eliminating the strong Orillia Penifaco picked by some (this department included) to win group honors.

Oshawa proved itself a money team of the first water when they raced from behind a 6-0 deficit at the hands of the Kingston Goodyears in the opening game of their semi-finals series, to eliminate the 1953 champions in the next four games.

Oshawa may meet Stouffville Clippers, who eliminated the Toronto Lesdales in their group finals, or the Toronto Lyndhurts (remember?) who drew a bye into the CHA playdowns. Or, as reports have it, the teams may play a round robin series for the championship.

NAMED TO SQUAD

Wayne Brown, of Delora, top goaltender in the Western Hockey League, was named to the second all-star team of the league this week. Wayne, who with team-mate Gordie Fellder, is now playing with the Boston Bruins, amassed 29 goals, the highest in the league, finishing second in points to Fellder, who had 56.

HAL EVENS!

The rest fell in as a Trenton RCAF hockey club in Memorial Cup action last night when a rampaging Point Anne team slung home an even dozen goals to romp home the victors by a 12-3 count. There was no holding the goal-hungry Pointers as they tipped in six goals to two in the first period, added a couple in the second heat and finished with four in the final stanza.

The victory gives the Ox Pointers a two-all stalemate with the Flyers and the issue will be settled on Wednesday night in the final game of the series. The series was changed to a four-of-seven affair but late last night was reverted back to the three-of-five distance to ice difficulties.

Chipman Says Yank Coaches, Players Will Be Replaced by Canadian Stars

By JACK SULLIVAN

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Ulysses (Red) Wilson of Winnipeg who has been on the administrative end of football for many years, today believes American coaches and players have given the game tremendous impetus but they are on their way out.

Chipman believes that in 10 years the country's professional teams will be made up of Canadian players and coached by Canadians. The players will come from the increased development of juniors, particularly in western Canada, and the coaches from the senior playing ranks.

Chipman gave his views in an interview as he closed out his active football career during the week-end but hasn't severed all connections with the game he loves—he'll still on the Grey Cup dinner committee, the just - announced annual charity game committee and on the board of governors of the Canadian Rugby Union —but he no longer is in a position to take a big part in the affairs of the sport.

He has watched football grow from the days when Grey Cup finalists had to swear they were amateurs to the present era of high finance and predicts that if a recession hits the country the first to be affected will be football. "We have reached the peak on ticket prices and on team budgets and a levelling off is indicated.

"The men who run football in the West are business men and they know all this. They say coaches should be cut but the high standard of play continued."

Chipman has had a close association with Winnipeg Blue Bombers since 1939. He was president of the club from 1943 to 1947, president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union in 1948 and Canadian Rugby Union president two years ago.

Chipman credits football with being the "biggest single thing in promoting better relations between East and West."

Lacrosse Season Opens May 14

Lacrosse Association's four-team senior league begins its 30-game schedule May 14, secretary-treasurer Chuck Rowan announced Monday.

The league, reduced to four teams from last year's seven members, is made up of St. Catharines, Hamilton, Minto and Peterborough. Fergus, Brampton and Orillia have dropped from competition.

Peterborough is at St. Catharines May 14 to open the schedule. St. Catharines is at Hamilton May 17; St. Catharines at Peterborough May 21.

The schedule is expected to end about the first week of August. Playoffs must be completed by early September to declare an eastern champion to meet the western winner in the Mann Cup series to open here Sept. 12.

LASTARZA FAVORED 2-1

LONDON (AP)—American Roger Lastarza is a 2-1 choice to win his heavyweight fight against Don Cockell, roundhouse swinging British champion, tonight.

Until the new odds quote, the smooth-moving New York boxer was about an even bet against the tubby Britisher.

The LaStarza-Cockell 10-rounder is part of one of the most talent-loaded bouts in Gardens history.

Entertain Wings, Canadiens In 4th Series Games Tonight Referees Told to Be Tougher

By The Canadian Press

Time is running out for Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup semi-finals. Tonight the Leafs play host to Detroit Red Wings and the Bruins take on Montreal Canadiens in Boston.

The Leafs are down 2-1 in the best-of-seven series and the Canadiens have blanked the Bruins 3-0.

Conn Smythe, Leaf managing-director, has figured that one of the reasons the Wings have the edge so far stems from the not-too-strict interpretation of the rules relating to falling on the puck. The Leafs' leader dispatched a telegram to referee-in-chief Carl Voss and new orders have gone out for the referees to be tougher.

Smythe felt that the rule hadn't been enforced in Saturday night's game here when the Red Wings won 5-1. The Leafs vastly outplayed the Wings in the second period of that game but couldn't score in that period or the third.

Smythe doesn't blame all the Leafs' troubles on the rule he questioned. He isn't too happy with the two-few goals the Leafs have counted. They have only scored four goals in three games and he says "you can't win many games on that."

LOST OPENER

They lost the opener in Detroit 5-0 and in the second game of it from the strides at a game apiece with a 4-0 victory in the second game at Detroit. But they went a game down again following their 3-2 defeat in the third game here, the first of the two here.

The Wings worked out Monday in their training camp site at Hamilton.

After the game tonight they will have for Detroit in the fourth game there Thursday night. The sixth game, if necessary, will see the teams back in Toronto.

Boston will ice 17 players against Canadiens.

The Bruins have five players on the injury list, but only one has been ruled out of action.

BODNAR OUT

The absentee will be forward Gus Bodnar, who suffered an injured back Thursday when he was boarded by Montreal's Dollard St. Laurent. Bodnar's condition was reported improved today, but he still is suffering stiffness and pain.

The injured-but-playing list includes captain Milt Schmidt, with an injured knee; Eddie Sandford, slight shoulder separation, and Hal Laycoe and Fleming Mackell, both bruises.

The Canadiens on the other hand, are physically fit, well rested and confident.

Man-o-War Wins Two in Row

FREDERICTON (CP)—The Red Shoks from Matane, Que., easily gained a second straight win in their eastern Canada Allan Cup semi-finals Monday night, trimming Fredericton Capitals 8-3 to take a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

The remaining games will be played at Matane. Tentative dates are Wednesday, Friday and, if necessary, Sunday.

Training Camp Notes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Manager Jimmy Dykes of Baltimore Orioles made his second spring training cut Monday, sending eight players to San Antonio and another to Syracuse.

Sent to the Orioles double A Texas League club at San Antonio were pitchers Ryne Duren and Bob Pilgrim, catcher Chuck Thomas, infielders Frank Keller, Jerry Jacobs and Sam Dente, and outfielders Jim Piaoni and Karel Kwak.

Bob Masser, an outfielder, was optioned to Syracuse of the triple A International League.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Manager Lou Boudreau of Boston Red Sox says if utility infielder Ted Lepcio keeps up his red-hot pace "he'll be the starting shortstop for us."

Lepcio got his chance to shine when Milt Bolling was bedded by a virus infection that has been sweeping through the Boston training camp.

In the last two games, Lepcio blasted out hits to boost his batting average to .316. Although he made a couple of errors against Detroit Tigers in a 9-3 win, Lepcio saved the game for Boston with a brilliant stop in the Red Sox's screaming line drive.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates closed their spring training camp here Monday and began a tour in which they will play 13 exhibition games with American League teams.

The Pirates will play four teams during the trip. Nine of the games will be against Philadelphia Athletics.

So far, the Pirates have won 10 games and lost six for a percentage of .625—best among the National League clubs in the grapefruit circuit.

Sudbury, Mercs Series Attracts Record Crowds

SUDBURY (CP)—Tickets for tonight's hockey playoff between Owen Sound and Sudbury went on sale Monday and 1,800 people were waiting for them.

The line-up formed at the front entrance of the Sudbury Arena Monday night when a couple of hockey fans began the night-long vigil.

Some of them, like Jimmy Fitzgerald, Fred Santall and Jack Langlois, of nearby Coniston, came prepared for the long wait. They brought sleeping bags and camp cots and set them up on the arena entrance.

Several others wrapped themselves in blankets and sat the night out on camp stools.

William Bineman of suburban Lockerby said he wasn't the least bit cold with the temperature near zero.

"This is the most clothes I've had on this winter," he said, beating his fur clad chest with furred paws. He was wearing a coonskin cap and coat and a pair of wight Boshoffs.

At 4 a.m. there were about 100 in the line-up. Two hours later it was close to 1,000. Police estimated the crowd at around 1,500by 7 a.m. and by 9 a.m. another 300 had joined the line-up.

Sudbury Wolves open a best-of-seven series with Owen Sound Mercurys for the Ontario junior B hockey championship, with the first two games here tonight and Wednesday.

Gagnon Loses To Webber

QUEBEC (CP)—Don Webber of Roanoke, Va., Monday night won a 10-round split decision over Johnny Gagnon, 137, of Quebec, Canadian bantamweight boxing champion, in a non-title bout.

Webber, weighing 121, used a good right hook to pile up points in the fifth as Gagnon, who weighed in at 118½, it was Webber's third victory in as many fights with Gagnon.

There were no knockdowns.

LAMPF AFTER OLYMPICS

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control has approved $1,000 toward expenses for Mayor Allan Lampoft to go to Athens, Greece, in April in an effort to persuade the Olympic committee to hold the 1960 Olympic Games in Toronto.

It is expected the mayor will be accompanied by Robert Saunders, chairman of the Canadian National Exhibition, who hopes to sell the committee on CNE games facilities.

PROTEST NATIONAL TOTO

TORONTO (AP) — The League Against Cruel Sports has joined demands for a ban or modification of the Grand National Steeplechase —world's toughest horse race.

The league announced it will hold a meeting today to investigate the possibility of legal action. Two horses were killed in Saturday's race—the highest toll in 108 national runnings.

Star Player 17 Years, 'Bad Boss' 2 Caravetta Loses Job With Chi-Cubs

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Phil Cavaretta has been fired as Chicago baseball team company after 20 years, and another former Chicago baseball idol, Stan Hack, steps in as manager.

Cavarretta, a star player for 17 years but unable to win as manager in the full season was relieved of his post here Monday after the Cubs had dropped their 15th spring exhibition game to 9 victories. It was the first managerial change in the major leagues this year.

Wid Matthews, director of playing personnel of the Chicago organization, said Cavarretta was to change places with Hack, who has been manager of the Los Angeles club in the Pacific Coast League. Cavarretta balked and said he would seek a major league connection elsewhere.

Matthews insisted that Phil wasn't fired, but Cavarretta had a different view. "I come home and get fired," he said sadly. Cavarretta lives in Dallas and operates a children's amusement park here.

DEFEATIST ATTITUDE

Matthews gave no reason for the action other than that it was "for the good of all concerned." But Phil Wrigley, Cubs' owner, Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, said "This year when he picked seventh in the first finish in the first division, he was licked before he started. He said he did not have the kind of ball players he wanted. He had sort of given up on the hope, and a speak-easy feeling that they were not pennant material. He said he was not sure they could be with the will to win."

Hack, who is flying in to take over as manager Wednesday, said at Los Angeles that he was surprised. "All I can say is that I'm going to pick up where Phil left off. I will add this: It is wonderful to get back to Chicago where I spent my entire major-league career."

Matthews said Cavarretta was offered the same salary at Los Angeles that he was receiving from the Cubs, and that he will be paid his full 1954 salary although he refused to go to the coast.

Cavarretta said he is in pretty good shape and that he wants to stay in baseball, figuring he can play 50 or 75 games. "I'd like to make a connection as a player-coach," he added.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

What has been described as "the world's toughest horse race" was run last week over four fences, four ditches, water ditches and other hair-raising obstacles — thirty in all — for a distance of four miles and 856 yards. The horses, six year olds and older, carried staggering weights of 170 lbs. and more. Only five lads in Famous Harry Sinclair Lewis' story "Arrowsmith" came from Aintree course, just outside Liverpool.
And there always are strong-limbed, stout-hearted horses available in sufficient numbers to make the Grand National a dramatic event, despite the many hazards. In 1929, there were as many as 66 entries, an all-time high. The owners of Gregalach, the 1923 winner, took home the largest purse in Grand National history — nearly sixty-five thousand dollars.
Records don't show whether any Grand National race of the past saw every contestant fall. It is quite possible. It is a matter of record, however, that the one-two-three finishers in one Grand National event had all fallen during the race and been remounted. This is fully permissible under the track rules. A fallen horse may be remounted; it may even reach the finish line with a rider other than the one with whom it started out.
Perhaps one of the most dramatic Grand Nationals in recent years was that in which forty-two horses started and forty-one fell along the way. That was Tipperary Tim's year. Billy Barton fell at the last obstacle, was remounted and flashed second, the only horse other than the winner to complete the race.
The jumping hazards of this race are almost unbelievable. Fourteen obstacles have to be covered twice. Ten are thorn fences up to five feet in height and 2'3" wide. Two five-by-three foot obstacles have six-foot ditches on their take-off sides; two others are five-foot fences with natural brooks. One of the toughest jumps is over an open 9'9" ditch with a depth of over five feet.
To make the event even more unique, amateurs participate in about equal numbers with professional jockeys. And such is the nature of the race that a good amateur stands practically the same chance of success as a professional jockey. Or vice versa, depending on the horse.

British Mid-Distance Star Casual About His Chances To Record Four-Minute Mile

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Roger Bannister, a tall, fair, polite young man, is one of the world's great middle-distance runners. He's not a professional athlete. He's medical conditions, he could probably do the four-minute mile. But the idea of being the first in history to do so leaves him cold.

"The world will probably be relieved when it happens," he says drily, adding that personally he isn't particularly interested.

Bannister contemplates his accidental gift for athletics with cool detachment.

Standing in a Paddington clothhouse after a workout, his long pale athlete's legs encased only in spring mud and snow, he explained to a reporter where sport fits into the schemes of things.

PLANS MEDICAL CAREER

"I've always been casual about running. I don't want to be one of these fanatics, training all the time. Because no do-gooder makes sane, don't you think? For myself, the reward I find running stands in the way of my career in medicine, I'll check it."

Third Medical student is a completely autonomous athlete. He is his own coach and his own boss, and he can take running or leave it alone. His first objective this season is to run the mile in the British Empire Games at Vancouver in August, if, having topped the first question yet, but it's almost certain I'm going."

Rangy Roger might "possibly" retire this year, though the idea of one more season at Australia He has since appeal. Mixing running and medicine gets more difficult every year. Bannister has yet to do his compulsory military service, and hasn't even begun to in 1956 he might be a medical officer competing with sportsmen cities to take time off for running.

AN OXFORD GRADUATE

Roger Gilbert Bannister, Oxford graduate, civil servant's son, 22 years old this month, has his heart set on being a specialist in neurology. He is in the last year of his apprenticeship, which means putting in a full day as assistant to a senior doctor, and burning the midnight oil at night. In theory, he trains five times a week, usually at lunch hour, but it works out to less.

Slightly more than six feet and weighing 154 pounds, Bannister attributes his speed largely to his 28-inch leg, inside measurement. He also has remarkable lung power.

Awareness of his exceptional gifts came concurrently late in life. When he went to Exeter College, Oxford, as a freshman, he was a studious type with little ambition to do anything strenuous except rowing. In the horrible English winter of 1947, however, there wasn't much to do except run, and in March, to his surprise, Bannister was picked as fourth third string for a mile race against Cambridge.

"I was lying last with about 200 yards to go," he recalls. "I thought I was as tired as anybody else. Then suddenly I found I could sprint. I passed everybody and won easily, doing 20 seconds faster than I thought I could run."

In 1946 he broke the track world take notice when he went to the United States to study in his usual lone-wolf fashion, and easily beat Fred Wilt in the Benjamin Franklin mile in 4:06.3 seconds. He has since done 4:03.6, and British official Jack Crump is convinced he'll do the dream mile this year.

Bannister smiles and shakes his head. "The odds are against it, but maybe somebody will do it this year."

He has never run in Canada. He went to Montreal in May by way of Lake Champlain after a U.S. trip, but had no time for competition.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA (AP)—This is the week that the great unseen army of baseball scouts breaks camp, too, and begins its job of seeking potential Babe Ruths and Walter Johnsons.

For the last month most of the top seekers of talent—at least each club's chief scout—has been stickin a flag around the current team and its general manager, helping introduce the throng of youngsters whom he has helped bring up and getting his orders on what types of players to concentrate on during the summer search.

Each club's fortunes depend upon the efficiency—and luck—of its scouting system. Every big league outfit lists between 30 and 40 full-time, salaried scouts, so one may get an idea of how lavishly they are scattered and how difficult it would be for a really promising youngster to escape notice. Frequently, scouts from a dozen clubs will be trying to sign the same boy.

Each salaried scout has a force of his own personal "bird dogs" throughout the country, which in some instances covers four or five states.

Many of them are high school and college coaches, but some are barbers and cab drivers.

In most cases the "bird dog" has a contract which provides that he will receive a nominal sum, say $100, when one of his finds is signed and sent to the lowest minors, then receive additional payments each time his kid moves up in the chain. If he eventually reaches the parent club the "bird dog" may get $2,500 or more. It's a nice sideline.

FUN MOSTLY GONE

Veteran scouts, such as Paul Krichell of the Yankees, Ted McGrew of Boston Red Sox and Tony Kaufmann of the St. Louis Cardinals, complain that the grass roots system has taken most of the fun out of the business. They say that in old days best, when there was the chance that a scout might drop in on a game in some obscure little league and discover something to set his heart to pounding.

Krichell will never forget that day when, with nothing better to do, he went over to New Brunswick, N.J., to does through a league game and saw a fellow named Lou Gehrig hit a few balls for Columbia. He simply signed Gehrig—no big bonus, no fanfare.

He and the others say it just couldn't happen today. They might come across such a fellow as Gehrig but chances are that scouts from a dozen other clubs would know about him, too, and that the young man would be shopping around for the biggest bonus.

Volleyball Team Of OSD Reaches Tourney Final

The boys' volleyball team from the Ontario School for the Deaf, representing the Bay of Quinte District in the fourth annual volleyball tournament sponsored by the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations at McMaster University in Hamilton on Saturday, won its way into the finals against the team from East Elgin High School, Aylmer. In the four years of the tournament this is the first year that a Quinte District team has reached the finals.

Six teams from Group B high schools (schools with an enrollment of under 250 boys) from all across Southern Ontario were entered in the round robin tournament. Besides the O.S.D. and East Elgin entries, other schools entered in the B group were: Bracebridge High School, Ottawa Technical School, Huntsville High School and Ridgeway High School.

The schedule was a round robin draw with each team meeting every other team once and the top two teams meeting in a best two-out-of-three playoff.

In round robin play the O.S.D. defeated Ridgeway by the following scores: Ridgeway, 15-11; Bracebridge, 15-7; Huntsville, 15-4; and Ottawa, 15-11. Their closest battle was against the Ottawa boys, whom the last year's champions. O.S.D. lost only to East Elgin who defeated all other teams and swamped O.S.D. 15-3, to win first place with five wins and one loss.

COP SECOND SPOT

O.S.D.'s four wins topped second spot for the deaf boys and earned for them the right to play off against East Elgin.

The first playoff game was almost a repetition of the earlier game between O.S.D. and East Elgin, and East Elgin won by a score of 15 to 2. The O.S.D. boys rallied strongly in the second game, however, and ran up an 11 to 6 lead before the East Elgin coach called time to steady his boys. Slowly they crept on the O.S.D. lead but the score 13 to 13 and went on to win 15 to 13, to make it two straight wins for the championship, leaving the O.S.D. boys in the runner-up position.

O.S.D. players were—David Elliot, (captain); Andre Bourget, Jarvis Carey, Burton Fowler, Billy Hemphill, Robert Hillman, Peter Flynn, and Robert Reid.

The team was in charge of Mr. Elgin Vader, coach, Mr. John Boyd and Mr. J. G. Demess, superintendent.

A number of other staff members and relatives of the boys travelled to Hamilton to support the team.

Red Sox officials also announced they are negotiating for pitcher-outfielder Bob Thurman, who played 26 games here last year before going to the Dominican Republic to play.

'Hurricane' Jackson Bops Bucceroni; Now Seeks Shot at Marciano's Crown

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A national unknown until two months ago, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson today sought a shot at heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano and dared any other leading contender to fight him. And nobody jumped.

The tireless, non-stop-punching 23-year-old New York Negro became an outstanding challenger Monday night by stopping dangerous Dan Bucceroni, third-ranking heavyweight contender, in 1:58 of the sixth round at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Referee Al Berl hailed the massacre as the lanky, Philadelphian—who had been favored 2 to 1 to defend around the ring with his right eye almost shut and with blood oozing from a cut over it. The 182-pound Bucceroni, stopped for the second time in his career, never fell, but was all done by exhaustion when Berl intervened. NO JABBING

Bucceroni punched himself out against the relentless 201½-pound Jackson, who kept coming without regard for Dan's vaunted wallop. The Scranton boy had only last attended 30 of Buccy's previous 49 opponents before the last year's champions. O.S.D. lost only to East Elgin who defeated all other teams and swamped O.S.D. 15-3, to win first place with five wins and one loss.

COP SECOND SPOT

Royals Win Protest Over Sherbrooke Team

MONTREAL (CP) — President Hector Baker of the Quebec Hockey League Monday night awarded Montreal Royals a protested second game of their best-of-seven quarter final series with Sherbrooke Saints.

In one of the stormiest meetings the league history Baker upheld an earlier decision ruling defenceman Joe Levandoski ineligible for playoff competition. He also ruled Saints' defenceman Al Arbour ineligible for the playoffs.

Sherbrooke won the disputed game 8-2.

The revision in the series standing leaves Montreal with a 3-1 lead in games with the fifth game scheduled for Montreal ice tonight.

Baker refused permission for Levandoski to take part in the second game of the playoffs. Sherbrooke defied the official ruling and used the disputed player.

Royals based their protests in the fact neither Arbour nor Levandoski was on Sherbrooke's play list when the Quebec club filed eligibility in the playoffs, Levandoski was with Providence of the American Hockey League and Arbour was property of the National Hockey League.

SPORT IN BRIEF

EDMONTON (CP)—The Edmonton boxing commission has ordered official probers to the National Boxing Association and the Canadian Boxing Federation against lifting of the Edmonton-initiated suspension of Canadian welterweight champion Earl Walls.

Commission members said they believe they have sufficient evidence to prove that Walls was committed to fight Freddie Archibald in Los Angeles in Edmonton before accepting a re-match with Tommy Harrison, a ranking heavyweight, in Toronto.

The commission said that while Walls and his manager, Jimmy Jones, were in Edmonton earlier this month they said they had not signed yet for a Harrison re-match.

But when the commission later suspended Walls for withdrawing from his scheduled March fight here with Beshore, the Toronto fighter appealed to the CBF. It decided Walls actually was committed to the Harrison re-match before the proposed fight with Beshore here and lifted the suspension.

TORONTO (CP)—Lloyd Percival Toronto coach designated but not officially chosen by Empire Games officials to be assistant coach of Canada's track and field team, has turned down the job.

Percival sent a wire Monday to the national track and field chairman, Fred Rowell, at Vancouver, saying pressure of other business made it impossible for him to accept the post. If he could help in an advisory capacity he would be glad to do so.

Percival was to have been head coach of the track and field team with Frank Richards of Calgary as assistant.

Pt. Anne Crushes Trenton Flyers 12-3 To Even Trent Valley Playoffs 2-2

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Point Anne Cementmen, showing some of their early season scoring power, watched the Trenton Flyers go into the first period of the game and then went on to crush the R.C.A.F. team 12-3, in the fourth game of the TVL southern section finals at the arena last night.

The series is now deadlocked at two games each and the all-or-nothing battle slated for Wednesday of this week.

Point Anne opened up a 6-3 lead in the first period, scored the only two goals of the middle stanza and then held a 4-1 edge in the final twelve minutes with the Goyer brothers and Sam Mulholland pacing the attack.

Glingras got the first cracker of the game at 3.18 with Jacklin getting that back on a gauging play three minutes later. Sam Mulholland made it 3-1 at 7.30 when he out in on the right wing at a terrific speed and blasted the puck by DuPaul. Gerry Goyer got the next one on a pass play with Leo Goyer and Mulholland and 22 seconds later Mulholland got a duplicate of his first goal.

Beatch and Rochon hooked up for the Flyers second marker with the latter pulling the trigger at 14.44 only to have Leo Goyer place two behind DuPaul in 15.00 over a minute to close out the scoring for the period.

The second period was the most evenly fought but Bates kept his net clear while Gerry Goyer from Mulholland at 5.13 and Jack Stewart on a long shot from the blue line, near the end of the period, were the Point scoring plays.

Pat Gilmour upped the count to 9-2 in the first minute of the final session and Chris Bowman on pass from Boucher completed the Flyers scoring a minute later. Leo Goyer got his third goal of the night at 4.22 and to have brother Gerry turn in his hat trick before the game had ended and when he carried the puck the length of the ice and used a Flyer defenceman as a screen to beat DuPaul.

Pat Gilmour notched his second goal of the period at 14.03 to end the nightmare for the Trenton netminder.

Gerry Goyer was top man on the night's play with four goals and as many assists. Leo came next, scoring a trio and assisting on two more while Mulholland picked up two assists with his pair of goals. Gilmour blinked the red light twice with Jacklin getting one and one.

Rochon was the best Flyer on the ice while none of their players got more than one point.

Referees Holway and Carson sent seven men to the sin-bin with 24 the losers drawing the odd penalty.

The lineups:

Point Anne—Bates, Mulholland, John Green, Williams, L. Goyer, G. Goyer, Strahan, Jacklin, Gilmour, Pete Green, Stewart, B. Hunter, P. Hunter, Quincie, Bradshaw, Twa.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The newest act in show business is the most beauteous quartet of hymn singers ever assembled.

The foursome consists of recording stars Connie Haines and Beryl Davis and filmsters Jane Russell and Rhonda Fleming. Miss Fleming is subbing for singer Dolly Russell.

The Four Girls, which is the title of the group, will be heard on the Los Angeles churches. And that isn't all. They'll appear with their spiritual songs on TV's comedy hour Easter Sunday.

Their record, "The Lord," is a rousing rendition of a 10-year-old spiritual and has sold 180,000 discs and is still climbing.

HARMONIZING NEW

"This harmonizing is new to me; I've always done solo work," said Rhonda, a blonde.

"She has a beautiful soprano, and just the same can't be beat," said Beryl, an Episcopalian.

"Our singing sounded like something awful when we first heard ourselves; but it's not bad when it's all put together," remarked Jane, a non-denominational Christian.

"This thing is bigger than all of us," agreed Connie, a Presbyterian.

Jane told how the whole thing came about. All four girls are members of the Hollywood Christian group, a religious discussion outfit for show business people. It was formed five years ago by such luminaries as Ronald Reagan, Roy Rogers, Dale Evans and Colleen Townsend, who gave up acting and career for a religious life with her minister husband, Dr. Louis Evans Jr.

"We girls were at Beryl's church on a fund raising drive," Jane recalled. "Connie was going to sing, and Della and I were just going to take bows. We were down in the basement before the program, and Connie was singing a spiritual she knew, 'To Lord.' She got us to join in, and we ended up singing it for the church group. They seemed to like it."

All proceeds from the records and appearances go to four church groups and Jane's charity, the International Adoption Society.

BOMBERS SIGN QUARTER

ANSONIA, Conn. (CP)—Vincent Drake, quarterback who played the last three years for Fordham University, has signed a pro football contract with Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Drake formerly played for Ansonia high school and is the second player from there to go to Canada. The other is Ray Cicia, Drake's teammate in 1946, who now plays for Montreal Alouettes.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

A brilliant defence play is not always as spectacular as it may look. By a skilful player it is usually the result of a conclusion reached after marshalling all the facts.

A clever defender will soon estimate the number of tricks his side may be able to take, at the same time he will visualize what the declarer may attempt to do to save tricks.

He combines this with what he sees in dummy and what he can read from the lead he got from partner. From this picture he may work out some unusual defence that looks as if he had a peek.

Let us take declarer at four spades in this deal:

NORTH
♠A J 5 4 3 2
♥Q 9
♦9 8 6
♣A Q 9

WEST — EAST
♠10 — ♠7
♥6 5 4 2 — ♥K 10 8 3
♦6 5 3 — ♦A K 4 2
♣J 8 7 4 — ♣K 10 3

SOUTH
♠K Q 9 8 6
♥J
♦Q J 10 7
♣5 5 2

It got to there after east had opened the bidding with a heart and south had simply overcalled with a spade. North hopped to four spades and east doubled for penalty.

Opening lead from west was a heart. When east saw the dummy he stopped to consider that south must have at least three high cards. If so, he might be able to set up diamonds for ruffs.

East could take the first heart trick and two top diamonds in a hurry. If he did and south then had two good diamonds, two of the clubs in dummy could be ruffed and the contract would make.

Therefore, east immediately considered the advisability of the play that would upset the south timing. He did so on the theory that his clubs must be able to take one trick to defeat the contract. So, when east took the first heart trick he led back at once his ace of clubs right into the jaws of dummy clubs. When west was able to play the jack his plan of defence worked out.

After a trump and a heart ruff, south lost a club and had to be content with the club ten return pushed through. East got another diamond and the club king to kill the contract. Clever calculating.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

No gun fights or any Indians either in this unusual Western. Instead, it is a grim tale of a man's fight for money in a cruel occupation. The occupation is present day rodeo-ing. Along with this narrative, however, is another theme because the cameras of producers Jerry Wald and Norman Krasna take us into the seamy side of the rodeo events—there is a corollary plot, the love which Howard has for his rodeo star husband, Arthur Kennedy; the detestation she has for the rodeo and the fine talent love that brocco-buster Robert Ryan has for himself.

The plot erupts into action as Miss Hayward becomes fed up with "success" and its ever present danger, and with hey husband's bravado and preoccupation with money and other women. Also, as the friendship between Kennedy and Mitchum, an easy going pulcosophical one-time master of rodeo events, becomes into jealousy and anger and a fist fight. And, finally, as Mitchum, silent thus far as Kennedy's rodeo tutor, himself enters the arena to prove himself still a champion and is killed in a bronco busting accident. The event makes Kennedy realize his own frail clay and he gives up death; and so he and Miss Hayward make up and he quits the rodeo.

"They Seem to Kiss"

Although she is a talented pianist, June Allyson is unsuccessful in efforts to gain an interested wife Van Johnson, a concert manager. Despite the plans of Reporter Gig Young that she give up her career and marry him June poses as a pixilated 12-year-old, enters Johnson's auditions for children, and wins hands down. But to do this may Johnson announce he is going to feature her as a new child prodigy? He is interested—with June. June has to keep up the hoax, but promises Gig she'll expose her impersonation after the first concert. Then, finding herself in love with Johnson, she is guilt and marry Gig rather than hurt Johnson. Gig breaks the story of the hoax; Van offers to refund the concert audience's money; June scores a hit at her own solo; and she and Van plan matrimony.

So, when east took the first heart trick he led back at once his ace of clubs right into the jaws of dummy clubs. When west was able to play the jack his plan of defence worked out.

After a trump and a heart ruff, south lost a club and had to be content with the club ten return pushed through. East got another diamond and the club king to kill the contract. Clever calculating.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, MAR. 31, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — You should feel enthused and ambitious—not only to profit in temporal matters but to develop spiritual aspirations, thus nurturing mind, soul and body. A fine day for advances in proper directions.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Mental and physical work equally pronounced on this most encouraging day. Artist, scientist, and religious, student and teacher should add to laurels and business executives, laborers, clerks should improve relations.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury among the planets will aspected now.

The only admonition, aside from being honest and conscientious, is not to be indulge in extremes, make rash promises, etc. Think first. A good day.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Pleasant, encouraging indications on most lines that are worthy, useful, honorable. Menial tasks are quite as important as so-called "big" jobs, so don't mind when duties include them.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Unusual matters in which you are interested and new ideas and methods of value are freshly favored. Use tact in both business and personal relationships. Don't fail yourself or anyone this good day.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Notations to Gemini and Taurus pertain to you also. Put worry and doubt aside and pitch in to the day's schedule with faith, confidence. Ask God's assistance along the way and you will benefit.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—A good day for improvement, for working for spiritual graces as well as for bettering business and other temporal interests. Be co-operative with superiors, employees.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Your Mars among the most well-aspected planets now. Put work and other interests should be carefully studied to bring in fresh gains. Do not overenthuse or go to extremes.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Not entirely easy or ripe for quick money-making. Better be sensibly cautious. It is a day, however, for improving the quality of your work, making your future more secure.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Tedious small tasks and more pretentious undertakings—and the two will come to—comes under today's encouraging star rays. You will make your work easier and gain more if you remain your genial self.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Aspects for today suggest this program: analyse act with confidence and avoid unhealthy, unprofitable restlessness. This can be a red letter day for smart, rightly ambitious Aquarians.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Promising—friendly indications. Step up your self-esteem and give your talents and general capabilities a good chance to manifest themselves. You have fine opportunities.

YOU BORN TODAY are interesting, active, usually a go-getter. These are grand characteristics for success but you should, as should we all, remember that the gift of humility is a sign of true greatness, and cultivating gentleness and warmth of heart makes us happier, gains for us an inner contentment that is priceless. It is proper to have ambition and to seek to better ourselves, but never forget God's laws and His pattern for living. You have intuition and the initiative needed for achievement. Birthdate: Edw. Fitzgerald, English poet, translator of the Rubaiyat; Rene Descartes, famed Fr. philosopher; Jos. Hayda, Austrian composer.

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Sets Over-All Tax Rate of 70 Mills

CAMPBELLFORD — The Council of the town of Campbellford met in special session on Monday night to consider the budget and set the rate. All members were present.

The rate for 1954 was set at 70 mills for Public School supporters and 68 mills for Separate School supporters, made up of the following items:

For all taxpayers: County rate, 8.3 mills; public library, 1.8 mills; relief, 1.25 mills; charity, 25 mills; hospitalization and health, 1.7 mills; Campbellford Memorial Hospital debentures, 1.9 mills; high school area, 7.19 mills; general rate, 28.47 mills; hospital debenture, 2.43 mills; Wartime Housing Debenture, 1.36 mills; local improvement debenture, 2.27 mills; total 51.40 mills; public school supporters, 16.6 mills; high school debenture, 2.5 mills.

The hospital charges are not borne by Separate School supporters and instead of these 18.8 mills will be assessed to them to their school rate. This accounts for the 2 mills variation on school levies.

Prior to the setting of the rate, Mayor R. J. Locke brought up the matter of raising capital funds to complete the new town building. The matter was laid over until Wednesday, May 5th, when it will be discussed jointly with the township council.

Mayor Locke gave an extensive statement concerning hospital finances, and the meeting of the governing deficit for January and February, when the deficit for the delinquent borrowed $2,100. It was on motion decided to allow the Hospital Board to use the money from the sale of the former hospital property for the reduction of the deficit on account of maintenance. A monthly grant of $450.00 was included in the 1954 budget.

PRESENTS ESTIMATES.

Mr. Arthur Loucks, secretary of the North-East Northumberland High School area board presented the high school estimates, observing that there are a number of items not yet settled. He said that Campbellford's share of the total high school area levy as estimated would be $12,737.76. The total figure for all municipalities to be raised by taxation is $35,-964.44 of which Campbellford pays 31.94 per cent, Percy 27.709 per cent, and Seymour 39.351 per cent. Included in the requirements is $3,013.89 for the final debenture payments on the Campbellford school.

Messrs. W. C. Tatham and S. A. Hopping addressed council in respect for further pavilion construction at the rear of Trinity Lawn. The Public school asked for $25,-000, the balance of $8,000 over last year. The trustees explained that salary increments would take $1,900 extra and the building of a safe fence adjacent to the ice $500; school hours to be supplied to the children, $500, and insurance $1,800.

The applications for a stenographer to replace Miss Lattan were considered and Mrs. Helen Pote chosen on a trial basis at a salary of $120 per month, duties to commence on April 1st.

Three Escape As Atom-Bomber Is Wrecked

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Seven of the 10 men aboard were killed Monday as the crash of a B-36 bomber that fell seconds after take-off and burst into flames.

The atom-bomber hit the ground hard just off the runway at nearby Spray Fairchild air force base, skidded through a small construction shed and burned.

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

For the Sake of Goodwill

Definitely not dressed for such activities, Dr. Konrad Adenauer, chancellor of West Germany, straddles a rather anxious-looking horse as he prepares for the cowboy sequence of the vaudeville gala of Santorin during his goodwill tour of Greece and its islands. Meetings between Adenauer and Greek government officials are believed to have laid groundwork for economic agreements between Greece and West Germany. — Central Press Canadian.

Two Protestant Church Groups Oppose Lotteries

OTTAWA (CP)—Two Protestant church groups today described states lotteries as "an evil" in the moral, social and economic well-being of Canada.

The Christian Social Council of Canada, which serves as the social relations department of the Canadian Council of Churches, said state lotteries are "the official sanction to one of the shadiest of all rackets."

The Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada opposed all forms of gambling and chance-taking.

Both groups presented briefs to the Commons-Senate committee on capital and corporal punishment and lotteries.

The Christian Social Council claims to represent 90 per cent of the Christian population, other than Roman Catholic, in Canada. Members include six Protestant churches, the Salvation Army, the Society of Friends and the international YMCA.

The council warned that gambling interests might succeed in gaining control of state lotteries such as the case of the Louisiana state lottery, abolished in 1894.

A 2,500-word brief said: "Legalization of gambling has not been, is not, and never will be a substitute for honest, efficient law enforcement."

CRAPS EXPOSED

The missionary society said in its 2,000-word brief:

"Gambling is a created risk: its purpose an evil result. It can become on this continent a vicious 'racket' using snowballing profits to finance political corruption and social evils."

The society said the Canadian Hospital Council, which represents provincial and other hospital associations in Canada, is opposed to the principle of raising funds by lotteries.

The council said little money collected in lotteries would find its way into hospital coffers. It said that less than 19 per cent of the money collected in the Irish sweepstakes goes to hospitals. The society placed the percentage at 18.18%, per cent.

Spring Migration Of Whistling Swans On

PORT ROWAN (CP)—Swarms of bird-lovers, armed with binoculars, telescopes and motion - picture cameras, are waiting in this area community during the week-end to see the spring migration of whistling swans.

Thousands of wild swans congregate in late March and early April at Long Point marsh near this village.

They stop here to feed on their long flight from the coasts of North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland, where they winter, to their breeding grounds along the Arctic coast.

Britain Worried About American Production Trend

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—The government today published an economic report which emphasized almost every sentence that British treasury chiefs are anxious about what will happen if American production continues to drop.

It pointed out that Britain is still not exporting enough and called for a big selling drive at "keenest" possible prices to meet foreign competition.

The report—the annual economic survey published a week before the new budget—declared the level of United States activity is likely to be "the most decisive single factor" in the immediate future of world trade.

French Attack Forces Vietminh Onto Defensive

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — Communist-led Vietminh forces, on the defensive for the first time in their months-old drive to overrun Union fortress of Dien Bien Phu, braced themselves today for further attacks after the French had killed 1,400 rebels in a smashing lightning attack outside the fortress.

Latest figures on the big counter-attack against the Vietminh showed the rebels lost 600 more in fighting with infantrymen and under the fire of tanks and artillery, while B-26s and Flying Boxcars used as bombers wiped out 1,200.

This French success cost them around 30 killed, the high command said here.

Ma was reading P. Willis Hinkle's column in the paper, and she said to pop, I cant agree with this, Willum.

What's this? pop said, and ma said, P. Willis Hinkle says the trubble with most people, is they have their own strength, and are ignorant of their own weaknesses.

Maybe he didn't seem to include you when he spoke of the people, pop said, and ma said, Well if he did, he was never more mistaken in his life. I work and try to be reasonably proud of my strong points, and I wont say that I injoy having my weaknesses pointed out by every Tom Dicken Harry, but that isn't saying I'm not perfectly well aware of them. Willum, I dedy you to name a single weakness in my carracter that I dont know about, she said.

Now let me think, pop said. By golliee, now that I've thought, you have no weaknesses. That's what makes you so remarkable and distinguishes you from other women, he said, and ma said, Now Willum, that simply doesn't seem possible. I'm sure that Mrs. Hamm, she said.

Well, now that I think again, you have quite a stubbor streek, pop said, and ma said, I do you think so? Really? In what way? she said.

Well, whatever you do has to be just perfect or you're not satisfied, pop said. You're really stubborn about it, he said, and ma said, and ma said, Well, I admit I set an inordinately high standard for myself. What elss, Willum? she said.

That's about the only weakness that occurs to me, pop said, and ma said, Well at least it proves my mind is open to my own defects.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to stop bleeding—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, while gentle relief was noted, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where the treatmen was used over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, from the mild to the severe.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret lies in a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a world-famous research institute. Bio-Dyne is the Dyne in is wide use for healing injured tissues in other parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name "Preparation H." Ask for it at only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to use is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember — if not entirely satisfied your money will be refunded promptly.

No Problem Having Soldiers Take Care of Their Teeth

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—When Johnny comes marching home from Korea you'll be able to see him smile a mile away because of the Dental Corps' unique program of bringing dentists next to the troops in the field.

The dental unit under Lt.-Col. Bert Kearney of Galt and Ottawa is available to the forward battalions where a soldier can be treated in an hour or two.

Joak Brayley

Other dental services in the theatre are usually attached to rear-area hospitals.

"With a rotation of troops coming up soon, we've been handling more than 100 sets of teeth a month to make sure the soldier will look even better to his family when they welcome him," the colonel said. "There's no problem getting the men to have their teeth attended to. In fact, the problem is looking after them with our limited staff and facilities. Canadian soldiers just seem to take a pride in their appearance and our date book is filled for weeks ahead."

The unit was recently inspected by Col. C. B. Climo of Ottawa, deputy director-general of dental services. For the occasion the dental corps' new flag was flown for the first time anywhere.

Dental officers are attached to each major unit of the 25th Canadian Brigade and they use mobile clinics. Col. Kearney has eight months supplies at his headquarters and a daily run picks up and delivers dentures to the dental officer in the forward areas.

A period in the early morning is devoted to handling emergencies such as toothaches. The man in the most serious condition receives the attention of the dentist.

The man on his way on rotation home also is given high priority.

Trench mouth has been a scourge of armies in the past. Its low incidence in Korea has surprised the dental officers. Col. Kearney thinks it may have something to do with the troops' good diet.

"If I could only keep them away from candy and pop I'd be completely happy," he said. That's what does the real damage.

Among the colonel's technical staff at headquarters are WO2 Arsenen Vankyzal of St. Vital, Man., Sgt. Charles Johnston, Vancouver, Sgt. Frank Kennedy, London, Ont., and Cpl. Gerald Murphy, Ottawa.

The dental headquarters at the 25th Canadian Brigade also acts as administration boss of four other small units—the field cashier, the brigade paymaster, the ordnance unit and the field post office.

Canadian Guards Takes Precedence Over Five Units

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Guards, youngest infantry regiment in Canada, now takes precedence over the other five active force infantry regiments.

The guards regiment was formed Oct. 18, 1953, but it is listed first in the order of precedence and on parade leads the other regiments.

The other five are the Royal Canadian Regiment, formed Dec. 21, 1883; Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, formed Aug. 10, 1914; Royal 22nd Regiment, formed Oct. 22, 1914; Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, formed April 28, 1860; and the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada, formed Jan. 1, 1862.

Actually, the Royal Canadian Regiment is Canada's oldest active force infantry regiment. The Queen's Own and Black Watch were reserve units originally but provided active force service battalions in the First and Second World Wars.

FOUR BATTALIONS

Last October, when the Guards were formed, the 1st and 2nd Canadian Rifle Battalions were redesignated the 1st and 2nd Battalions of the Queen's Own and the 1st and 2nd Canadian Highland Battalions were redesignated the 1st and 2nd battalions of the Black Watch.

The guards comprise four battalions. The 1st will be formed from the 3rd battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, when it returns from Korea next month; the 2nd, drawn from the 3rd battalion, Princess Patricia's, is at Petawawa; the 3rd is at Valcartier, Que., and the 4th on its way to Korea. The 3rd and 4th were formed from the 1st and 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalions.

The guards "outrank" the other five regiments simply because guards regiments throughout the Commonwealth take precedence over other infantry.

AIRLINE CLAIMS RECORD

NEW YORK (AP)—An American Airlines DC-7 flew from Los Angeles to New York Monday in six hours, 19 minutes. The company said it was a record for commercial airlines. The plane carried 60 passengers and averaged 390 miles an hour for the 2,639-mile flight. The old record was said to be six hours, 17 minutes set by an American Airlines Constellation in February, 1949.

Condemn Israel For Slaying Of Nine Arabs

By ERIC GOTTGETREU

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Jordan-Israel mixed armistice commission today condemned Israel "in the strongest terms" for the killing of nine Arabs and wounding of 19 in an attack Sunday midnight on the Jordan border village of Natalin.

The censure was voted by Jordan's members of the commission and its United Nations chairman, E. H. Hutchins, a United States Navy commander.

The resolution said a "large group of military-trained Israelis" had crossed the demarcation line into Jordan territory, "firing from automatic weapons, detonating explosives and throwing hand grenades and incendiary bombs."

Eight National Guardsmen and a woman were killed, and 19 other people wounded, mostly villagers.

TV NEWS

by Gene Hitchon

We've talked a lot about television in these columns — naturally enough — but do you know who really started it? Who was the first man to put on a TV? If you want to find out as much as you can about it and we've been digging into the history of it to learn how it all began.

The first practical TV set was built by an English film worker, John Baird, in 1926 and he lived to see it become the great entertainment and educational medium it is today. He died in 1946 and, as you probably know, the British Broadcasting Corp. began transmitting commercial broadcasts in 1936. By 1939 the BBC was broadcasting TV 12 hours a week, but the studios in Alexandra Palace were closed as soon as war broke out.

In 1941 Baird, the man who made TV practical, transmitted a three-dimensional picture of a handful of flowers (in full color!)

He was just experimenting and although we haven't quite caught up to him yet in that field, the screens are clearer, brighter and larger today than anything he ever dreamed of. An ad in this issue tells you about a new method of TV set that brings clear, sharp pictures on to a screen that size in a handsome cabinet. That's why the ELECTROHOME is a doubly good buy. The best picture in the best looking cabinet, at the best price! — it's a combination that surely embodies the spirit of fine entertainment.

The Crow and the Pitcher

A THIRSTY CROW found a Pitcher with some water in it, but so little was there that, try as she might, she could not reach it with her beak, and it seemed as though she would die of thirst within sight of the remedy. At last she hit upon a clever plan. She began dropping pebbles into the Pitcher, and with each pebble the water rose a little higher until at last it reached the brim, and the knowing bird was enabled to quench her thirst.

U.S. Can Make H-Bomb Able To Destroy Any City

Atomic Energy Commission's Chairman Outlines Facts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the United States Atomic Energy Commission said today a hydrogen bomb big enough to destroy any city in the world now can be made.

Strauss made the statement at President Eisenhower's weekly press conference. He attended the conference to give the public a partial report on the recent H-bomb tests in the far Pacific.

The AEC chairman said the March 1 and March 26 tests "were successful" and declared that "enormous potential has been added to our military strength."

He denied reports that the first blast, which exposed a number of American, Japanese and Marshall Islanders far from the explosion scene to "hot" ashes, went out of control.

"It was a stupendous blast," Strauss said. "But at no time was the testing out of control."

TWICE WHAT EXPECTED

He said the power of the explosion was about twice what scientists had expected—a margin of error "not unusual in testing a totally new weapon."

The commission's shift in the wind carried atomic particles to the north, across a Japanese fishing trawler was crying, Strauss added.

Strauss said the tests bring the commission "very much nearer" to satisfying the requirements of the armed forces and hasten the day when the AEC can devote more attention to developing peacetime uses of atomic energy.

President Eisenhower listened with keen attention as Strauss—just back from the Pacific test—read a four-page statement and then answered a few questions.

In reply to one question, Strauss said, without qualification, that an H-bomb can be made. "I take out" a city can be made.

"How big a city?" he was asked.

"Any city," Strauss replied.

"New York?" a reporter prodded.

Strauss nodded and said, "the metropolitan area."

Strauss also used the word "destroy" in describing what an H-bomb could do to the metropolitan area of New York.

Asked a question after the news conference what he meant by the phrase "take out a city," Strauss said he meant "put a city out of commission, not level it."

Here are the sizes of the two biggest cities of the world, as estimated by the National Geographic Society:

London's metropolitan area 3,-550 square miles; downtown area, 314 square miles.

London's metropolitan area, 1,725 square miles; "The City" 37 square miles.

Strauss said there have been "exaggerated and mistaken" descriptions of the July 1 test.

Defence Secretary Wilson described the explosion "remarkable." Strauss said he thought that word has been "played up" in the papers more than the secretary intended.

Two Fishermen Are Recovering After Ordeal

PICTON — Suffering from exposure as a result of being adrift in an open boat for more than 36 hours, Frank Baverstock, 38, and his brother, Arthur, 41, are recovering in Prince Edward County hospital here. Their condition is reported as favorable, today, though Arthur's hands were badly frozen as a result of bailing water out of the boat.

The men were admitted at 3.30 yesterday, three-and-a-half hours after their small boat was spotted by an RCAF plane from Trenton, 20 miles out in Lake Ontario, off Salmon Point. Prince Edward County. Dropping flares to attract attention of boats taking part in the search, the plane led boats owned by Roy VanCott and Stanley Rankin to the men. They were brought to shore in VanCott's tug while Rankin towed in the men's boat. Hot tea and sandwiches were given the famished men who had last eaten at noon on Monday.

As the men landed on shore, Ivan was able to walk unsupported to a waiting ambulance, but Arthur's support was needed for Arthur. Dr. J. H. Walmsley was on hand to give medical attention, and later reported himself well pleased with their condition.

ANXIOUS WAITING

It was 24 hours of anxious waiting for Ivan's wife and the boys' mother, Mrs. Dorothy Baverstock, a widow. They were notified at noon yesterday that the boat had been sighted and that the men had waved. At 4 o'clock, after several hours later that they reached shore.

"We ran out of gas," Ivan told pressmen. "We set out in our own boat, expecting to be gone an hour or so. We set some whitefish nets and took in some small nets. Then the heavy snowstorm came up and we were lost. We were in the outboard gave out and we drifted straight out into the lake. Neither of us was too warmly clad and the boat offered little protection from the elements. We were soon soaked through.

"We knew that we were missed and a search was being made as we could see Rankin's boat around midday. My mouth was dry as a bone and we could not light a flare. We were half frozen and our yells were unheard. Naturally the rescue and searchers did not see us was due to our boat being coated with ice. It was heart-breaking when they passed out of sight. We were lucky that there was not greater wind during the night or our craft would have been swamped. We had to try to do a lot of bailing during the night to keep the boat afloat. We tried to keep warm but it was hard to it out. It was a wonderful thing when the RCAF plane finally found us. We couldn't have taken much more."

GREAT SEARCH

While the men drifted at the mercy of the lake, a great search was in progress. Stanley Rankin took his big fish boat out after the snowstorm died down as well as the Provincial Constable C. Fletcher and others searched until 2 a.m. Three hours later Rankin was out again.

During the night, cars were lined on the shore with lights to help guide the lost boat, and huge bonfires of fire were lighted on Salmon Point, West Point and at Wellington. Gas lanterns were placed in the unused lighthouse at Salmon Point. At Wellington, the fire department's siren wailed most of the night, while Bruce Marlin used a scout truck on Outlet beach to offer guidance. The AA Battery fired guns at 5 o'clock.

Mayor H. J. McFarland and Prince Edward Flying Club sent out their planes yesterday as did the RCAF at Trenton. Hundreds flocked to the scene to give the possible aid. The Salvation Army served coffee and sandwiches.

Fortunately the weather yesterday was clear and the bright sun offered the most welcome measure of relief from the low temperature experienced during the night.

CHILDREN SEE MOTHER SUFFER FATAL BEATING

Think Shotgun Wound Caused Woman's Death

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Windsor police are holding Joseph P. Garthwaite, 48, of Windsor, whose wife, Emma, 32, died after a brutal beating in her home early today. The woman also appeared to have been shot.

Garthwaite was arrested in another room of the small wartime house when police broke in to find the dying woman.

Police were called after Betty Garthwaite, 12, ran to a neighbor's home screaming: "Daddy is hitting mama—he's doing it again."

Mrs. Garthwaite died in an ambulance on the way to hospital. An autopsy was to be performed this afternoon by Windsor coroner, Bruce J. S. MacDonald was to be questioned as to what charge would be laid against Garthwaite.

DEATH CAUSE UNCERTAIN

Police are uncertain about the direct cause of Mrs. Garthwaite's death. Although it appears that a wound in her chest was the main factor...

Police said Garthwaite had apparently been drinking heavily before they broke into the home.

Police said Mrs. Garthwaite apparently died of a shotgun wound.

Police investigated the scene of the body, and investigating officers noticed a shotgun shell lodged in the house. One barrel of the gun had recently been fired.

Three of the couple's four children watched the beating. Betty, 12, and her friend Marnie Hurst, 13, and Alice, 6, were awake at the time. Their brother, Jack, child, John, 4, was sleeping.

Report Method of Almost Doubling Survival Time of Leukemia

By RENNIE TAYLOR

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A method of almost doubling the survival time of people with leukemia, a blood disease reported today by a physician widely known for his research on blood.

The treatment involves the use of constant small doses of radiation over the entire body.

Usually leukaemia patients are treated only as long as they are outwardly able to carry on work. The new way is to keep on treating them after they apparently disappear sick.

The method was described to science writers by Dr. E. E. Osgood of the University of Oregon medical school. Science writers are say touring research centres under the sponsorship of the American Cancer Society, which supports the work of Dr. Osgood and many other medical scientists.

For chronic leukaemias the average survival time, between the onset of disease and death, has been limited in medical statistics as 36 to 42 months.

Dr. Osgood reported on 163 patients, who have been treated as a group since and even the end of 1953, 46 of these patients still were alive. The average survival time as of that date was 57 months. Some 30 still are living, the calculated average survival time for all 163 will be four years and nine months. Survival periods in remission are improved from time to time, Dr. Osgood figured that by the time these remaining 46 are dead, the average survival period will be between seven and eight years.

Since leukaemia is a disease of the blood and certain blood parts of the body, the entire system is involved.

Another research project which gives hope for added life to victims of leukaemia and certain cancers was reported by two other researchers at the school, Dr. Clarence V. Hodges and Dr. Clare G. Bennett.

Removal of the adrenal glands is one type of treatment used. This has prolonged life and banished pain for some patients, but Hodges and Bennett said they are getting away from adrenal surgery and using sex hormones instead.

Distributors of Figurines Accused of Attempting To Pre-Set Prices in 3 Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian distributor of the famous British Royal Doulton figurines is accused by Canada's anti-combines commission of inducing retailers in three provinces to sell the figurines at predetermined prices.

This practice of resale price maintenance was banned by Parliament in 1951, after a political controversy.

The Restrictive Trade Practices Commission today was made against Parsons-Steiner Ltd., Toronto, alleged to have induced or attempted to induce various retailers in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia to maintain retail prices.

The three-man commission, in a 19-page report tabled today in the Commons by Justice Minister Garson, said the R.T.P.C. decided sought to be imposed on retailers was $6 or less.

Parliament's anti-combines body found that Parsons-Steiner Ltd. also attempted to induce four Vancouver wholesalers to refrain from selling Royal Doulton Figurines to Household Fair Ltd., a Vancouver retail store, because Household Fair had declined to abide by resale price orders.

VANCOUVER WHOLESALER

The Toronto distributor is said to have induced another Vancouver wholesaler to refrain from selling prices on another line, Royal Albert, also distributed by Parsons-Steiner as the Canadian agent, at a price lower than that established by other jobbers.

This was the commission's third report on an alleged break in the resale price maintenance ban. Mr. Garson said he will decide later what action the government will take on the report.

Parsons-Steiner distributes the Royal Doulton figurines and other products of Royal Doulton, manufactured by Doulton and Co. Ltd., of England.

CHARGES PRICE FIXING

The commission said Parsons-Steiner made specific price maintenance requests to The Gift Shop and The China Shop, Quebec; Woodward Stores (Victoria) Ltd., Victoria; and Woodward Stores Ltd., Vancouver. The Toronto distributor also is alleged to have asked Simpsons-Sears Ltd. of Victoria to maintain resale prices.

On the wholesale side, the commission found that G. R. Gregg and Co., Vancouver, Ltd., refused to handle the Doulton figures for Household Fair Ltd., because Household Fair refused to fix prices.

It found that Parsons-Steiner wrote Archibald and Shepherd (Imports) Ltd., another Vancouver wholesaler, that prices on Royal Albert and Shepherd was wholesaling the Royal Doulton line to sell below Parsons-Steiner was the Canadian agent, at a price lower than that maintained by other jobbers.

New Trade Agreement Signed Between Canada and Japan

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada and Japan today signed a new trade agreement.

The agreement, which replaces Canadian tariffs on Japanese goods and safeguards this country's exports to Japan of wheat, barley and woodpulp among other items, was signed by Trade Minister Howe and Japanese Trade Minister Pearson for Canada. The new Japanese ambassador to Canada, Koto Matsudaira, signed for Japan.

The external affairs department, announcing the signing, said under the new agreement Canada and Japan "will exchange unconditional most-favoured-nation treatment with respect to customs duties and other charges, and all rules and formalities, regulations, taxes and other regulations concerning trade."

VALID FOR YEAR

The agreement becomes effective on its ratification by both countries. It will be valid for one year from ratification.

The key terms include:

1. A non-discrimination clause against any trade restrictions imposed by either country.

2. Unconditional most-favoured nation treatment in the allocation and administration of foreign exchange available for trade purposes.

3. Provision for the imposition of quantitative discriminatory import and exchange restrictions if necessary for balance of payments.

4. The right of Canada to impose "special values for duty" on Japanese goods entering "substantially" to domestic producers of competing products.

WILL CUT TARIFFS

By giving Japanese goods "most-favoured-nation" treatment, Canada will be cutting her tariffs on imports from Japan from the "general" to the lowest "most favoured" country can impose. The cut will be greatest on iron and steel, in many cases reduction will be greatest.

The department said Japan, in return, undertakes, "subject to certain agreed exceptions," to accord unconditional non - discriminatory treatment to Canadian exports of wheat, barley, woodpulp, flaxseed, primary cooper, lead in pigs, zinc in pigs, nickel in pigs and nickel powder.

200,000 Enjoy First Ride In Toronto Subway

TORONTO (CP)—Some 200,000 passengers, many of them "joy-riders," travelled Toronto's new subway during its first day of operation.

Toronto Transit Commission officials said patronage 50 per cent of Tuesday's passengers were just going along for the ride. Many of them were from other parts of the city not served by the subway. Thousands more, they estimated, could ride the 4.6 miles from the Union station to Eglinton avenue repeatedly and not pay a cent just that.

Police said the subway eased traffic problems immediately. Said Inspector Ernest Jarvis: "Traffic wouldn't believe it was the same city. There wasn't a single traffic jam on the line of service streets. On some of the side streets you could fire a gun without hitting anything."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Very cold weather will prevail over most of the continent. Since no strong currents of air are expected to develop in the next day or so there is not much chance of temperatures moderating.

A weak disturbance in the northwest may bring some light snow to extreme Northern Ontario tonight and Thursday. Elsewhere skies will be mostly sunny except for a little cloudiness tonight accompanied by very light snowflurries.

RED CHINA COMES TO FORE IN HOUSE DEBATE

Recognition Bitterly Opposed by P.C.s

OTTAWA (CP)—Recognition of the Chinese Communist government has come to the fore in a lengthy Commons debate on foreign affairs.

The Progressive Conservative party's outright opposition to that action was repeated Tuesday by Howard Green, Vancouver-Quadra, in the fourth day of the debate.

"We must remember that Communist China has never, so far as can be said, At the Geneva conference on Korea and Indo-China, Canada should not be "tied down the garden path of Communist promises that they are going to be good boys in the future."

External Affairs Minister Pearson, who will represent Canada at the Geneva later this month, said last Friday that Canada will not yield to any pressure at Geneva for recognition of Red China.

Mr. Green said Prime Minister St. Laurent had been "completely utterly and absolutely unrealistic" when he said in the Far East that there would be no peace—either sooner or later is bound to recognize the Communist government.

"In dealing with Communists it is futile to say that we will have to give, practically, what they are asking for. To them, . . . that is only appeasement. It is not negotiation to demand more.

"General recognition would constitute a tremendous victory for communism right across the world."

ADVOCATES RECOGNITION

Elmore Philpott (L.—Vancouver South) said the hope conditions will change in the next few months to allow Canada to take a step toward recognition. The West must "keep the door open for low-and-behold arrangement with its enemies if it wanted to avoid a per-manent war."

Another issue in the debate, U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was raised again by H. W. Herridge (C.—Kootenay West) who said that U.S. Secretary Dulles has taken a rather independent stand he was not consulted.

He said Mr. Dulles is frightening the allies more than he frightens Russia.

Earlier Mr. Pearson said consultation with the United States prior to Monday's statement by Mr. Dulles that the world should take united action to prevent Communist conquest of Indo-China and Southeast Asia.

Crew Is Rescued As Sealing Ship Sinks Wednesday

HALIFAX (CP) — The 260-ton Canadian sealing vessel Truls sank today off the northern tip of Cape Breton Island but the crew was rescued by another sealer.

Reports here said the Truls started taking in water and her pumps could throw it back into the sea after she was holed by ice.

The sealer Titus sped to her aid but took off the Truls' crew minutes before she up-ended and sank.

Seven Toronto Skiers Begin Three-Week Ice-Field Expedition

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — Seven ardent Toronto ski-mountaineers and a Swiss guide are to begin a three-week ice-field trek and survival expedition which will take them through rugged country to one of the highest ridge in the Canadian Rockies.

They'll travel light. Each member of the party, which includes one woman, will carry 50-pound packs of bedding, climbing and survival equipment. Food and supplement caches dropped by aircraft along their route, in all, will total 1,400 pounds. They will be on about two pounds of food containing 1,400 calories.

The challenging trek is the result of six years' planning by Peter Bennett. Others in the party are Peter Aurlin, 40, his wife Betty, 1937 Canadian women's ski champion, Pat Boswell, 30, Ted Pope, 30, Dr. Allan Bruce-Robertson, 32, and Murray Swively, 30. All are experienced climbers.

Their guide will be Peter Klettl, veteran Swiss alpine trooper who lives in Jasper.

Bennett's projected route includes eight icefields, four cut which have never been crossed or skin. Another "first" will be the scaling of at least one 1,000-foot glacial peak.

The route mostly follows the western border of Alberta and terminates near Hector, B.C.

The chief motive behind the trip, Bennett said, is the challenge of mountaineering and the mental gratification something that has never been done before.

Details of the diet was the work of the Defence Research Board's Arctic Medical Research on the food, their clothing and equipment in below-zero temperatures and high altitudes. Normal daily intake for a working man is about 3,000 calories.

Snow conditions were reported good. The weather prediction for the Jasper area early today included light snowflurries, light winds and temperatures in the mid-20s.

Witness States 'Hot Chocolate' Given to Bell

D. Duffy Says Mrs. Brell Made Statement to Him

The first evidence that Percy W. Bell, who died of strychnine poison on the morning of January 2, had been given "hot chocolate" to drink just prior to his death was revealed at the preliminary hearing of the murder charge against Mary E. Bell this morning.

David Duffy, of the Belleville Finance Company, from which the Bells had borrowed money, stated the accuser, Norman, had told him she had given her husband "hot chocolate" before retiring on January 1st.

Crown prosecutor A. Hall asked the witness: "Is there any doubt in your mind as to what Mrs. Bell said?"

"None," said Duffy.

REPEATS TESTIMONY

The witness repeated his testimony under pre-liminary examination by defence counsel, Ron W. Cass.

Professor Ross Baxter, University of Toronto pharmacologist, said he had found traces of cocoa in an analysis of stomach contents, organs and pulled contents of Percy Bell. He had verified them with true samples of cocoa.

Professor Baxter was called to the stand at 2 o'clock prior to the mid-day adjournment.

The samples had been given Prof. Baxter by Dr. Ward Smith, of the attorney general's laboratory, Toronto.

Cocoa and chocolate taken in a drink were synonymous, he said.

Prof. Baxter, in cross-examination, said it was possible the samples could leave the stomach in five hours and not be broken down.

ADMITS SEAL BROKEN

The witness admitted an answer to counsel containing contents of the gullet had the seal broken when given to him. He said he was present when the material was prepared.

He said he had checked only for cocoa, not for coffee or any other material.

Churchill Calls Cabinet Meeting On H-Bomb

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill summoned a meeting of his cabinet today as British experts on the 15-bomb jitters showed little sign of lessening as a result of assurances he gave in the House of Commons Tuesday.

Demands for the government to intercede with the United States to get the current Bikini tests called off continued unabated in a rash of newspaper headlines.

Churchill told parliament Tuesday:

"We should indeed be doing a great disservice to the free world if we sought in any way to impede the progress of the experiments which are necessary to the weapon which provides the greatest possible deterrent against the outbreak of a third world war."

LABOR TO MEET

The labor party's parliamentary leaders will meet tonight to consider what action to take. They are likely to press the government for an H-bomb debate before Parliament adjourns about April 15 for Easter recess.

Clement Atlee, Labor leader and former prime minister, and his chief aides realize the difficulty with which Churchill must make his approaches, although they are anxious that Britain obtain all the information possible from the U.S. about the effects and future use of hydrogen bombs.

New Zealand Safe From H-Bombs

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (AP) — Prime Minister Sidney Holland today squelched suggestions that New Zealand may become contaminated with radio-activity from United States hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific.

Britain, France And U.S. Agree On Soviet Trade

LONDON (AP) — The United States, Britain and France have reached a preliminary composite agreement to ease restrictions on the sale of strategic goods to the Soviet bloc in Europe while tightening up on products of definite war potential.

The western allies announced the agreement Tuesday night after the U. S. foreign-aid chief, Harold E. Stassen, met British and French officials at a two-day conference.

The agreement marks an important compromise between a growing European demands for more trade with Russia and her satellites and the continued desire of the U. S. to keep all strategic goods out of Communist hands.

In the exploratory talks, the three powers ruled out trade with Red China and North Korea.

The three powers will open talks in Paris April 15 with their allies —the other NATO powers, West Germany and Japan—on revising the basic list which bars Russia "by narrowing substantially their scope and increasing their effectiveness."

NO WAR INCREASE

Western diplomats interpret this to mean that restrictions on the sale of non-essential goods to the Russians will be tightened while those on other goods will be eased.

Stassen said his government has "no objection at all to trade in peaceful goods with Russia."

"In fact, the United States wants to encourage as much of that trade as can be done."

Britain and France have been pressing the U. S. to trim some goods they consider borderline from the list of banned strategic products. Of the differences between the U. S. and Britain over what is strategic, Stassen said:

"The only problem is when you get into the in-between areas. ... He cited machine tools, which British business men are clamoring to sell to Russia, as one of these "in-between" items.

WITNESS

SOLD BELL A POLICY

Edward Ingram, insurance agent, said he had sold Bell a policy for life insurance to cover a mortgage. He was present. It was a 15-year term policy.

The witness said in the spring of 1952, Mrs. Bell wanted to borrow money on her home. She was told the policy had no loan provision.

The policy was lapsed after two years in 1952, because no further premiums were paid.

Cross-examined witness said he contacted Bell a month or so view to having the insurance carried on. She said they did not intend carrying it.

The policy, witness said, had a face value of exactly $4,000. The mortgage was for $4,600, he understood.

Jack Reppard, liquor store clerk, testified he did not know Mrs. Bell by sight. He identified his initials in a liquor book presented by the crown, said to be that of Mrs. Bell's brother.

CHIEF PROBERT ON STAND

Chief Constable Walter Probert testified he had contacted an investigation, assisted by Inspector Kelly.

Chief Probert explained in detail a conversation he had over a telephone with a female voice regarding the Bell case. He could not identify the voice.

D. R. Duffy, Bellvue Finance, said he had made a loan of $50 cash to Mrs. Bell to cover a debt to Niagara Finance. Also loan of $1,500 which he said is by instalments.

Following Bell's death the witness said he was called by Mrs. Bell on January 5, advising him of the death and "if we had seen it in the newspapers."

The loan agreement was covered by insurance and it would take about two weeks to straighten it out. We marked it forward to January 31."

GAVE HIM DRINK

"Mrs. Bell said her husband had died very suddenly. He had complained of headache while watching TV and she had given him a drink of hot chocolate. He had gone to bed ill and later in the morning he was much worse."

"Is that the drink in your mind about the hot chocolate?"

"No definitely not," Duffy said. "Mrs. Bell called January 11 and asked for a member of the firm to see her. He went to the home at 3 p.m. when she told him she had been successful in getting more insurance and had left two policies with Mr. Lennox, her lawyer."

Mrs. Bell presented witness with a cheque for $1,500 which he took to his office. Later he returned with a cheque for the difference in Bell's account which was $223.18.

She was upset about publicity and her exhumation," Duffy said. "She said it had only been 66 days since Bell made his will."

A man and woman had admitted him prior to the transactions. She was upstairs when he called. He asked her to step outside while he completed his business.

The crown again asked witness regarding the hot chocolate. Duffy said newspaper reports said no drink had been taken by Bell prior to going to bed. It stuck in his mind.

Under cross-examination, the witness admitted there was originally $1,000 in assets after Bell's death. There were $5,400 outstanding debts which would leave some $4,500.

Mr. Cass pointed out 5 per cent on $4,600 was $230 a year, not a very substantial income.

UTILITY REPORTERS

Under questioning, Duffy said he thought Mrs. Bell was upset by publicity. She appeared to be under a strain.

The witness admitted he had given a cheque for $1,500 some ten days after, but denied he had asked anyone to "get" Bell by telephone conversation in the interim.

Counsel suggested that after a lapse of ten days it would be hard to recall the exact wording of a statement. Witness said he would depend on the circumstances.

"What circumstances?" asked counsel.

Duffy said if something further developed he would have refreshed your memory it might happen.

"That is exactly what happened, somebody refreshed your memory."

"Yes, a newspaper account approximately five days later."

HEARTBURN ADVERTISEMENT

Witness admitted he had been in conversation with people at the Bell home after receiving a phone call, on January 11th.

Mrs. Bell mentioned she would like to see a representative of his company, Duffy said. He said he had not read disclosing the account with anyone, nor believed anyone had "for Bellvue to 'get out from under'."

The witness repeated the conversation with Mrs. Bell on January 5th.

"Mr. Bell had complained of being in pain. She had made him a hot drink of chocolate and he had gone to bed," the witness reasserted.

COLD CAUSE OF DEATH

"Are you swearing Mrs. Bell told you cause of death was related to the drink of chocolate?" asked.

"Yes, I am," said the witness, adding he would also swear to Mrs. Bell saying she had called a doctor.

He repeated Mrs. Bell said, "hot chocolate" when mentioning the drink.

"It was not coffee or cocoa?"

"As I recall it, it was chocolate."

Previously counsel warned the witness to "get out of your head what you have read in the newspapers."

Asked if he had discussed the Bell case in the office, Duffy said he had talked with his immediate superior, Mr. Cawker and Lennox, after seeing newspaper accounts of the death.

"Did you confide in Mr. Cawker on January 11th the conversation on January 5th?"

"No."

Asked if he had discussed the Bell case or accounts in newspapers within the Bellvue organization after the inquest, the witness replied it was discussed on January 18 with Mr. Cawker.

Witness said he had been approached by anyone trying to obtain information for newspapers. He could not recall talking with anyone who said he was responsible for breaking the story or more specifically for the Toronto Telegram.

"Do you mean the solicitor?" asked counsel. Witness said the solicitor had asked him about the Belleville Burial people or anyone connected with preparation or what Bell had eaten or drunk on January 11th.

He admitted he told the company solicitor about Bell taking the hot chocolate.

"You mentioned Mr. Robb. Was he the company solicitor?"

"Yes."

"Was Mr. Robb more than one client here?"

"Oh, yes."

HEAVY EXAMINATION

Mr. Cass placed Professor Baxter under heavy cross-examination with regard to the care and safeguarding of the containers in the laboratories.

The witness said he had conducted analyses of cocoa characteristics of cocoa."

"Would starch grains from chocolate have the same characteristics of cocoa?" asked counsel.

"No definitely not," Duffy said.

BROTHERS RESCUED FROM LAKE ONTARIO

When Arthur, left, and Ivan Baverstock set out to tend their fishing nets off Salmon Point, on Lake Ontario, a sudden snowstorm and gale disabled their outboard motor and pushed them out far into the lake. Six planes and dozens of motorboats searched for two days before an RCAF plane from nearby Trenton spotted them. One of the men was overjoyed to see the bottom of their 18-foot boat, but the other was able to wave at the plane.

Enlist Forces of Pacific Free Powers to Fight Reds In Indo-China Is Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Paul Douglas, a Democrat from Illinois, said today the United States should "get ready for the worst" by enlisting forces of Pacific free powers to fight communism in Indo-China if that proves needed.

Douglas called for support from President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles in seeking what he termed "united action" to prevent Communist conquest in Southeast Asia.

"I do not know what measures this Republican administration plans," Douglas said in a speech prepared for the Senate. "I do not know what measures will prove to be necessary.

"But I do know that attitude the Republican party in Congress will take toward supporting the president. But reading the record against the gravity of the secretary's words, I have my misgivings."

SAYS THREAT GRAVE

Dulles' statement, in a nationally televised speech Monday night to the Overseas Communists control of Southeast Asia would be "a grave threat" to the Free World.

"The United States feels that that possibility should not be passively accepted but should be met by united action."

Dulles gave no hint of what form such action might take, but informed officials said it may hinge largely on responses of the British, French and other governments.

In the past, France has held to the view that the anti-Red threat in China war is primarily a civil one. The British accepted U. S. aid.

WANT SOLID FRONT

It now seems certain that a specific U.S. objective is the development of a solid front among the allied powers in the forthcoming Asian peace negotiations at Geneva starting April 26.

The state department said the British and French ambassadors had been informed of the Dulles speech in advance, but that it did not reflect the views of the two governments.

In his speech, Douglas proposed that the president act immediately to "enlist the support and co-operation of Australia, New Zealand, Indonesia, Japan, The Philippines and other Far East nations, in resisting aggression."

Editor of Punch Manages to See Fun in Everything

VANCOUVER (CP) — Malcom Muggeridge, an Englishman with a fine sense of humor, says he sometimes wishes the hydrogen bomb much funnier than Toronto.

The 51-year-old editor of Punch magazine said Tuesday in an interview he remains able to see something funny in almost everything.

"I don't see the hydrogen bomb this way," he said. "The idea of man turning the world to dust is not funny in any way, but even that is not a reason why I should not find humor in it."

"The idea of man turning the world to dust is not funny in any way, but even that is not a reason why I should not find humor in it."

Mr. Muggeridge, a different matter, said the humorist, now on a speaking tour of Canada.

"The cartoonist and newspaper wrote an editorial saying surely I could find something about the city—but the truth is I didn't find a thing amusing about the place. That's strange because most cities are funny. Take Washington for instance, or New York or Boston.

But Canadians as a whole were quick to respond to anything funny."

ANT DELAYS TRAIN

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—A large red ant upset the schedule of the Texas Special Tuesday morning. The fast passenger train was delayed 15 minutes, a railroad official said, when the ants got into a semaphore, mechanism and blocked the electrical contact. With danger signal stopping the train, the train braked to a quick halt.

Couple Dead, Believed Slain

DRESDEN (CP) — Provincial police today were checking up on part of a gun found near the isolated farm home of William Sands, 56, Dresden area farmer and his wife who was found dead on his bloodsoaked bed Tuesday.

Mrs. Sands was found in the back with a shotgun and struck repeatedly on the back of the head with a sharp weapon.

"It's undoubtedly a murder case," said provincial police sergeant Jack Morrison of Sarnia.

The killer fired his gunbarrel through the window and stroke the victims "with the butt of the gun, perpared full of holes," he said.

Police found the murder weapon secure. One neighbor said Sands carried considerable sums of money for cattle trading but others said he never carried more than $100.

Police said a blood-smeared door was discovered in the house nine miles north of here suggested Sands tried to get out of the house after he was attacked. They also found lying fully-clothed on a bed near a window Mrs. Sands, shot dead tered by the shotgun blast.

Police said the attack probably occurred about 10:30 p. m. Monday.

DISCOVERED BY NEIGHBOR

A neighbor, Gordon Workman, discovered the body. Lights were on in the house and a radio was blaring.

Coroner Dr. R. J. Sussex said he found 48 pellets in his back. He ordered a post-mortem and the body was taken to Sarnia where Dr. C. N. Partington conducted an autopsy. Result of the autopsy was not announced.

The victim had been actively engaged in cattle deals until he suffered a heart attack a year ago. Since then he had been semi-retired. Most of his 100 acres of grassland were rented.

ROOSTER ATTACKS WOMAN

IONIA, Mich. (AP)—Attacked by tough rooster, Mrs. Samuel Stevens got first-aid treatment for 16 big wounds Tuesday and said: "I'll be a long time before I offer to care for anybody's chickens again." Mrs. Stevens said she was hurt while looking after chickens for neighbors, who were out of town.

Husband's Death Was Predicted Said Mary Bell

A fortune-teller told Mrs. Mary E. Bell, charged with the murder of her husband, Percy W. Bell, on January 8, "your husband will be dead in six or eight weeks," a witness testified at the preliminary hearing on Tuesday afternoon.

Penrose Caird, Seeley's Bay garage and store owner, and brother-in-law of the accused woman, told the court Mrs. Bell made this statement while visiting with her husband at the Caird home in Bell's Corners.

Mrs. Bell also stated, Caird said, the fortune-teller told her not to buy a new suit for him for "he would not be around to wear it."

Mrs. Carolyn Caird, wife of the witness and sister of Mrs. Bell, corroborated the statement. She added testimony to the effect accused had told her the fortune-teller also said "the suit he has is good enough to be buried in."

Under questioning by crown prosecutor, Leo Hall, Q.C., Mrs. Caird testified Mrs. Bell had purchased cigarets and matches for Roscoe "Rusty" Jenners, a boarder at the Bell home during a visit to the Caird's. Mrs. Caird had objected to the purchase, saying: "You have plenty of cigarets and matches, and boarded him for nothing."

The Cairds, with three other witnesses which included Earl Trevorton, Bell's brother-in-law of the accused, and two newspapermen, testified in the afternoon session. They brought the total number of witnesses heard to date to eighteen since the hearing started.

The hearing will likely be adjourned some time today due to the illness of a witness, Mrs. Earl Trevorton, sister of the accused, Mrs. Bell.

TREVORTON BELLS

Caird testified he and his wife occasionally visited with the Bells.

"Were they ever at your house in the Jenners' company?"

"Yes. Once in December or October, 1953."

Caird said he attended Percy Bell's funeral and there was lots of conversation. Insurance was mentioned, Percy's brothers talked that over. He had no conversation with Mrs. Bell.

Recalling the 1953 visit of the Bells, Caird said a some discussion with Mrs. Bell about fortune-telling. Caird said the crown: "She said a fortune-teller told her her husband would be dead in six or eight weeks, and not to buy a new suit for him because he would not be around to wear it."

"Do you know what a premonition is?" asked defence counsel.

"Do you like Mary Bell?"

"That is a hard question to answer."

"Say yes or no."

"Well, yes."

WERE IN KITCHEN

Caird said the conversation took place in the kitchen. Witness, his wife and Mrs. Bell were there, but could not recall anyone else. He admitted he had talked it over with his wife. Leigh he admitted Mrs. Bell might have been there. He said ten cups were mentioned but could not recall what was said.

Mrs. Carolyn Caird, sister of the accused, Mrs. Bell, testified Caird said Mrs. Bell was 46 and that her daughter, June Trevorton, 22, the Bells visited sometimes last year, once accompanied by Jenners.

The last time the Bells were there, Mrs. Caird said, was Dec. 12. The fishing trip occurred on a former visit, witness said.

Mrs. Caird said Jenner asked for cigarets and matches to take on the fishing trip. Witness thought she had kept him in cigarets and matches and boarded him for nothing.

She could not recall anything Mrs. Bell said about the fortune-teller told her. Bell would not need a new suit as he "would not have to wear it." The fortune-teller would be good enough to be buried in.

VISITED SISTER

Mrs. Caird said she visited her sister Mrs. Bell sometime in May. "Just like any sister would do." She joined her sister in King Hall on the two occasions she visited wife. Mrs. Jenners and June Trevorton were the only ones in the Bell home.

The witness recalled her sister telling her of the night of January 2, saying Percy was sick two days. Mrs. Bell said she had tried to get several doctors before getting a physician.

Mrs. Bell told witness, "They had a little drink before they went to bed." Percy seemed to hurt upset.

Mrs. Caird said she knew there was insurance. "After the funeral I asked her how much and she told me see the will. There were two wills. One Mrs. Bell's, the other Percy's. Percy left her everything to her and vice versa" Mrs. Caird testified.

"Was Jenners' name mentioned in either will?"

"Not that I saw."

The accused told her she had mortgage insurance, but witness did not question her about that.

WAS ASKED TO STAY.

Mrs. Bell asked Jennyrs if he would stay on as a boarder after Percy's death. He replied he would not look good as he came right in the mud enough. He suggested Mrs. Bell marry Jenners.

Witness said she had advised Mrs. Bell to give Jenners verified that fact.

Mrs. Bell said the police had "disgracefully" with regard to exhumation. It was the same thing going into garden and digging up my flowers." Witness said agreed with her.

He stated Mrs. Bell said stand to gain nothing by Percy's death. It will impose a hardship on me."

The witness said it stuck in mind very clearly. Mrs. Bell said with reference to Percy's death: "If I did it by his own hand."

Lynch said they asked the accused if Bell had also tried to commit suicide. She said, "no, it was a razor and I took it away."

SAW EXHUMATION.

Madison Sales, Toronto Telegram reporter, said he accompanied John McLean, reporter, to Belleville. He said he witnessed the exhumation of Percy Bell's took pictures.

He saw Mrs. Bell at her home Tuesday, Jan. 12, after he and left the police station. He related Mrs. Bell told the st of the night of Jan. 1. She ing in bed when she called Mrs. er and the fingerprints were on them.

She did not want the body exhumed. She did not w the fingerprints damaged.

He repeated former witness evidence that Mrs. Bell, accused Mr. Bell was poisoned, he did by his own hands.

Witness said he had commen on certain picture of Mrs. Bell and she had said was a "pretfair chunk of meat".

WATCHED TV

Sales said he turned to se Mrs. Bell and Detective Sgt. McLean and she were talki when she touched him on the "Let's watch TV and talk about the best part of it."

"Best part?" asked counsel "Me."

Answers was not there. Bell said, "he had gone to Trenton to see the other widow's husband."

"Were those her words?" asked.

"Yes," replied Sales.

"Your previous experience helped for nine pictures." showed witness a camera "Rusty" had given him as a present.

CALM AT ALL TIMES.

"Her manner was very calm all times," Sales said. The following day McLean took the to Mrs. Bell's home. She liked the story and the pictu It was the one taken with changed coat and tie. Mrs. low, "Why didn't they tell in Sales said Mrs. Bell was angry with her for talking to Portland.

"It was quite possible questions things were said t Mrs. Bell," asked defence counsel. Sales agreed the night before Percy's funeral. She had been treated before, but not for years ago.

Earl Trevorton, Plainfield, son-in-law of the accused said he knew nothing of Mrs. Bell's drinking habits. He said he did take one small drink. He had seen Jenners' visit the Bell home, while Bell was away fishing. Mrs. Bell said she was to stay home and get breakfast for the boarder.

Jenners had said Bell died that morning (Jan. 2) of cerebral hemorrhage, and said there was "no pain."

Jenners' violin was a gift from Bell, said Trevorton, but witness did not know who paid for it.

Now that he knows Bell had told him a fortune-teller told Mrs. Bell she was going to be an early widow. This happened last summer.

Trevorton testified Bell drank tea like any other person.

Recalling the night, witness and wife had visited Albert Street when Bell was fishing, returning home at 11 p.m. Bell was not staged as long as if Bell had been home.

He testified Jenners rode with Mr. Lloyd to the funeral.

Trevorton said he did not drink under cross-examination. Bell would have had to drink heavily to continue to board at his home when he was away fishing, witness said.

Counsel suggested women go around talking about fortune-tellers tell them. Witness said he didn't know adding he was not a fortune-teller.

The conversation regarding the fortune-telling took place last summer in the presence of his wife and daughter.

Members of the family are Syracuse where they have been since Freddy fell from a hot drying window over two, was ago.

EXCELLENT YEAR FOR THE HOSPITAL

The Belleville General Hospital has become "big business."

That is evident from the reports presented to the annual meeting of the hospital Friday evening.

Expenditures totalled $684,300, while revenue amounted to $688,968.

But perhaps such figures are confusing, without being impressive. Consider, then, the fact that the payroll was at an all-time high of $483,486. That is comparable to the payroll of a fair-sized industry, employing 150 to 200 people.

The hospital would be important to Belleville for that reason alone. Some may protest that it produces no goods. Nothing could be more erroneous than that view. Its products is the most important in the world, healthy people. All bodies are rebuilt and new ones tuned up and put in first-class operating order.

The hospital's output increased in 1953, with 400 more patients being served than in the previous year. What's more, the hospital staff speeded up its work, without deterioration in its product. The length of stay of patients declined from an average of 8.2 days in 1952 to 7.6 days in 1953.

The hospital management and staff and the doctors of the city have reason to be proud of the progress revealed in these annual reports. But there are other Belleville citizens who deserve a share of credit. Among them, of course, are those who served so faithfully on the board of governors. But the number of private citizens who helped the hospital enjoy a successful year is much larger than that comparatively small group. One of the most active and effective organizations in the city is the Women's Hospital Auxiliary. By purchasing special equipment, by maintaining an indigent patients' fund and by providing bursaries for nurses the Auxiliary played a vitally important role in the operation of the hospital.

AN IGLOO'S WATERPROOF ROOF

A ceiling price has crashed on a floor price and the United States Housing and Home Finance Agency has been left holding the wreckage. This uncomfortable news was given the committee last week when it was revealed that the Housing and Home Finance Agency is out $218,000 on money advanced to Alaskan Eskimos for the purchase of waterproof roofs and waterproof floors for their igloos. The whole nasty business leaked out when the committee learned that 727 Eskimos in remote parts of Alaska who were advanced $329,000 for igloo additions had failed to repay $218,000.

Trouble-proof was introduced to the effect that: "You loan money to an Eskimo on his personal note which he cannot sign in the first place. He makes an X. If the fur trapping season is good, or if the fishing is good, he will pay it back—maybe. The interest rate is four per cent, but the Eskimo does not know anything about interest; he has never heard of it."

The Eskimo had never heard of interest on loans. It is quite likely for that matter, that the Eskimo had never heard of waterproof roofs and waterproof floors for his igloo either. And while the Eskimo obviously had not heard of a lot of things before, it is apparent that at least 727 of them understood enough of what was going on to step forward smartly and accept $329,000 from a government give-away. In that respect, at least, 727 Alaskan Eskimos bear a close resemblance to several thousand Canadians who step forward for government give-aways not realizing that the money must be paid back and that there are interest charges on the loan.

Confirmed bureaucrats may be able to explain such surprising financial manoeuvres as giving Eskimos loans for waterproofing igloos, but to many of us the whole idea is vaguely reminiscent of the many well-intentioned but misguided government projects.

Schemes such as this should be put on ice—permanently.

A MRS. WITH HISSES FOR KISSES

Mrs. Betty K. Gottlieb is a Mrs. with hisses for kisses. She is suing a dentist, Martin Block, for $25,000 for injuries to her spine and nervous system incurred when Block kissed her.

Hope hopes that nothing comes of her suit for damages to the nervous system as a result of a kiss. It would be a legal monstrosity of the first order. Any male judge who even contemplates settling such a question should be sent from the bench to the showers without ever getting in the game. Or else he should be barred from the bar.

"Ever since a kiss supplanted the caveman's club as a method of persuading one's fiancee to come and visit the in-laws, it has been an understood thing that a kiss should do something to the nervous system. For a judge to rule that this "something" is "damage" after all these eons would be a universal disaster.

Betting a definite sum for the extent of the "damage" would be compounding the error and adding insult to injury. What self respecting male would agree to pay a fine, of say 23 cents, for damage to a girl's nervous system attributed to a kiss?

We would hate to explore the legal technicalities that would arise should this case ever get to court. For instance, whose nervous system is damaged in a kiss? And can anyone imagine the pitfalls inherent in any proceedings trying to determine the degree of responsibility of either party to a kiss? The whole question becomes much too confusing for a simple answer or even a mildly translucent solution.

It would be wise for the complainant to drop this whole case for the benefit of her sex as a whole. Proving that the judge should base his decision solely on the X-ray evidence of broken vertebrae.

Are We Landlubbers?

(Sydney Post-Record)

Canada's merchant marine is dying of neglect and nobody seems to care.

This is a national disgrace. We accept the dwindling of our merchant fleet as nonchalantly as if it were an inevitable duty to close a door by a cross house-wife with a broom.

If this isn't deplored by the majority of Canadians who are landlovers with an island here and there is every reason why it should be greatly deplored in these Maritime Provinces. Here we are with the sea all around us and many a snug harbor and no ships to serve our needs.

We complain of freight rates by land and yet are unable or unwilling to take advantage of the lower rates that coastwise sea-going traffic would provide.

The great maritime nations, and many of them are relatively small in land area, such as Denmark, Norway and Britain, have governments fully alive to the importance of their merchant fleets and of maintaining and developing a merchant shipping at a high level.

Canada may have difficulties in competing with subsidized marines, but Canada also has many difficulties to overcome in the maintenance of railways, but never has let anything stand in the way of the best railway transportation.

When it comes to any problem that the merchant marine, however, Canada gives up without a struggle.

What is the reason for this state of affairs? We are a nation of landlubbers, the reason is obvious. And Ottawa reflects the national mind.

The state of mind is shown in the trend toward calling these four provinces the Atlantic provinces instead of the Maritimes. There is nothing inherently Atlantic in the term Atlantic provinces but to the degree it belittles that we are living beside the sea instead of with and through the sea it connotes a withdrawal from sea-going activities.

The term the Maritimes became established in the robust days when this was a region of shipbuilders and ship operators, the days when Maritimers were in fact, a sea-going people.

The first steamship to cross the Atlantic was the Royal William and it was built near Pictou Province, on August 11, 1833 for London, England. In relation to that great historical fact what does Pictou Harbor witness today?

Once upon a time the people of this region were Maritimers in every sense of the word.

One would have thought that with Confederation they would have been more instead of less reason for the identification of the regional character to be enhanced but we joined up with a country that resolutely turned her back to the sea.

The reason why Canada's merchant marine is so pitifully small and inadequate is not because Canada has a government that isn't in the least interested in a merchant marine or at any rate gives no tangible evidence of it.

The reason is because the ports as Halifax and Saint John be were the first to be enhanced by one of other nations that sail in and out of their harbors? The answer is the obvious to require a specification.

Here in Sydney we look forth on a placid harbor that would by vacation be a busy port of call for trade with Newfoundland and the fishing craft of the Northside.

Well we can be sure that the landlubbers deplore the necessity of ships in the harbor. Not on the neighboring island province. They have a fine navy, but they can't fill the Strait of Canso with the rocks of another causeway.

The Canadian navy seems to be to blazes with Canadian ships, Canadian enough, the enterprise of other nations.

Look What's Contempt Now!

(Toronto Telegram)

The publisher, editor and a columnist of the Vancouver Province have been ordered to appear before Mr. Justice Gale Wilson Clyne to answer to a citation for contempt of court. The offense discovered in certain articles in the article by Eric Nicol, condemning the death sentence upon a man convicted of murder, The latter, William Cash, fatally shot one Frank Pitch on Langara Golf Course. As a result of the newspaper article, Justice Clyne has summoned the trio.

Opposed to capital punishment, which he terms "a law inherited from barbaric times," Nicol defends his presentation by making a first-person confession of "guilt in the murder of William Cash." A citizen of Canada, he argued, "Serving me were the laws that planned the murder and the judge who chose the time and place and caused the execution to be a requisite torture of anticipation . . . And I am not but the product of a statutory penalty. Right now the Houses of Parliament are considering whether or not to do away with capital punishment. Chances are it will not.

"In fact, Nicol has the utmost right to hold a contrary opinion about capital punishment, and a perfect right to express it. Contempt of court ordinarily lies in the publication of anything affecting a pending action. The trial here discussed was over, and Cash had met the hands of judge and jury. Their actions may now be subject to fair comment by anybody who may the actions of any individual or group performing public service.

Mr. Nicol presumably is undergoing what he called "the torture of anticipation." In a contempt case, his accuser is the judge who will determine his guilt or otherwise and specify how long he will be kept in jail if guilty. There is no appeal.

The logic is that he wishes to protect members of the jury from being held up to public contumely if they by disclosure the weakness of his position. If he or members of the jury feel they have been damaged in the public esteem, their remedy is available, namely, to sue the paper for libel. But if a judge can prohibit comment, pending or concluded, it is time newspapers knew it, and took steps to confine their observations to the weather or similarly safe themes.

Electric Eye Made Mistake

(Minneapolis Tribune)

Proposals for electric eye attachments to doors, to prevent thieves to trap people who enter with concealed firearms, are being made immediately after fanatic Puerto Rican shot five congressmen. The proposals, which first came earlier in World War II, when electric eyes were installed at the White House as added security precautions, fly leader than a year ago. Now one of the first persons to enter through the electronic beam was a man armed with a metal plate in his arm. The alarm went off, bringing guards on the run. Crooks running—only to find a surprised and highly indignant diplomatic ally.

Pyjama-Hater Posed Problem

(Napier Moore, In The Financial Post)

Having a fine sensibility in the matter of other people's feelings we never knew the gentleman by name, but in Eastern Canada there is a most prominent industrialist who doesn't always wear a night garment. He has no pyjamas, but he does wear pyjamas, never will have pyjamas. He hates pyjamas.

Recently, his wife, being with friends who were discussing their sons who were away at college and in less affluent days, told how on her honeymoon she had, somewhat to her chagrin, discovered this foible of her husband. On returning to their hotel room after the ceremonies and the dinner and the dance, she carefully washed and hung beside his pyjamas a night garment bore would see them on the lam.

Sports Editor Must Be Right

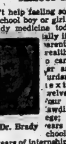
(Sherbrooke Record)

The sports editor must have an eye which could see a needle in the hands of the girl in the office across the street. Others must make mistakes and suffer optical illusions, but the sports editor has infallibility.

And the variety he covers. It isn't only hockey, baseball, football and curling; there are a dozen other sports each with an enthusiastic following.



A sports editor must be born, for the making would be difficult. The average newsman, confronted with the task of covering a dozen and odd calls and the best of critics would quail at the thought. Mr. Ed. S. F. taps it up. It wouldn't be correct to say he takes it in his stride for, usually, he doesn't stride; he conserves strength and walks like a man who is a government sinecurist.

His energy is used in watching, assessing, sorting, selecting, rejecting and he adds a good deal more than five-cents' worth to the total of conversation of millions on this continent.

Personal Health Talks

SERIOUS SHORTAGE OF FLOOR MOPPERS

Dr. Brady

Can't help feeling sorry for the high school boy or girl who starts to study medicine today. Especially if his or her marks are not really enough to carry him or her as a costly urdas for the next ten or twelve years. Medical schools are dwelling in colleges; four more years in medical school; two to four years of internship after medical school.

I began the study of medicine at the age of sixteen, in the office of my preceptor, Dr. Daniel Slashing, in Shortsville, a six-mile bicycle ride from Chapel Street in Canandaigua. Medical student today are inclined to look down their noses at preceptors, likewise their instructors.

I entered medical school straight from high school—but I believe it might have been better had I worked for a year or two at clerking in a drugstore, driver for a doctor, helper for a master mason or other job at wages before I went to medical school.

It took four of the best years of my life to obtain the M.D. degree, and thereafter came the year of internship at no pay other than room and board before I began practice in Penn Yan, N.Y.

Of course, being without the advantage of a college education I can't appreciate—well, I'm like the successful barber: I used to part and comb. He had never learned to read, but he seemed quite happy. He had a fine family, several employees 'n' everything. Maybe you college people know better, but I believe the public and the medical profession were happier when prospective physicians were not required to serve four years in college environment or to gain entrance to medical school.

Thanks to the American Medical Association medicine today is a business rather than a profession, and probably that explains why there is no apparent shortage of applicants for admission to medical school.

The shortage of applicants for admission to nurse training school has been much publicized in speak in radio and television. There seems to be some resistance on the part of the girl who has graduated from high school and goes to college to become a lowly probationer in nurse training school.

This is understandable in view of the observation of Marian Wright of Harper Hospital, Detroit. A survey in 1953 showed that 21 per cent of the hospitals studied used nurses to make empty beds—probably because they are cheaper than maids. And 10 per cent of the hospitals make nurses wash floors.

This is a pretty how-de-do. Surely a girl who has had a high school and college course ought to know how to make beds or mop floors without wasting three years of her life.

Anyway, girls, if you ever feel that the nursing as a career, I advise you to investigate first and find out whether the hospital requires the pupil nurse to serve as maid or scrubwoman so the hospital can economize.

NICKNAMES

There is something interesting and nostalgic about nicknames. I wonder if ever there was a small boy, especially in a small town, who didn't have one or a whole handful of them. I was. I was supplied with them, as a boy, for being a minister's son. I was one of the last generation to have a boy's name and not a nickname. I only remember two of my mighty achiver schoward," which, of course, meant nothing.

I doubt if ever a boy in a small town ever escaped a goodly assortment of nicknames. Many an eminent man to this day carries about with him some nickname of his boyhood. We have a noted evangelist whose name is known as the "Rail-Splitter" that Abraham Lincoln carried throughout his life and which, perhaps, was a help in his oratoric advocacy, Douglas, "The Little Giant."

Then there are those familiar names of Red, Skinny, Freckles, Slim, Fat, Pretty Boy and endless others, and combinations, that are characteristic of many and many a one. I was in Washington when Governor Dewey made his great speech before Congress. Later he ran into that noted bore, Senator Bill Borah and Jonathan Wainwright at the Statler Hotel and he smilingly called out "Hello, Skinny!"

Emmett Kelly, the world-famous clown, was known in his youth as "The Irish Potater" and finally as "Weary," a name that I understand he loathed. I don't blame him. It could be so great a one who had but to get up in the Bible classes and recite people of the world.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

GREATEST OF BOOKS

The Bible is the greatest book in the world. Entirely apart from its religious teaching, it embodies the soundest common sense and the richest literary treasure humanity knows anything about. It is intended, to be sure, a book on religion, yet it is full of sound economics, a philosophy of history, and a fascinating incomparable poetry, practical maxims, and visions of the possible. It is a book to understand and make all earthly dreams drab and cross.

But the Bible is more than a great book; it is God's message to man. Many outstanding literary works are undoubtedly inspired; but the Bible claims an inspiration utterly unique. Since it is God's message to man and since it is the world, Entirely apart from God wants most to tell men about, it is the most important of all literature from other books. This inspiration is not only different in degree from all other books, but different, but different also in essence.

In the Bible God has given us all the counsel that humanity has ever needed or ever will need in the pilgrimage through life. The only thing greater than the Word of God is that Word made flesh and dwelt among us—full of grace and truth.

The Bible is the Divine Being whose will it discloses, for it we live and move and have our being.

Mining Roads Will Open Up 'Vast Empire'

TORONTO (CP) — Construction of mining access roads will lead to the opening up of a "vast empire" in northern Ontario, Mines Minister Kelly said Tuesday.

Speaking during consideration of his department's estimates in the legislature, Mr. Kelly said the province has already taken important steps toward this development through roads already built.

"But these are just the first steps and the progress must be continued this year and for a good many years to come before its full potentialities are realized."

The House approved the department's estimates which included $12,250,000 in ordinary expenditures and $3,000,000 in capital payments for mining roads. Approval was also given to $12,250,000 in ordinary expenditures of the municipal affairs department.

ROADS FINISHED

Mr. Kelly said that since the inception of the program in 1951, the province has completed 31 mining access roads or has work on them under way. This represented a total of 242½ miles.

Reviewing mining activities during the last year, Mr. Kelly said the mineral discoveries at Manitouwadge, Blind River, Werner lake, Bancroft, Lake Nipissing and Centre lake point to another record year of production and exploration.

Production during 1953 reached a record $460,676,113.

President Donald Gordon gave this date as a "guess" before the Commons railway committee Tuesday. Construction is to start this summer.

The 1,216-room hotel will cost an estimated $20,000,000 for structure and $4,330,000 for furnishings and equipment.

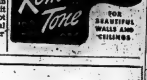
Two Commissions Will Sit In All Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Two royal commissions headed by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of Ontario concluded two-day organization meetings Tuesday and have decided to hold sittings in all provinces.

One commission is to inquire into the question of whether the defence of insanity should be amended. The other will study the criminal law relating to criminal sexual psychopaths.



It is expected they will next meet here early in June.

The insanity commission decided to ask legal and professional organizations to make recommendations and submit briefs, and in addition, to hear representative members of both the legal and medical professions.

The commission on sexual psychopaths decided that since the legislation in question has been in force only since Nov. 1, 1948, it should hear representations not only from the medical and legal professions but from many other organizations interested.

Her headdress was of small roses and forget-me-nots to match her shades. She carried a nosegay of Briarcliffe roses, white hyacinth florets, mauve sweetpeas, white pompons and pink feather-edge satin streamers.

The Reverend Thenuis Botha, of Deseronto, was organist and the soloist, the Reverend Hope M. Smith, Co-pastor of Calvary Temple. Before the processional Mr. Smith sang, "The Wedding Prayer" and during the signing of the register "Because."

At the reception held in Calvary Temple annex, the bride's mother received, wearing a dress of heavy white triceline crepe with elbow length sleeves, trimmed with Chantilly lace. Her small hat was pale blue trimmed with forget-me-nots. Her corsage was Briarcliffe roses with navy ribbon. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who was charming in a two-piece ensemble of navy crepe and lace to match. She wore a corsage of Gloria roses with yellow ribbon. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Kelly, Jean Kelly, Donna Greenwood, Mrs. Norma Hayek, Mrs. Frederick and Sheila Wilson. For the honeymoon motor trip to New York City, the bride chose a navy suit, navy shoes and white hat. Her going away corsage consisted of Briarcliffe roses with white ribbon. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Fox will reside in Belleville.

THEIR NEXT ACT—IN COURT

Singer Dick Haymes, who was ordered deported from the U.S. dines with his actress wife, Rita Hayworth, in New York in a mood of watchful waiting. Dick and his attorney flew to Washington to file an appeal against the ouster order and to obtain a passport to his native Argentina. Then he came on to New York, determined to fight the deportation order to the supreme court if necessary, and was followed by his wife. The singer ran afoul immigration regulations when he followed his attractive wife to Hawaii during their well-publicized courtship. His re-entry into the U.S. was considered illegal. # Bringing Up Baby

With Collected by Mrs. Ann Taylor in Children at 35

A well-known trained nurse offers this suggestion for sniping baby's fingernails. She says the ideal time to do the job is after a feeding, when baby's drowsy. Their little hands are more relaxed which makes the task easier for mom.

• • •

Feeding points! Them are good reasons why so many doctors suggest Gerber's Cereals as "starters". For Gerber's Cereals are fortified with the iron, calcium and B-Vitamins babies need a few weeks after birth. They're well-known for their good-feeling texture... the creamy smooth consistency preferred by babies used to a liquidy only diet. Five mild, pleasing flavors for variety: Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat, and Mixed Cereal.

Bright idea dept. A proud papa we know offers this bright brainstorm: when baby's play pen is moved to the back yard, he uses mamo jar lids for casters. Spares the lawn by keeping legs of play pen from sinking into sod.

• • •

Mostly news! More and more doctors are prescribing meat for babies at a very early age, to give them the well-balanced diet they need. That's why Gerber's are now preparing Strained and Junior Meats for your rapidly growing infant. All are made from selected cuts, carefully processed for minimum fat and fiber content. Easy as milk to digest, they're juicy, savory solid meats . . . with just enough broth added to give the smooth texture you'll coos prefer.

3 varieties of Strained Meats: Beef Heart, Beef with Beef Broth, Liver with Bacon, Lamb, Veal, and Pork.

3 varieties of Junior Meats: Chopped Beef, Chopped Liver and Bacon, and Chopped Veal.

Look for them in your favorite store soon! (P.S. If not in stock yet, ask your grocer when Gerber's Strained and Junior Meats will be available.)

Chair Used By Queen of Scots Among Antiques

VICTORIA (CP)—A chair used by Mary Queen of Scots in the 16th century is among antiques just received from a family castle in Scotland by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hew Fergusson-Pollok.

Mr. Fergusson-Pollok inherited his family's estate a year ago, including a castle built in 1638 at Newton, Renfrewshire. The 50-room castle proved a treasure-house of antique furniture. But after taxes and death duties were paid, Fergusson-Pollok decided the castle was too costly to keep up, so he sold it.

The Fergusson-Polloks have a big house at Cobble Hill and what furniture they don't sell will be taken there.

There are dining-room chairs made in the reign of Charles I, an old hand-carved chest made when Cromwell was a boy, and 18th-century oak chairs.

The antiques are insured for $75,000.

Mr. Fergusson-Pollok left Scotland when he was five months old and has not been back since.

"You've got a lot of amazing stuff here," said an astonished observer.

"You should see what we've got in the storage vault," he replied.

Rotarians Hear Superintendent Discuss Administration

CAMPBELLFORD — Mrs. Margaret Daniels, superintendent of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital, was the speaker at the Rotary Club on Monday evening.

In the introductory remarks, F. S. Linton, secretary of the Hospital Board, stated that Mrs. Daniels was especially well qualified for her position, as she had graduated as a nurse at Prince Edward County Hospital, Picton, and had taken post-graduate work at Bellevue Hospital, New York City, the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, and the Children's Memorial Hospital, Montreal.

HOSPITAL CARE IMPORTANT.

Hospital administration, as it is known today, commenced early in this century with the accreditation system begun by the American College of Surgeons. This classification system based on facilities offered by the various institutions made the management and general proficiency of the type of care offered to the public much more important that it has been previously regarded.

Class A hospitals offer complete service, including teaching of nurses; Class B hospitals such as Peterborough and Belleville, while Class C nurseries smaller institutions such as Trenton, Cobourg and Campbellford.

The hospital superintendent is a small hospital is in charge of its operation. He or she must be responsible for its business including collecting accounts, purchases of all kinds, professional practice, the standard of care offered to the patients, the staff and public relations.

Regarding hospital costs, the speaker said according to a 1953 survey, patients or Hospital plans of various kinds pay 74.6 per cent of the costs. Provincial government grants 11.02 per cent, Municipal grants 9.83 per cent; Miscellaneous donations, 4.37 per cent.

The per day rate for hospitals includes bed, meals, laundry maintenance and general nursing care. Indigents costs are a heavy burden on the hospitals, as the indigent patients, rate is usually from $2.50 to $4 a day despite the fact the services rendered may cost as high as $15. There is a small grant from the province for indigents, but persons without a fixed residence must be cared for free.

Vice - president Arn. Bright thanked the speaker.

After the meeting was brought to a close refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Bessie Holbert.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DID THIS MAN'S CHARACTER CHANGE, OR WAS HE ALWAYS THIS WAY?

If there is one fact more than any other that I would like to get across to these thinking about marriage, it is this: Before making a decision to love, be perfectly certain you know the true personality and character of the man or woman who may be your husband or wife. For it seems to me that lack of advance knowledge of this sort is the basic reason why so many marriages go wrong.

How else, for example, can one explain such a letter as the following:

"I am 24 years old, have been married 27 months and my husband has been a mean, jealous, selfish man at all times. He drinks a few days a week, comes home every night and starts nagging and picking on somebody, so there can't even eat our supper, little as it is at times.

"We have two married daughters and three children at home, two of whom work and pay board. My husband nags our boy, 20, about everything he does, even though he has been a good boy, doesn't smoke or drink and has tried to put up with it for my sake. Sometimes he has to run out of the house and go to his friend's house, it becomes so unbearable. The girl still at home is ready to leave, and the 15-year-old boy hates his father. The daughters are already making me tired are so glad they don't have to put up with their father any more. He used to pick at them and say terrible things to them, also. He calls us all the most awful, disgraceful names which are unprintable. He has a filthy mind and a terrible tongue.

"His nerves are very bad from drinking, and he doesn't sleep well. He has burned holes in every sheet, blanket and mattress we own, but never feels sorry for anything.

"Tell me, what can I do? I can't stand it any longer."

Now can it really be possible that this man changed his entire character after he married this woman? That during their courtship, he showed himself to be everything she could possibly have wanted in a husband? Or did she just fool herself into thinking so?

If she merely thought so, and did not, at the time, have the wisdom and the foresight to make sure just what sort of person he was nothing can be done about that now. But if he changed after marriage, then it would be important for her to make a very earnest effort to find out the reason for the change. For if anything can now be salvaged from the marriage, the key would lie there.

To help her in the attempt to unravel the tangled skein of their lives, it might be well for this wife to consult a marriage counselor or a psychiatrist to whom she could tell the story in all its details. Such a person might help her put a finger on the cause of her husband's character collapse—if, I repeat, he ever actually had a character that did collapse—and guide her in an effort to bring him back to his former self.

If she cannot afford to seek the services of a psychiatrist or marriage counselor, then I think she should go to the nearest family consultation service and enlist the aid of the experts there. An excellent service of this kind is located very close to where she lives.

But if exploration into the causes of this longstanding situation reveals nothing helpful to work on, then I think a separation from the man who has wrecked the happiness of his entire family might well be in order. For I can see no reason why the lives of every member of any family should be warped by one abusive person.

Do you who are reading this agree with me?

Special Purpose Menu

By Mary Meade

Do you remember Margaret S. who sent us the South African recipes which I printed in this column on Coronation Day? She has written to me again giving me another method for preparing Spiced Beef and a recipe for Oyster Koomeskies. While I want to thank her for these and others who sent me excellent Spiced Beef recipes (two of which I have printed recently and all of which I have filed and treasure) it is this Oyster Koomeskies recipe which I want to feature today for I made them and they are a find. Actually they are what we would call Oyster Fritters.

Oyster Koomeskies
Lemon Wedges
Scalloped Tomatoes
Shredded Cress Beans
Emem's Lemon Meringue Pie
Coffee

MARGARET S.'S OYSTER KOOMESKIES

Buy 1 dozen average-sized oysters and simmer them in their own liquor until the curls show that they are just firm. Strain and save liquor and cut oysters in large pieces (a pair of scissors (a cinch for us—we've been whomping up pancakes all our lives haven't we?) of: 1 oz. (2 tablespoons) butter, 1 oz. (2 tablespoons) flour, 1 gill (½ cup) cream, liquor from oysters, salt and pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice. (This is made like a white sauce by melting the butter, stirring in the flour, salt and pepper, then the liquids until it is thick.) Add oysters and spread out on plate to chill. Make a batter by beating together 6 oz. (1 1-4 cups unsifted) flour, 1 gill (½ cup) tepid water, 1 tablespoon salad oil, pinch of salt, yolk of 1 egg. When well mixed fold in stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs. Form the oyster mixture into "corks" and coat each "cork" in a piece of side bacon 2 inches by 1 1-2 inches. Dip in the batter and fry until golden in deep fat.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES

Eight large tomatoes or 1 28-oz. tin, 1 teaspoonful onion, 1 tablespoon each butter and sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups buttered crumbs. Butter a baking dish and sprinkle with a layer of crumbs. Add a layer of tomatoes, dot over with butter, sprinkle with seasonings and cover with crumbs. Repeat, finishing with thin layer of crumbs. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 30 or 40 minutes.

EMEM'S LEMON MERINGUE PIE

If this pie is served warm or too soon after it is made the filling will run. It is at its best when it is 12 hours old. That means you have to get up 8 a.m., to make it for dinner at 6 p.m. Happy day, girls. (Pete thinks it is a little bit extreme.) Marianne and Herbie and I think it is just right.) The inside measurements of my pie plate that fits the silver ring are 9 1-2 by 1 1-8 inches and this amount of pastry is just right: 1 cup unsifted flour, ½ cup shortening, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons cold water. Roll out, fit into plate and make thick fluted edge with thumb and fingers. Filling—In top of double boiler measure 1 1-4 cups sugar, 6 tablespoons cornstarch and stir until completely mixed then stir in 1 1-2 cups boiling water and stir until thick over direct heat, then cook over boiling water, cover and cook 10 minutes, stirring two or three times. If desired 1 teaspoon finely grated rind may be added to this. Always do. Beat 3 egg yolks slightly and pour some of the cooked mixture over them, stirring, then return yolk mixture to double boiler and cook stirring, for three minutes over boiling water. Remove from heat and add 3 tablespoons butter, 6 tablespoons lemon juice (fresh) and if desired another 1 or 2 teaspoons finely grated lemon rind. I always add 3 teaspoons fine rind. Pour into baked shell. Cover with meringue made by beating until foamy 3 egg whites with 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar, then slowly beating in 6 tablespoons sugar, until meringue is stiff. Add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Bake to brown meringue at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 minutes. This must be thoroughly cold to cut neatly.

Fashion Flashes

The Belle of the season, so far as fine fabric is concerned, seems to be pure silk crepe in black or navy, the former preferred. It makes up beautifully into little dresses that see one through nicely from lunch to evening. One such dress has a full skirt cut in a perfect circle. The rounded neckline and puffed shoulder caps are edged with self pleating.

The star of the suit season is the silk suit, softly tailored. Italian raw silk makes a handsome black suit on slender lines. The jacket, cut away at the waist, has a very deep neckline and three-quarter sleeves with narrow cuffs.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

A RECEPTION TO WELCOME THE PASTOR AND HIS WIFE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The pastor of the church I attend recently retired, and our new pastor is to come to our church in about two months. We would like to give a reception for this new pastor and his family, shortly after he has taken up his duties at the church. I am the social chairman for the church, and I would like to plan this reception correctly in every way. We have quite a large social-and-dining room in the church, and this gives us ample room for a complete reception.

1. Who besides the family should stand in the receiving-line?

2. What day of the week should this be given? What hours?

3. What food to serve? And should it be served buffet style?

R.

1. You, as social chairman of the church, will be hostess of this important and hospitable occasion, and therefore you should stand first in the line. To greet and welcome each guest and to introduce each guest to the pastor and his wife. Next to you stands the pastor, and next to him, his wife. My point of view is that for an occasion of this significant kind, there should be only the hostess, the pastor and his wife in the receiving-line. It is to introduce the pastor and his wife. They should share of the occasion with members of their family or any other members of the church, no matter how prominent. However, if you or members of your committee disagree with this judgment, the members of the family would stand beyond the pastor's wife.

2. You should consult with the pastor as to his convenience about days. He may decide that Saturday afternoon, 3 to 5 or 5-6, would be most convenient for him to settle a discussion, please answer his question: Should a business letter written confidentially to a friend be used for amusement purposes?

The Victim

Your appealing letter makes me so sorry, so deeply sorry, that you apparently have been the victim of a mean situation brought about by the inhumanity of a friend to whom you had written a confidential letter. Now, of course a confidential letter should in honesty, be held as confidential, so disregard the confidence, and added to that to hold the letter up to scorn, is low in both chivalry and cruelty. However, to be absolutely sure that you are right about this situation, I do urge you to talk over the accusation with the person you thought your friend, and find out what really did happen.

Export Policy On Pulpwood Will Remain

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario will not relax its ban on the export of pulpwood to the United States, Lands and Forests Minister Gemmell said Monday night.

Speaking in the legislature during consideration of his department's estimates, Mr. Gemmell said the economic situation at Hearst, where it is claimed by town officials that the community is suffering over the ban, would be "reviewed thoroughly, but not at the expense of breaking our export policy."

In reply to a question by Albert Wren (Lib.-Lab. — Kenora), Mr. Gemmell said the export cutting off crown lands is being reduced approximately 10 per cent annually—last year it amounted to 120,933 cords—and will continue to be reduced until 1956 when the full ban will go into effect.

"I can't see why we should allow the export of the valuable species of spruce and jackpine when they are in short supply for domestic operators," the minister said.

ESTIMATES APPROVED

During the night sitting, the House approved the department's estimates of $12,760,000 ordinary expenditures and $300,000 in capital payments, as well as those of the prime minister's office, totalling $139,000 ordinary expenditures.

Mr. Gemmell said the estimated net cost of salvage operations in the Mississagi forest reserve, ravaged by fire in 1948, is $800,000. Salvage operations of some 300,000,000 board feet of red and white pine from the 640,000 acres were completed last September.

During the operation 139 miles of all-weather road and 400 miles of bush road were constructed.

"In the long run we can assume that there was no loss to the province. . . The benefits to accrue will adequately take care of any cost to the province," the minister said.

FINANCIAL TROUBLES

In reply to a question by Mr. Wren, Mr. Gemmell said no operations were seized during the project. The Lahti Lumber Company and the Campbell Lumber Company, two small firms engaged in salvage work, ran into financial difficulties and the province assumed the responsibility of their work.

Mr. Wren suggested the province institute an organized search party which would be ready to start an immediate hunt for missing persons in the northern woods. He said that last year two children died in the woods because of the time it took to organize a proper search.

Eisenhower Asks Power to Reduce Tariff Barriers

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today for broader power to cut tariffs as the heart of a "bold" program to bolster the security and economic growth of the United States and her allies.

In a special message dealing with the politically-explosive issue of import duties and laying down the foreign economic policy of his administration, Eisenhower also:

1. Called for cutting down all to other countries, and an end to outright grants of economic aid as soon as possible.

2. Gave assurances that increased trade in peaceful goods between the West and Communist countries "should not cause us undue concern."

3. Asked that Congress ease up on "buy American" laws which give preference to domestic firms over foreign competitors on some government or government-financed purchases.

FOLLOWS RANDALL REPORT

The 3,000-word message was much along the line of recommendations of a special commission on foreign economic policy, whose report was so loaded with dissents as to raise grave doubts as to how far its proposal could get in Congress.

Those same doubts still apply now that Eisenhower has accepted the suggestions in general, and asked congress to do something about them. Many Republicans adhere to the historic party position that tariffs should be kept relatively high to protect domestic industry.

Van Doos Keeping Wary Eye On Armistice Activities

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The 3rd Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, which did everything to the Chinese from sniping to sing-shooting them to scaring them to death, is keeping a wary eye on the enemy's armistice activities.

Jack Brayley

In command of Lt.-Col. J. J. (Tony) Poulin who used one of the most unorthodox assortment of weapons in the Korean war, the 3rd Van Doos held the shoot-to-kill troop position on the demilitarized zone with the other Canadian battalions of the 25th Brigade.

Tony Poulin says he's gray at 36 because of worry about new things to throw at the enemy. The colorful former city soldier chose as army career instead of being a doctor because the Second World War broke out. He joined the Van Doos and has been with the unit in every campaign since.

VALIENT UNIT

Before the end of the Korea fighting last summer he had lost 10 men with another 20 wounded, and the battalion won 15 decorations including his own Distinguished Service Order.

The unit moves back in Quebec in April and it will be relieved by the 4th Canadian Guards whose commanding officer, Lt.-Col. Val Leduc, was Poulin's former second-in-command.

"The Chinese opposite us seem to have gone back to their rice planting which may mean we're in for at least some period of peace," Col. Poulin said. "Or perhaps they've heard about what we did to their predecessors."

The 3rd not only used all the conventional arms and equipment against their opponents before the armistice, but also tried such horrifying things as "Tony's torches."

These were buried five-gallon oil drums, filled with napalm, and wired to be touched off in a blinding explosion by long fuse lines.

SCARED TO DEATH

"We always figured we scared as many to death as we killed by this method."

The Van Doos also used giant slingshots, rigged between two trees and employing heavy-duty inner tubes, to hurl grenades into the enemy lines. The "secret weapons" also included booby-trapped dummies and open field telephones in advance positions which gave wrong information to prowling Chinese patrols.

The other day a company was sweating through its paces on some rugged Korean hills as a critical audience of their comrades looked on. The corporal of each section was given a pill-box objective to attack but he had to plan and carry out the move on his own.

For instance, Cpl. Henri Binette, 20, of Montreal protected a flanking movement of his section, Cpl. Emile Campeau, 24, Dalhousie Station, Que., brought his section in the rear of the position.

EAGER OUTFIT

The company commander, Maj. Yvon Bernier of Quebec, led the criticism of the various sections but he was mild compared to the pressure for various moves that came from the men themselves. Later Maj. Bernier talked to each NCO separately, telling him where slips had been made.

The battalion does a half dozen company tactical exercises a week and in the meantime works hard improving its position and in various sports competitions.

The Van Doo area is "little Quebec." The signs are all bilingual—some trilingual for the benefit of the Korean troops integrated for training into the various companies.

You enter one company compound through a gate marked "Porte St. Louis" and the troops have built stone walls to represent their successors for April, Mrs. E. Gaffney and Mrs. Moloney received the appointment.

The league voted $10 to the Sisters of Service and $2 to the Sacred Heart radio program.

The president asked the convenors to submit written reports for the next meeting which is the annual one.

As the election committee, Mrs. Charles Brady was appointed with Mrs. Herbert English and Mrs. Charles Crawford completing the roll.

Group Ave will provide the program for the April meeting.

DAILY VISITS.

Daily visits to the church for the remainder of Lent, will be made by Mrs. Hugh Brady, Mrs. Rose Moloney and Mrs. Dan Shannon. Group 7 and 8 will attend on the first Saturday in April.

The president spoke briefly on the executive meeting which she had attended in Kingston.

Rev. W. F. Healey complimented the ladies for their service at the I.O.D.E. function and expressed the hope they would choose suitable officers at their forthcoming annual election.

Mrs. W. A. Shannon moved the adjournment. Father Healey read the Act of Consecration. The program of the evening followed under direction of Mrs. Fred Johnston and Mrs. John Clairmont.

If You've Never Used MILK OF MAGNESIA

you owe it to yourself and family to read this!

Medical Facts Prove No Ordinary Laxative In The World Gives Such Complete Relief As MILK OF MAGNESIA!

Milk of Magnesia is more than a laxative! That's why it does more for you—brings you better relief.

It's an established medical fact that when you're suffering from constipation, acid indigestion is frequently present, too. Yes—acid indigestion—a condition that requires relief, but which no simple laxative can even begin to relieve.

What Is A Laxative?

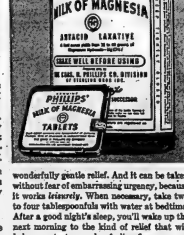
As your own doctor can tell you, a laxative is a mild cathartic used to cleanse the system of wastes.

Now, note that a laxative is not an antacid. It's simply a mild cathartic. And that's why it has no effect whatever on acidity . . . why it brings you only partial relief when taken for constipation and accompanying acid indigestion.



But there's no need for you to be satisfied with partial relief. Milk of Magnesia gives you better relief—more complete relief—than any ordinary laxative.

Why Milk of Magnesia Is Better!

Milk of Magnesia does more for you because it's more than a laxative. It's an antacid, too. As a result, it not only relieves constipation, but accompanying acid indigestion as well.

Yes—and Milk of Magnesia also gives you wonderfully gentle relief. And it can be taken without fear of embarrassing urgency, because it works leisurely. When necessary, take two to four tablespoonfuls with water at bedtime. After a good night's sleep, you'll wake up the next morning to the kind of relief that will help you start your day feeling fine.

When you buy, ask for Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It's the best laxative-antacid money can buy.

So Gentle For Children . . . So Thorough For Grownups

PHILLIPS' MILK OF MAGNESIA
LIQUID OR TABLETS

BILIOUS GAS, HEARTBURN, UPSET STOMACH PASTY

Whenever over-indulgence in food, beverages or cigarettes causes distressing symptoms of acid indigestion, take PHILLIPS' as an antacid—either in Liquid or Tablet form. It neutralizes one of the fastest, most effective stomach sweeteners known to science—relieves your acid upset in practically no time at all.

Free Election in Poland Today Would Give Red Govt. Less Than 20 P.C. of Vote

Frederick Kuh, Chicago Sun-Times correspondent, recently spent two weeks in Poland with greater freedom of movement than any Western correspondent has had there in many years. His uncensored reports in The Sun-Times have been condensed by The Associated Press. Copyright 1954.

By FREDERICK KUH

An astut observer in Warsaw said a free election in Poland today would give the Communist government less than 20 per cent of the vote. This is of course an arbitrary judgment. But from talks with citizens, foreign ambassadors and Communist leaders, it seemed to me a reasonable estimate.

The people are fed up with propaganda. They are bored with glorification of the Soviet Union, for which millions of Poles lose no love.

"I was told that a confidential sampling, conducted by a responsible Polish state authority, revealed more than 300,000 Poles listen regularly to foreign broadcasts despite jamming. Many more are said to listen at irregular intervals. Every intelligent Pole with whom I discussed this topic spoke highly of the BBC and poured ridicule on the Voice of America and on Radio Free Europe. They said the BBC, while hostile to Poland, is truthful and objective. They said the Voice and Radio Free Europe "drool propaganda and are often inaccurate."

SEES SOCIAL ADVANCE

I heard and saw much of the social advancement. I visited several creches, state medical clinics, workers, homes, colleges and universities, many places where the class that was till a few years ago grossly underprivileged today is on top. Social and economic benefits add up to about one-third more than the average citizen's earned income.

The great negative factor, about which the government is silent, is the gap between wages and prices. On the basis of the hours the Polish citizen works to buy common articles, living costs are three to 10 times higher than in the United States.

Culturally, Poland presents a few bright spots in a predominantly bleak scene. Cultured Poles told me the theatre has deteriorated. They said films, 12 full-length films are produced yearly, are poor and modern painting is mediocre. Great effort is being made in music, but many gifted musicians were Jews who vanished in the gas chambers. The oasis in this cultural desert is books. Poland never had such a flood streaming from the presses—world classics and Polish works.

STUDENTS DIFFERENT

One further aspect of cultural life is the change in the character of student bodies at colleges and universities. The president of 370-year-old Cracow University, Theodore Marchlewski, who was born in England, said in pre-war years 10 per cent of the students were sons and daughters of working class families who got scholarships; now these total 60 per cent. Prof. Oscar Lange, formerly Polish ambassador to the United States, gave me similar facts about the College of Planning and Statistics in Warsaw, of which he is head.

Quality of teaching is said to leave much to be wished for and teachers' pay remains extremely bad.

Hotel Would Be Beautiful Target Says Pilot

OTTAWA (CP) — A wartime bomber pilot who sits in the Commons Tuesday gave a flyer's eye view of the Canadian National Railway's proposed new $34,000,000 hotel in Montreal.

"A beautiful target," commented Angus MacLean (PC — Queens) at a Commons railway committee hearing.

CNR president Donald Gordon came to the defence of the 30-storey structure. It would be no more vulnerable than the nearby Sun Life Building, and in fact might even be a protection for the nearby and vital station facilities of the CNR.

"Would that be a selling point for guests?" inquired Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops).

CAMERA CAPERS IN MOSCOW

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto has gone wild in a restrained, Toronto sort of way about its new subway.

Sightseers crowded into the gleaming $58,500,000 product of 4½ years of construction until long after midnight, delighted with its speed, smooth riding, quiet operation and clean, bright stations.

It was no time after it opened Monday until they caught on that they could ride the 4.6 miles from Union station in the south to the northern terminal at Eglinton Avenue and back again for one three-for-a-quarter token.

The new line, officially opened by Premier Frost, came through its first rush-hour test with little difficulty, although normal crowds were swelled by droves of sightseeing schoolchildren.

Some machines vending tokens and others giving free transfers to surface lines broke down, crowding downtown stations and forcing some of the four- and six-car trains to leave partly filled. Generally, it ran smoothly.

TALKED WITH STRANGERS

Riders reached Eglinton, 2½ miles from the city's northern limits, 16 minutes from Union station. On the old bone-shaking surface cars with their wooden-seated trailers it took 45 minutes or an hour.

Most of them stood in the tightly-packed cars but in their happiness at getting home so quickly they didn't seem to mind. There were jokes about catching the wife without dinner ready and more smiles than have been seen in years on Toronto's notoriously glum-faced street-car riders.

At the 12 stations they moved up stairs to street-car or bus loading platforms, some of them congested because the subway delivered their loads so speedily.

FROST JOLTS GUESTS

Operators who had been practising two months ran the trains smoothly but Premier Frost, driving the official first train a short distance for photographers, applied the brakes too quickly and jolted standing guests.

He had opened the line by throwing a switch with Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto to charge an amber light to green.

Chairman W. C. McBrien of the city-owned Toronto Transit Commission which built the subway partly from reserves, hid at the ceremony for city money to construct an east-west line along Queen street from McCaul to Sherbourne, running under the subway at Queen and Yonge. Costing $12,000,000, it would eliminate 80 per cent of streetcar delays on street cars.

An hour and a half after the subway trains started at 1:30 p.m. the last of the "red snail" surface cars made a sentimental journey down Yonge street with members of the Railway Society of Upper Canada aboard and sporting a sign proclaiming the end of traffic congestion. It was shunted off to a junk heap with no regrets.

Trade Fair Features Marionettes On Saturday's Stage Show

When Marjorie Naylor pulls the strings, some 150 workers jump at her every whim. What is more, they can not talk back when she puts words in their mouths.

Though this should make her the envy of every business executive, Miss Naylor confines her activities to a small stage. Her workers are puppets and her stage is a marionette theatre. Yet no one should discount the value of this medium. With one assistant and three other assistants Miss Naylor has taken her show to all parts of the province.

She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. I.B. Naylor. Her father is a retired minister of Trinity United Church, Thorold. By profession, Miss Naylor is a piano teacher. She first became interested in marionettes when she read an article on the subject some years ago. At that time she was living in this city with her parents. Her father was then minister of Tabernacle United Church.

CREATIVE TALENT

Today her collection of puppets and equipment is insured for more than $1,000. Backed by a lively imagination and considerable creative talent, Miss Naylor constructs the puppets herself. She also builds all the props and background scenery for her theatre as well as making the costumes worn by the figurines.

The marionettes, quarter life size, are made of a special composition developed by her mother, an artist in her own right who specializes in making costume jewellery.

Complete sound effects on records and tape cartridges are part of each show. Included in the performances are adaptations of Cinderella, scenes from the Arabian Nights, Hallowe'en tableaux, and re-creation of history.

Although the work involved in presenting one of her stage productions takes considerable time and effort, Miss Naylor considers her marionettes only a hobby. All proceeds from performances are used to enlarge and improve her theatre.

LIKE REAL PEOPLE

"I get a real enjoyment out of my marionettes," said Miss Naylor. "They get to be just like people when you are working with them. You get wrapped up in the different characterizations in the different plays."

"You have to have a good sense of rhythm to be a good operator," said Miss Naylor in offering advice to would-be puppeteers.

"When you are putting the puppets through their various motions, particularly if they are dancing, you have to move with them. It takes quite a while to get used to the various stings. But once you do, it is really worth it."

Miss Naylor's own talents range far beyond the marionette stage. The Naylor house offers testimony to her versatility for in her own quarters Miss Naylor put up the wallboards, helped with the plumbing, and did the painting and decorating.

Next Saturday, Miss Naylor's marionettes will be a featured attraction at the Belleville Trade Fair.

Each Child Will be Given 30 Billion Dead Polio Viruses

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Each child taking the salk polio vaccine this spring will have 30,000,000,000 dead polio viruses shot into his arm.

Each will get three shots, each shot containing 10,000,000,000 virus-es.

The viruses cannot cause polio. But though dead, they still have some power to stimulate a person to make antibodies, the body's natural disease fighters.

Giving billions of dead viruses means concentrating this antibody-making power.

The big question is whether the vaccine can produce enough antibodies to protect children against natural exposure to live polio virus this summer.

Evidence indicates that it will. But the only way to find out is to have 300,000 to 1,000,000 children take the vaccine and see whether and how well they resist polio this summer.

MUST INJECT MAN Y

The test must be run upon a huge number of children because paralytic poliomyelitis is actually rather a rare disease.

Polio has been called an epidemic if only 20 of 100,000 persons come down with it. However, it hits children more often than adults.

If you picked say scattered group of 500,000 children aged 6 to 9, you would expect that about 350 or so would become recognizably sick next summer with polio. Of this 350, more than half would recover with no paralysis.

So for an adequate test you must have 500,000 to 1,000,000 vaccinated children to compare with an equal number of non-vaccinated youngsters of the same ages, living in the same communities.

VOLUNTEER FOR TEST

Children and parents and doctors and nurses and school teachers and health officers are volunteering to take part in this test of the vaccine developed by Dr. Jonas E. Salk of Pittsburgh.

Local health authorities and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis are conducting the trial. Up to 1,000,000 children in 179 communities or areas of 44 states are scheduled to get the vaccine.

In some communities the vaccine will be offered to all children of the second grade. Children in the first and third grades of the same schools will be recorded as the "controls" or comparisons.

In other communities, half of the children in the first three grades of the school will be given the vaccine. The other half will get identical-looking shots of an ineffective fluid.

Only a few years ago the possibility of a practical vaccine looked far distant. Then some discoveries cracked the barriers to making field tests of a promising vaccine.

First it had to be learned how many different types of polio virus could cause human paralysis. That answer was learned in brilliant, three-year co - operative research by several great medical institutions. There are three dangerous types — Burhilde, Lansing and Leon.

This meant an effective vaccine would have to contain all three types of polio virus.

GREW POLIO VIRUS

But where to get the virus? This roadblock was broken by the success of Dr. John F. Enders of Harvard in growing polio virus in test tube cultures of non-nervous tissues.

Where to get enough virus? The Enders method was developed and improved, until now the kidney tissues from a single monkey can be made to produce enough virus to give a series of vaccine shots to 1,000 children.

This yields a harvest of live virus. The live virus then is killed by bathing it in formaldehyde.

And it was found that po o virus, when it attacks, usually goes from the intestinal tract to the bloodstream and then goes on to strike at nerves. This meant that if a person had antibodies standing guard in his bloodstream, he could defeat the attack.

Dr. Salk figured that a vaccine containing dead virus could produce significant, even large amounts of antibodies in the blood of vaccinated humans.

The stage was set for the field test.

PREPARING VACCINE

Five pharmaceutical firms are growing the virus and preparing the vaccine. Each batch is tested nine times to make sure all the viruses are dead and that the vaccine is pure.

The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis is footing the bill at least $7,500,000. The pharmaceutical firms are making the vaccine for the tests on a non-profit basis.

If the vaccine passed the test then it could be supplied in large enough amounts for everyone. It would take 40,000 or more monkeys to supply the tissue to grow enough virus for vaccinating all youngsters in North America.

But there'd reason to believe that each child may need only one series of shots for lifetime protection. The job after that would be only to vaccinate each new crop of babies early in life, much as they now get vaccinated for diphtheria and other diseases.

The scourge of polio would be over.

SURVIVES 17-DAY FAST

JACKSON'S POINT (CP) — A sheep dog survived a 17-day ordeal locked in a vacant summer cottage without food or water. Skippy, five-year-old shetland sheep dog, got locked accidentally in a cottage about a month ago. When he was found Tuesday, all he appeared to want was a good meal.

Oil Delivered By Pipe Lines Increases 37 P.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Boosted by a record movement in December, the volume of oil delivered through Canadian pipe lines during 1953 soared to 147,206,000 barrels, an increase of 37 per cent over 1952 deliveries of 107,788,00 barrels.

The bureau of statistics reported Tuesday that total net deliveries during December, at 14,389,552 barrels, was 11 per cent higher than in November and 33 per cent above December, 1952.

Refined products accounted for 2,671,212 barrels of the December total and for the year amounted to 24,888,237 barrels, as against only 17,000,000 in 1952.

Ontario deliveries for the year were 34,829,000 compared to 3,094,000 in 1952.

Manitoba's deliveries included 36,324,000 barrels transferred to the Lakehead Pipe Line Company at Gretna destined partly for Ontario refineries at Sarnia. In the past the bulk of the oil has moved from Superior to Sarnia by way of lake tanker until the close of navigation. With the completion in December of Lakehead's 643 mile extension from Superior to Sarnia, the Interprovincial Pipe Line Company now operates the longest crude oil pipe line in the world. It provides year-round movement of oil from western Canada to refineries at Sarnia.

Seven Policemen Face Damage Suit of $175,000

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto couple, James Duncan MacPhail and his wife Clara, Tuesday obtained a writ at Osgoode Hall to bring a suit against seven Toronto policemen for $175,00 on a charge of false arrest.

The writ names the policemen as William G. Walker, George M. Laird, William Harris, David B. Sproule, William Harper, William A. Swain and George Frederick Barnes.

The writ charges that MacPhail and his wife were imprisoned under the direction of Laird Oct. 3, 1953 at 11 p.m. until 11 a.m., Oct. 5, 1953, and that during that period the accused "committed divers assaults" on them.

The writ charges that the MacPhails suffered indignity and mental anguish, "bruises, abrasions and shock." MacPhail claims he suffered "scalp cuts" and lost $200 in wages and $1,200 in legal fees and for the care of his children.

The couple claim the arrest was made after police "unlawfully entered" their home.

Mr. MacPhail claims $100,000 damages and his wife $75,000.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Jumping out of your skin at the least provocation, or something you should try to avoid. The basic purpose of a sang flat is to permit a game of some kind is in your pale.

Partner opens with a bid of one in a suit, how do you know your responding hand is good enough for a jump? By the fact that your values plus his will produce a game.

An immediate jump, however, is likely to encourage him to try for a slam. Providing, of course, he has values in addition to those he showed in his opening bid.

For this reason, an immediate one-jump response makes a bit more of a business than it seems at sight of game. It guarantees that the responding hand has sure tricks among his game helping qualities.

This promise of two sure tricks in a game help hand is really a great aid to the opening partner. With only one trick more than the minimum he is assured he knows a slam is possible.

The bid in this hand is encourage opener to investigate if the slam is safe. Already he knows they can add three tricks at least so necessary to stop there if further probe is not indicated.

South opens with a heart when you have this north hand:

♠ A Q
♥ 8 5 4
♦ K 10 4 3
♣ K 9 7 5

Your hand contains five tricks with two sures among them. With heart support, game in your pair should be there. Tell partner so.

Make a three heart no-trump response. Partner knows from this, that you have (1) heart support, (2) five tricks that will help make game in a major, and (3) two sures if he is slambitious.

The fact that you show him slam possibilities does not mean he must go to slam. You insist only that he go to game. To go slamming he must have the added values for it.

Keep his shirt on.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How do they get so many facts about the movie industry censors?

That has become a big issue in Hollywood because of recent events. There was the famous — or notorious — case in which Howard Hughes on his own produced "French Line," which set off a minor censorship battle between Howard Hughes on one side and the producers association and various churches on the other. Miss Russell, you may recall, said she was caught in the middle.

Then a dance of Debra Paget in "Princess of the Nile" got the frown from the Breen office, the industry's self-censorship group. In this case, the producers, Leonard Goldstein, bowed to the decision and clipped the offending passages.

I watched Gloria Grahame do a song and dance number in "Naked Alibi" that should sizzle the celluloid. Covered in a skin-tight satin number with a slit skirt, she slithered around a barroom, tossing a wriggle here and a waggle there. It was highly incendiary.

Yet dance director Kenny Williams assured that it would pass the censors.

NO SNIPS

"I've been directing dances in pictures for 20 years," he remarked confidently, "and I've never had a number snipped yet.

"It's all a matter of finding out what they will okay and what they won't. Largely it's the intent. If you start out to create a dirty dance, they'll censor you. But if there's a reason for the dance, you can get by — as long as you stay within certain bounds."

Those bounds are pretty well defined, he added. A girl can do a bump (rapid movement of the hips), but not a forward one. It has to be to the side. The rules do not permit a grind (a circular movement of the hips). But a certain amount of shimmying is allowed, as long as it doesn't go too far."

Williams said he is an expert in getting dances past the censors.

"I worked with Betty Grable on three pictures in a row, all of them about the burlesque," he remarked. "We came pretty close to the borderline, but never got over. That time was a number with Rita Hayworth and Tony Quinn in "Blood and Sand." Vow!"

Hansen rescued the two-months-old suckling mammal Tuesday in Avalon harbor but is stumped about feeding it. The 700-pound marine pachyderm has refused cow's milk and squid. Hansen is trying goat's milk, and if that doesn't work he is open to suggestion.

Alec Guinness Becoming Top Comedian in America

In reviewing Alec Guinness's newest comedy, "The Captain's Paradise", showing today and tomorrow at the Belle Theatre, Newsweek Magazine predicted that "It is now only a matter of time before England's Alec Guinness becomes America's favorite comedian. .

Unknown to American audiences before the war, Guinness has starred in comedy in a comparatively few years as the result of his brilliant characterizations in such outstanding comedies as "Kind Hearts and Coronets", "The Lavender Hill Mob", "The Man In the White Suit" and "The Promoter."

"The Captain's Paradise", in which Guinness portrays the skipper of a Mediterranean ferry service who leads a double life in Gibraltar and North Africa, is proving to be the most popular and successful Guinness comedy to date.

The tempestuous and provocative Yvonne De Carlo, and Celia Johnson, who made the hearts of audiences in "Brief Encounter" unforgettable, share Alec Guinness in "The Captain's Paradise."

Charles Goldner and Miles Malleson are featured in the film.

Glen Miller Proves Major Challenge to Actor Stewart

Marking the third time he has portrayed an actual person on the screen, James Stewart dons rimless glasses and lifts a slide trombone in Hollywood's film, "The Glenn Miller Story," Universal-International's Technicolor production of the great musician's life-story held over until Friday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre with June Allyson sharing starring honors.

Previously Stewart hurled a baseball and swung a bat in "The Stratton Story," in which Miss Allyson was also co-starred. Jimmy also has played the part of a real-life Chicago newspaper man in "Northside 777." Both pictures were among the most successful in which the lanky star ever appeared.

Recreating a character known by sight and sound to millions was a tremendous challenge, to the actor. However, having met or seen Glenn Miller, Stewart had only the image of Miller from his Hollywood films and the Air Force newsreel footage for visual guidance.

However, he spent three months drawing his portrayal from a dozen qualified informants on the appearance, habits, eccentricities, character and philosophy of Glenn Miller. Such sources were Mrs. Glenn Miller, widow; Mrs. Helen Miller; Ben Pollack, the veteran orchestra leader who gave Miller his first important job; Chummy MacGregor, Glenn's closest friend and associate pianist; Don Haynes, manager of the Glenn Miller Orchestra, who also furnished personal letters, diaries and other memenigo Miller left behind.

Hours were spent with musicians who played in Miller's band. Anecdotes were drawn from clarinetist Willie Schwartz and saxophonist Babe Russin and from Gene Krupa, who worked in a musical-comedy pit orchestra with Glenn. On location in Denver, Colo., Stewart visited with Mrs. Mattie Miller, Glenn's 82-year-old mother, with his sister Irene, and with Glenn's brother, Dean.

"By this time," says Jimmy, "I knew everything about Glenn Miller except how to play the trombone."

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS IS IT!

The double-ender night for the Point Anne and Trenton RCAF Flyers hockey entries in the Trent Valley League and it is likely a large crowd will watch the "death struggle" in Memorial Arena.

Both teams have a pair of victories to their credit in the best-of-five series and tonight's battle will give the answer as to which squad will meet the Marmora Millionaires for the league championship and the Thomas Bata trophy.

Three of the games were closely fought affairs but the Ox Pulsters broke out in a scoring rash the other night to swamp the Flyers under a 12-3 defeat. However that is water under the bridge and Coach Boucher's charges will be vengeance-bent when the teams clash. By the same token Earle Anderson's crew have their sights lined on the finals target, and they will be shooting hard and often. It should be a worthwhile tilt. Come at 8.30.

• • •

The hook-hustling experts in this land of hook-hollers are hollyhooing the forthcoming battle between Kid Gavilan and Carl "Bobo" Olson as a revival of the old problem "Can a good big man beat a good little man."

The boys meet in the Chicago Stadium come Friday night for the middleweight championship of the world. Only this time the "Bobo" is cast in the role of the good big man, while the Cuban Kid is named a "solid little man."

Rarely, in fact only twice has the good little man gone out of his class, and made good. These champions were Bob Fitzsimmons, who held the middleweight, light heavyweight and heavyweight bankbone, and Hammering Harry Armstrong, who balanced on his kinky nerein' the crowns of the featherweight, lightweight and welterweight classes.

On the other side of the ledger the records prove there are a lot of the boys who failed in the grade. Stanley Ketchel, who died with an assassin's bullet in his innards was, perhaps, the most outstanding. Said the greatest puncher the middleweight ranks have ever known to look on the body Jack Johson for the heavyweight title. Ketchel fought cross-stephen with the huge Johnson until he made the mistake of leading with a solid punch down on the "button" of Johnson's jack and floored him. Johnson got up and within a few seconds blasted Ketchel out of the ring.

Then there is the "Battle of the Century." France's "Orchid Boy" Georges Carpentier swayed the phenomenal task of batting the Manassa Mauler, Dempsey, out of the ring. He was fooled. Billy Conn and John Henry Lewis, two smaller men, tried to outslug the heavyweight crown and the surly pate of one Joe Louis. You know what happened to them.

Of the modern topflight fighters Sugar Ray Robinson, the sophisticated song-and-dance man, the darling of the night clubs in New York, Chicago, Paris and London, is the last to step out of his class to snatch another world title.

He did this when he left the battered hulk of one Jake LaMotta dangling over the ropes to cop the middle title.

But Sugar's hopes for a triple crown boomeranged when he picked on Joey Maxim, the light heavyweight boss-man. Robinson actually had the bauble in his grasp when his gas tank ran dry.

A lot of the "experts" south of the border rate the "Bobo" as a good boxer with no dynamite in his gloves. The records show a different story. In 33 bouts the pint who shaves fifty per cent Hawaiian leg the rest Swedish blood in his veins, has lost six and scored 27 knockouts and 26 decisions. His most recent victims were Randy Turpin (remember?) whom he made kiss the canvas twice; Walter Cartier, Woody Harper, Gene Hairston, Lee Sala and Joe Rindone.

Take the Cuban "Knock". He started his professional beak-busting career way back in 1947 in his native Havana and since that time the welter monarch has been floored but twice, once by Ike Williams and the second time by Carmen Basilio. The smart Sugar Ray's hard blows couldn't rock the "Knock" off the perpendicular.

Both have met Sugar Ray. Both know all or most of the moves. The Cuban Hawk is said to be a perfectionist who can improvise as the battle proceeds. Olson's features are his mobility and adaptibility. He is a combination puncher.

The boxing "mob" does not rate either fighter as a heavy puncher. Olson has an advantage in that he has been going in against fighters of his own weight. The "Knock" is stepping up a trifle.

However, the answer will be given when the two square off in Chicago Stadium Friday night. The bout will be televised.

Habs Blank Beantowners 2-0 To Earn Berth in Cup Finals; Fluke Goal Wins For Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens could be extoday if they offered up a small hope that Detroit Red Wings and Toronto Maple Leafs knock the bejabbers out of each other in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final series.

The Canadiens, defending cup champions, polished off the Bruins 2-0 at Boston Tuesday night to make it four straight and a berth in the Cup finals. Now Detroit and Leaf around while the Wings and Leafs go after each other in their semi-final bracket.

The Wings, perennial National Hockey League champions but a no-go club in the playoffs, defeated the Leafs at Toronto 3-1 to take a 3-1 lead for games into the fourth contest at Detroit Thursday night. After a scoreless first period, defenceman Tim Horton of the Leafs shaded nearly the length of the ice to put Toronto ahead 1-0.

GETS TYING GOAL

The 12,973 partisan fans at Maple Leaf Gardens settled down for an overtime session when wing defenceman Red Kelly let go a defensive shot at 16:36 that hit Horton on the ankle and bounced past an astonished Harry Lumley in the Leaf nets.

The Leafs who have won only one playoff game at Detroit Olympia since 1950, a 3-1 verdict Thursday night, will fight out of that playoff picture if they lose Thursday night's fifth game. The betting on the game should favor the Red Wings.

The game at Boston was decided in the opening period when Floyd Curry got his first goal of the playoffs, firing the puck past goalkeeper Jacques Plante from centre only a few feet out. The insurance goal, just 2:06 after the second game by Dickie Moore, sent Bruins to the sidelines in four straight games for the second time in their 30-year history.

PRIZE ROOKIE—

Shining like a beacon throughout the series is goalkeeper Jacques Plante, Canadiens' prize rookie has allowed Boston only four goals in the four games and has let 31 go by him in 71 games since he joined Canadiens last month as a replacement for Gerry McNeil who injured his ankle.

Plante had only 25 stops to make against Henry's 41 in Tuesday night's game as the weakened Bruins tried desperately to get past the strong Montreal defence.

After the game coach Dick Irvin said Canadiens had a "50-50 chance and should do all right" against the winner of the Detroit-Toronto series.

"We'll have 16 men and all good enough for the National Hockey League," Irvin said.

Hershey Bears Square Series With Hornets

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Hershey's battling Bears evened their American Hockey League semi-final playoff series with Pittsburgh at two games each, whipping the Hornets 3-1 on goals by George Gallman Tuesday night.

The victory was Hershey's second straight over Pittsburgh in the best city, after two losses on the home ice.

Final game of the best-of-five series will be played at Hershey tonight. The winner meets Cleveland Barons in a best-of-seven series for the Calder Cup.

Sullivan and Fisher both scored in the first period on some fine passing and stick work to give the Bears a 2-0 bulge before Ron Sollinger came through for the Hornets at 16:42 of the initial period. Kullman's tally came late in the second frame.

In the second period, Lorne Ferguson and Andy Branigan of Hershey had to be helped from the ice after collisions. They required stitches in their heads but both returned to action.

Russians Bleat Loud and Long After Sport Loss

MOSCOW (CP) — "The Soviet team was speedily organized and badly trained. As a result the Swedish team won the tournament . . . The defeat should force our leaders in this sport to cure themselves of complacency."

Moscow sports writers, sounding just like their Canadian colleagues after Toronto East York lost to Moscow Dynamos in the world hockey tournament at Stockholm a month ago, also were talking about a minor national disaster involving hockey—Russian style . . .

While Canada suffered defeat at the hands of the upstart Russians, the writers were bemoaning their country's equally discomfitting defeat at Sweden's red Russian version of the sport.

Bendi, played with a ball fashioned from large sticks and more players on the ice, flourished as a mass-participation sport on frozen rivers and ponds in Russia long before the Canadian type of ice hockey was introduced seven years ago. But in a four-way tournament in Moscow at the end of February, the Russian entry was whitewashed.

Moscow's Literary Gazette cited the careful training of the Dynamo team as example to be followed in developing new players worthy of international participation the older sport.

British Don Cockell Rockets To Decision Over La Starza

By STERLING SLAPPEY

LONDON (AP) —Don Cockell, Britain's former heavyweight boxer, rocketed to a contending role in the heavyweight boxing picture by outpointing Roland La Starza in 10 rounds Tuesday night.

Cockell, a 2-to-1 underdog, took over in the fifth and piled up points the rest of the way. Some British experts had the margin as wide as 8-2 in rounds for the winner. The AP score-card had it 8-4-1.

In fairness to La Starza, Rollie wasn't that bad. For four rounds he looked like the aggressor, broke up La Starza's counter-punching and piled up point after point.

"Rollie never really hurt me," said the chunky victor. "It was said. Cockell outpointed Matthews nice to win."

His manager, John Simpson, said there have been no definite offers to fight heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano. Rocky, of course, probably isn't looking beyond his title fight with Ezzard Charles in June in New York.

"If nothing else comes along, we'll probably fight Harry Matthews in Seattle again," Simpson said. "He's a good boy."

Cockell was warned four times about low blows and La Starza and his manager, Jimmy de Angelo, both said the American would have been disqualified if it had been the other way around.

"It's all the truth," said La Starza, "I was expecting this. I was told before I came that I'd have to win by a knockout. I was slow starting and fought a bad fight. But I think I won."

The sell-out crowd of 18,000 produced a gate of about $112,000. La Starza collected about $18,800 and Cockell about $14,000. La Starza weighed 189½, to Cockell's 211. The victory was Cockell's 57th against 10 losses while for La Starza it was his fifth defeat against 54 triumphs.

In the two other fights of the big triple bill, Randy Turpin outlasted Sweden's middleweight champion, Ollie Bengtsson, to win a 10-round decision, and Trinidad's

1955 Grey Cup Final Here, Says 'Peg But Eastern Official Denies Report

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—Football-mad Winnipeggers were told Tuesday they might see the Grey Cup in their own stadium in 1955, but an eastern official immediately discounted the reports.

Ralph Misener, president of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, announced at a press conference his club had tendered an unofficial invitation to a meeting of Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union delegates in Toronto last week prior to the Canadian Rugby Union meeting. He added that Roy Moberton of Montreal and Jim McCaffery of Ottawa had accepted the invitation.

But Frank Robertson, president of the Big Four, said he had been no informal discussion of future games, "but there definitely was no agreement or understanding that it would be played in Winnipeg next year."

TURN DOWN SERIES

The only mention of the cup final at the CRU's annual meeting last Saturday was brought up by Robertson, who said delegates at a change from Toronto was "indicated." He added the matter was under consideration to a two-game cup series but it was turned down.

There would be plenty of "ifs" before such a move could be possible.

A switch in the annual autumn spectacle would have to be approved at the 1955 meeting of the CRU at Vancouver next March 25-26. A change in the CRU constitution also would be necessary. Toronto was awarded the final in 1941 as an annual fixture, and this still is in the CRU's constitution.

McCaffery said he has "no objections" to holding the Grey Cup in the West in 1955.

Misener said:

"Give us a break in the weather and we'll give them a Grey Cup final that will measure up in the highest standards. We can promise them an excellent field for the game."

He referred to the tarpaulin Bombers purchased last season to protect the playing field at the Winnipeg Stadium. It had little use last year.

22,000 CAPACITY

The $500,000 bowl-shaped stadium, which replaced the old 2,000-seat Osborne Stadium, accommodated more than 17,000 persons at each game near the close of the season. Misener said the Winnipeg club had guaranteed a minimum of 25,000 seats if the Grey Cup game ee through.

The western weather is a big question mark.

While last year's weather in Winnipeg the day of the Grey Cup was somewhat comparable to that in Toronto—it reached a high of 32.9 here in the afternoon against about 35 above in Toronto—the Winnipeg maximum for late November is 20 above.

Strong winds also are usual in Manitoba at that time, but stadium officials said that erection of temporary bleachers would give considerable protection to the playing field, especially from the end zones.

Misener indicated Winnipeg would go all out in an effort to stage a large parade, a Grey Cup dinner and a Miss Grey Cup contest comparable to those held in Toronto in previous years.

Sudbury Wolves Whip Mercurys 4-1 In All-Ontario Senior 'A' Opener

SUDBURY (CP) — Thirty-year-old Pete Horeck, a veteran of eight National Hockey League seasons, was back in his old form Tuesday night as he scored three goals to lead Sudbury Wolves to a 4-1 victory over Owen Sound Mercurys in the first game of the all-Ontario senior A hockey finals.

The victory, watched by a capacity crowd of 6,673, gave the Wolves, Northern Ontario Hockey Association champions, a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven final over the Mercurys, Ontario Hockey Association titleholders.

Horeck started the Wolves on the road in the second period after a scoreless first stanza. He added another in the same period after the second Sudbury goal and closed out the scoring for the Wolves in the third period before Owen Sound scored. Twice Mel Lisman scored the other Sudbury goal. Elmer Skov notched Owen Sound's marker.

SHORT-HANDED

McLellan made it 2-0 exactly 10 minutes later when he took a foot-high pass by Yackey Fyon from behind the Owen Sound net and potted it. Horeck scored his second goal at 16:29 while Roy Lockie of the Mercurys was off for holding. It was on a power play and came when Pete tipped in Hull Beaupre's shot.

He notched his third marker at 11:48 of the third period while both teams were playing five a side. He took a pass at the Owen Sound blue line, skated around one defender and backhanded a shot from the right wing.

Owen Sound got its only goal three minutes from the end of the game while the Wolves were two men short. Skov took Herb Carnegie's pass and shot the puck past the short side of Sudbury netminder Al Millar.

Only eight minor penalties were called during the game and the Wolves were tagged with six of them. The second game will be played here tonight.

SPORT IN BRIEF

LONDON (AP)—Britain's horse-loving royal family has been dragged into the heated argument over the Grand National Steeplechase.

The controversy over modifying or banning the famed steeplechase began in the Saturday's Daily Express running when four horses died or were destroyed after injuries on the big jumps of the long course.

At a turbulent London emergency meeting of the influential 5,000-member League of Cruel Sports, Georgina Horsfall of the Leeds branch said:

"The real enemy of the animals is the royal family. They support these races. I think it is scandalous that they should have horses in these races. It is right and only to attack the weak but to attack the strong as well. They are the chief enemies of animals in every branch."

The league chairman, Lord Greydon Ruthyn, said the Queen, now in Australia, should be informed and that the royal family should make its views known about cruelty to animals.

Miss Horsfall, raising the floor again, said the royal family was not neutral. "I saw that young Prince Charles was having his first lessons in shooting deer. However, they kept the secret at Buckingham Palace from the royal family's Scottish country home), she found time to teach him to stalk deer."

CHICAGO (AP)—Carl (Bobo) Olson figures to have his biggest payday—something in the $125,000-or-more class—by having his middleweight crown against Kid Gavilan, the 147-pound champion, Friday night.

The scheduled 15-round bout is expected to draw the sizable capacity at Chicago Stadium, a $500,000 gross gate and 19,400 fans.

Based on that goal, Olson's share will be about $129,000 and Gavilan's $90,000.

Olson will receive 35 per cent of the net and TV receipts and Gavilan 25 per cent.

Gavilan, a current 8-5 underdog, is as confident as ever he will take Olson's middleweight title, thus emulating Sugar Ray Robinson who became the 160-pound champion in the same ring by whipping Jake LaMotta in 1951.

If he wins, Gavilan must vacate his welterweight title and give Olson a return match within 90 days.

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Klein, 24-year-old backfielder on the 1953 Edmonton Eskimos squad, has been signed by British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Klein was named first draft choice of Ottawa Rough Riders. However, WIFU clubs are not allowed to honor Big Four draft choices.

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Detroit Tigers cut their roster to 32 players Tuesday by assigning Hersey Hill Jordan and Earl Harrist to their Buffalo farm club in the International League. The roster will be further pared before the Tigers break camp Monday when they send another hurler, Jim Bunning, to a minor league team not yet decided.

By GAYLE TALBOT

TAMPA (AP)—There is a temptation here to pick Chicago White Sox to win in the American League this season, but we intend to resist it manfully because it would not be a completely honest pick.

We do feel that Paul Richards and his pint-size staff will beat out the Yankees if they get a few breaks. But you can't have looked at the Yanks in training the last few weeks and felt other than that Casey Stengel will make them run for a sixth straight.

If the Sox are to win, Richards must get the same great pitching from his twin aces, Billy Pierce and Virgil Trucks, that he got last year. Minnie Minoso must hit as well as last year, when he pounded the ball at a .313 clip and was the only real hitter the team had.

Then, to close that 11½ game gap which separated him from the Yanks on closing day, he must find another big-winning pitcher, preferably a left-hander, and be assured that several of his hitters, particularly Ferris Fain, will make somewhere in the plate. Speed and fancy base-running will not be enough.

There is optimism among the Sox that they have found their pitcher in Connie Hardman, the former first-baseman who was a southpaw sensation in the Southern Association and in Puerto Rico. Some think Hardman might win 18 or 20 games.

Richards has every right to feel that Bob Lemon, another who after having led the league with 327 innings pitched at Philadelphia, will gather himself together and have a couple of big years. He also can hope that John Groth, obtained during the winter, will come back and be the .300 hitter he was for Detroit a few years ago.

BENEFIT NETS $1000

COBOURG (CP) — A benefit hockey doubleheader here Monday night raised more than $1,000 for Cobourg Red Devils' Junior Hockey team who lost his eye in the final game of a playoff series between Port Hope Redmen and Cobourg Red Devils.

The hockey oldtimers of Port Hope and Cobourg tied 3-3 in the first game and then Port Hope Redmen defeated Cobourg Comets 3-4 in the second game.

WIN NOBLA GROUP CROWN

LASARRE, Que. (CP)—Lasarre Golfmen defeated Timiskaming Royals 5-3 Tuesday night to win the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior playoff championship.

The victory gave Lasarre the best-of-five series 3-1. Marcel Houde led the winners with two goals. Collins shot a pair for the Royals.

Ma was making a small mouth and thinking to herself, saying to pop, Really, William, I mean actually, if I ever hear that they've asked Harriet Eggers to sit in as a substitute on the Wonder Bridge game again, I declare I'll plead a fictitious excuse and be conspicuous for my absence.

Eggers? Isn't that the little woman that has scrich a good figure? pop said, and ma said, If she has, she's fully aware of it.

She must be an observant little person, pop said, and ma said, She thinks she knows everything, if you want to put her in a nutshell. She gave me quite an uncalled for dig this afternoon. I unavoidably went down 3 tricks trying to make pape.

a little slam against heavy odds, and she gave me a significant glance and remarked that we all have a lot to learn when it comes to bridge, ma said.

She was probably just generalizing, pop said, and ma said, She was generalizing at me in particular, that's what she was doing. But I was careful not to open my face. In fact, the only other remark I made to her all afternoon was a compliment. I dont believe in allowing unpleasant thing to rankle, ma said.

That is a good filosophy, my dear, return good for evil, and all your wrinkles will be caused by smiles, pop said. Just what was the compliment you paid her? he said, and ma said, I told her if she had a face to match her figure, she would be fortunate.

There's no doubt of it, this is a woman's if world, pop said.

Saying it from behind the sports

With The Minors

By CARRY ALEXANDER

It was a hard blow for the players themselves as well as the management, coach and fans last Saturday night in Memorial Arena when Russ Fryar's gallant band at juvenile hockey stars went down to defeat at the hands of the Belleville crew.

Captain Ray Hermiston came up with a real sportsmanship gem after the game when he congratulated the victor's captain and said "we tried and we lost but we couldn't have lost to a better team."

Ray, along with Wilbert Burbidge who wore the big "C" on his sweater for a season, was the outstanding figure on the ice. Time after time he would start one of his electrifying rushes back of his own blue line with the roar of some two thousand fans growing louder as he picked up speed. Through the centre ice zone and into Kincardine territory, leaving members of both teams behind or laying the perfect pass on a teammate's stick, but each time Emmerton, in the nets for the champs, arose to the occasion with a great save. Sometimes the play would end with the black disc bouncing off a post or leaning by the corner but it never went in.

IMPORTANT TO TEAM.

Other proof of Mr. Hermiston's importance to his team can be found by looking at the official score sheet which would show that the winners the first two goals came within seconds after Hermiston was given a penalty. He had been doing a terrific job killing off one penalty when the refs hauled him in for tripping.

Most of the Stirling Legion team have been playing together for the past year or two, working, sweating, ballooning with hopes of one big season when they could carry home the works. Many thought it would be this year but it was not to be. Some say "wait until next year" but for most of the fellows it was their last year of juvenile hockey as it will mean more hard work, more sweat and practice before fans of Stirling can cheer a team as fine as this year's squad.

Kincardine is the official title holder and the players must effectively score the championship but for Canada" is mighty proud of its uncrowned champs.

Horeck started the Wolves on the road in the second period after a scoreless first stanza. He added another in the same period after the second Sudbury goal and closed out the scoring for the Wolves in the third period before Owen Sound scored. Twice Mel Lisman scored the other Sudbury goal. Elmer Skov notched Owen Sound's marker.

SHORT-HANDED

McLellan made it 2-0 exactly 10 minutes later when he took a foot-high pass by Yackey Fyon from behind the Owen Sound net and potted it. Horeck scored his second goal at 16:29 while Roy Lockie of the Mercurys was off for holding. It was on a power play and came when Pete tipped in Hull Beaupre's shot.

He notched his third marker at 11:48 of the third period while both teams were playing five a side. He took a pass at the Owen Sound blue line, skated around one defender and backhanded a shot

HERE AND THERE.

Another Belleville team went as far as the finals before getting knocked out, this time it was volleyball with the OSD team tying 15-15 and losing 15-11 to Eastern Ontario high school volleyball championships played at McMaster University, Hamilton on Saturday. They were entered in the "B" division . . . With the WINDSOR championships all decided the following teams are title holders: Juvenile—Jump, Aluminum Stars; Midget, Big "A" Company Bantam, the Bruins; Pee Wee, Bruins; Squirt, Black Hawks . . . Word from "Red" Doran is that the Belleville Minor Baseball Leagues will start organizing soon. Better get that arm loose and the glove oiled . . . Mr. Carver just received a telegram from King Clancy stating that he would be away on the 22rd of April and couldn't possibly attend the Minor hockey Banquet here. Several other guests in mind with Bob Bland working on it.

Training Camp Notes

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Don Zimmer, heir apparent to PeeWee Reese's job at shortstop, and Vic Marasco, rookie outfielder, were sent to the Dodgers' replacement centre at Montreal Tuesday to await assignment to a Brooklyn farm club.

Zimmer, who has apparently recovered from a fractured skull suffered last July, will be subject to a 24-hour recall in case Reese should be hurt. Meanwhile, he will play regularly at St. Paul or Montreal.

Marasco, who batted .300 at Fort Worth, was slated as a reserve outfielder until Sandy Amoros started his drive for a regular job. Amoros will be carried at least until the club returns to New York.

CLEARWATER (AP) — Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies' star righthander, denies he has anything seriously wrong with his back.

"I haven't been to a doctor and don't expect to see one," he said Tuesday. "I haven't been taking anything more than the usual heat treatment and rubdowns from the club trainer. My timing has been off and that's the reason I haven't pitched well."

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Milwaukee Braves mauled Savannah of the Sally League Tuesday in what was billed as an exhibition baseball game but which wound up with a football-like 27-0 score. The Braves pounded four Savannah pitchers for 23 hits including five home runs. They were aided by eight fielding errors as they concluded their regular league phase of their spring training.

Triplets' Mother 'Cannot Believe' In Siamese Twins

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Betty Savage Mr. gave birth during the week-end to Siamese twins in a triplet birth and "is doing the easiest delivery" she has had.

The slender 31-year-old mother said in an interview with the Montreal Herald that she was "confused" when told she had given birth to Siamese twins.

The two babies—Janet and Jackie—were born minutes after their triplet sister late Saturday.

"I had read about Siamese twins in the papers but reading about them is pretty different from having them," said Mrs. Savage.

"To me it just isn't true.

"During all the time I was pregnant, I didn't think I'd have any more than one baby. I felt just the same this time as I did the other three times."

DOUBLES IN FAMILY

The Savages have three other children Donald, 9; Joy, 8; and Nancy, 7.

"When I came to the hospital the doctor thought it might be twins, but I didn't believe him," she said.

Mrs. Savage said she hasn't yet seen the twins but she has seen the third child.

"Now I have my baby, and she's the one I've seen and know. About the twins, well . . . I just can't believe it."

Tugboats Resume Operations At New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Tugboats were back at work in New York harbor today following the government's first success in efforts to break up the dock strike, now nearly a month old.

Since last week tugs had refused to manoeuvre ships in sympathy with a strike called by the International Longshoremen's Association. The walkout flared up 27 days ago after six months of bitter competition between the independent union and the AFL group of the same name for the right to represent dock workers.

The tugs returned to work Tuesday after the National Labor Relations Board got a federal court order directing the ILA to stop picketing tugboats and to see that their ILA crews went back to work.

The court ruled that the tug stoppage violated the Taft-Hartley law in its ban against secondary boycotts.

The pier strike spread to dockside warehouses Tuesday when the ILA posted pickets outside the buildings. However, only about half the port's warehouses were picketed, and seamen affected were expected to apply for a court order that would quickly end the walkout.

Saskatchewan Urges Increase In Pension Rates

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan's CCF government has urged that provincial and federal governments get together to increase old age and blind pensions to $50 from $46 a month.

The motion came Tuesday after a statement of Herman Danielson, Liberal member for Arm River, that other provinces are doing much more than Saskatchewan in this field.

He said the province's CCF government reduced its contributions for old age pensioners to $7.50 from $11.25 a month when the federal government raised its contributions to $40. This eliminated the federal increase, he said.

Pensioners' problems were also discussed in the Alberta House. CCF leader Elmer Roper accused two cabinet members in the Social Credit government of a "complete lack of comprehension" of pensioners' problem of adequate living accommodation.

Mr. Roper had urged a survey of pensioners' housing. Agricultural Minister Leonard Ramsay, a former welfare minister, and R. T. Jorgenson, present welfare minister, spoke in opposition. The move was defeated 41 to 10 in a recorded vote.

British Columbia citizens will start paying a five-per-cent sales tax Thursday. This is an increase of two per cent on the present sales tax and in return residents' hospital insurance premiums will be abolished.

Final reading was given to two acts Tuesday that make the changes law. Under the hospital insurance system, established in 1949, married residents paid a premium of $39 a year and single persons $27.

Your Individual Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Not entirely favorable aspects today. Work without qualms or mistrust, however; co-operation with friends, superiors, will lessen irritation. Organize your efforts to attain top results.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Make some concessions so as to better the outlook from the long-range point of view. If things are a little lean now you can work to improve returns later. Today may offer little outside help.

May 2 to June 21 (Gemini) — There is always some possible trouble as there is always good ahead. Don't be complacent but neither be overanxious. Don't let ambition waste. Have faith, hope. Seek Divine guidance.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Some unusual circumstances likely in matters involving money, business or friendship. Keep in touch with conditions; be ready to make a quick (but sound) change in personal affairs or investments.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Be considerate in all dealings with associates and friends; the returns and benefits will be highly favorable. Respect the rights of others; encroaching on others' privacy is hazardous.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. it might be well to step aside and observe before acting. Later in the day vibrations are more favorable for well-planned efforts, ideas.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—A generally progressive line of endeavor, constructive thought and action will produce happy results. Domestic, social affairs can be more satisfying, restful now. Consideration of others urged.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—With reasonable burst of energy and considerable faith you can make great gains, produce desired effects. In faith there is unlimited power. Sincerity and patience are top assets.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You may run into some unexpected barriers. Level off action to a slow-but-sure pace; choose your way and your answers carefully. This will be more favorable in the p.m.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — You may feel some restrictions as a result of outside contention. Be not disturbed; these moods and conditions are temporary.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Some retarding influences. Most irritating situations, handled puglicously, can be quickly smoothed out, however. Seek out the good possibilities and, with intelligent deductions, stride forward.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Industrial, financial and general understandings have good influences on which to capitalize today. Sound judgment, economic stability, individual perseverance will bring gains.

YOU BORN TODAY: Your Sign, Aries, gives you many fine qualities, such as mental keenness, often a remarkable quickness of perception. But you sometimes lack the steady persistence to carry plans through to completion. This can be corrected. School yourself to cultivate ... You have the courage of your convictions, nat... ability, and a good sense of values. Shun time-wasters. You make excellent hosts; also able writers, promoters, directors.
